Nancy MacDonald, who had 15 points, and Ann McCarron, who scored 13, pulled Quincy to within three at the start of the second half but Newton came back and took a 45-36 edge into the final quarter.

Marie Callahan's jumper and Michelle Riggs' free throw cut the gap to 47-41, and the Tigers held that lead until the final four minutes.

Sparked by MacDonald and McCarron, Quincy cut the margin to 51-49, but Yaffee made four free throws and Quinn and Smith added one each and Newton was in.

Mary Kamb did a fine job rebounding for Quincy and had 10 points, while Riggs came off the bench to spell McCarron and did a good job off the boards.

Aquathon — Runathon March 28-29 At YMCA

The annual Quincy YMCA aquathon/runathon will be held Saturday, March 28, from 9 a.m. to midnight and Sunday, March 29, from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Proceeds will be used to help sponsor needy youngsters at Y camps, support on-going YMCA programs and support of YMCA world service. The goal is to raise $8,000.

Participants' entry forms can be obtained at the YMCA main desk Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The minimum pledge is $2. Each swimmer or runner can solicit sponsors or can sponsor himself or herself.

Deadline for all monies to be turned in is Friday, May 15, and must be turned in at the Y main desk only between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

North Girls Win Medals At State Track Meet

Several members of the North Quincy girls' track team, Suburban League, state relays and state meet champions, competed last Saturday in the Eastern States Girls Meet at Harvard and won the first medals ever won by a North girl in the meet.

Girls from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Washington, D.C., competed.

North's Kara Crehan finished third in the high jump with a jump of 5-6, Michelle Millane was fourth in the shot put at 39-10, and the two-mile relay team of Deirdre Donovan, Mary Crehan, Nancy McCarthy and Sheila Barrett was third with a time of 9:40.

"I would like to thank the Quincy Track Club for all its help," Coach Lou Tozzi said. "Many of our girls are members of the club and have received outstanding training. Coaches Hennessy and Jacoppo deserve a lot of credit for our success this year and we appreciate their efforts."

I BET
YOU
KNOW

Brought To You
By ROBERT COLMAN
Did you know that — except by chance — basketball might be called "boxball" today? . . . Originally, James Naismith, who invented basketball, wanted to use square boxes — and not round baskets — as the goals at each end of the gym . . . But when he laid out the first basketball floor, he couldn't find any boxes, so he picked up two round peach baskets by chance, and the players started calling the game "basketball" instead of "boxball". . . .

What are the most points ever scored by one player in a high school basketball game? . . . The official national record was set by Danny Heater of Burnsville, W. Va., when he scored 135 points in one game in 1960 . . . Oddly enough, Heater never played college or pro basketball despite holding the all-time high school record. . . .

Here's an amazing co-incidence that happened in sports on Jan. 21, 1981 — the day after the American hostages were released from Iran after 444 days of captivity . . . In the 4th race at Santa Anita race-track, the No. 4 horse won . . . And, the horse's name was: Be Free! . . .

I bet you didn't know . . . that COLMAN'S has everything for baseball and softball. From separate items to complete team outfitting. Shop COLMAN'S for the lowest prices. Also it's COLMAN'S for all spring and summer sports. Shop COLMAN'S and save.

Russell Smollett Retires After 41 Years With Quincy Savings

A well-known mortgage banker has retired, after 41 years of service to Quincy Savings Bank.

Quincy native Russell H. Smollett joined the bank as a teller in 1940, after graduating from Quincy High School, serving as secretary to Quincy's then Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and working briefly for an insurance company. At the time, Quincy Savings Bank had deposits of $18.8 million and only one office, the 1374 Hancock St. location which is now their Quincy Center office. (Today the bank has nine offices and assets of some $290 million).

Except for the years he spent as captain of a transport ship during World War II, in North Africa, Italy and southern France, Smollett enjoyed an uninterrupted career with his home town bank.

He served for several years as assistant mortgage officer, and was elected mortgage officer in 1966. A year later, he also became a vice president and, in 1972, senior vice president and mortgage officer. In the latter capacity, he headed a department of 11, supervised a mortgage portfolio of $170 million, and coordinated planning for the bank's new main office at 1200 Hancock Street, which opened without a hitch in 1974.

Over the years, he served on a number of committees of the Mortgage Bankers of America. He was active in the Massachusetts Purchasing Group, travelling extensively to appraise property for this trade organization in various parts of the nation.

Closer to home, Smollett became an associate member of the Quincy South Shore Board of Realtors; a member of the mortgage committee of the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts; and an affiliate member of the Plymouth County Board of Realtors. A highly-respected authority on real estate, he was a much sought-after panelist and instructor for local real estate groups.

Away from the bank, he has been a long-time member of the Sautit Boat Club, the Scituate Frost Bite Association and Blue Water Sailing Club, reflecting an active continuing interest in sailing.

He also has served on various town committees in Scituate where he lives with his wife, Lenore. Their married children, Susan Mairo and Peter Smollett, himself a mortgage banker, also live on the South Shore.

Athletic Field Meeting

The Quincy Park Department will meet with baseball, softball and soccer sponsors, managers and coaches Wednesday, March 18, at 7:30 P.M. in the meeting hall of the Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park, opposite Adams Field.

Purpose will be to discuss applications requesting permission to use municipal athletic fields during the 1981 season the maintenance problems resulting from Proposition 2½ and the implementation of fees and charges relative to lighted facilities.

City Club Breakfast

The Quincy City Club will hold its first breakfast meeting of the year Sunday, March 15, at Dutton's Restaurant, 125 Sea St., Quincy.

Plans will be outlined for events scheduled throughout the year including the Poster Contest for elementary school children and the Essay Contest for students attending the junior high school grades in Quincy.

Theme for the 1981 contest will be announced by David J. Donaghy and Robert Woodman, co-chairmen of the Annual Event.

Donald E. Conboy, co-chairman of the Christmas Charity Program of the organization, will report on the successful projects sponsored during the holiday season.

Special Education Parent Advisory Council To Meet

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education will meet Monday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln Hancock School community room.

The meeting will feature a presentation by the professionals who provide special services to the special needs child in the Quincy Public Schools.

For more information, contact Susan McKeon at 479-7040.

Proposition 2½

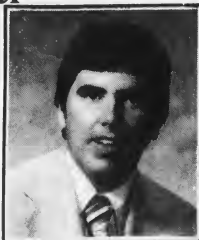

This is the 48th in a series of articles written by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey.

The Legislature is in full swing with Committee hearings taking place both morning and afternoon to keep up with the large volume of legislation that has been filed this session.

The Committee on Urban Affairs, of which I am Vice Chairman, is currently hearing testimony on legislation to control condominium conversions. The committee also has to act on legislation to expand to board authorization for the MHMFA first time homeowners program.

The Committee on Education is hearing testimony on Special Education and Special Needs programs, especially as it may be affected by Proposition 2½.

The biggest task of the week will be legislation before the Committee on Taxation. On Tuesday the committees heard testimony on various proposals dealing with local aid to our cities and towns. On Thursday, the committee will hear testimony on legislation that has been filed to deal with Proposition 2½. There are many pieces of legislation to revise the law as well as many aimed at refining the law so it can be successfully implemented.

If I can be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call me in the State House at 727-7035 or at home 328-0900.

QEA Blood Drive Friday

The Quincy Education Association-Red Cross Drive will be held Friday 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., Quincy.

Community members and teachers are invited to donate a pint of blood for the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Future blood drive dates are:

April 8, North Quincy High School; May 11, Quincy Point Cluster at the Red Cross Donor Center (Quincy Point Congregational Church); May 13, Sterling Junior High Cluster at the Lincoln/Hancock Community School; Oct. 6, Atlantic Junior High Cluster.

Heart Fund Theatre Night Film Going In Style

The feature attraction of the 12th annual John J. Daniels Memorial Night to benefit the Quincy Heart Fund will be the full length movie "Going In Style" a comedy starring George Burns, Art Carney and Lee Strasberg.

The program is scheduled for Tuesday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. at the Strand Theatre, 12 Chestnut St., Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, general chairman of the theatre party for 12 years, said all proceeds would again benefit the Southeast Massachusetts Division of the American Heart Association and its research and education programs including CPR classes.

A total of $16,599, has been raised in the past 11 years.

Over 20 door prizes will also be awarded.

Rent-A-Kids

A Rent-A-Kid program sponsored by the Quincy Youth Commission refers children 13-16 to odd jobs in the community.

The children are interviewed and screened by staff child care workers, then placed in jobs for which they are qualified.

To Rent-A-Kid any Quincy resident may call Beverly Prescott at 773-1380 ext. 348.

Additional members of the committee include William Souden, Henry Bosworth, Edward Roberts, George Page, Agrippino A. Rocuzzo and Joseph M. Lydon.

Anyone wishing to assist the committee may contact Raymond C. Cattaneo, ticket chairman, 35 Barry St., West Quincy.

Those wishing to contribute and unable to attend the March 31st program may contact John J. McGue, Treasurer, Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., North Quincy. Checks should be made payable to the Quincy Heart Fund.

Quincy Girl Scouts Hold Interfaith Service

An interfaith service for all Quincy Girl Scouts and their families was held Sunday at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, in honor of the beginning of Girl Scout Week March 8 to 15.

Other events in honor of the week include a display at South Shore Bank, Quincy Center.

The service Sunday was sponsored by North Quincy scout leaders.

Mary Meehan, South Shore director of Patriot's Trail Girl Scouts, served as coordinator of the program.

Miss Meehan introduced clergy participating in the service, Rev. Lloyd Martin of Wollaston Congregational Church and Father Charles Higgins of Sacred Heart Church.

She also introduced the following scouts who took part in the service with prayer readings, meditations and psalms; Betty McWeeney of the Sacred Heart Junior Troop; Laurie Lund, Atlantic Memorial Brownie Troop; Debbie Hourin, Sacred Heart Brownie Troop; Tarra Meyer, Sacred Heart Junior Troop, and Karen Lindstrom, Sacred Heart Brownie Troop.

Cadet Dawn Graham of the Atlantic Memorial Troop and Suzanne Sheehy of the Sacred Heart Troop conducted the lighting of candles and reading of the Girl Scout Laws.

Rev. Martin gave the homily. Father Higgins intertwined the scout's song "On My Honor" with a scripture reading before bestowing the final blessing.

Musical accompaniment was provided by the Sacred Heart Prayer Group Quartet.

Refreshments followed the service.

Lenten Service March 17 At Houghs Neck Congregational

Rev. Arthur Curtis will be guest speaker at the March 17 Lenten Service at 7:30 p.m. at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

Worship Leader will be Rev. Robert L. Johnston.

Rev. Mr. Curtis, received his theological training at Boston University School of Theology.

He has served as assistant minister of Bethany Congregational Church. For the past three years, he has been Atlantic Memorial Church minister.

Actively involved with the Protestant Social Service Bureau, he also is on the Board of Managers of the Woodward School, Quincy.

Mrs. Marjorie Catrambone will read the scripture for the evening. Refreshments will be served following the service in Fellowship Hall under the direction of Mrs. Marion Taylor and Mrs. Miriam Coombs.

Kevin Doolittle Concert At Faith Lutheran

Kevin Doolittle, a soloist from Eastern Nazarene College, will appear in concert Friday, March 13, at 8 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy Center.

The program will include classical and contemporary selections.

Doolittle, a senior at ENC, is majoring in music. A native of Sparta, N.J., he uses both piano and guitar accompaniment at his concerts, which have taken place in churches from Maine to Virginia.

He is also a soloist with ENC's A Cappella Choir.

The concert is open to the public. A free will offering will be taken.

Sponsoring the concert is the Singles Doubles Club.

Bible Study Program At Sacred Heart

Rev. Charles Higgins is conducting a bible study program Wednesdays during Lent at 9:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the outer cafeteria of Sacred Heart School, North Quincy.

The series, which began this week, will focus on the gospel of St. Mark.

I'M NOT GOING TO THE FUNERAL TODAY.

Did you know that students of human history have found ceremonies for the dead in every culture. Egyptians, American Indians, Orientals, Africans, Latin Americans and Eskimos are examples of the many cultures that hold ceremonies for their dead. Ceremonies vary to meet local needs. Ceremonies serve the living! American funerals bring friends and loved ones together to give mutual support. They give the living a positive way to honor the memory of the deceased. When you hear people wondering about the value of funerals, remember that funerals meet the deeply seated needs of the living. When a loved one dies, attend the funeral and visitation to honor the deceased, to support the family and appropriately express your feelings.

Quincy is rushing headlong into a unique situation with the budget for fiscal 1982.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin sent the budget to the City Council Feb. 11. By law, the Council has 45 days to act on it. Thirty days have now passed and the Council has yet to hold a hearing on it.

What happens if the 45 days pass without Council action?

"Then," said Auditor Charles L. Shea, "the budget is considered to be enacted."

But Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., chairman of the Finance Committee, said Tuesday he feels Tobin's $63.8 million budget is incomplete since the Water and Sewer Departments are missing. The Mayor left those departments out in hopes that the Council would agree to set up a Water and Sewer Commission outside the budget. The Council has not agreed.

"I have no plans to call committee hearings on an incomplete budget," said Lydon. "We haven't even seen the School Department budget yet. All we have is an 'allowance' from the Mayor."

Lydon said he feels there is little the City Council will do about the budget even when it gets a complete one.

"The only thing the Council can do is cut the budget," he said. "To think that any city councillor is going to cut the budget beyond the mandates of Proposition 2½ is ludicrous."

Mayor Tobin sent the budget to us much too early. It's not time to set in concrete the parameters of the budget. A lot can happen in the three months until the fiscal year ends.

"There are several bills in the Legislature to exempt bonded indebtedness from Prop 2½. Suppose we pass the budget and the bonded debt is left in and one of those bills becomes law. What do we do then?"

Lydon said he assumed that when the 45 days deadline passes the budget could be sent back to the Mayor and he and the Council can work things out.

Sheet Urges Funds For SW Center

City Councillor James Sheets says he fears the planned elimination of federal funding for the Community Action Program (CAP) will adversely affect the South West Community Center.

The Center currently receives federal funding that is slated to be included in planned budget cut.

Sheets said he agrees with the public's mandate to cut government spending but he feels the Center is vital to Quincy as well as to the surrounding towns it also serves.

The Center concerns itself with aid to the elderly and the poor in such areas as housing, medical care, energy, family planning and Head Start.

All of these areas, Sheets said, create enough of a caseload for the Center that to lose federal funding now would result in a setback to its services.

Sheets said he plans to submit a resolution to the City Council requesting that it go on record in support of continued federal funding for the Center.

Succeeds Cheney Tobin Names Shea To Hospital Board

Mayor Arthur Tobin named Charles L. Shea to a five-year term on the Hospital Board of Managers Tuesday, less than 24 hours after he officially retired as city auditor at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Shea succeeds Board Chairman John J. Cheney Jr., a frequent critic of Tobin's handling of the Hospital, whose term expired in January.

Tobin indicated that Richard Corner, whom he appointed to the board last year, is seeking votes among board members to succeed Cheney as chairman and probably will get the job.

Shea is Tobin's fifth appointee to the hospital board.

"I have now appointed an attorney, a certified public accountant, a registered nurse, a minister and an auditor," he said. "All of them bring a certain expertise to the board."

Meanwhile, the City Council placed the Hospital in limbo Monday night by refusing to vote for Tobin's proposal to make it an enterprise account off the tax levy.

The vote of 5-3 came at the conclusion of a debate on the Water and Sewer Commission and appeared to be a matter of some councillors venting their pique with each other.

Councillors John J. Quinn, Daniel G. Raymond and Leo J. Kelly, normally supporters of the hospital account, joined Joseph J. LaRaia and Francis X. McCauley in voting against it.

"I'm disappointed," said Hospital Director Michael Kitchen, who sat agast in the audience when the vote was taken. "But I still have hopes that it will be resurrected before June 30."

In order to come back before the Council, a member of the prevailing side in the vote must move for reconsideration at the next Council meeting which is Monday, April 6.

Grindlay Appointed Temporary Auditor

William S. Grindlay, 39, an accountant who served as budget coordinator for former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, has been appointed temporary City auditor succeeding the retired Charles L. Shea.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin named Grindlay Tuesday to fill the $34,509 post until the City Council gets around to naming a permanent successor.

Council President Leo J. Kelly appointed a special committee of all nine councillors with himself as chairman to seek an auditor. The first meeting was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m.

Grindlay will take a leave of absence from his job as a research analyst with the Quincy Police Department to fill the temporary position. He will return to that job when a permanent auditor is named.

Grindlay also took himself out of the running as a candidate for that job, saying that he would not be able to put the necessary time into the work due to his private accounting business.

Parking Sticker Program

Robert J. Luongo, assistant planner, was scheduled to make a presentation on a resident parking sticker program at a Quincy Traffic Commission meeting yesterday (Wednesday) at 55 Sea St.

Also on the agenda was a request from Police Chief Francis Finn for a no parking-tow zone on Clay St.; enforcement of a tow zone on the northern side of Hayden St.; a request from Ward Councillor Joanne Condon that Lunt St. be made one way and/or that parking be prohibited along the roadway.

END OF THE ROAD came in Quincy Bay, off Sea St., for auto driven by David E. Smith of 11 Orleans St., Houghs Neck. The car which landed in waist-deep water was removed and hauled over the seawall, after an hour's labor, by Manet Shell Sunday afternoon.

Ad Valorem Tax McCauley Proposes Compromise To City Sewer Problem

By TOM HENSHAW

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, responding to a challenge from the Mayor, has proposed a compromise solution to the city's sewer problems by charging home owners an ad valorem tax and billing others on the basis of metered water use.

McCauley, who is a candidate for mayor, made his proposal Tuesday, the day after the City Council rejected by a 5-3 vote Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's plan to handle the issue through creation of an independent Water and Sewer Commission.

On the eve of the Council vote, Mayor Tobin dispatched a hand-delivered "Dear Frank" letter to McCauley, asking him "for the good of the city" to propose an alternative "which will accomplish what my proposal accomplishes."

McCauley said he is drawing his alternative plan from a report compiled for the city last summer by the engineering firm of Weston and Sampson.

"Under this plan," said the report, "the home owner will continue to pay for his sewer cost by the ad valorem method while major consumers and tax exempt properties would be billed separately based on metered water use or waste water discharge."

"This plan is most beneficial to residential property owners and is an EPA approvable ad valorem tax plan."

Tobin said he found nothing new in McCauley's suggestion.

"We had it out there before and he voted against it," he said. "You notice in his letter that he doesn't say he'll vote for it this time either. He's just offering it as a suggestion. How can they get five votes for it? They couldn't before."

"At least," the mayor added, "I finally got someone on the Council to say something. I congratulate him for that."

The city is under the gun to fulfill new guidelines for federal aid and meet MDC requirements by instituting a sewer charge according to use or the state will set up the system itself.

McCauley acknowledged that he along with a majority of the other councillors voted down a similar plan submitted by Tobin in a package of three last October, but, he added, "your plan was not specific enough and for that reason I voted against the order."

One of the purposes of Tobin's Water and Sewer Commission plan was to remove the Sewer Department from the tax levy, which is limited by Proposition 2½, and give it independent bonding power not related to the city's limited ability to bond.

McCauley said his plan would meet the guidelines for federal funding under which the U.S.

Teachers Vote On Rescinding Work To Rule

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

The Quincy Education Association was scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) to vote on whether to rescind its work to rule policy.

The QEA general membership meeting was scheduled for 3 p.m. at Florian Hall in Dorchester. Work to rule, begun by the teachers to protect non-payment of their 1979-80 pay raises, states that teachers will perform only those duties specified in their contracts.

That leaves out such activities as after-hours student help or parent conferences, field trips, and supervising of detention, contests or extracurricular events.

The policy has been in effect for all of this school year and most of 1979-80.

QEA President Jo Ann O'Malley said the union's 60-member representative council voted recently to give the general membership a chance to decide whether to continue the policy.

While attracting the criticism of parent groups, work-to rule has not yet achieved its purpose of forcing payment of the 1979-80 raises.

In May, 1980, the City Council rejected a $1.4 supplemental budget which would funded the raises. Later that same month, the School Committee voted to eliminate the 1979-80 raises from the 1980-81 budget. Those unpaid raises were to be "piggy-backed" onto that year's raises.

A QEA suit to force funding of raises for the teachers and other school employee groups is still pending. School Supt. Lawrence Crendon says he doesn't expect a decision on that case in time for funding to be included in the 1981-82 school budget.

'Lost' And Found

'Missing' $1.7 Million
May Save 25-50 Teachers,
Junior High Athletics

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

About $1.7 million was lost and then found, between the offices of the mayor and the school department.

No, the money was not blowing about Coddington St. But discovery of a misunderstanding has reduced the base figure that must be cut from this year's school budget from $8.5 to $6.8 million.

That additional money will save the jobs of 25 to 50 teachers who otherwise would have been laid off, according to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon.

Most of those teachers will be kept on at the high school level, which had been hit hardest by the proposed layoff of 226 teachers, Creedon said.

Vice Chairman Christopher Kennedy thinks the committee may be able to use some of the new-found money to save junior high school sports, and other endangered programs.

The lower cut, said Creedon, resulted from a misunderstanding as to whether or not the $1.7 million Quincy Junior College budget was to be included in the $26.7 million school budget presented by Mayor Arthur Tobin to the City Council on Feb. 11.

Originally, both Tobin and the School Committee had understood that the $26.7 million figure was to cover both the regular school budget and the QJC budget. That meant that $8.5 million had to be cut from the $35.2 million 1980-81 budget.

However, it now appears certain that QJC will be funded through a revolving account, eliminating the need for its budget to be raised through the tax levy.

The $26.7 million figure quoted by Tobin is to cover the regular school budget, for kindergarten through grade 12. That budget, $33.5 million in 1980-81, will have to be reduced by $6.5 million.

The impact of negotiated raises for school employees, plus anticipated increases in utility costs next year mean that an additional $1.7 million will have to be found in the budget, Creedon said.

A total of $8.5 million, then, will have to be cut. Earlier this year, Creedon had warned that the committee should be prepared to cut as much as $11.6 million from its budget.

Creedon also thinks the committee won't have to deal with funding the outcome of a pending $1.4 million suit by school employees for their still-unpaid 1979-80 raises.

"It now appears that we won't have a decision on that by the time we put the budget to bed," Creedon said.

The lowered cut means that the School Committee may now go back and "un-cut" about $500,000. The committee has approved recommendations for about $9.0 million in cuts through last Wednesday's meeting.

The bulk of the uncut $500,000 will be used to keep 25 to 50 teachers who otherwise would have been among the 226 to be laid off, according to Carl Deyeso, director of academic education.

If the committee approves about $215,000 in proposed cuts tabled at the last meeting, it would increase the amount which could be "un-cut" to about $700,000, Deyeso said.

The tabled cuts are for the total elimination of junior high sports ($94,186), the layoff of five Vo-Tech teachers ($100,000), teachers' stipends for advising extra-curricular activities ($17,000) and the elimination of high school drama ($4,755).

"We assume the committee will (vote to approve those cuts)," Deyeso said.

But Kennedy wasn't so sure. "That's a good question," he said. "I think there's a fair amount of support for keeping the junior high sports."

"I've always thought that our sports programs are second only to the educational programs, because of the number of kids who get involved. I think that's very important."

"I would like to take a hard look at keeping that," he said, "and I can think of at least two other members who would too."

Point Junior Celebrates Women's History Week

Quincy Point Junior High School celebrated Women's History Week last week, with a variety of activities involving all three grades.

Principal Joseph Long and head guidance counselor, Barbara Sullivan, worked with teachers, counselors and media specialists to plan films, displays and discussions.

"Staff members and students were quite enthusiastic about finding unique ways to tell the stories of some women in history who have received less attention than they deserve," said Mrs. Sullivan. "Very few places have a history of such famous women as Quincy and its surrounding communities."

Robert Uhlar, social studies teacher added, "The students were amazed to learn about Deborah Sampson dressing as a man and fighting as a soldier in the Revolutionary War."

"The film, 'Free To Be You and Me' made them aware of how much happier their lives could be if both boys and girls were allowed to fully develop their abilities and interests," said science teacher, Robert Furiado.

Jo Jarvis, Project Interaction School facilitator, found seventh grade students attentive and responsive when she read them some new fairy tales reflecting changes in the lives of boys and girls.

Media Specialist, Linda Shannon, noted the increase in books about women in the last 10 years. "The number of excellent biographies of famous women have been increasingly available for students at all levels."

Through March 30, students' work, posters and books and schedules of school events will be featured in the display windows of the South Shore Bank, downtown Quincy, as "Students Celebrating Women's History Week."

The events are sponsored by Project Inter-Action, a joint project of the Quincy Public Schools and The NETWORK, Inc., one of five national demonstration sites to promote women's equal equity in schools, sponsored by the Department of Education.

CHOOSING A BOOK about women at the Media Center at Quincy Point Junior High School is Joseph Elliot. The display was arranged by Linda Shannon, media specialist.

A FILM about Deborah Sampson, Revolutionary War heroine from Randolph, was discussed in Robert Uhlar's seventh grade class.

SEVENTH GRADERS listen to Jo Jarvis, Project Interaction School Facilitator, read some new fairy tales and discuss how boys and girls absorb ideas of behavior as part of Women's History Week activities.

PRINCIPAL Joseph Long planned Women's History Week activities with teachers from left, Patricia Gorman, Gisele Koch, Barbara Sullivan and Maureen Ajemian.

Pancake House Requests All Night Hours

The City License Board voted at Tuesday's meeting to take under advisement for a week a request from the International House of Pancakes, 111 Washington St., Quincy Center for all night hours Fridays and Saturdays.

The matter was continued to allow abutters to the restaurant to voice any opinions.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said there have been problems in the past concerning the adjacent apartment building, and that he would weigh very heavily the tenants opinion on this matter.

Residents of the apartment building had complained of noise from the restaurant late at night when Pancake House owners applied for a 2 a.m. closing which was granted Oct. 16, 1979.

At this week's meeting, owner Paul R. Morrison told the board he needed the additional hours of business because his "taxes are ridiculous".

Morrison said it was "pretty near impossible" to get by with the taxes and competition from Danny's and The 1100 Restaurant which are open all night.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald agreed that the Pancake House tax bill was "staggering".

City Clerk John M. Gillis said he sympathized with the situation and suggested that the matter be taken under advisement until March 24. Gillis added that the only abutters that would be bothered by the extended hours would be the apartment house.

Stay Alive!

PREVENT DEADLIEST CHILD KILLER

More children die from accidents than from the next three causes of child deaths put together (cancer, congenital malformations, and pneumonia). Accidents just don't happen. They are caused - and nine out of ten are preventable.

Obviously, I can't go into the multitude of prevention methods in this space, but I think it would be helpful to know when they are most apt to take place.

ACCIDENTS HAPPEN MOST OFTEN ... when a child is tired, or hungry ... when a lizard - a sharp knife, a busy street, a bottle of aspirin - is too accessible ... when parents judge a child to be hyperactive ... when the mother is ill ... when a child is in the care of a person unfamiliar with his routine ... when there is no safe place to play ... when the relationship between parents is continually tense ... when surroundings change, often at moving or vacation time ... when other members of the family are ill or the center of a mother's attention.

Clarence L. Edwards, 82, Retired City Health Inspector

Funeral services were held Friday for Clarence L. Edwards, 82, city health department meat and food inspector for 39 years.

Mr. Edwards died March 11 in Quincy City Hospital after suffering a heart attack several days earlier.

Born in Cambridge, he lived 67 years in Quincy. He was appointed meat and food inspector in 1940 by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and remained in that position until 1969, when he retired.

He was honored by over 300 persons at his retirement dinner, including Mayor James J. McIntyre, who presented him with the first plaque ever awarded by the Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns to a Quincy resident for being "an outstanding municipal employee." He was also cited that night by the Quincy Veterans Council and Wollaston Legion Post.

He organized the South Shore Mosquito Control program, based in Quincy, and instituted measures to reduce air and water pollution and to eliminate or disperse oil spillage.

He was active in local UNICEF and United Fund drives and was chairman of the Quincy Salvage Committee in World War II.

He was a World War I Navy veteran.

He was appointed in June, 1980 to the Board of Registration of Sanitarians by Gov. Edward King.

Husband of the late Mrs. Mabel (Edwards) Edwards, he is survived by a son, Dean Edwards of East Bridgewater; a daughter, Susanne Tuttle of Norwell and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at Bethany Congregational Church by Rev. J. William Arnold, pastor. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Novena Of Grace To Begin At St. John's

St. John's Parish, Quincy Center, will begin its annual Novena of Grace this week-end at all Masses and continuing for nine days to March 30.

Novena services will be held daily at the 12:10 and 5:30 p.m. Masses.

Also as part of the Novena, a special Communal Penance Service will be held Tuesday, March 24, at 7:30 p.m. Several priests will be available for the Sacrament of Penance.

Guest preacher for the Novena is Columban Father John B.

Dunn, SSC. Father Dunn has served in mission countries throughout the world.

Actively involved in the Cursillo and Charismatic movement over the past few years, he lives at the Columban Fathers Home, 310 Adams St., Quincy.

The custom of praying for nine consecutive days to obtain a request dates back to the earliest days of the church. Patron of the Novena of Grace is St. Francis Xavier.

The Novena Services are open to the public.

Squantum Church Holds Third Lenten Service

The First Church of Squantum held the third service in its Sunday morning Lenten series recently with pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preaching on "The Battlefield of Prayer."

The Boys' Choir and the Junior Choir combined to sing the traditional spiritual, "Were You

There?"

Instrumentalists were Jason Deary, tone bells; Lee Ann Miller, triangle; Andrew Ogilvie, xylophone; Karin Reister, wood block; David Scott, glockenspiel; Christopher Shionis, tone bells; and Lillian Shionis, tambourine.

The Chancel Choir sang "Into the Woods My Master Went" with words by Sidney Lanier to a tune by Austin Lovelace.

Greeters were Ken and Millie Johnson. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Ellen Ogilvie, Pat Sorensen and Sandy Stohlberg.

The church's mid-week Lenten Program was held yesterday (Wednesday). A film strip was shown which depicted the life of the apostle Paul and bible Translator John Wyclif.

Last week's program featured a film strip on the life of John Wesley.

The program next week will be held Tuesday, March 24, at 7 p.m.

GOD
FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Costs Too High

St. John's School Won't Reopen

Prohibitive costs will prevent the St. John's School from reopening this — or perhaps any — year, according to Fr. William McCarthy, pastor.

"We won't be reopening the school because of the cost factor—it would cost so much money to open the school and just bring it up to code," Fr. McCarthy said.

Requests from area parents caused him to look into reopening the school, which has been closed since 1974. Spurring the requests is the fact the Cranch and Adams Schools, both within several blocks of St. John's, are scheduled to be closed this spring.

"I received 20 or 30 phone calls from parents asking me to look into it," said Fr. McCarthy, "and just as many from people looking for jobs."

But Fr. McCarthy says city fire and building inspectors have told him it would cost $500,000 just to bring the building up to safety codes for a full-time operating elementary school.

That's before a single cent could be spent on salaries, books or other supplies, he said.

Because of the high cost of starting up the school, he said, tuition would have to have been around $1,000, which wouldn't have been competitive with area parochial schools, Fr. McCarthy said.

And, finally, Fr. McCarthy said, he was concerned that drawing away more students from Quincy Public Schools would have contributed to more teacher layoffs.

Although the school would have hired eight teachers, he said, parochial school salaries traditionally are far below those paid by public schools. The maximum salary at St. John's in 1974, when the school closed, was $8,000, he said.

St. John's had 279 pupils during the 1972-73 school year. The following year, after many rumors of the school's closing, the enrollment was 143.

The building is now used by the Quincy Community Action program, community groups like South Shore Mental Health, Overeaters Anonymous and Alcoholics Anonymous and for St. John's CCD classes.

Brownell Warns Of Nut Island 'Disaster'

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell says the MDC "is flailing with disaster of environmentally tragic proportions until preventative action is taken" to end sewage spills at the Nut Island treatment plant.

"The days of remedial action are over," said Brownell in a letter to MDC Commissioner Terrence J. Geoghegan. "The remedy may not fit when a disaster is on your hands."

"I implore you to take action as quickly as possible to implement preventative measures."

There have been two large spills of partially treated sewage at Nut Island in the past three months, one of 50 million gallons at Christmas and another of 41 million gallons around March 2.

Brownell said that nearly 200 million gallons of treated and partially treated sewage have been dumped or spilled into Quincy waters since Christmas "for a variety of reasons and excuses."

The Quincy clam flats have been closed as a result of the March 2 spill, he said, and "the shellfish industry now looks me in my disgust for the operation of the Nut Island plant."

Brownell said he met with Gov. Edward J. King on the matter and was told that Geoghegan had on his desk a $9 million spending proposal for the Nut Island facility.

"I would greatly appreciate a copy of that proposal and urge an expeditious review by your office," he said.

"The constant spillage from this treatment plant must end."

"It is bad enough that the citizens of Quincy have to put up with foul odors due to wind direction, but pumps that can only function at 60 to 65 per cent of design is totally unacceptable."

"Further, the 11 critical positions released after the Dec. 25 dumping have not yet been filled; administrative delays, regardless of 'never again' promises, are also unacceptable."

The MDC explained that the 50 million gallons of sewage had to be released on Christmas day because 11 critical positions at the facility were vacant.

Court Clerk Post Seen For Tobin

Reports of a judicial appointment for Mayor Arthur Tobin are gaining momentum this week.

Quincy District Court sources are pretty much convinced he is going to be named to a post there.

The buzz in the corridors is that he will be named to the prestigious clerk's post, succeeding veteran Dennis F. Ryan who will soon be stepping into retirement.

There has been other speculation that Associate Justice Lewis L. Whitman might move up to the Superior Court bench and Tobin would be named to fill his black robe at the Quincy Court.

But usually informed sources at the Quincy courthouse now believe Whitman is staying and Tobin is going there, too, as the new court clerk.

They expect the official word will come very soon — perhaps as early as next week.

Meanwhile, some City Hall sources are finding it a little difficult to believe Tobin will be leaving. A recent poll shows him in a strong reelection position with most people queried saying they think he is doing a good job as mayor despite all the city's problems.

No Quincy mayor in recent years has had as many monumental problems to face: the Blizzard of 1978, the four per cent tax cap, tax suits by General Dynamics and State Street South, court ordered revaluation and — of course — Proposition 2½.

The departure of City Auditor Charles Shea, it would seem would have a bearing on Tobin's decision to accept an appointment. The pair have been close friends who have worked marathon hours together. Shea has been like a right arm to Tobin.

Tobin's appointment will have tremendous impact on this year's municipal election.

City Councillor Frank McCauley is the only announced candidate for mayor. He certainly isn't going to be given a free ride to the mayor's office.

Potential opponents would include Councillors John Quinn, James Sheets and Daniel Raymond.

And, if either or all get into the mayoral ring, it would in turn open up additional City Council vacancies.

Until now, the only open seat was McCauley's who is

SPEAKING OF TOBIN, he's going to soon be seeing President Ronald Reagan. Not in Washington, however, but at South Bend, Indiana.

Reagan will be the Notre Dame commencement speaker May 17. Both he and actor Pat O'Brien will be given honorary degrees by their "alma mater". Reagan and O'Brien, of course, starred in the Knute Rockne movie of the early 1940s — Reagan as George Gipp and O'Brien as Rockne. (Tell them some day, Rock, to win one for the Gipper.)

Tobin and his wife Shirley, will be there for the graduation of their eldest son, Arthur Steve, who is majoring in government. The 24-year-old, 6-3 younger Tobin reportedly is considering following in his father's political footsteps.

GEORGE WILSON, former principal of Quincy High School, is a great grandfather — again. Doesn't look it though. He's hardly added a gray hair in the last quarter-century. That brook behind his Braintree home has got to be flowing from the Fountain of Youth.

TIME CERTAINLY IS thinning out the ranks of World War veterans. Frank Hunt of the Veterans Administration office in Boston, notes that the average World War I veteran is now 85 years old. When they came home as young men in 1918, they thought they had just fought the war to end all wars.

SMILE DEPT: Satirist Dick Flavin who came out of Merrymount to needle politicians on Beacon Hill, got off a few good ones at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce annual meeting at the Lantana, Randolph. Like the time he was told to be sure to say something about Governor King who was present with him at a function.

So, Flavin told King he thought he and John Hancock had a lot in common. "Both of you became governor. But neither of you has done much for Massachusetts lately."

Quincy Quiz

There are no winners this week in the Quincy Quiz.

No one correctly answered all five questions in last week's Quiz.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What well-known building is located at 50 Chestnut St.?
2. Name the four communities that border on Quincy.
3. What is the broadcasting frequency of radio station WJDA?
4. What Quincy historic first did John Winthrop Jr. have a part in?

5. In what section of the city is the city dump located?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Classes were first held at Quincy Junior College in 1958.
2. Maypole Park is located in Merrymount.
3. Black's Creek was formerly known as Mt. Wollaston River.
4. The executive secretary to the Conservation Commission is Clara Yeomans.
5. The Quincy YMCA is located at 79 Coddington St.

Applications Increase 40%

Enrollment Up At QJC Despite Tuition Hike

Tuition hikes at Quincy Junior College appear to be having no effect on enrollment for the 1981-82 academic year.

In fact, says Dr. Linda Wilson, the dean of students, enrollment applications are up some 40 per cent, the highest increase in four years.

"And the biggest thrust will be coming as the older students decide late whether they are going to continue their educations," said Dr. Wilson.

"There is no cutoff date. We have an open admission policy. We continue to take new students right through the first three days of classes in September."

Since it was announced that QJC was to become independent of the city tax levy and the tuition raised to $1,050 a year it was feared that potential students might be turned off at the school.

But Dr. Wilson reported that as of March 6, the junior college had 485 day division applications compared to 345 a year ago on March 7. That's a gain of 140.

"The students were aware of the tuition increase," they said, "and they apparently figured that it was reasonable."

"Tuition at QJC is still a lot cheaper than other schools.

Harvard is up to about $11,000. State college tuition (now $800) will go up this year but it has not yet been announced."

Two weeks ago, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon and QJC President Dr. Edward F. Pierce announced a plan to preserve and enhance the junior college in its new independent status.

Part of it is to create a "career technical" division in the school and include in it the offerings of Grades 13 and 14 from the Voch Tech School with a tuition of $1,650.

Another part is to make students more aware of the scholarships and government grants that are available to them and to seek financial aid from the local business community in the form of endowments.

Dr. Wilson said she is hopeful that the budget-conscious Reagan administration will preserve most of the federal government's aid programs, including the key Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (BEOG).

"Each day I feel better on it," she said. "Daily there seems more support in Congress to keep the BEOG program as it is. I don't think Reagan will be able to touch it.

"It may be that the worst that can happen is that it is kept at the current level instead of increasing at a rate of 5 per cent a year as in the past."

Already, she said, the Community College Association of the South Shore has decided to increase its scholarship aid by $17,000 to $18,000 more than the $15,000 that was available this year.

"Some of it is earmarked for middle income students, who have been caught in the middle of rising college costs," said Dr. Wilson.

The QJC Development Fund, which is seeking local endowments, has just gotten underway but Toby Felton, spokeswoman for the school, said it has obtained $200,000 through health organization.

"We are submitting applications for grants to the largest corporations in the area," she said.

"We see the new status of the junior college as an opportunity to grow," said Dr. Wilson. "Of course, any time you expand in this economy you are taking a risk."

"I have had a poster in my office for the past 10 years. It says, 'Behold the turtle, who makes progress only when it sticks its neck out.'"

Council Seeks Extension

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has indicated that he has no objections to a City Council bid for more time to consider the budget for fiscal 1982.

Tobin sent the budget to the Council Feb. 11 and, under state law, the Council must review it and return it to the mayor in 45 days, which sets the deadline at March 28.

Monday night, the Council voted 8-0 to petition the state legislature for an extension to June 15 to give it a clearer idea of the effects of Proposition 2½.

The 1982 budget is for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

Councillors complained that Tobin sent the budget to them much too early in order to impress on them what would happen if they rejected his proposal for a Water and Sewer Commission.

It didn't and they did.

Tobin, who has to forward the petition to the State House, said he would have no problem with it.

"But first," he said, "I'll call the people in the State House and see if they would have a problem in singling out just one city council for an extension."

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., chairman of the Council's Finance Committee, finally set a date for the first hearing into the budget. It was scheduled for today (Thursday) at 6 p.m.

The following departmental budgets will be discussed:

Mayor's office, City Council, City Clerk, Elections, License Commissioners, Auditor, Assessors, Treasurer, Retirement, Solicitor, Planning and Rent Grievance.

will attempt to purchase a majority of the shares.

"I do not consider that we had a fair proxy contest," said Gosman in a statement.

If Gosman were successful in his fight for control of Multibank, it was reported that the Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Quincy Planning Board, was to become president of the South Shore Bank.

Corporation Trust Co., which tallied the proxy vote taken at a special stockholders' meeting last Thursday, reported that 550,685 shares were voted for the Gosman proposal and 941,155 against.

But even before the votes were counted, Gosman, who already owns 23 per cent of the stock in Multibank, said he has formed Founders Bancorp Inc., which

Adams Yacht Yard Starts Work On $272,000 Navy Contracts

The Quincy Adams Yacht Yard in Germantown started work on government contracts worth $272,000 to build two 110-foot submarine chasers for the Navy. It would provide work for 100 men.

The Navy also had an option to order two more at the same price from the yard, which was planning to extend its main shed from 130 to 150 feet to accommodate them.

Nearing completion at the yard were two large yachts, a 53-footer for Charles S. Payson, New York sports fisherman, and a 58-footer for the Fuller family of Hartford, Conn.

NOISE ORDINANCE

City Council President William W. Jenness introduced an anti-noise ordinance that would restrict the playing of radios, phonographs and musical instruments in the city.

"I am having this order introduced because of the many requests I have received asking that some action be taken to stop this nuisance," he said.

The ordinance would prohibit the playing of those devices "in such a manner as to be plainly audible at a distance of 100 feet from the building or structure in which it is located."

SAUNDERS RECONSIDERS

Jeppy Saunders, manager of the Fore River baseball team, reconsidered a decision to withdraw his team from the South Shore League and enter the New England League.

Fore River would play in both leagues at the same time, he said. Meanwhile, George McCall's Sagamore Plebes, champions of the Park League in 1940, were awarded the South Shore League franchise that was being abandoned by the Sons of Italy.

FUNDS FOR FIRE STATION

The City Council approved $50,000 to build a new fire station in Quincy Point after the Burgin administration asked for $62,000 and the Quincy Taxpayers Association urged $38,000.

However, an order for $30,000 to build a fire station in Houghs Neck failed to pass.

The Reading Language Arts and Math Enrichment Program is funded through a Community Development Block Grant awarded through the City of Quincy's Department of Planning and Community Development.

Matthew McCloskey Finalist In 'Christus' Pageant Contest

Matthew McCloskey, son of James and Eleanor (Murphy) McCloskey of 38 Euclid Ave., Quincy Center, is one of 15 finalists in the annual Christ Child contest sponsored annually by the St. Kevin Theatre of Dorchester.

Winner of the contest portrays the Christ Child in the one of five performances of "The Christus," American's oldest Passion Play.

The winner is chosen based on votes from the general public. Votes, listing just the name of the child, should be received by St. Kevin Rectory, Boston, 02125 before 7 p.m. on Monday, March 23.

Matthew, the only Quincy finalist, will celebrate his first birthday March 27.

MATTHEW MCCLOSKEY

Performances of "The Christus" are April 5 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., at St. Agatha's School, East Milton; April 12 at 2 p.m. at the Strand, Upham's Corner, Dorchester; and April 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. at West Roxbury High School.

A winner and four alternates are chosen. The winner portrays the Christ Child in the Bethlehem scene of one of the five performances chosen by his parents. The alternates each perform in one of the other four shows.

THE 1981 BRIDE...

Memorable brides are the result of early planning

Our Roman ancestors had several bridal customs that have lingered through centuries of celebration and ritual. For one, they tossed a torch at the end of the ceremony.

The French revised this in the 1300s to a safer bouquet of flowers, with the person catching them destined to marry next.

The Romans gave us the wedding veil, believing it was a protection from evil spirits. Their wedding cakes were water, barley, flour and salt, then the necessities of life.

As to June brides, these ancients believed that the sixth month, named for Juno, Goddess of marriage, was the most propitious time to wed.

June is still the most popular month for weddings. Seasonally it is the perfect beginning. Life blossoms and the earth is at its peak of warmth and vitality.

Planners for June weddings are thinking NOW about that big event. If they aren't, they soon should be.

There are countless aspects to the perfect wedding that takes months of planning: the color scheme, the clothes, the flowers, the guest list—details such as the reception and the music. All exciting and all needing considerable planning.

The focal point at that June, or indeed, that January wedding is the bride herself. All eyes are on her on this, her most special day

As lovely as she will ever be, she takes the right preparation and follows a few useful beauty tips. The experts at Revlon have some well chosen tips to help make all beautiful dreams come true.

Two immediate steps every bride should take as early as possible are plain common sense. The first is to establish the one fragrance that will be her special signature.

When she walks down that aisle and into her groom's life forever, it wouldn't do to suddenly surprise him with some exotic perfume—the fragrance he will always associate with life's finest moments should be subtly expressive of his bride.

The second step recommended is to take into account, along with the bridal gown and flowers, exactly how the bride's hair and make-up will complete the picture of perfection.

Hair may need to grow during the coming months, and the color may need subtle changing or brightening. Walking down the aisle with a dramatically long auburn hair-do is fine unless the bride had short brown hair only the day before!

All the experts agree that the classic bride has a subtle make-up—the merest hint of hardness, or too much brightness, is not desired.

The time to begin learning proper make-up application is during these planning stages, not at the last minute.

Last, but hardly least, skin care is an ongoing concern for all; for the bride it is especially necessary to evolve a daily routine of skin maintenance that makes the face glow and shine with health and beauty.

In prehistoric times, cave dwellers simply kidnapped the most desirable bride from a neighboring tribe and the "best man" helped fight off angry relatives. What little planning the bride accomplished she did while being dragged to her new cave!

Celebrating wedding rites began long ago. Today's weddings are a once in a lifetime opportunity for brides to shine radiantly but, from the Romans on, planning makes that special difference.

Be a beautiful bride...

Ten steps to perfect makeup

Glenn Roberts, creative training director for Elizabeth Arden, has traveled to all parts of the world giving makeup advice to thousands of women—including many brides-to-be.

He's learned firsthand what the problems are, and has become something of an expert on bridal makeup.

Here are some tips from Glenn on planning the perfect wedding makeup.

1. Don't wait until just before the wedding to experiment with makeup and hairstyles. Start far enough ahead so that you will be comfortable with both the look and the way to achieve it on the day of the wedding.

2. Try out hair and makeup with all the pieces of your wedding ensemble—veil or hat, dress, jewelry—and, if possible, do it in the actual light of the church or synagogue.

3. Since both dim church lighting and wearing all white tend to "wash out" the features, don't be afraid to wear plenty of color (lively pastels in light to medium shades) and apply it on all parts of the face equally, with no one feature dominating.

4. Have a professional facial a week before the wedding to deep clean skin and pores, and to give any possible eruptions a chance to heal.

5. If you wear glasses, be sure to choose eyeshadows bright enough to show through the lenses and maintain the balance of color on the rest of the face. Also, softly line the eyes on both upper and lower lids with a pencil one shade deeper than the eyeshadow.

6. Treat yourself to a manicure and pedicure a day or two before the wedding, so that hands that cut the cake look lovely and feet that stand throughout the reception feel smooth and comfortable.

7. To make lipstick last through the ceremony and beyond, cover lips with foundation before applying lipstick. And, to prevent lipstick from "feathering" (bleeding out beyond the mouth), line the lips neatly with a brush and then fill in the center.

8. On the day of the wedding, allow two hours of quiet preparation before leaving for the ceremony. Sit, don't stand, relaxed in front of a good mirror with plenty of light to do your hair and makeup.

9. Keep a compact, lipstick and tissues at hand with a bridesmaid or mother for quick touch-ups between ceremony and receiving line, and after the reception wears on.

10. Relax! If you've followed directions this far, you should be refreshed and ready to enjoy the day looking your radiant best.

PLAN WEDDING MAKEUP and try it out with dress and accessories far in advance of the wedding day, advises Glenn Roberts of Elizabeth Arden. "Since wearing all white and dim church lighting tend to 'wash out' features, don't be afraid to wear plenty of color in lively pastels," he says.

Customary gifts to give on landmark anniversaries

It hardly seems possible that a full year has passed since your big day, but it has, and now it's time to celebrate your first wedding anniversary.

If someone was on the ball on that exciting day—probably a relative or member of the wedding party—the top layer of your wedding cake will have been saved and frozen, to be enjoyed on your first anniversary.

Traditions surrounded your wedding day, and they will continue to creep up every year as you celebrate your anniversary.

The traditional gifts for each anniversary are as follows:

A RESORT FOR ALL SEASONS—The Pocono Mountains offers honeymooners a year-round fantasy world. Transformed into a ski resort in the winter, the Poconos features some of the finest skiing in the East. Fireside parties, sledging, tobogganing and ice skating add to the fun. For luxurious relaxation, accommodations include in-room swimming pools, jacuzzis and gourmet dining... truly a honeymoon haven.

Honeymoon love knows no season

By MARILYN KANE

The Poconos today is a 'resort for all seasons' offering something for every taste winter, spring, summer and fall.

Transformed into a ski resort during winter, honeymooners find the Poconos become a bargain for newlweds featuring all the trappings that have made the Poconos famous for lovers... fondue parties around the fireside, in-room champagne breakfasts and brunches, sledging, tobogganing, ice skating, indoors and out, coupled with some of the finest skiing in the East.

Near-by enjoyment

Driving distances to the Poconos are shorter, leaving honeymooners more time to enjoy their first week as man and wife. Luxury accommodations in the rooms include in-room swimming pools, heart-shaped bath tubs, jacuzzis, color TV in every suite, two gourmet meals daily and a selection of sporting activities on the premises that is unsurpassed by any group of resorts anywhere in the world.

Special feature

The couple knows ahead of time exactly how much everything will cost, including tax and gratuities, a feature of the Pocono honeymoon that has boosted its popularity through the years. All they need is spending money to cover gifts and drinks.

Skiing with the Pocono People has become a popular honeymoon pastime, and the Poconos offer a choice of 15 full-fledged ski areas.

Various package deals

Most honeymoon resorts will arrange skiing or offer skiing in the package. Many offer transportation to and from ski areas, and offer packages that include equipment rental if desired.

There are 10 Pocono Honeymoon resorts catering only to couples and honeymooners.

These resorts have been responsible for making the Poconos famous as the "Honeymoon Capital of the World" and bringing honeymooners from everywhere to the fantasy world they create for newlweds.

Send for details

For complete information on the Pocono Honeymoon Resorts, rates and space availability for the season of your choice, write the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, Box K, 1004 Main Street, Stroudsburg, PA 18360.

By return mail, you will receive postage-paid honeymoon information that will assist in the planning of the finest honeymoon available today.

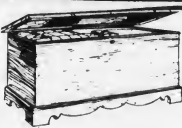

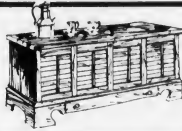

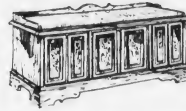

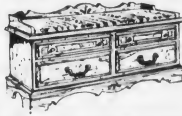

"With this ring, I thee wed..."

One of the most enduring and beautiful traditions associated with engagement and marriage is the giving of a ring. Today, most brides receive two rings from their fiancés—one at the time of the betrothal and one at the wedding ceremony itself. It seems likely that the betrothal ring originated as a replacement for dowry money—naturally enough, considering the ancient Roman custom of giving a ring to seal an agreement.

While this act was binding in most cultures, the Vikings gave rings not to ratify the bargain, but to commemorate it, much as we do today.

Versatility in function and use equally important in housewares

Traditional weddings with candlelight, lace and church rituals are "in" again. But what those who track such things are reporting.

This is not to say, however, that today's young newlyweds and couples are reverting to "traditional" life-styles. Few couples starting out today fit the patterns exhibited by their parents. Nor do they fit the non-conformist mode of the "Age of Aquarius."

If any characteristic seems to identify today's new couples, it's their willingness to try new things.

Their kitchens, for example, are much more likely to contain modern convenience-oriented appliances and equipment which allow them to do kitchen jobs faster. They're not anxious to spend more time working in the kitchen than is needed.

On the other hand, neither are they reluctant to display their culinary talents. At-home entertaining is becoming increasingly more popular.

To keep pace with diverse lifestyles which include more free time and more at-home entertaining, modern couples place some pretty broad expectations on the products they choose and use.

They want functionality, versatility and good value. That's especially true in cookware where their definition of versatility is not limited to cooking use, but extends to appearance as well.

At Corning, when planners reviewed these trends, they developed a new product line called French White cookware. The company reports it is one of the most popular lines ever introduced, thanks to its glass-ceramic versatility, its attractive classical lines and its plain white color. All three characteristics blend to provide just what many people want in their cookware.

Today's newlyweds have grown up in an era of rapid change. They exhibit little, if any, of their parents' cautious conservatism toward new things.

TODAY'S LIVING DEMANDS VERSATILITY not only in the way a product performs, but in how it may be used. Here, French White cookware—multifunctional because it is made of a glass-ceramic material—is quite elegant in a formal setting.

They're much more likely to have a microwave oven... and to use it extensively. They are also an important market for convenience foods—frozen meals and the like—not because they can't cook, but because they don't want to take the time for day-to-day cooking.

When they do cook, they're likely to cook enough for several meals and freeze the extras for later use. This indicates lots of freezer-to-cooker-to-table use for cookware, and that's where glass-ceramic cookware shines.

Ware that's that versatile means less dishes to wash and less time spent on kitchen chores. And in today's economy, fewer dishes to wash translates into energy savings, too.

Certainly, ware that is used as serving dishes should blend with the dinnerware on the table. What discerning person can take a "cat and dog fight" of colors and patterns while dining? What discerning hostess would permit it?

Even casual day-to-day dining should be done in attractive settings. And what blends better with other colors or patterns than plain white? It's not only neutral, but it accentuates the surrounding decor as well.

When the modern couple entertains, the table settings are likely to be elegant, if not downright formal, some of the time, and casual on other occasions. A cook-and-serve ware that fits either situation is a special bonus in any kitchen.

Thanks to the fluted sides which give it the appearance of fine French porcelain, French White cookware can be dressed up or dressed down. It's as much at home with canapés and candlelight as it is with fondues and fireplaces.

Centuries later, brides still wear pearls

Hindu legend credits the discovery of the first pearl to the great god, Vishnu. The legend holds that Vishnu drew the pearl from the sea and presented it to his daughter on her wedding day, thus setting a precedent for millions of brides down through the millennia.

For her wedding, Queen Nefertiti of Egypt had pearls mounted on her crown, worked into her collar, draped upon her arms and sewn into the gilded leather of her sandals.

According to existing manuscripts, Pocahontas was the first American bride known to wear pearls to her wedding. A royal diadem of three strands of pearls decorated her hair, and large oval pearls hung from her ears.

As American fortunes began to be made in the 1800s, pearl engagement rings became the prized possessions of prospective brides.

It was then customary for a bride to receive a gift of a pearl necklace, which she wore to the altar on her special day. Mary Todd Lincoln was one such bride.

With the discovery that pearls could be cultivated in live oysters, the custom of brides wearing pearls came into greater prominence. No longer was it necessary to be very wealthy in order to enjoy wearing nature's jewels of the sea.

Society's elite, however, continued to observe the custom of wearing pearls on the wedding day.

When Grace Kelly married Prince Rainier of Monaco, her gown was closed with cultured pearl buttons, and tiny cultured pearls were sewn into her veil.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis wore a single choker of cultured pearls and simple pearl earrings as the only jewels to accompany her magnificent wedding dress.

And, when Mariana Simonescu recently wed tennis star Bjorn Borg, she wore a pearl-encrusted gown and veil which cost more than $7,000.

Although wedding protocol has become more relaxed over the years, and styles in wedding dresses now range from formal to casual, cultured pearls are still considered the most appropriate jewelry for a bride to wear.

The question is, what style of pearl necklace will look best with a particular bridal dress?

The choker is the shortest cultured pearl necklace, about 15" long. It falls to just above the collar bone, and is traditionally worn with a high round neckline, but is also appropriate with a scooped neckline.

The princess length is 18" long and falls just below a turtleneck collar. This length is lovely with a deep, scooped neckline.

The matinee necklace, 20" to 24" long, falls halfway between the neckline and bosom. This length is lovely with a high-standing collar, as well as with round or scooped-neck collars.

The opera length is 28" to 30", falling just past the bosom. An elegant look, it is most appropriate with high-standing collars.

ELEGANT ENSEMBLE dressing by Giorgio Sant' Angelo for Sinclair. Very new is the embossed design fabric of body-hugging stretch fabric of nylon and "Lycra" spandex in both the sleek fitting maillot and matching sarong skirt. A fashion for swimming, and dining and dancing as well.

Swimwear that's not just for swimming

When packing for a vacation trip—and especially for a honeymoon vacation—you will surely want to take something new to wear for every occasion.

Just as you wouldn't want to be seen in the same dress every evening you're away, you shouldn't want to be seen in one swimsuit every day at the beach or pool.

The swimsuit is probably the most eye-catching and figure-flattering fashion you own. With the body-hugging stretch of "Lycra" spandex, in dozens of styles from the minimal bikini or cut-out to the very chic high-cut tanks, tubes or mailots, a figure really looks its most shapely in them.

It's also easy to add a wardrobe of colors and styles of swimwear that will take up very little space in a suitcase.

What's more, with the beautiful wrap-skirts and pareos and cover-ups you can find to match, these may be the most versatile and therefore the most economical fashions you take along.

With attractive accessories, your swimsuit will serve you for shopping, dining and dancing—with shorts or jeans it can be worn for any action sport. With the stretch and fit of "Lycra" in the fabric, you can wear it with comfort almost anywhere you might go.

Cookware guide for the bride and groom

Sharing is the style of the eighties. No longer does a girl begin marriage with a filled hope chest. These days, couples-to-be shop together for the things they'll need for their new home.

And they probably list the items they fancy with the bridal registry at their favorite store. That way they'll receive the gifts they want—from china, glassware and silver to cookware, bakeware and portable electrics.

Of course, selecting tabletop patterns is mostly a matter of taste. But there's more to cookware than meets the eye. Performance, price and convenience are as important as appearance.

Quality is key

To perform efficiently, saucepans and skillets must conduct heat quickly and evenly, without hot spots. They should be well balanced, with handles that are comfortable to grip, and covers that fit snugly.

In cookware, quality pays off with countless numbers of well cooked meals. But that doesn't mean that the cost has to be out-of-sight.

For example, heavy gauge aluminum, a superb metal for cookware and the most popular, is moderately priced. And it's available in sets or open stock pieces.

For easy cooking

Convenience counts too. Both men and women are finding cooking creative, but they dislike the tedious, time-consuming task of soaking and scouring pots and pans.

That's why the cookware produced by many American manufacturers with non-stick surfaces of "SilverStone" or "Teflon" is loved, honored and cherished in kitchens around the country.

"SilverStone" is the durable non-stick surface that resists staining, chipping or peeling, and its easy release of food makes cleaning it a cinch. A quick wipe-out in hot sudsy water and a rinse is all it takes, no matter how sticky the food.

Diverse appliances

When selecting small electrics for the first home, opt for those that are multi-functional. Electric frypans, griddles and woks, for example, can be used for cooking many different kinds of dishes and their portability makes them ideal for entertaining.

Several manufacturers have recently introduced some of these energy efficient appliances with the same premium non-stick surface, so clean-up time is cut to a minimum.

The pleasures of home baking that young people are discovering now puts bakeware in the must-have category for many newlyweds.

Heavy-weight aluminum bakeware that cooks and browns evenly is the best investment.

The best bakeware

And the newest have "SilverStone" surfaces so not only is it easy to clean, but crusty loaves of bread and tender cakes come out intact.

The important pros and cons of various cookware materials are detailed on the following chart—consult it to help you select the cookware that best suits your needs and lifestyle.

The proper etiquette of wedding invitations

There is a certain degree of etiquette which surrounds most of the rites of passage in life, not the least of which is the institution of marriage.

Wedding invitations in particular have strict rules of etiquette attached to them. If your wedding is being planned "by the book," you will want to heed them.

Traditional weddings call for traditional invitations. The following guidelines, excerpted from the Bride's Wedding Planner, will provide you with all you'll need to know about the wedding invitations:

- On the traditional invitation, names are written in full—no nicknames or initials. No abbreviations except Mr., Mrs., Ms. and Dr. are used.
- Numbers, including those in short addresses, are spelled out. Likewise, the date and time of the ceremony is written out.
- For a church or temple ceremony, "the honour of your presence" is requested; for a non-church wedding or reception, it is "the pleasure of your company."
- You may request a reply to the reception with "R.S.V.P." or "Please respond" in the lower left corner of the invitation. (Printed reply cards are more suitable for business functions than for social events such as weddings, Bride's points out).
- Invitations are almost always issued in the name of the bride's parents, even if she lives away from home or has been married before.

If her parents are deceased, her guardian, a close relative or a family friend may sponsor the wedding.

Where only one parent is living, the invitations are issued in his or her name alone. If the bride's parents are divorced, the name of only one parent—usually the one who raised her—appears on the invitation.

If this parent has remarried, the step-parent's name also goes on the first line, followed by "his (or her) daughter" to indicate relationship.

If the basis of the reception are different from those of the wedding, a separate reception invitation is required.

• Invitations should be addressed by hand, using a neat, legible script. Use black ink, if possible, to match the printing.

• The guests' full names go on the outside of the envelope, followed by the address. The inside envelope carries the last name only (Mr. and Mrs. John Doe), and nothing else.

• Each adult member of the family receives an invitation. So do roommates and dates of single guests.

• The phrase "and family" is never used. Instead, invited children's names go on a line under their parents' names on the inside envelope.

New outlook on remarriage

Times are changing and, along with them, the traditions attached to marriage and the wedding ceremony.

For women taking the vows for a second time, the feelings of happiness, joy and excitement, once reserved only for first-time brides, are being shared by all.

"The whole atmosphere surrounding second weddings has changed," observes Barbara Tober, Editor-in-Chief of Bride's magazine.

"There is nothing that can be considered taboo anymore and the only question couples need to ask themselves is, 'Will what we're doing make our friends comfortable and happy for us?' If it will, by all means, go ahead!"

In past years, second marriages were handled with care, and little, if nothing, was said about them in public.

Couples were urged to be discreet, despite the fact that the declaration of marriage is a public assertion of love and commitment.

Today, a second marriage is nothing to be embarrassed about. Rather, remarriage has become very much a part of the wedding scene. According to Bride's magazine, 28 percent of all marriages today are remarriages.

As for the novice bride, there have been rules of etiquette established for women getting married for the second time.

Engagements are not usually announced during divorce proceedings from a previous marriage.

The ceremony itself is often kept simple, with traditions such as the giving-away and long procession down the aisle omitted.

Throwing the bouquet and garter are left out, but otherwise the reception can be as large and lavish a party as desired.

A woman marrying again has her choice of wedding outfits.

"I see no reason not to wear white the second time around," Mrs. Tober says. "Something simple and sophisticated, perhaps, a dress with a hat. You don't need a cathedral train or veil, but dress up and be beautiful and happy."

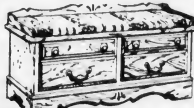

Depending on the style of the wedding and the time of day, the bride may wear a short or long dress or a suit, the groom, a tuxedo.

Good taste and manners, along with the consideration of others, will result in the ceremony of remarriage being a joyous celebration of new-found happiness.

Choose a carefree shopping route to the bridal gown of your dreams

When Horace Greeley said, "Go West young man, go West," he didn't tell him to make sure he took a wife along.

For those who didn't have the foresight to arrive with someone to cook, clean, launder, raise a garden, chickens and children (probably in that order), the solution was very often "the mail-order bride" sent sight unseen from the old country.

Today a "mail-order bride" is likely to be something else, according to Bernie Schwartz, Bridal Buyer for the JCPenney stores and catalog.

"The fastest developing part of our business," Schwartz points out, "is in catalog bridal gowns. Only four years ago we had just six pages and this year we will have 16 pages of bridal merchandise in the Spring/Summer catalog."

Traditionally, a young woman thinks of her bridal gown as one of the most important purchases she ever makes. Also, traditionally she does a great deal of research at bridal fairs and through bridal publications before she settles on the gown that fulfills the dreams she has been nurturing for many, many years.

How then, was it possible last year for 11,500 brides to be married in the same style gown from the JCPenney catalog? Or for countless others not only to order their own gown, but also their attendants' gowns, their mother's gown and even their flower girl's gown from the same pages?

The economy is one reason, Schwartz thinks. For as little as $80.00, a young woman can have a gown that will flatter her without flattening her bank account.

And that's another thing. While many parents still pay for their daughter's wedding, statistics show that more and more young couples pay their own expenses. When this is the case, they often prefer to go easy on the wedding and invest more heavily in home furnishings.

In a survey conducted last year to try to pinpoint reasons for the growth of the modern day "mail-order bride," reasons varied from attempts to beat inflation to the 72-hour delivery policy.

"I'm not being married until June," one young woman who ordered her gown in September said, "but I wanted the dress here in the house. I liked the dress and I didn't see what good a lot of shopping would do."

Another young woman said she was "intimidated" by sales women in bridal salons. Many, of course, said that shopping was inconvenient because they were away at school or lived far from the nearest bridal shop.

Jackie McCord, Fashion Editor of Modern Bride magazine, has her own theory for the catalog bridal phenomenon.

"We're in an age of burgeoning catalog buying," she pointed out. "Brides-to-be with budding careers—or thriving ones—lack the time for leisurely shopping in person, just as is the case with career women generally. The catalogs are a growth industry."

The question of fit was also tackled by the survey. About 25% had the gowns shortened. Sleeves were shortened by another small percentage. Very few had to have sizable alterations. Most claimed the gowns fit perfectly.

As pleased as he is with the growth of the catalog bridal section, Schwartz is proudest of the letters (and photographs) he gets from happy brides or proud parents. One reached him recently with photos enclosed.

"As an army family living in Europe," the mother of the bride wrote, "we have come to rely heavily on mail order purchases, and JCPenney is the one we rely on most."

"In 1979, my daughter bought her college clothes from you and was very well pleased. But the real piece de resistance was the bridal gown ordered last March from your catalog for her June 21st wedding."

"I want to commend you for offering a very inexpensive gown and veil, which she wore with all the aplomb of a royal princess." The photographs confirmed the proud mother's appraisal.

Groom's attendants . . .

Part of wedding day tradition

Long ago, when a young man fell in love, he didn't stand on ceremony—he just stole into the girl's house and kidnapped her! But he played it safe by bringing along a strong-armed friend to deal with any pursuers.

If his lady love had more than one brother, he brought along several stalwart friends. Hence, the tradition of a "best man" and "ushers" was born.

Nowadays, the best man and ushers perform equally important—if less dramatic—functions.

Aside from getting the groom to the church on time (properly, one quarter hour in advance of the ceremony), his attendants perform such tasks as seating the bride's and bridegroom's family and friends, having the clergyman's or judge's fee and the marriage license ready at the appropriate time, and acting as toastmaster at the bridal table—paying special attention to the bride's attendants.

As an expression of his gratitude for their help, the groom traditionally presents the best man and ushers with commemorative gifts.

How to create a unique ceremony

To turn your wedding ceremony into an occasion that says "you," Bride's magazine offers some memorable ideas for personalizing your special day.

As the guests arrive, set the mood with a unique musical prelude of popular songs or classics that you both have chosen.

Greet your groom at the altar with a boutonniere from your own bouquet. (Your florist can wire it in specially.) Slip the boutonniere into your groom's lapel after your father has escorted you to your place.

Also, before the saying of your vows, have the people close to you perform readings.

Brothers, sisters, or attendants might speak on aspects of marriage which they feel are important—friends and family, for instance—or offer Bible passages.

Traditional vows are beautiful. However, words you've written yourselves may hold special meaning.

Get inspiration on what to say to one another from poems or love songs, or see your minister, priest, or rabbi—he or she is often the best source of ideas.

After you have become husband and wife, spend a few minutes alone together, either in a quiet corner of the church or in the car on the way to the reception.

You'll want a peaceful moment to reflect on your new married life before all your guests surround you with their good wishes.

When widows exclaim loudly against second marriages, I would always lay a wager, that the man, if not the wedding-day, is absolutely fixed on.

Skillful homemaking keeps house beautiful

After the honeymoon, every new bride is anxious to turn her new abode into a home she and her husband can be proud of.

The multiple tasks involved in keeping house may seem overwhelming, even for the most ambitious bride, but there are ways to simplify the job. These hints can help:

- Develop a schedule and stick to it. The secret to getting chores done quickly and efficiently is organization. If you can't fit everything into a weekly schedule, rotate the jobs, so that everything gets done in due time.

- Pay particular attention to the kitchen and bathroom. These rooms reflect the cleanliness of your entire household so, when they look good, people aren't as likely to notice if other rooms are not in perfect order.

Routinely load the dishwasher.

- Remember, cleaning alone does not a homemaker make. Cook some simple but delicious meal such as lasagne from scratch.

Make it in quantities large enough to freeze for additional meals. Then, when company drops in unexpectedly, you can offer invitations to dinner on the spur of the moment.

- Show-off your ingenuity. Little touches count and leave big impressions. Moisten a cotton swab with spray cleaner to clean out difficult-to-remove soil that builds under telephone dials.

Fill a glass jar with dry rose petals to use as a constant air-freshener in bathrooms; stir occasionally to revive scent.

Make decorating that first home fun

Decorating your first home together can be both challenging and fun!

Most newlyweds need almost everything new to start their life together. One of the most frequently asked questions is, "Where do we begin?" The design experts at JCPenney tell us to start by looking at different styles, from traditional and Early American to contemporary.

You can do this by shopping stores and looking at home furnishing magazines. Keep a file of the things you both like. Make a list of your basic needs, such as sleeping, seating, eating and storage. Then consider some of grandma's attic finds to mix in.

For the bedroom, start with a mattress and boxspring. Buy the best you can afford, because you spend one-third of your life sleeping. And remember, mattresses should be replaced every 10 years.

Next, decide if you want a metal bed frame or platform bed. Your style decision will greatly influence your purchase.

The fun begins when you select your sheets. You can create a totally coordinated bedroom and bath with today's new and exciting patterns.

Many things can be done with sheets, such as covering a screen or a lampshade. Try sheets on the walls for the real decorator look.

Decorating with sheets is an inexpensive way to create a total custom room. For instance, a twin flat sheet is equivalent to five yards of a 36" width fabric.

Use paint to personalize a first home

A married couple's first house or apartment is one they'll remember for the rest of their lives—especially if they've decorated it to suit their lifestyle.

Most newlyweds are budget-conscious, but with the creative use of paint a couple can personalize their home economically.

The National Paint and Coatings Association offers these paint styling suggestions to make that first home a memorable place:

- Bright colors can do wonders to turn a room from drab to dramatic! Try a romantic mauve in the bedroom or an appetizing salmon in the kitchen.

- An imaginative technique, such as stenciling, will make any room unique. For a country look in a den, furnish it with early American furniture and install chair rail molding. Paint the wall above the chair rail a light color, perhaps an oyster white.

STENCILING is one of the many ways to personalize a first home with paint.

After that section is dry, paint the molding and the wall below it in a darker color such as slate blue. The finishing touch is a stenciled border on the top half of the wall in the dark color.

- Many first homes are small on space, so use light colors to create an airy feeling. If off-white walls seem too ordinary, why not use a textured paint for added interest.

- Since marriages often bring together a hodgepodge of mismatched furniture, pull the pieces—and the room—together with one color paint or stain.

CONTRIBUTION to his favorite charity, cystic fibrosis, is received by Bobby Orr from Mimmo D'Arcangelo, venerable of the Quincy Sons of Italy.

Bobby Orr: Fighting, Brawling Mean Serious Trouble For Hockey

By TOM HENSHAW

Bobby Orr, the former Boston Bruins great, says he feels that fighting and brawling in hockey must give way to skating and good clean checking "or we're going to be in serious trouble."

Orr, who is now a hockey goodwill ambassador for Standard Brands, spoke at the annual sports night of the Quincy Sons of Italy, at which the Quincy Bantam A team, sponsored by the Sons, was honored.

"I believe the majority of hockey fans today are just sick and tired of the long delays and the bench clearings," he said. "They want to see hockey. They want to see good contact."

"Johnny Bucyk wasn't a goon and Johnny Bucyk never fought but he hit players harder than anybody I've ever seen and that's what the fans want to see, good clean checking."

"I think the National Hockey League is trying hard and doing a pretty good job of cleaning up their game but some things that are happening in the NHL are still hurting hockey."

"I'm very, very concerned about the future of hockey."

Orr said that in his travels around the United States and Canada giving clinics for young hockey players, he has seen a number of things that have bothered him at the minor (youth) hockey level.

"I have observed some coaches and parents chasing referees after games," he said. "I've seen some coaches actually punching them."

"I've observed parents fighting in the stands, cursing, screaming and yelling like fools — and we adults are the ones who are supposed to be setting an example for our youngsters."

"We've all seen the bigger, stronger, more talented players running over those who aren't quite as good or as strong and in many cases the officials doing nothing about it."

"We've all seen it in baseball, soccer, hockey, all the sports, and that's not the way minor sports should be run."

"What frightens me is that we're chasing these youngsters away from hockey and turning them off on sports altogether. Why can't we allow these youngsters to pursue excellence the proper way?"

During a long question and answer period Orr fielded queries from some 400 adults and youngsters who jammed the Sons of Italy Social Center on Quarry St., and made these points:

- Bruins goalie Jim Craig isn't helping himself by his refusal to be sent to the minors. "He's not playing. You can practice all you want but you've got to get into game conditions."

- Bobby Carpenter, the St. John's Prep star who was featured on the cover of Sports Illustrated, is a talented hockey player who has a chance to make the big jump from high school into the pros.

"But I hope Bobby Carpenter goes to college. There's a lot of money there but he's only 17 years old and he's got lots of time to make money."

- "Hockey is expensive to watch. The problem is the salaries. But salaries are coming down and right now I can't see any reason why the owners are going to up the prices."

- "I don't think there's anything wrong with ladies playing hockey and I don't think there's anything wrong with them playing on a boys' team if they're good enough."

- "Would I like to coach in the NHL? No way. I like to work with players at practice but behind the bench, no. I don't think I could handle it. I would be a terrible coach."

- "I tried to take my son, Darren, to a hockey game and he didn't like going. I asked him, 'Darren, why don't you like hockey?' He said, 'I don't like it because of what happened to you.'"

"My son does not remember me playing but he remembers me coming home with a cast and crutches. It doesn't bother me that he doesn't like hockey but it bothers me that he associates injury with it."

Nevertheless, he said, he still buys skates for Darren.

"His feet keep growing and I keep getting him new ones," said Bobby Orr wistfully.

Six hockey sticks, autographed by Orr, and a picture of him scoring the winning goal in the 1970 Stanley Cup playoffs were given to lucky ticket holders.

Venerable Mimmo D'Arcangelo presented Orr with a check for his favorite charity, cystic fibrosis, and Venerable-elect John Marella, chairman of the sports night, gave him a plaque commemorating the night.

Orr in turn presented most valuable player awards to Dan Shea and Scott Messina of the Bantam A team and members of the team were introduced to the audience.

Team members are Sean Aruda, Brian Chase, Jim Clary, Master of ceremonies was Henry Bosworth, a lodge member and publisher of The Quincy Sun.

Other head table guests included Agrippino Rocuzzon, who welcomed Orr on behalf of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin; Sebastian Papagno grand orator; and Mario Salvatore, chairman of the Lodge Board.

A one-mile fun run will be held for boys and girls 11 and under inside the stadium.

Registration fee for the road race is $3.00 pre-entry, deadline March 25, and $4.00 post-entry.

Registration fee for the fun run is $1.00.

Trophies and other prizes will be available to top finishers in 14 age categories.

Last year nearly 200 runners took part with Bobby Levenson of

Entries can be obtained by contacting Stuart Coull, 239 Billings Road, Quincy, 02170 (tel. 328-7329).

Proceeds will be used to fund the various activities the club puts on for more than 500 boys and girls in the club.

Watts, Runge, MacDonald Suburban All-Stars

Julie Watts and Jo Ann Runge of North Quincy and Nancy MacDonald of Quincy were named to the Suburban League girls All-Star basketball team.

Three QTC runners did well in the recent fourth annual half-marathon staged by the Greater New Bedford Track Club.

Coach Jeff Hennessy ran his best time, finishing 125th in a field of more than 1000 runners in 1:26:00. Harry Morash ran 1:28:17 (he is only 12) and 15-year-old Kevin Dunn ran 1:35:04.

Watts, a senior center who, with Runge, led the Raiderettes to their first Eastern Mass. tournament ever, was a tri-captain and was also selected last year as a junior. She led the team in scoring, averaging 14.5 points a game, had 10 rebounds a game and blocked 36 shots during the season.

Runge, a junior forward, averaged more than 10 points a game while leading the team in assists with 32 and steals with 52.

MacDonald was Quincy's top scorer and the number three scorer in the league as she sparked the First Ladies to their first tournament berth since the 1972-73 season and two tournament wins. She averaged better than 17 points a game and also played out-standing defense.

All three girls played well in the recent league All-Star game in Cambridge.

Senior Basketball Beechwood Knoll Defeats Sterling For City Crown

The Quincy Recreation Department All-City Senior Basketball champion is Beechwood Knoll, which captured the crown recently by defeating Sterling, 59-45, in a well played championship game at Broad Meadows.

Beechwood Knoll was paced by Ken Mann's 17 points and Jim Sullivan's 14. Sterling's Chuck Silvia matched Mann's total of 17, while Tony Chicco matched Sullivan with 14 points. Jamie Walsh of Beechwood Knoll had 10 key points, while Scott Anson chipped in with six for Sterling.

The teams were separated by one point after three periods, but Beechwood Knoll pulled away on some clutch defense by Tom MacFarland and Joe Phelan, while Bill DiCarli chipped in with some strong outside shooting.

Sterling coach Bob Noble had praise for his floor leader, Eddie Starr, and Ken Gustin for his all around defensive effort.

Beechwood Knoll Coach Bob Evans was quick to point out his total team performance, but had special words for Dan Marster's performance in the clutch and John Klingerstein who matched up well with key Sterling scorers. He also singled out Steve Kavanaugh for his performance throughout the tournament that brought Beech to the finals.

Both Sterling and Beechwood Knoll finished the seven week season tied for first with 6-1 records.

Recreation Director Charles Alongi awarded trophies to the championship Beechwood Knoll team and certificates to runnerup Sterling.

Oustanding Track Season

For North Girls, It Was A Very Good Year

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team recently completed another outstanding season, winning the state Class A championship, the state relays Class B title and the Suburban League championship for the second year in a row and going unbeaten (10-0) for the second straight season.

Coach Lou Tozzi's young team, stocked with underclassmen, set a number of school and meet records.

The mile relay team of Karen Lindenfelzer, Deirdre Donovan, Nancy McLaughlin and Mary Kate Kennedy set a state relays record of 3:56.8, the 14th fastest time in the country, set a Suburban League record of 4:08 and the state Class A record of 4:00.6 and won the state coaches meet in 4:02.

The sprint medley relay team of Mary Crehan, Lindenfelzer, Donovan and Mary Kate Kennedy set the state relays record of 4:10.9, the second fastest time in the country.

The two-mile relay team of Nancy McCarthy, Linda Kennedy, Robyn O'Donnell and Sheila Barrett won the state relays and the team of McCarthy, Barrett, Donovan and Mary Crehan took third place in the Eastern States Invitational Meet.

The team placed in seven events in the Mass. State Coaches Meet in January, the most in the meet's history.

Individually, freshman Marie McGurl took third place in the league meet, sixth in the state relays 880 and fifth in the state relays hurdles relay.

Sophomore Mary Gannon was sixth in the state relays 880, junior Siobhan Corrigan fifth in the state relays shuttle hurdles, senior Loretta Garrigan fifth in the state relays shuttle hurdles and senior Mary Crehan second in the league meet 1000 and fourth in the state coaches meet 1000.

Junior Mary Kate Kennedy was third in the state coaches meet 300, second in the league meet 300, set a league record of 44.1 in the 300 meters and was third in the state meet 300, setting a school record of 36.9.

Sophomore Linda Kennedy was fifth in the state coaches meet 2-mile, second in the league meet 2-mile and fifth in the state meet in 11:19.5, second fastest ever at North Quincy.

Junior Kathy McCarthy was fifth in the state relays 800.

Junior Michelle Millane was unbeaten throughout the season, in Mass. competition, winning the state meet, the state coaches meet (41-3/4) and the league meet. She placed fourth in the Eastern States Invitational.

Sophomore Sheila Barrett was second in the league meet mile and fourth in the state two-mile, setting a school record of 11:18.1.

Senior Robyn O'Donnell was fourth in the league meet mile and junior Deirdre Donovan won the league meet 600.

Junior Kara Crehan won the state coaches meet high jump at 5-5, was second in the league meet, fifth in the state relays shuttle hurdles, set the league record of 5-5, won the state title with a record leap of 5-6 1/2 and placed third in the Eastern States Invitational at 5-6.

Junior Nancy McCarthy won the state meet 600 in 1:24.8, a new Class A record and new school record, was second in the league meet and sixth in the state coaches meet.

"We are very proud of these young people for their sensational season," Tozzi said. "Their motto was 'Aim for the top' and they made it. It was an enjoyable group of very motivated athletes to work with. Deserving of a lot of credit for their success are my assistants, George Liset and Bart Petracca, and the Quincy Track Club."

Montclair City Champs

Jerry Pratt's Montclair team finally captured the Quincy Recreation Department's all-city basketball championship last week with a 33-27 victory over Central in the title game at Atlantic Junior High School.

For the past four years Pratt has led his team through the single elimination tournament to play in the finals and each time Central, coached by Brian Buckley, grabbed the title.

Steve Manning of Montclair led the scoring with 14 points, followed by Bill Bilton with seven, John Comeau with five, John Ennis with three, Sean Downing and Chris Gray with two each. Louis Morales and Mark Bilton also played.

For Central Dave Mangell had 10 points, George Burke six, Al Martel five, Dean O'Malley four and Tim Reardon two. Also playing were Paul Marsters, John Christiani, Joe Doherty, Dan Morris, Eric Pulsifer, Jim Sturgeon, Joe Bombach and Andy Lenhardt.

Recreation Director Charles Alongi presented trophies to the winners and certificates to the losers.

The tournament featured 11 teams from recreation centers throughout the city and more than 150 boys participated.

Broad Meadows Girls Edge Central For Crown

The Broad Meadows Junior High girls' varsity basketball team edged Central, 24-22, last week to finish with an 11-1 record and the city championship.

Cindy Morrell scored 10 points to lead BM to its title-clinching win.

Morrell and Michele Miller led the team in scoring. Also playing outstanding ball were Karen Cullen, Susan Bevan, Karla Robertson, Chris Donovan, Renee Ryan, Diane Hollar and Cheryl

The BM junior varsity was defeated by Central, 33-10, finishing with an 8-4 record.

Nancy McDonald, Denise Loud, Susan McDonald, Laurie Anson and Karen Hurley were BM's top players and also contributing were Chris Keddy, Chris McCloskey, Lynne Light, Joan Connolly, Nancy Connolly, Kathy Thornton, Mary Thornton, Colleen Craig, Michelle Carmody and Suzanne Scola.

QHS Hockey Boosters Banquet Friday

The Quincy High School Hockey Boosters Club will hold its annual banquet Friday at 7 p.m. at Montello's.

Ace Abbaud is president of the Boosters Club. Pat Quigg is vice president, John Baylis vice president, Pam Craig treasurer and Maureen Bamberg secretary.

The Quincy players, coaches and cheerleaders will be honored at the banquet.

Invited guests will include

Mayor and Mrs. Arthur Tobin, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Principal and Mrs. Lloyd Hill, Athletic Coordinator and Mrs. Carl Leone, Faculty Manager and Mrs. William Hutchinson, Coach and Mrs.

Robert Sylvia, Junior Varsity Coach and Mrs. Jack Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Hannon, Mr. and Mrs. James Deitsch, Robert Troup, John Furey, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCabe and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCardle.

Quincy Squirts Bs Edge S. Boston For State Title

Quincy's Squirts B hockey team made a tremendous comeback last Sunday to edge South Boston, 5-4, in Worcester II Championship.

Quincy had defeated Medfield, Weymouth and Braintree to win the District 3 crown and qualify for the state tournament.

In Worcester Quincy defeated Stoneham, 4-0, last Friday, walloped Framingham, 9-1, Saturday morning; rolled over Gardner, 9-1, Saturday afternoon, and topped Arlington, 5-3, Sunday morning to move into the title game.

South Boston jumped off to a 3-

0 first period lead but Quincy came storming back with second period goals by Rich Golden and Tony Pecce. With just 5:15 left in the game Mike McClory tied it for Quincy with an unassisted goal only to have Southie come back to take a 4-3 lead.

Pecce, who had an outstanding tournament, tied the score again with a goal set up by Hank Miller with 1:06 remaining.

Just when everyone in the jam-packed Worcester Arena was expecting the game to go into overtime, Miller intercepted an errant South Boston pass at his own blue line and, with three S.B. players in hot pursuit, skated the length of the ice to score the winner with only 38 seconds left on the clock.

● Bantam House

Burgin Holds Lead, Baskin Moves Up

Burgin Platter continues to hold on to its one-point lead in the Bantam House League and Baskin Robbins has moved into a second place tie with Doran & Horrigan. Johnson Motor upset Burgin, 4-0, on goals by Ed McArdu, Joe Mastroianni, Ed Boyle and Jeff Murphy. Mastroianni, Tim McCarthy and Tom Ryan had assists.

McGinn Shell edged Doran, 4-3, with Mark Chambers having two goals and Chris Croke and Jeff Burn one each. Sean McGinn had two assists and Chambers, Bobby David, Casey, Scott Mosher, Bill Connolly and McGinn one each. Colin Powers, Rich Fitzpatrick and A. J. Pugliese scored for Doran and Tom Bille having two assists and Dan Hall one.

Baskin topped the Quincy Sun, 8-2, with Gerry Layden having a hat trick, John Gleba two goals and Brian Wilk, John Kelly and Bob Forman one each. Gleba had three assists, Forman two and Glenn Hermanson, Jon Ferrara, Ted Hohman, Mike Goslin, Jon Sheehan, Mark Walsh and John Kelly one each. For the Sun John Nee and Ricky Sullivan had the goals and Paul Belanger had two assists and Frank Mortell and Bob D'Antonna one each.

In the Bantam House jamboree being held at the Youth Arena and the new rink at UMass-Boston, Johnson and Burgin will meet Friday, March 27, at 9 p.m. at the Youth Arena.

● Mite-Squirt House

Balducci's Ties Feeney's Harold Edges Teachers

Feeney's Devils hold a four-point lead over Quincy Teachers in the Mite-Squirt House League and the Harold Club is one point behind Teachers.

Feeney's and Balducci tied, 4-4, with Joey Fasano having two goals for Feeney's and Scott O'Connell and Matt Smith one each. Jim Ferrara, Brian Mantville, Scott McClory, Kim Hartford, Tim Collins and Mark Rudinsky had assists. For Balducci Kevin Daly had two goals and Joe Jackson and Charlie Quigley one each.

Harold edged Teachers, 3-2, with Bob Miller having two goals and Rich McDonald one. Brian Kelly had two assists and McDonald and Mike Baylis one each. Tom Gleason and Bill Dineen scored for Teachers with assists for Joe Hajjar and Jason Radzevich.

BoCar topped Lydon Russell, 8-5, with Jon Witham, Arthur Cangemi, Brian Backman, Walsh, Mike Witham, Bill Frazer, Dave Nogler and Moriarty scoring for BoCar. McMillan had three assists and Moriarty, Greg Hohman, Frazer, Mike Witham, Walsh, Tom Morrell, Backman and Kelly Morris one each.

Ron Last had two goals for Lydon and Sarah Harrington, Kevin Lynch and Marilyn Roman one each. Jeff Connor had three assists, Carrie Hughes two and Roman, Jim McCarthy, Last and Bill Lydon one each.

THE TAX CLINIC CHALLENGE

Bring us your completed tax return.

We'll review it FREE

If we can't find a way to save you money, there'll be no fee for this service.

And if we do save you money, you pay just our regular, reasonable fee.

Our fee is not based on how much we save you, but only on the complexity of your return - so the simpler your return, the lower the fee.

HOW CAN WE MAKE THIS UNPRECEDENTED OFFER?

It's simple. The tax laws are incredibly complicated, the forms amazingly intricate, and the instructions confusing and incomplete. At THE TAX CLINIC your return will be reviewed by an experienced tax consultant or attorney who know the tax laws inside and out. We take the time to work with you to legitimately minimize your tax. And our entire staff is available year round to serve you.

- It doesn't matter who prepared your return - yourself, a friend, or amateur or professional. Our challenge still stands.
- If you've already mailed your return no problem. We'll still be able to save you money, by filing an amended return.
- No appointment is necessary. But you must hurry. This special offer expires Sunday March 29, 1981.

WEEK OF MARCH 19

AQUARIUS — January 21–February 19

A hectic Friday is followed by bustling weekend, with accent on buying Monday's bright spot is announcement of relative's good fortune. Personal success is spotlighted Tuesday.

PISCES — February 20–March 20

It's a long week that is, a week crammed with activities from designing to investigating. Organization is current key. Spend needed time outlining plans and delegating tasks.

ARIES — March 21–April 20

Misups and tie ups are accented Thursday–Friday, but weekend is generally blissful. Possible conflict Monday with money manager. Housemate is supportive throughout the week.

TAURUS — April 21–May 22

Popularity in family and community is at high point. Try to collect all the facts before you accept an assignment that involves travel; there may be some strings attached.

GEMINI — May 23–June 21

Financial and career fields have ups and downs, but you end this period on a personally "up" note. Casual acquaintances may press too hard for favors. Popularity is at peak.

CANCER — June 22–July 22

Family is supportive and friends show appreciation in strange ways. Week has a sense of nostalgia, it's a good time to revive an interest in former favorite pastime.

LEO — July 23–August 22

Everything is "relatives" right now, prepare for family reunions, family fun, family feuds. A good week for entering contests of skill – not chance. Weekend detours bring discoveries.

VIRGO — August 23–September 22

Favors are returned and higherups are supportive, you could be stepping into the political arena now. An openminded friend or work becomes conservative – even prudish.

LIBRA — September 23–October 22

A week of distractions and happy announcements. Radical change in your outlook could start as you reflect on importance of material success. In romance, act from the heart.

SCORPIO — October 23–November 21

An antagonistic acquaintance becomes much more mellow. Appointments are surprisingly difficult to arrange now and a looked forward to event may once again be postponed.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22–December 22

Accent is on recreation and the outdoors. A friend can be brutally frank at this time but you mustn't try to beat him at his own game. Pets figure into weekend picture.

CAPRICORN — December 23–January 20

Keep in touch with old acquaintances and think about arranging introductions among favorite friends. Some trips may be planned for you – you're among the last to find out.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're extremely open, extremely frank – and these traits summarize your strengths and weaknesses. Travel is accented through spring and summer and should satisfy your great love for variety. Shift in priorities can start next month.

BORN THIS WEEK

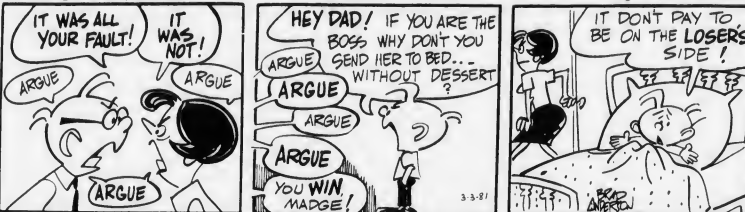

March 19th, actor Patrick McGeehan; 20th, actor Hal Linden; 21st, actor James Coco; 22nd, actor William Shatner; 23rd, actress Joan Crawford; 24th, actor Norman Fell; 25th, singer Aretha Franklin.

Keenan's team captured the first half of season competition but has been unable to move out of last place since the second half began.

McCauley Sewer Compromise

government would provide 90 per cent of the money to update the city's antiquated sewer system, some of which dates back to 1895.

"I don't think separate bonding power is needed," he said.

The city's bonding power is considered to be limited under Prop 2½ since money to repay the bonds is part of the tax levy and financial institutions are reluctant to lend money when the ability to repay is limited in such a way.

"It is not possible that the banks are going to deny loans to the cities and towns for very long," said McCauley. "It won't continue forever. I don't accept that as a problem."

The Council refused Monday night to accept Tobin's Water and Sewer Commission plan, even though acceptance was tied in with the preservation of 160 to 200 city jobs which would be lost if the Sewer Department had to go on the budget for fiscal 1982.

Tobin submitted the budget to the Council Feb. 11 with the City Hospital, the Junior College and the Water and Sewer Departments left out on the assumption that the Council would make them independent enterprise accounts.

The vote, which was 5-3 with Councilor James A. Sheets absent, was hardly unexpected since the Finance Committee, composed of the Council as a whole, had previously voted it down by a 5-4 margin.

Council objections were that the plan would create a new bureaucracy open to patronage; it would be insulated from the checks and balances of city government; and it could lead to much higher costs in water and sewage service for Quincy homeowners.

One by one the councilors rose to take shots for or against the Tobin proposal.

McCauley (a no vote). - "There is absolutely no public support for this commission because the people perceive it for what it is to be — the creation of an additional layer of bureaucracy that will be far more expensive than the present method.

"The mayor is trying to solve one problem by creating another problem. I don't want to see anybody laid off but even city employees who may be affected see through the proposal for what it is. It's a bummer."

Councilor John J. Quinn (a yes vote). - "I do not support the reduction of one man in the fire department or the police department. Those who will be voting against the sewer and water commission will be voting against the Police and Fire Departments and other city employees.

"I don't want to be part of closing up the Germantown Fire Station, the Squantum Fire Station, or the library, or the removal of the fire ladder from the West Quincy Fire Station and many of the other programs.

"Mr. McCauley's main reason for voting against the commission is that he does not wish to establish another bureaucracy under the mayor. I might draw to his attention that he is running for mayor and if he has confidence of achieving that position it would be his water and sewer commission."

Councilor Joseph J. LaRaia (a no vote). - "This is one of the worst bills that I've had to consider as a city councillor. It sets up a separate insulated agency of government accountable to no one, not even the city of Quincy.

"I have called it a guaranteed retirement plan for the mayor and his political friends. This is the primary motive of the Water and Sewer Commission. I can read through this and I'm glad there are four other councilors here who can also."

"What made it abominable is the fact that they used city employees, who are now threatened with their positions; they used them as intimidation, saying 'if you don't do this then we're going to lay off all these people.'"

Councilor Daniel G. Raymond (a yes vote). - "When Councilor LaRaia talks about a guaranteed retirement plan he is absolutely correct. About 200 to 300 dedicated city workers are going to be retired because of this City Council vote.

"There are only three alternatives that I can see. We can vote for this package. We can vote for a sewer user charge. Or there will be a wholesale laying off of people.

"If there are no votes for the commission and there are no votes for the sewer user charge — we have rejected that already — then the third one we won't have to vote on because the chief executive is going to do it himself."

Councilor Joanne Condon (a no vote). - "We are faced with a budget with no Sewer Department in it. How did the mayor expect the city to run without a Sewer Department? The alternatives are that we have no Sewer Department, which makes no sense, or we lay off people.

"Who put us in that position? Who made that decision? Certainly not the City Council. The mayor did. He also said here's a way to fund it. He almost said you have to fund it this way or you'll be responsible for laying people off.

"I have heard over and over again that the Squantum Fire Station, the North Quincy branch library and just about everything else in North Quincy will be shut down if I do not vote for this legislative package.

"I suggest we blame the person responsible for the budget, which is not the City Council but the mayor, the person who brought it to us with no choice but a mandate that we are not going to take."

Councilor John J. Lydon Jr. (a no vote). - "This is the only municipality in the state now in the process of reviewing a budget. I ask you why? The budget this year is being used as a tool.

"There are bills in the legislature to revise Proposition 2½ that have not even yet been discussed in committee. And we have the budget before us. It's crazy. And there are layoff notices going out. It's crazy. We don't even know what the figures are.

"I don't intend to have a budget forced down my throat by being threatened, if you don't do this, this is what is going to be happening."

Councilor Stephen J. McGrath (a no vote). - "There are alternative ways. A sewer user charge will save jobs. A segregation of charges in an account will permit bonding. This has been told to me by the attorney for Palmer Dodge, the city's bond counsel.

"The legislature has been holding hearings on proposals for

2½. To lock ourselves in to this bureaucracy, this monster, in March when we don't know how the legislature is going to act, if at all, in May or June would be wrong.

"We ought to put the heat on the legislature to make 2½ a workable thing by removing bonded indebtedness. That would go a long way toward solving the city's difficulties."

HN Man Charged After Drive Over Seawall

David E. Smith, 20, of Houghs Neck escaped serious injury early Sunday when the car he was driving somehow leaped over the seawall between Sea St. and Quincy Bay.

Police arrested Smith, a resident of 11 Orleans St., and charged him with operating as to endanger, operating under the influence and operating a motor vehicle without authority.

Smith pleaded innocent on all counts Monday before Judge Edward Viola. He was released on his own recognizance and the case continued to April 16.

The accident occurred at about 2 a.m. Sunday opposite 801 Sea St., near Peterson Rd. Smith was helped from the car, in waist-deep water, by two passersby, James Wynn, 21, and his brother Shaun Wynn, 16, of 20 Peterson Rd.

Police said the car belonged to Cadillac City, a Cambridge rental firm.

Smith was treated and released at Quincy City Hospital for slight lacerations.

New Boundaries Drawn For Elementary Schools

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

The School Department has drawn up proposed boundaries for the remaining 13 elementary schools, due to the closing of five schools this spring.

The new boundary plan was presented to the School Committee last week by Wilfred Nolan, director of elementary education. The committee has not yet approved the plan.

Besides assigning students from closed schools to new ones, the plan also makes slight changes in boundaries between existing schools. For example, the boundary between the Atherton Hough and Merrymount schools would be moved to a point midway between them. This changes six streets from the Merrymount to the Atherton Hough district.

Nolan noted the following points in relation to the plan:

- No child will be moved from existing school because of the new boundaries. The new plan applies only to incoming kindergarten students and families moving into a district.

- "However," said Nolan, "if a child living in a changed district wishes to start in that new school in September, we should have no problem in accommodating such a request."

- And, he noted, the school system's open enrollment policy remains in effect. This states that parents may send their children to any elementary in the city, space permitting.

"We have never refused an 'open enrollment' request," said Nolan, "although we might have a problem at a few locations this fall."

Proposed changes in next year's district are:

The boundary between the Atherton Hough and Merrymount will be moved north from Hibbard St. to Shelton Rd. This moves Mead, Lee, Kilby, Jewett, and Ingram Streets and Shoreside Ave. from the Merrymount to Atherton Hough districts.

The Furnace Brook School will absorb all of the Cranch district plus, the following streets from the Gridley Bryant district: Connell, White, Cliff, Campbell, Shirley, and Kimball Sts. and Whitman Rd.

However, 33 parents in the Cranch district have asked that their children attend the Lincoln Hancock School, instead of Furnace Brook. Bus transportation will be provided for that group, Nolan said.

Also, five streets will be moved from the Furnace Brook to the Merrymount district. They are Armory, Parkman, Marginal, and Hudson Streets and Butler Rd., all located on the far side of Hancock St. from the Furnace Brook School.

The Lincoln Hancock School will absorb all of the Adams School district, except for a small portion on the opposite side of Quincy Ave. Those students would attend the Webster School.

The Massachusetts Fields School will absorb all of the Beechwood Knoll district.

The Massachusetts Fields' northern border will become Vassall St., moving Cummings Ave., Royal, Freeman and Tyler Streets and Rawson Rd. to the Parker School district.

The Parker School district would be expanded south to Vassall St. and north to Billings St. to assume a portion of the Quincy School district.

The Snug Harbor district would be expanded north to Sea St., taking in Utica St. and Braintree, Riverside and Delano Avenues.

The Squantum School would pick up the portion of the Quincy School district north of Billings St.

The Willard School would pick up all of the Gridley Bryant School district west of Quarry St.

The Wollaston School district would expand across Adams St., taking the following streets from the Gridley Bryant district: Robertson, Siedman, Ellis, Ballou, Seymour and Wallace Streets and Sunnyside Rd. The approximately 36 students on those streets would be bused to the Wollaston School.

The Montclair, Pollard and Webster school districts would remain unchanged.

The projected fall enrollments for each of the remaining 13 schools and their capacities in parentheses are:

Atherton Hough, enrollment 420, (capacity 450); Furnace Brook 315 (325); Lincoln Hancock 510 (600); Mass Fields 450 (475); Merrymount 350 (375); Montclair 410 (500); Parker 340 (450); Pollard 300 (400); Snug Harbor 450 (750); Squantum 490 (500); Webster 300 (total capacity, with Quincy Point Junior High, 1050); Willard 320 (400) and Wollaston 310 (425).

Hospital Staff Head Hails Tobin's Actions

By TOM HENSHAW

The president of the medical staff at City Hospital has come out with a ringing endorsement of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's handling of the hospital, including his appointment to the Board of Managers.

Dr. Elliott Schiffman was irked by an editorial in the Patriot Ledger that accused Tobin of "political interference from City Hall in hospital matters" by replacing John J. Cheney Jr. with Charles L. Shea on the board.

"No one had done more than Mayor Tobin to depoliticize the Quincy City Hospital," said Dr. Schiffman in a letter to the Ledger.

"For the first time since I have been on the hospital staff, hiring and firing is based upon qualifications with no mandates or restrictions from City Hall.

"During that time his new appointments to the board have added strength, diversity and expertise. It is a better board now than when I started."

Meanwhile, the board reached a deadlock Monday night in its efforts to select a chairman to replace Cheney, whose appointment expired in January.

Richard W. Corner, a Tobin appointee, received four of the five votes needed for election with a ninth member of the board, Simon C. Fireman, absent.

The votes in Corner's corner were his own and those of Shea, the Rev. Peter V. Corea and Atty. Lawrence F. O'Donnell, all Tobin appointees.

Voting against Corner were Mildred Trout, also a Tobin appointee, and David B. MacIntosh, Leslie M. Brierly and Vice Chairman Ruth Janus, who will continue as chairman until a new one is chosen.

And the issue of a revolving account for the Hospital to take it off the tax levy, which was killed by the City Council 5-3 March 16, appeared to be beyond revival.

None of the five councillors who voted against it, as amended in the Finance Committee, appeared to be ready to move for reconsideration, the necessary step to keep it alive.

"I am 100 per cent for the revolving account at the Hospital, but without the politics attached," said Council President Leo J. Kelly, one of the no votes.

"The amendments don't take politics out, they put more in."

The amendments, added to Tobin's original hospital proposal in the Finance Committee, would give the Council more input in hospital affairs, including a say in appointments to the Board of Managers.

Kelly noted that two hospital

Fire Dept. Layoffs Dispute Heats Up

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

The dispute over pending layoffs in the Fire Department spread to the streets, the courts and the pages of local newspapers this week.

Firefighters picketed City Hall Monday and Tuesday, amid honking of horns and waving of signs, to cap off their three-week petition drive opposing the layoff or demotion of 17 men.

Union leaders said they would go to Norfolk County Superior Court, Dedham, today (Thursday) to seek an injunction blocking the layoffs and demotions, scheduled to take place Friday.

And, both the union and Mayor Arthur Tobin placed newspaper advertisements this week giving their side of the issue. The Quincy Firefighters Association claimed the cutbacks were hitting their department unfairly and would endanger the city.

Tobin, on the other hand, accused the union-sponsored ads of "distorting the facts."

Tobin seeks to reduce the Fire Department by 29 men. Only 11 men will lose jobs, however, as 18 positions, vacated by attrition, will be left unfilled. Also, one deputy will be demoted to captain and five lieutenants to firefighters.

Of the 29 positions to be eliminated either through layoffs or attrition, Tobin said, eight are chauffeurs to the chief or deputy chiefs. Two are clerks in the fire prevention department, four answer phones and the remainder are assigned to Engine B, the second headquarters company, Tobin said.

"So we're really talking about laying off 11 firefighters," said Tobin. "That's 3.3 percent of the layoffs that will take place throughout the city. Are the firefighters telling that to the people of the city?"

About 98 percent of the Quincy residents asked to sign a petition opposing the cutbacks have done so, according to Quincy Firefighters Association President George Lamb.

About 25 firefighters paraded in front of City Hall for most of the morning, carrying such signs as, "Fire Kills, We Save," "Cut Fat, Not Fire Safety," "In Case of Fire, Call The Mayor" and "17 Firefighters in March, Arthur In November."

Firefighters also distributed handbills with such messages as "Tell your elected officials that you insist on a first-class fire service — that you oppose penny-wise, pound-foolish gambling with your lives and property."

"We did this to bring some public attention as we cap off our petition drive," said Lamb.

Response to the petitions has been "unbelievable," he said. "Ninety-eight percent have signed it, believe it or not."

"Of the two percent that won't sign it," Lamb said, "a lot of them say they want to, but can't, because of political reasons."

Lamb was unable to give any total figure on how many residents had signed the petition so far, as names are still being collected by each individual station.

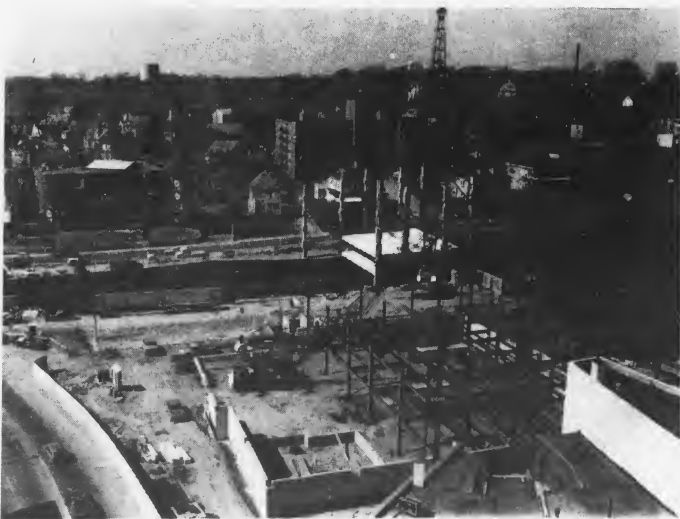

Petitions will be gathered and presented to Mayor Arthur Tobin at the end of this week, Lamb said.

"People have been great," said Lamb. "They're telling us, 'we're with you all the way.' The standard comment is, 'We voted for Proposition 2½, but no way do we want fire and police cuts.'"

"I didn't want it to happen either," said Tobin Monday.

"We decided very early in our budget deliberations that we wanted public safety to be affected least of all. We've worked hard to stick to this," said Tobin.

Kindergarten Registration

Kindergarten registration for all Quincy children who will be 5 years old before Dec. 31, 1981 will be held Tuesday, April 14, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

to 2:30 p.m. at every public elementary school in the city.

Youngsters who will be 6 years old before Dec. 31 and have not attended public kindergarten may be registered for the first grade on the same day.

Parents must present a birth certificate and evidence of immunization for DPT, polio, measles, mumps and rubella. A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized.

Appointments may be made on registration day for vision and hearing screening assessments and parent questionnaire.

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council has authorized Treasurer Robert E. Foy III to borrow another $4 million, which raises the limit for short term borrowing by the city to $44 million.

Foy told the Council that the new borrowing power may have to be exercised as early as Friday, April 3, or as late as sometime in June.

This is the first year in which the Council has set limits on such borrowing. In the past, the Council has authorized the treasurer to borrow up to the previous year's tax levy.

Foy said the city has borrowed up to the $40 million limit imposed by the Council, now owes $21 million and probably will have to borrow some $3 to $4 million before the end of the fiscal year.

But, he said, "there is a possibility that the city could run out of money by the first Friday in April. We don't want to take the chance."

Short term borrowing is done in anticipation of taxes and the notes are paid back as real estate tax money comes in. It must be paid back by July or go on next year's tax levy.

"In any other years, any deficit could be raised on next year's tax rate but this year under Proposition 2½ that is impossible," Foy told the City Council.

"The impact next year will come in jobs and not the tax rate because the tax rate is fixed and the only place you can go is to the expenses and jobs in the budget."

He urged Councilors and city employees to get after state legislators to amend Prop 2½ to enable the cities to defer some of their deficits.

"A deficit will definitely mean jobs," he said.

Foy blamed a good part of the approaching deficit on that section of Prop 2½ that reduced the maximum excise tax on motor vehicles from $66 to $25 per thousand.

"I know we will have a $1.5 to $2 million deficit in excise tax receipts," said Foy. "The hospital will have a deficit but it's hard to estimate. We will have to borrow probably $3 to $4 million before the end of the year."

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia suggested that some of the large taxpayers in Quincy might be induced to pay their taxes early to help the city out with its financial problems.

Foy noted that some large taxpayers did that a few years ago "but with the money market as it is, they haven't been inclined to turn over money until the due date."

"Not long ago," said LaRaia, "one of the biggest taxpayers was granted a windfall of almost $1 million without being contested. That company was willing to accept a check from us. I wonder if it will be willing to be helpful now."

"If these companies are really interested in Quincy, this is the time to show it."

Bank Seen Moving Into Thom McAn Store

The Thom McAn shoe store, a landmark at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. for the past 40 years, is expected to be replaced by a bank, reportedly the Old Colony Bank and Trust Co. Jean Schulenburg, manager of the Old Colony branch at 1449 Hancock St., declined to comment on the report.

"It's no secret that we're looking for a better location," she said, "but whether it is there or not I don't know. We have not made application to the banking commissioner for the change."

She said the bank is seeking the move because of "poor visibility" at the current location.

The Thom McAn site is in the 105-year-old Greenleaf Building which was recently purchased and renovated by the Ricciardi Co. of West Quincy.

Mike Federman, PR man for Thom McAn, said the shoe chain was not closing its Quincy store because business was bad but because its lease had run out and Ricciardi did not want to renew. "We've always done well here," he said. "This is one downtown area we did not want to leave."

Thom McAn has other stores at South Shore Plaza in Braintree, two in Hanover Mall and two in Brockton.

Crash Barrels To Stay At Least 60 To 90 Days

Despite neighborhood opposition, the unpopular crash barrels on Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount are staying where they are for at least 60 to 90 days, according to an MDC spokesman.

The 18 yellow fiberglass sand-filled barrels were unexpectedly installed last Wednesday by MDC crews.

Quincy Shore Drive residents had demanded safety measures on the winding, hilly section of roadway, especially in the wake of a Feb. 18 accident that killed two teenage Quincy girls.

But, Merrymount residents said last week, the 3.5-foot high barrels weren't what they had in mind.

"Either the MDC removes them, or somehow, somehow, they'll disappear by themselves," said Ted Anastasi, a Highland Rd. resident.

"They look like tank traps," said Rep. Thomas Brownell, "People down there don't want some ugly, unsightly barriers that make the place look like an expressway."

"My impression is that the commissioner (MDC Commissioner Terrence Geoghegan) responded to the pressure by doing something sensational, so he can say, 'hey, I've done something,'" said Brownell.

"I think the commissioner wants to give this a fair chance," said MDC spokesman Robert Maloney. "I think you'll see the crash barrels staying in place at least 60 to 90 days so we can study what effect they are having down there."

Meanwhile, the MDC is studying other possible safety steps for the roadway, Maloney said. They include lighted arrows at Squanto Rd., where the road narrows; additional stop lights between Furnace Brook Parkway and Sea St. and temporary curbing — concrete slabs, about three feet high, placed along portions of the roadway.

The solution requested most often by residents — new permanent curbing — would take at least a year, Maloney said.

"I don't want people to think that's something that could happen this summer," said

Maloney. "And we would want to see, first, if the barrels were working in slowing people down."

Geoghegan has already indicated his opposition to new curbing, Brownell reports.

"The commissioner objects to that," said Brownell. "He says that cars will be ricocheting off the curbing. My position is that there is no other part of Quincy Shore Drive where cars go off the roadway on a regular basis. That's because there's no curbing there."

Geoghegan also opposes another measure often cited by residents — narrowing the roadway from four lanes to two, by widening the sidewalks or installing a median strip.

"The commissioner's position is that it's a major thoroughfare, and it should remain four lanes," Brownell said.

"I was kind of in favor of a median strip," said Anastasi, "but I can understand the objections of the people who live on the road. They'd have some trouble getting out of their driveways."

Both Brownell and Anastasi objected to the surprise aspect of the barrel installation.

"They knew I objected to it, they knew the neighborhood objected to it, but they went ahead and did it anyway," said Brownell.

"They had told us — no, they promised us — they would come back and talk to us before they did anything," said Anastasi.

"And then I come home from work yesterday and my God, these things had sprouted like mushrooms."

"They're terrible — it really knocks the property values down. Maybe they'd work on the Southeast Expressway, where people are going 70 miles per hour, but not in our neighborhood," he said.

Maloney said that, as far as he knew, the crash barrels were not being used in any other residential area.

CRASH BARRELS were installed last Wednesday on Quincy Shore Drive by the MDC. By Saturday morning, three days later, one of the barrels had already been partially destroyed by an errant motorist.

Pancake House Denied All Night Hours

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Owners of the International House of Pancakes, Quincy Center, who said taxes of $22,000 were making it almost impossible for him to stay in business, received sympathy from the License Board Tuesday but not the all night hours he had requested.

The board denied the request from the establishment at 111 Washington St. for all night hours Fridays and Saturdays after hearing the objections of ward Councillor, Daniel Raymond and area residents.

Raymond said residents of the abutting apartment house, now a condominium, had been gracious about a 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday closing for the restaurant granted Oct. 16, 1979 but that this request scared them.

Raymond said Paul Morrison and his son Ronald run a good operation, but that there were potential noise problems from the parking area with the additional hours.

Many local residents have used their life savings to stay in the apartments turned condominiums said Raymond, and they don't want to move.

Sarah Snider, who lives across from the restaurant, said she was concerned people that would frequent the establishment during the extended hours would be noisy.

Paul Morrison told the board he has invested his life savings in the restaurant and that he and his son work 120 hours a week at the establishment.

He said he won't be able to stay in business in the city if there is no relief in taxes.

Raymond said the problem should be addressed by city assessors. He said all night hours were beyond what the local residents were willing to put up with.

City Clerk John Gillis said he sympathized with Morrison and the local residents. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald suggested Morrison appeal the taxes.

Fire Chief Edward Barry also agreed tax relief was the way to go, rather than increasing the hours of operation.

QJC Women's Center Workshops April 16

The Quincy Junior College Women's Center is sponsoring a series of spring workshops on parenting, personal growth and job markets starting Monday, April 6, at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

The workshops are free to anyone facing or desiring a change in lifestyle but they are particularly targeted for single parents, the handicapped, the disadvantaged and minorities.

Personal Growth I, led by Carla Goodwin, a school psychologist and drug rehabilitation counselor, will be held Mondays from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

It will include values clarification, decision-making skills, goal setting, role playing, interviewing, resume writing and interest testing, skills for building confidence and a positive lifestyle.

Personal Growth II, also led by Carla Goodwin, will meet Mondays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. for 10 weeks.

The emphasis will be on effective communication skills, how to say no without guilt and dealing with worthless emotions. It is designed for those who have completed Personal Growth I.

Parenting, led by Jeanne Evans, who has two daughters and a degree in counselor training, will be held Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. for 10 weeks starting April 7.

Parents will have a chance to explore a variety of child-raising issues, including setting limits, strengthening self-concept, handling death and anxiety and sex education.

Job Marketing Information and Strategies, led by Maureen Begonis, senior counselor of CETA's Adult Work Experience Division, will be held Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. for 10 weeks beginning April 9.

The workshop is designed to assist with information on the job market in general and the local job market in particular, including a discussion of strategies that have proved successful in the past.

Those interested in registering for the workshops may do so by calling the Women's Center at QJC at 786-8791.

Judy Stewart Earns

Agricultural School Honors

Judy M. Stewart of Cross St., West Quincy, recently earned honors for her work during the second term at Norfolk County Agricultural High School, Walpole.

Miss Stewart is a senior majoring in production animal science. Upon completion of the third term May 1, she will participate in a co-operative summer placement training program in her major subject area.

The summer program enables agricultural school students to gain practical experiences in agriculture and to develop positive work habits.

Miss Stewart will earn a grade for her summer work through the cooperative nature of the program which involves parents, employers and school staff.

In addition to being an honor student, Miss Stewart is second vice president of the Future Farmers of America, and chairwoman of the FFA Safety Committee.

HOME FIRE FACTS

Here are some home fire facts which may save your life.

1. Heat rises. Scaring, 1,000-degree temperatures can travel far ahead of the actual fire. Your hall and stairway can become filled with long-scorching heat, poisonous fumes, and blinding, choking smoke. YOU MUST PLAN TWO EXITS FROM EVERY BEDROOM.

2. Most home fires start between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m., when you are asleep and least prepared.

3. Most home fires start in these areas: Living Room 37 percent; Kitchen, 22 percent; Basement 14 percent; Bedrooms 13 percent, all others 14 percent. You can see how they are likely to block your normal escape route via hall and stairway from bedrooms.

4. Fire exit drills reduce panic and injury in fires. It has been proven that trained and informed people, especially children, have a much better chance to survive in home fires. Again, PLAN TWO EXITS FROM EVERY BEDROOM.

Today's Women

Legal Officer For 1000

The New Marine Captain Is A Lady

By KEITH F. WESTERMAN

The Marine Corps may be enlisting a "few good men" but it also recruits their counterparts, a few good women.

Kelley Jane (McAvoy) Nielsen, a lifetime resident of Wollaston, is one example of the Marine Corps few good women. A four year Marine veteran, she proved this, recently, when she was promoted to the rank of captain.

On leave after her promotion, she was home in Wollaston recently visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McAvoy 50 Warren Ave., and her brother, and three sisters

A graduate of the Woodward School for Girls and North Quincy High School, she joined the Marine Corps as a student in the first Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) opened to women. She enrolled in Holy Cross College in Worcester, and graduated with a bachelor of science degree in Sociology.

While at Holy Cross, the new Captain met her future husband, Thomas, another student in the Marine ROTC, whom she married upon graduation.

She entered active duty after college and has spent the past four years stationed up and down the eastern seaboard and throughout the southern states.

"The moving around hasn't been bad," she says. "My husband had to serve overseas during the time of my reassignments so moving actually didn't disturb me."

And, if anything, not much of her experiences in the Marine Corps have disturbed her.

Her views of the Marine Corps are all positive. For example, she sees herself as "an officer in a wife" when she is outside her home. "My husband is an officer and he understands any problems I may have regarding home life, such as coming home late," she comments. "Sometimes I pull a late duty, sometimes he does. That's an advantage of having similar jobs, you share the same difficulties."

She believes that her career in the "corps," as she calls it, has been "great." She "likes it very much. If I was working in the private sector today, I wouldn't be where I am."

Captain Nielsen holds the position of adjunct to the commander of Camp LeJune Headquarters, in North Carolina and acts as the legal officer and career planning officer for the camp. All total, she is responsible (within the confines of her duties) for more than 1000 Marines.

As a legal officer, her command reviews court martials, prepares legal briefs for the base command and reviews defendant's rights. Her career planning officer duties include department administration of promotions, career bonuses and job counseling.

"My duties are extensive and I got them because of my record," she says. "The Marines promote because of ability, not sex." Because of that policy, she feels a Marine Corps career for a woman is a big plus. "You get paid well, counting benefits, achieve respect and get the chance to prove yourself."

Women Marines are not combat trained. And they are excluded from all combat situations she says. In her opinion, this policy is valid:

"Women are not raised culturally to compete against men. Physically, most women are not as strong as men and could not win in hand-to-hand combat. But that doesn't mean women are emotionally weaker. I haven't seen more women than men crack under the pressures of the corps."

In addition to the promotion, Captain Nielsen experienced another major event in her life during the past few months. She discovered that she is pregnant. It will be her first child.

"I'm not sure if I'll make the Marine Corps a career but I'm sure I'll stay in, even though I'm having a baby," said the curly-haired captain. Upon discovery of her condition, she informed the corps of her wish to retain active status. She signed an agreement with the corps stating she will continue her assignments after the baby's birth and a six-week maternity leave.

"When I return to active (duty)," she says, "I'll need a live-in baby sitter. That's where being a part of a big family comes in handy. Either one of my sisters or brother will move in and help out for a time."

The Niensens live off base in Jacksonville, North Carolina.

She wants to have more children. "We'd like to raise a family," she says. "The separations are hard (during reassignment) but we can make it."

How did her Quincy friends feel when she announced her plans to join the Marines? "They said, 'well, if that's what you want ... go ahead.' I did and, you know, after they got used to the idea, they began to visit me down south. And the visits never stopped. I'm glad. I was closer to them before I enlisted; I'm closer now."

And does she have any second thoughts about enlisting? "No! The Marines offer me a chance to truly move up in my profession. It is a real equal opportunity employer. I have more of a chance to travel and if I stay in for 20 years, I retire on a good pension. No, I have no regrets."

Park Dept. Getting Recreational Facilities Ready

Quincy Park Department employees are preparing municipal recreational facilities for spring and summer use announced Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park - Recreation Board.

An estimated more than 40,000 persons of all ages will use the athletic fields, outdoor tennis and basketball courts, picnic areas and city owned beaches during the next six months.

A Park Department work force has been assigned to repair the Faxon Park fieldhouse roof gutted by a fire of unknown origin last May 18th. The fieldhouse, constructed in 1935 during the WPA era, houses the restroom facilities and the electrical panels for the lighting at the adjacent tennis court complex.

The 40 outdoor public tennis courts have been prepared with nets installed for immediate use.

The next phase of the Park Department maintenance schedule will be the readying of baseball, softball and soccer fields utilized by school teams and youth organizations for spring athletic and recreation programs.

During the winter months, Park Department employees have been assigned to refurbish the equipment utilized at the playground areas and picnic locations.

The 75 picnic tables have been repaired and repainted and will be located at the various picnic sites in mid-May in advance of scheduled events sponsored by church, school, scout, civic and community organizations.

Playground equipment will be installed starting May 1 at a variety of locations. The Collins Rest-A-While and Russell Park Playgrounds remain open throughout the year.

Twenty-six hundred permits were issued last year for use of Park Department athletic fields with activities including youth and adult baseball, softball and soccer programs.

Approximately 5,000 boys and girls, and 1500 men and women also participate in athletic recreation activities.

The Park Department provides 150 permits for picnics and outings at the Faxon Park, South Quincy location and the Pageant Field, Merrymount Park site.

The Collins Rest-A-While on Southern Artery is left open to the public for family picnics.

Gifts To City

Gifts to the city totalling $45 were accepted by the City Council recently.

A $10 donation was made to the Hospital Medical Equipment fund in memory of Mrs. Helen Adams.

Stop and Shop donated $25 and Roxie's Market $10 to the Quincy Youth Commission.

Mailing checks isn't worth a nickel.

First class postage just went up another three cents, so now it will cost you 18¢ every time you pay one of your bills by mail.

Fortunately, there's an alternative.

It's called Pay-by-Phone. If you haven't signed up for it before, maybe you'll be persuaded to try it now.

Because each Pay-by-Phone transaction still costs only 13¢, you'll save a nickel on every bill you take care of by phone, instead of by writing and mailing checks.

You'll find Pay-by-Phone is fast and easy, as well as less expensive. You always have complete freedom of choice whenever you want to write a check, of course.

Before you pick up your checkbook again, though, pick up your telephone and call 471-3500 for a Pay-by-Phone application, or visit our nearest office.

When you watch the nickels, the dollars still take care of themselves.

Heart Fund Theater Party March 31

Tickets will be available at the door for the 12th annual Theatre Party to be held Tuesday, March 31, to aid the Quincy Heart Fund.

Twenty door prizes donated by Quincy merchants and valued at $300 will be presented to winners at the "John J. Daniels Memorial Night" to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Strand Theatre, Chestnut St., Quincy Sq.

Richard J. Koch, Special Events Chairman of the Quincy Heart Fund, announces that gifts to be given away include an electric blanket, hair dryer, cross pen, sports equipment, gift certificates for local restaurant dining and a number of other items.

Prizes will be drawn preceding the feature attraction, "Going In Style" starring George Burns, Art Carney and Lee Strasberg.

O'Brien's Bakery of 9 Beale St., Wollaston has a large Heart Money Cake with all coins and funds accumulated from the display donated to the Heart Fund Special Events Program. Those unable to attend the Theatre Party may attach a contribution to the cake when passing the store.

A total of $16,600 has been raised in the past 11 years from the Theatre Party with all proceeds donated to the American Heart Association Southeast Massachusetts Division for use in research and education programs including the life saving CPR classes sponsored by the Heart Association.

Those wishing to donate to the Quincy Heart Fund may mail checks to John J. McGue, treasurer, Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock St., North Quincy, MA 02171.

Long Hours Only Reason For Resignation, Shea Says

By BERNIE O'DONNELL
There was one reason, and only one reason, that he resigned, says former City Auditor Charles Shea. "I can't remember the last time I put in less than 60 hours a week," Shea said his first day since stepping down.
"I'm 53, and I gave this a lot of thought. I'm putting in more and more hours and taking less and less time off," he said. "And since Proposition 2½, it's gotten worse. The only reason I left was just the number of hours."
Mayor Arthur Tobin had hinted that there was more than that to Shea's resignation.
"Mr. Shea has confided to me his total frustration," Tobin told The Sun March 10. "Some things developed in the past 48 hours that were very disturbing to him. I have to respect his feelings. Some day the true reasons will come out."
"I don't know what the mayor was talking about," Shea said "That's him talking, not me."

Shea denied that the often-bitter battles between Tobin and the City Council, over the proposed Water-Sewer Commission, contributed to his decision.
"Not at all," he said. "I've been through that stuff for so many years."
Shea, 53, had been City Auditor since 1974. He had previously been a four-term city councillor, state representative and an official of the State Legislative Research Bureau.
Tobin last week named William Grindlay, a police department research analyst, temporary auditor until a permanent successor is named. Grindlay was budget coordinator to former Mayor Walter Hannon.
The council, however, must choose Shea's permanent successor for a three-year term.

Shea said he would volunteer to stay on as an unpaid advisor to his successor, to assure an orderly transfer, "no matter how long it takes, days, weeks or months."
And, he said, he would be open to appointment to any one of the city's unpaid boards and committees.
"But, I just don't want the auditor's job anymore," he said.
Although still undecided about his future, Shea already has some options to choose from.
"Without naming any names," he said, "I've had four job offers since I resigned." All four are in the private sector.
He wasn't sure if he would ever accept another full-time job in government.
"I don't know, I don't think so," he said. "The hours are just too much."

29 Teachers' Jobs To Be Saved

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon was scheduled to recommend Wednesday that 29 of the 226 teachers cut last month by the School Committee be kept on instead.

Clarification of a misunderstanding between the mayor and School Committee has reduced the amount that must be cut from the school budget by about $1.7 million.

Thus, the committee, which has already approved about $9 million in cuts, found that only $8.5 million in cuts were necessary.

All of the 29 teachers to be "uncut" will be at the secondary level, according to Creedon. His original recommendations had cut the high school and junior high staffs by about half.

The committee also has about $215,000 in additional cuts before it which have not yet been acted upon. Among those is the complete elimination of junior high sports, which would save $94,000.

Approval of those cuts would free up more money to retain even more teachers.

Quincy Education Association President JoAnn O'Malley urged the committee to accept all of those cuts and keep as many staff members as possible.

"Every $20,000 that the committee puts back into the budget (in non-salary items) means that another teacher will be laid off," she said.

Fire Chief Edward Barry submitted four plans to him aimed at cutting his department back, said Tobin.

"We took the least drastic," he said.

"I sympathize with what the firefighters are doing," said Tobin. "They're fighting for their jobs. But picking and hooking horns isn't going to solve anything," Tobin said. "The problem is money," he said.

"It's interesting that when you talked to Mr. Lamb he didn't tell the Mayor's office he didn't tell the Quincy Sun where else the cuts should come," said Tobin.

"Every department in the city is being affected," he said. "The school department is taking a drastic cut. In the Department of Public Works there will be over 40 men laid off. There will be 150 positions affected at the hospital. We're having 275 persons affected on the city side and only 17 firefighters are being laid off."

"I don't know what else they want me to do," said Tobin.

Advertisements placed by the firefighters this week in the Patriot Ledger and The Quincy Sun criticized Tobin on the layoff issue.

One such ad noted that Tobin's proposed fiscal 1982 budget includes no layoffs in 11 other departments: Mayor's office, City Council office, City Clerk, Auditor, Assessors, Treasurer, Purchasing, Planning, Building, Law and Personnel.

That's true, said Tobin, but not the entire story.

The Law department, said Tobin, is so tied up with grievances and lawsuits due to Proposition 2½ and pending layoffs, "there's no way we could cut it."

Comer, Ricciuti Staying

Two other members of the Tobin administration spike rumors they are planning to follow Auditor Charles Shea out of City Hall.

Not right away, anyway.

RUMOR: John (Jake) Comer will resign as chief assessor and join the staff of recently named State Auditor John J. Finnegan.

"It's not a bad idea down the road," says Comer. "It's an option I could think about. But not right now."

Comer and Finnegan, who lives in Dorchester, are close friends. In fact, during Comer's two-year exile from the Board of Assessors while Joseph LaRaia was mayor, he worked as a budget analyst on then-Rep. Finnegan's Ways and Means Committee.

RUMOR: James (Pete) Ricciuti is about to call it quits as Commissioner of Public Works.

"I may have made a comment like that out of frustration," says Ricciuti. "But I plan to stay at least until the end of the year."

"I'm just as frustrated as Charlie Shea. It's not just 2½. It's the whole attitude of the electorate toward our efforts to get the city to face 2½."

"No one wants to listen. The situation is serious and it just isn't getting to them. It's all politics, steeped in petty jealousies."

"I don't say this with malice toward anyone. I'm just stating facts and I have everything to back them up. But no one wants to listen."

TWO VETERAN city employees, each with more than 30 years of service have been retired at 72 per cent of their annual salaries.

study committees, one named by the Council and the other by the Mayor, both came up with the criticism that there was too much politics in the Hospital.

"To put Mayoral appointees and Council appointees along with holdovers on the Board of Managers is asking too much of a Hospital that has a long way to go to get back on its feet," said Kelly.

"I voted in committee for a revolving account with no politics. I stand ready to vote for it again, but without another layer of politics."

Councillor Daniel G. Raymond, another no vote, said he agreed with Kelly that the amendments injected too much politics in the Hospital. He too said he favors the revolving account.

Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a third no vote, said he would like to see how the Hospital functions under the newly hired management firm, Hospital Corporation of America (HCA), before giving it the free hand of a revolving account.

"I would like to see how they operate the Hospital for a year under the present system with checks and balances by the City Council," said McCauley. "Then at the end of the year we could take another look at it."

McCauley said that Hospital Manager Michael Kitchen had testified before the Council that if the financial system at the hospital remained as it is "he could live with it."

Councillor Joanne Condon, chairwoman of the Hospital Committee, who was a yes vote on the Council, said it appeared that the revolving account is indeed dead.

"But the management team is a capable group," she said. "I'm sure that will help them through the budget process in a more professional manner than before. I'm sure there will be no deficit with the new team."

Quincy Quiz

There are two winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

They are Phillip Nimeskern, 38 Minihan's Lane, West Quincy and Mrs. James McGregor, 53 Forest Ave., West Quincy. Each will receive Quincy Sun T-shirts.

They are the only persons to answer all five questions correctly. Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers. One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. In what section of the city is Sacred Heart Church?
 2. What is the name of the president of the Quincy Education Association?
 3. What well-known building is located at 114 Whitwell St.?
 4. How many city councillors are there?
 5. What is the city's longest street (excluding MDC roads)?
- Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:
1. Quincy District Court is located at 50 Chestnut St.
 2. Boston, Milton, Braintree and Weymouth border on Quincy.
 3. The frequency of radio station WJDA is 1300.
 4. John Winthrop Jr. founded the nation's first iron blast furnace in Quincy.
 5. The city dump is located in West Quincy.

Council To Meet Friday

City's Budget First In State On Prop. 2½

The City Council meets tomorrow (Friday) at 5 p.m. to act on Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's $63.8 million budget for fiscal 1982.

Thus, Quincy will become the first of the 351 communities in Massachusetts to have a budget covering the first year of Proposition 2½, which limits the tax levy.

The problem is that all the budget is not there.

Missing are the City Hospital budget and the Water and Sewer Department budgets, while the School Department budget is represented only by a $26.7 million bottom line, or "allowance".

"It makes no sense at all," conceded Council President Leo J. Kelly, who had to call the meeting because the Council is required by law to act within 45 days after it receives the budget.

Tobin submitted the budget Feb. 11 along with a legislative proposal to set up revolving accounts for the Hospital and a Water and Sewer Commission, which would remove them from the budget.

The Council, however, rejected both revolving accounts, leaving the Hospital and the Water and Sewer Departments without funds with which to operate after July 1.

The School Committee is still working on its budget, which has been arbitrarily set at $26.7 million, a situation that strikes Councilor Joanne Condon as rather strange.

"We're going to act on the budget Friday night?" she asked. "And the School Committee is not going to hold its first public hearing on the budget until April 1?"

Sally said he has been advised by City Solicitor Robert Fleming that when the real school budget is submitted the Council will have another 45 days in which to consider it.

Tobin said his administration currently is working on budgets for the Hospital and the Water and Sewer Departments.

Meanwhile, in preparation for Friday's Council meeting, Councilor John J. Lydon Jr. called a meeting of his Finance Committee tonight (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. to consider 29 departmental budgets.

And an attempt by the Council to get legislative approval to delay the city budget until June 15 apparently is not going to make it past the Mayor's office.

In voting 8-0 to petition the State Legislature for the extension, Councilors indicated that they wanted a chance to see what the legislature is going to do about Proposition 2½.

Tobin said the petition is still under consideration by his office.

"We're still working on it," he said.

Tobin said his administration still is considering the nearly 200 additional layoffs he said will have to be made because of the Council's refusal to create his Water and Sewer Commission.

A tentative list of positions to be cut was given to the Council March 16 and Tobin said the list still stands as a tentative proposal, pending results of Civil Service, collective bargaining and bumping among the city workers.

The list by departments includes:

Mayor - one secretary.
City Clerk - one clerk of committees.

Auditor - one senior clerk.
City Clerk - one duplicating machine operator.

Assessors - one clerk typist.
Treasurer - one principal clerk.

Personnel - one senior clerk.
Planning - one assistant planner.

Police - two captains, four lieutenants, seven sergeants, 17 officers, one drug abuse coordinator, one senior clerk, one clerk typist, one account clerk, one foreman of motor equipment repairsmen, two cadets, 20 traffic supervisors.

Animal Control - one assistant dog officer.

General Services - one signal maintainer.

Fire - two deputy chiefs, nine captains, five lieutenants, 34 fire-fighters, one master mechanic, one head clerk fire, one signal maintainer.

Building - one public safety inspector.

Wire - one assistant wire inspector.

Weights and Measures - one deputy inspector.

Health - one social service technician, one food inspector, one director of dental services, one dentist, two dental assistants, four public health nurses.

Veterans - one assistant director, one head clerk.

Highway - nine working foremen.

Park - one foreman park, one heavy laborer park.

Cemetery - one foreman, one laborer, one storekeeper.

Library - one reference librarian, one branch librarian, 10 librarians, one groundsworker.

Recreation - one supervisor general.

Rent Grievance - one executive secretary.

The tentative list was put together by Charles L. Shea, a few hours before he retired as city auditor.

"The deletion of these positions," he told the Mayor, "will amount to approximately $4 million in services."

Council Okays $300 Raise For City Workers

The City Council's Finance Committee endorsed a $300 a year across the board pay increase for all 2,161 city employees, a move that was calculated to impact the tax rate by $1 per thousand.

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. had proposed a $152 pay hike that would have no effect on the tax rate or a 6.83 per cent cost of living increase that would boost it by 60 cents a thousand.

Councillors Carl W. Anderson and David J. Crowley sought unsuccessfully to ban raises for city officials making more than $5,000 a year while others are "having trouble buying the necessities of life."

Deegan warned in a speech to the Quincy Taxpayers Association that, if the present trend continues, the Quincy tax rate would top $50 in three years. It was $45.20 in 1950.

HOSPITAL DEFICIT

Walter L. Smith, business manager of Quincy City Hospital, embarked on a campaign to collect $527,000 in unpaid bills in an effort to reduce last year's $609,000 deficit at the hospital.

"We regret the need for action of this kind," said Smith. "We cannot help but feel, however, that we have an obligation to the citizens of this community to protect their tax dollar."

KOCH CLUB WINS

Ralph Beaton's free throw with five seconds remaining gave the North Quincy Koch Club a 69-68 victory over the Holbrook Legion and ran the season's record to 16 wins and four losses.

The Koch Club lineup included: Frye, Campbell, Beaton, Cuneo, forwards; Wetzler, Murphy, centers; Kilpatrick, Player, guards.

DRAFTEES DEPART

Forty six Quincy men, the March quota in the draft, left Adams Academy for Fort Devens after receiving plastic cigarette cases and cigarettes from the Elks and the Morrisette Legion Post.

Meanwhile, William C. Edwards, chairman of Selective Service Board 27, announced that the Quincy draft quota for April had been trimmed from 41 to 21 men.

TEAMS SOUGHT

The South Shore Baseball League, reduced to four teams by the loss of Hingham Legion, announced that it would fold if two more teams did not apply to join by the April 9 deadline.

The four remaining teams were the Paddock Club of South Quincy, the Weymouth Town Team, the Braintree White Sox, and the Chittick Club of Hyde Park.

POLICE CHASE

Two Boston teenagers, who robbed a Dorchester delicatessen, were captured across the street from North Quincy High School after a chase by Quincy, Boston and MDC police in which four shots were fired.

The arrest was witnessed by hundreds of North Quincy students who were leaving the building for their lunch period.

2-1 Margin

Teachers Vote To Retain 'Work To Rule'

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

Members of the Quincy Education Association voted by about a 2-1 margin last Thursday to retain their work-to-rule policy.

About 600 of the association's 1,000 members attended the meeting at Dorchester's Florian Hall, according to QEA President JoAnn O'Malley.

Work to rule, in effect since the middle of the 1979-80 school year, reduces teachers services to the minimum required in the contract. It was begun to protest non-payment of the teachers' 1979-80 raises.

A vote of "no confidence" concerning School Supt. Lawrence Creedon was considered, but not acted upon, Mrs. O'Malley said.

The motion, made and tabled at an earlier meeting, was removed from the table and amended last week.

The motion, as passed, asked Creedon to meet with the association leadership to discuss "a multitude of things — including layoffs," Mrs. O'Malley said.

"Basically, people feel that Dr. Creedon should be sticking up for his teachers," said Mrs. O'Malley. "People feel priorities are being misplaced, as I've already stated."

150 Attend Camp Fire Ecumenical Breakfast

More than 150 Quincy Camp Fire members attended an ecumenical breakfast recently at Christ Church, Quincy Square, in honor of Camp Fire's 71st birthday.

Flag bearers were Andrea Gelsomini and Karen O'Reilly of North Quincy.

Kim Mayberger, formerly of Quincy Center, played a flute solo of "The Stars and Stripes Forever" as part of the opening flag ceremony.

Joy O'Hare of South Quincy led the group in singing the Camp Fire Law.

Sandi Iacobacci of North Quincy read a passage from Matthew 5:14-16. Those bible verses were the inspiration for the song, "This Little Light" which was led at the breakfast by Tracey Nickerson of Wollaston.

The blessing before the meal was sung by Jacqui Freil, Melissa Freil, Christine Murray and Tracey Palmer of Houghs Neck.

Entertainment by Binky Bear followed the breakfast.

St. Augustine Film At St. John's March 29

A film on Saint Augustine, the philosopher, theologian, and father of the church, will be shown at St. John's Church in Quincy on Sunday evening, March 29.

The film is the fourth in a series, "Faith in a Time of Crisis", which is being shown on the Sundays of Lent.

The films are being shown at St. John's School on Phipps St. at 8 p.m., and they are free of charge and open to all. Refreshments are served.

The film series is produced by the BBC-TV and narrated by the British commentator, Malcolm Muggeridge. The schedule for the final two weeks of the series is April 5, Soren Kierkegaard and April 12, William Blake.

Phelma I. O'Connell, Mother Of Contractors

A funeral Mass was celebrated March 20 for Mrs. Phelma I. (Shaffer) O'Connell, mother of the O'Connell Brothers, Quincy contractors.

Mrs. O'Connell died March 17 at home after a long illness.

She was an administrative assistant for O'Connell Brothers Construction Company, headed by her sons William S. O'Connell and Peter F. O'Connell, both of Quincy.

Born in Lockhaven, Penn., she was a long-time resident of Quincy.

She is also survived by her husband, William F. O'Connell; another son, Thomas F. O'Connell of Marshfield, also an O'Connell Brothers employee; two daughters, Barbara O'Connell of Wisconsin and Mrs. Cynthia Duff of Quincy; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Evans of Johnstown, Pa. and seven grandchildren.

A funeral Mass at St. John's Church was celebrated by Rev. William McCarthy, pastor. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Charles Arienti, 54, Quincy Fire Lieutenant

A funeral Mass was celebrated yesterday (Wednesday) for Charles Arienti, 54, of Quincy, a lieutenant in the Quincy Fire Department.

Mr. Arienti died March 22 at Quincy City Hospital.

He was a lifelong Quincy resident, a member of the Quincy Fireman's Relief Association and the Morrisette Legion Post.

He is survived by his wife, Theresa (Salamone) Arienti a daughter, Marie Hautala of Randolph; three sons, Charles Arienti, Jr. of Braintree; Ernest M.

Arienti and William Arienti of Quincy; two sisters, Rose Broadford and Dora Ceriani, both of Quincy, and one grandson.

A funeral Mass was celebrated at St. John's Church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Joseph Wornom, Jr. 62, General Dynamics Official

Funeral services were conducted March 20 in Groton, Conn., for S. Joseph Wornom, 62, public affairs director in the Marine Division of General Dynamics at Groton and Quincy.

Mr. Wornom died March 18 in Groton.

Born in Hampton, Va., he was a graduate of University of Richmond and had been a Connecticut resident since 1955.

Mr. Wornom joined General Dynamics in 1955 after several years as a Navy public information officer. He was named corporate affairs manager, marine group, in 1971 and became public affairs director in 1978.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Conway (Woodhouse) Wornom of Norfolk, Va.; two sons, Samuel J.

Wornom III of Baltimore and Robert C. Wornom of Columbia, Md.; a daughter, Elizabeth Wornom of Harrisonburg, Va. and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at First Church of Christ, Congregational, of Groton. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va. March 23.

Pastor Addresses Social Issues At Quantum Church Service

Birth control, abortion, divorce and capital punishment were among the social issues addressed by Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin Sunday at the First Church of Quantum. The service was the fourth in the Lenten series.

Dr. Langevin, pastor, made his remarks during a sermon, "The Truth That Comes To You." The sermon was based on the text in the Gospel of John in which Pilate asks the accused Jesus "What is Truth?"

The Chancel Choir sang "Hear My Prayer, O God" by Jacob Arcadelt.

Greeters were Ruth and George Goward. Ushers were Bonnie Adams, Don Frazer, Steve Williams, Tore Wallin, Laura

Rev. Martinson H.N. Congregational Speaker

Rev. Terry Martinson of Old South Union Church, Weymouth, will be the speaker at the fourth in a series of Lenten services at Houghs Neck Congregational Church Tuesday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m.

Worship leader will be Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea.

The scripture will be read by Mary Fisher.

Refreshments will be served by Paula Younie and Ada Freeman.

Johnson and William Cogswell.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Hazel Mayne, Helen Miller and Grace Holmes.

Next week's service begins at 10:15 a.m.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Quincy, Massachusetts from Local 792 International Association of Fire Fighters

March, 1981

Fellow Citizens:

As a response to the crisis brought on by the passage of Proposition 2 1/2, we are sponsoring a series of open letters to the community in which we will report on Quincy's financial matters. This letter is the first of a series.

We feel that the 1982 Budget approved by the Mayor and submitted to the Council endangers every person and every piece of property in Quincy. The Mayor has approved the reduction of 29 fire fighting positions. In our opinion this reduction depletes what Fire Fighters consider to be an already depleted fire service and puts at risk lives and property of Quincy residents.

We have reviewed the Budget and have found that the Mayor does not have a single cut in the following offices from 1981 to 1982 Budget:

- Assessor
- Personnel
- Law
- Planning
- Buildings

Mayor
Council
Auditor
Treasurer Purchasing Clerk

As we see it, apparently there are certain departments the Mayor has excluded from the cuts.

Our members realize that Proposition 2 1/2 means sacrifice and change and we will respond to the crisis. As we respond we want to be able to assure our members and the citizens that any risk which might be taken because of sacrifices and changes is fully explained and that the sacrifices be made in areas where no risk is involved.

Concerned About School

Residents Form Community Council For Beechwood Knoll

Area residents have formed the Beechwood Knoll School Community Council to help plan the future of the school on Fenno St., Wollaston, which is to be closed in June.

"We are concerned about the negative impact on the neighborhood if the building is not maintained and allowed to become an eyesore or a spot for vandalism," said Mrs. Virginia Nickerson, spokesman for the group.

"The Council's future plans include meeting with local officials to keep lines of communication open regarding impending plans for the future use of the building and to insure input from area residents."

Formation of the neighborhood council was suggested by City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath.

"Area residents expressed concern as to the status of the building and a group like the council will keep the neighbors informed first hand of the School Department's plans," said McGrath.

The Council held its first formal meeting March 10 and another one is scheduled for April 14 in the conference room at City Hall. The meeting is open to all residents of the Beechwood Knoll area.

A committee has been established to distribute information door to door in the neighborhood to explain to residents the goals of the Council.

"The School Department has indicated that they will keep the Beechwood Knoll School building to use for storage of excess furniture," said Mrs. Nickerson.

"Also the School Department has stated that the school could possibly reopen in the future as enrollment continues to decline.

"The Council feels that citizens must be kept aware of the changing disposition of the school building since its closing may not be permanent."

City Moves To Take Cmdr Shea Boulevard

The city has taken the first steps toward acquiring Commander Shea Boulevard in Squantum by eminent domain in order to provide a second access to proposed developments in the Boston Harbor Marina.

A request to take the land for $160,401 was filed with the City Council and sent to the Public Works Committee.

Taking of the road, which is now owned by Jordan Marsh, was made a condition of a planned unit development granted by the Council for 142 condominium units at the Marina.

"This is just the first step in a long process," said Councillor Joanne Condon, "but it is fulfillment of a commitment by the city to address the traffic situation."

Residents of Squantum and Atlantic have expressed concern that the East Squantum St. Causeway, the only access to Squantum, would be swamped with traffic to the condos.

For the landtaking, the city would pay Jordan Servicer, Inc., $150,000; Sandra Patkin Karp $6,400; Squantum Realty Trust, $4,000; and Bloom-Rich Realty Co., $1.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. wondered where the money was coming from and he was assured by Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Public Works Committee, that "before any action is taken, you will have the answer."

New Book Drop At N.Q. Branch Library

A new book drop has been installed outside of the Hancock St. entrance to the North Quincy Branch Library.

The book drop, similar to a night deposit door at bank, will permit safe return of books whenever the library is not open. It will not function when the library is open.

Library Director Warren E. Watson cautions that the door, by design, will not accommodate phonograph records. They should be returned the usual way.

Overdue material which is returned will be noted and should be paid for on a later visit to the library.

A sidewalk book box at the North Quincy branch was damaged years ago. The new book drop will better protect books and magazines returned.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF QUINCY FROM MAYOR ARTHUR TOBIN

March 24, 1981

Fellow Citizens:

In response to an open letter from Local 792 Quincy Fire Fighters, I wish to submit the following facts about Quincy's Municipal Budget:

The fiscal 1981 Municipal Budget was reduced accordingly:

Mayor's Office	17%	City Clerk's Office	14%
Council Office	33%	Assessor's Office	8%
Auditor's Office	20%	Planning Office	29%
Treasurer's Office	16%	Building's Office	33%
Purchasing Office	14%

I DID NOT LAY OFF ANY QUINCY FIRE FIGHTERS in Fiscal 1981
In the fiscal 1982 Municipal Budget, fire department personnel will be reduced by 29 positions. Of them, 18 are by retirement!

As Mayor, I have reduced municipal spending by $15,000,000 in the fiscal 1982 budget and further cuts may be mandated.

I am determined, however, to protect the lives and property of my fellow citizens.

Of the 85 individual budgets within our municipal budget to be cut, the budget of the fire department was the last to be reduced, and of the total reduction in municipal employees in fiscal 1982, only 3.3% are fire fighters.

In my next response I will continue to tell it like it is!

Biagini Working At Hitting As Red Sox Rookie

Bob Biagini, one of the outstanding catchers in the state during the past few years with North Quincy High School and Morrisette Legion, is in Winter Haven, Fla., working out with the Red Sox rookie pitchers and catchers.

Bob, signed by Sox scouts Billy Enos of Cohasset and Tom McDonald of Quincy last fall, has no idea yet what minor league team he will be assigned to, but he knows what he has to do.

"Hitting is the quickest way to get there (major leagues)," he said. "They will find a place for you if you can hit. I've been working on my hitting for the past couple of months and I think I've improved." He had been working out at Tufts with Red Sox coach Walt Hriniaik.

There is no doubt about Biagini's hitting in high school or Legion ball. He batted .500 each of the past two years with North Quincy High and with Morrisette last season he hit .468 with 27 RBI and 27 hits.

He was a two-time all-scholastic.

In the Brockton Invitational Tournament over the Labor Day weekend he had a phenomenal record in the six-game event and was named the MVP. It was after that tournament that the Sox signed him.

In that annual event he hit three home runs, two triples, a double and four singles as well as performing well behind the bat.

Biagini received a scholarship to Bentley College but passed it up to try his hand at pro ball.

"I'm still young," he said. "If I have to change positions, they will do it. In college I would have probably been catcher the entire time. I'm just going to try at whatever position they put me."

His Legion coach, Ray Cattaneo, who played in the Braves farm system for five years, feels Bob has a good chance to move up the pro ladder, but not as a catcher.

"I think he could go a long way in the outfield or at third base, where he is just as good as he is catching," Cattaneo said. "I think with his size (5-10, 175), he would find it too rigorous catching every day. He will be playing in a lot of hot, humid weather that will take a lot out of him if he catches."

"Bob is really outstanding and was one of the finest players I have coached. He is going the same route as I did. I had a scholarship to Wake Forest but passed it up to play pro ball."

"I gave Bob one piece of advice and that is, if he really wants to be a pro, to give it more of a chance than I did. If I had stayed in pro ball a little longer I might have gotten myself a good job in baseball."

Biagini's high school coach, Charlie Bunker, who was one of the top Red Sox pitching prospects several years ago until his arm went bad, also sees good things ahead for Bob.

"Bob has a live bat, packing a lot of power in the Joe Morgan mold," said Bunker, who once lost a 10-inning 1-0 decision to Luis Tiant in the minors. "But his talents don't stop there. He has great speed. We timed him down the first base line in four seconds flat and he can run 60 yards in 6.7 seconds. Most scouts are happy with seven seconds. He has a strong arm and he should do all right as a catcher. "I'd have to say he is probably the best player I have had in 10 years at North Quincy. He's an intelligent boy, very coachable with excellent attitude."

Kiwanis Club Presents Skates As Prizes

Four participants in the recent Quincy Kiwanis International Youth Hockey Tournament have won a pair of Micron skates, a gift from the Micron Company of Woonoski, Vt.

The gifts were arranged by Kiwanian Al Warmington.

Kiwanis President George Ramsden drew the names of the winners, Mark Sarazen of Melrose Mites, Paul Hobson of the Providence Squirrels, Peter McMichael of the Halifax, N.S., Pee Wees, and John Gwynne of the Willowdale, Ontario, Bantams.

YMCA Aquathon-Runathon Opens Saturday Morning

The Quincy YMCA will sponsor its annual Aquathon/Runathon Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. through 12 midnight and Sunday 6 a.m. through 6 p.m.

An estimated 200 participants are expected to raise funds for Day and Resident Camp scholarships, funds to develop youth programs, purchase recreational equipment, and support YMCA World Service.

Last year $7,000 was raised, financially assisting over 150 Quincy youngsters to Day or Resident Camp experiences. Our goal this year is $8,000. Community support has tremendously influenced the success of the Y's fund raising event each year. City/state officials, Quincy Educational Association, students and teachers from the Quincy Public Schools, and YMCA members, Board of Directors, and staff will participate again this year. $1,700 was raised by the students and teachers throughout the city last year.

Participants do not have to be YMCA members to participate. Participant forms are available at the 'Y' main desk. Each participant solicits sponsors and go to the 'Y' anytime during the event and swim or run. There is a $2.00 minimum pledge for each participant. Those wishing not to swim or jog may sponsor a YMCA professional staff member. Each contribution is tax deductible.

Prizes will be awarded for the top three youth contributors: Sony Cassette Walkman, two box seats to a Red Sox game, personalized gym bag. For the top three adult contributors: One year general membership to the YMCA, dinner for two, warm-up suite. T-shirts will be awarded to each participant raising $50 or more.

For further information, contact the 'Y' at 479-8500.

PREPARING FOR THE ANNUAL Quincy YMCA aquathon/runathon Saturday and Sunday are, in the water, Martha Larson, YMCA swim instructor; Hazel Rambo, 77 years of age and a Y member for 11 years; Patricia McCue, a member of the Y swim team, and Ray West, a student at St. Mary's School and a Y member. Martha Baker, standing center, looks over participant forms with Karin Johnson, left, a Wollaston School teacher, and Rita McKenna, a Squantum School teacher.

Track Club Winds Up Season With Big Win

The Quincy Track Club wrapped up its 1981 indoor campaign with a big win in the NEAC Indoor Age Groups championships last Sunday at Taunton High School.

Big gun for the QTC was newcomer Finn Kelly, who won the 600, high jump and ran with the winning relay team in the 11-12 division.

In the 50-yard hurdles Karen Cashman won in girls 9-10, Tommy Walsh won in 11-12 boys, Terry Parker won in 13-14 girls and John Delappe won in 15-16 boys.

In the dash Paul McLellan won in 9-10 boys, Tricia Giannandrea won in 11-12 girls, Mark Lunnin won in 11-12 boys, Colin Powers won in 15-16 boys and Regina Murphy won in the pre-school girls division.

In the 600 Jill McLellan won in 8 and under girls, Tammy Coull won in 13-14 boys and Pat Morin won in 17-18 boys.

In the 300 Jason Radzevich won in 8 and under boys, and Jamie McArdle won in 13-14 boys.

In the shot put Paul McLellan won in 9-10 boys, Maureen Supple won in 9-10 girls, Tammy Powers won in 13-14 girls, Linda Feeney won in 15-16 girls and Colin Powers won in 15-16 boys.

In the high jump Julie Supple won in 13-14 girls, Jamie McArdle won in 13-14 boys, John Delappe won in 15-16 boys and Lorrie McNeill won in 11-12 girls.

In the relay races, the 11-12 team of Tommy Walsh, Mark Lunnin, Stuart Coull and Finn Kelly won going away, as did the 15-16 team of Kevin Dunn, Mark Levangie, Pat Morin and John Delappe.

The 9-10 girls relay team of Tammy Coull, Kara Feeney, Karen Cashman and Deirdre Murphy also won.

Also scoring for Quincy were Tracy Wilson, Noreen Connolly, Sarah Walsh, Shannon Gotter and Harry Morash.

Burke Going To B.U. On Football Scholarship

Sean Burke, outstanding tight end at Quincy High School, will attend Boston University in the fall on a full football scholarship.

Burke was an All-Suburban League end and also played defensive end for the Presidents. The 6-foot-5, 200-pounder started for two years for Quincy Coach Tom Fitzgerald, himself a BU graduate.

Burke received the Granville Award from the Quincy Fathers Club for being the outstanding Quincy player in the Quincy-North game last Thanksgiving.

He is an excellent all-round athlete, playing center this year for the basketball team, which qualified again for the Eastern Mass. Tourney, and he throws the discus for the track team.

"He already has shown to be an outstanding football player, but I think he still has his best football ahead of him," said BU Coach Rick Taylor.

"One of his best assets is his mobility and that is one of the qualities we look for."

Taylor has posted a 26-1-1 record in his four years as BU's head coach. Last fall the Terriers were 9-2 and won the Yankee Conference title outright. In 1979 they shared the crown with an 8-1-1 mark.

Burke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burke of Pleasant Street, Quincy.

Olindy's Junior Bowlers Raise $1,476 For MDA

Olindy's junior bowlers topped $1,476 in this year's annual Jerry Lewis Bowl-a-thon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

First place winner Billilyn Palmer of Braintree received bowling balls and bag set donated by Olindy's for collecting $399.90 from 142 sponsors. Greg Gerrish of Weymouth took second place and a trophy with $221.25. Third place trophy went to Joe O'Hara of Milton for raising $202.00.

Also participating were: Chuck Abbott, Tom Gorman, Dawn Mezzetti, Mark Crosby, George Gorman, Joe Hall, John Higgins, Jean Barry, Diane Hall, and Jen Handy. Each bowler received a Certificate of Achievement, a sew-on patch, and an iron-on transfer.

Olindy's Bowl-a-thon is coordinated by League Manager

John Mezzetti and sponsored by Olindy's co-owners John, James, and Stephen Mezzetti under the auspices of the Quincy-South Shore Telephone Committee.

Funds raised by the bowl-a-thon benefit children and adults throughout the South Shore area helping MDA provide free wheelchairs and other orthopedic aids, clinic visits, and special summer camp sessions.

Laracy Shines In USSA Swim Meet

Bob Laracy, 11, again swimming for the Quincy Swim Club, competed in a United States Swimming Association (USSA) meet at New Bedford High last Sunday.

The USSA has replaced the AAU in organizing swimming meets for top swimmers throughout New England this year.

Laracy, competing against swimmers from 32 teams, won the 100-yard freestyle, was second in the 50-yard breaststroke, fourth in the 50-yard backstroke and fifth in the 50-yard butterfly.

This was an outstanding feat for young Laracy, who the night before had swum the freestyle on a medley relay team at Brown University. The team also included Guy Nubar of Canton, backstroke; Andy Hall of Norwell, breaststroke, and Greg Doyle of Canton, butterfly. The team finished 11th in the New England Y championships representing the Quincy YMCA.

Quincy Basketball Alumni Reunion April 9

Central's Mike Casali Calls It A Career

By PETE ZOIA

Mario (Mike) Casali, one of the most respected and oldest coaches in point of service in the Quincy school system, has stepped down as Central Junior High's basketball coach after more than 25 years.

His last team rewarded him with the city co-championship with Atlantic-North.

Central won nine games in a row and its only loss was to Atlantic-North, which also suffered its lone loss at the hands of Central. Both were overtime games.

Casali, highly respected over the years by his peers and players, suffered a slight heart attack last summer but returned for a final basketball season.

He was a three-sport star at Quincy High, excelling in football, hockey and baseball. At Boston University he played four years of hockey and two years of baseball. He plans to continue coaching football and baseball at

MARIO (MIKE) CASALI

Central.

Mike's teams were always well-drilled and this year's team was no exception.

Paul Ryan was the team's leading scorer and Nunzio Carbone was the Most Valuable Player.

Always a champion of sportsmanship, Casali never embarrassed an opponent and, as an example, in one game this year with his team leading by a comfortable margin, he inserted his reserves for the entire second half.

North Jayvees Win Title

The North Quincy High junior varsity basketball team under first-year coach Rich DeCristofaro, following the example set by the varsity, won the Suburban League championship and finished with a 14-4 record.

The high scorers were Junior Ed Carroll, with a 15-point a game average, Junior Dan Marsters (14 points a game), Junior Bill Gray (seven a game), and sophomore Bob Flynn (six a game).

Patti Stanziani

On Suffolk

Basketball Team

Patti Stanziani of 94 Merry-mount Rd., Quincy, was a member of the 1980-81 Suffolk University Women's basketball team. A graduate of Archbishop Williams High School, she is a sociology major at Suffolk.

Quincy Track Turnout Encouraging

Quincy High has had little success in recent years in boys' track and field, due to a lack of interest, but there might be a resurgence this spring, as coaches Mark Conroy and Peter Chella were greeted by an encouraging turnout.

"We ran the winter season with a small group of hard working, dedicated athletes and these are the boys who have proved to me that we have the makings of a sound track and field program," Conroy said.

"Any individuals who will go out of doors day after day and run in freezing temperatures with poor road conditions and chilling winds as they did proves they are certainly dedicated."

Conroy and Chella greeted about 25 boys and are hopeful that more will report and help to put Quincy back on top in track and field.

Leading the Presidents are sprinters Mike Shaughnessy, Dave Church, Chris McCray and Mike Williams.

Middle distance runners are Fran Connell, Bill Bomar, Ron Ellison and Mike Rollins, and running the distances will be Kevin Dunn, Chris Murphy, Garth Morris, John Cascarano and Dean Rizzo.

The hurdles will be handled by Jim Zupkofska, Bill Walsh, Sean Burke, Joe Grimaldi and Paul Connolly.

There are several capable weightmen, who will be handled by Chella, including Fran Duggan, John Varrasso, Mike Connors, Steve Aluisi, Paul Martin, Jamie Gravalese, Bob Willard, Ron Pettinelli and Steve Ganno.

"Peter and I are hoping to have a team which will be competitive in the strong Suburban League," Conroy said. "We have several promising boys but need more to give us the depth necessary to win."

WEEK OF MARCH 26

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

You show the world why you're the individualist of the zodiac, using originality to forge new paths in career or romance. One caution: Don't dismiss financial warning as foolishness

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Personality conflict on job or in the neighborhood can be resolved, but don't expect to become best friends with your one-time adversary. Stars indicate excitement in romance

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Outstanding are your skills to persuade and to fight for a cause. Combine them this week and take a giant step forward at work or in the community.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Both a sentimental and practical week. April showers you with affections of deep friends. At the same time, you delegate tasks with rare grace and expertise

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Week is structured around working or academic life, with important advance likely in either area. Romantic interest seems tongue-tied, but don't force the words to come

CANCER - June 22-July 22

You're aiming low. Raise expectations, especially in work environment. Be sure that romantic misunderstanding or domestic tiff is cleared up to the satisfaction of all involved

LEO - July 23-August 22

Social life slows down and work demands lighten. Which doesn't mean lack of progress. On the contrary, pay raise or social whirl is just around the corner

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Rearranged plans are shuffled yet again, and all the best events seem scheduled for the same time. Meanwhile, financial picture brightens thanks to your own ingenuity

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Entertaining on a shoe string and peacemaking on a grand scale are on the week's agenda. Tete a tete with financial advisor or business partner should not be delayed

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

You're in great mental form: wit gleams and ideas are winning converts from the least predictable corners. Small financial gains help make this a nearly perfect week

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Family bolsters your spirits... which could be sagging due to romantic stalemate. Thrifty friends become Mr. or Ms. generosity. Enjoy the change while it lasts

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Family may seem to pressure you into making snap decision on a personal matter. Boss or other authority figure may show a warmer, funnier side than you're used to.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Decision-making can be your big problem: you're either too hesitant or too forthright. Whatever the case, you can become much more sensitive and successful in this area over the next six months. Career shift is more likely than a career change

BORN THIS WEEK

March 26th, singer Diana Ross, 27th, singer Sarah Vaughan, 28th, actor Dirk Bogarde, 29th, singer Pearl Bailey, 30th, actor Warren Beatty, 31st, actor Richard Chamberlain, April 1st, actress Debbie Reynolds.

QCA Votes Down Casino

The Quincy Citizens Association watched a movie about gambling in Atlantic City, N.J., last week and promptly voted against the prospect of casino gambling in Hull.

Mrs. Carol Oteri, a member of Hull's Citizens Against Casino Gambling, showed the film, which is taken from educational TV's "Atlantic City -- Winners and Losers".

Since gambling came to Atlantic City, she said, unemployment and taxes have increased, the quality of life has deteriorated, small businesses have been forced to close and violent crimes have increased.

The QCA voted to advise Gov. Edward J. King. Sen. Paul D. Harold and Reps. Thomas F. Brownell, Michael W. Morrissey and Robert A. Cerasoli of its opposition to casino gambling in the state.

President Arthur M. Chandler announced that the QCA will award $200 scholarships in June to two graduates of Quincy high schools.

Sen. Harold is chairman of the Scholarship Committee. Applications are available at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and the Vo Tech School.

The QCA is accepting nominations for its prestigious "Citizen of the Year" award that will be made at the 14th annual dinner-dance June 19 at the Neighborhood Club.

Nominations in writing should be sent by May 20 to the Quincy Citizens Association, Inc. Box 81, Quincy, MA 02170.

In other business, the QCA voted its support of the Squantum Community Association in its efforts to obtain suitable development of the Boston Harbor Marina area.

President Chandler told the association that the passage of Proposition 2½ showed that "the people really want the total spending, the fat and the political patronage cut."

"We should not have more people now on the payroll than we had in 1970," he said. "The areas of public safety should be the last to be cut."

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, who was in attendance, was asked to explore the possibility of using Community Development Block Grants to update the city's aged sewer and water system.

10-Story Structure

$17 Million Building For North Quincy

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

City officials have completed negotiations for a $17 million, 10-story office building in the city's North Quincy "gateway," according to Mayor Arthur Tobin.

The building will be located on the east side of Hancock St., near the intersection of Hancock and Newport Ave., including the present site of Menard Chevrolet, according to Judie Cullen of the Planning Department.

Negotiations were completed Tuesday with a group of five developers, the most prominent being Michael Harrington of Beverly, a former United States congressman. The group is operating under the name—Gateway Quincy Realty Trust.

"If construction starts in the next several months, this will be the eighth office building under construction in the city and about the 12th brought into the city by my administration," Tobin said.

"While we are forced to eliminate municipal jobs due to Proposition 2½, we are creating jobs in the private sector," Tobin said. "I don't know of any other community in the Commonwealth that is developing at the rate that Quincy is, even in these times of economic difficulty."

"I think this speaks well for our staff and Planning Department, and for the positive attitude that we have taken towards development," Tobin said.

$6.3 Million In Building Work

A $6.15 million permit for the Quincy Center Plaza building provided the bulk of the building work approved in February.

The city Building Department approved 41 permits for work costing an estimated $6,333,277 last month.

That's a big increase since February of 1980, when 52 permits for work costing an estimated $733,475 were approved. Other permits approved last month are: two one-family dwellings, costing an estimated $62,000; 17 residential alterations, $68,425; eight other alterations, $38,500; two removals, $700; three signs, $2,050; eight miscellaneous, $11,612.

The building will supply a natural view of the Kennedy Library in Dorchester and will be "jogged" to provide a large number of corner offices.

The building's second floor will overhang the first, she said, creating an arcade walkway, she said.

Tobin said developer Arthur Robbins, one of Harrington's partners in the trust, "is interested in meeting with us about several other sites in the city, including one, possibly, for a hotel."

Reaction To Reagan Shooting:

Shock, Prayer, Concern

By KEITH WESTERMAN

Quincy responded to the shooting of President Reagan with prayer, concern and indignation this week.

At an Ecumenical Expression of Concern and Prayer Service sponsored and held at historic United First Parish Church, residents, clergy and political dignitaries gathered to voice their support and best wishes to the wounded president and the men felled with him.

Rev. Keith C. Munson, who organized the service with the help of Mayor Arthur Tobin, opened the event asking for prayers of recovery for those hurt in "this inexplicable act of violence."

Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski, keynote speaker, said in his remarks:

"I can think of no more fitting place to address this issue than the City of Presidents and the Church of Presidents. Out of each tragedy comes some good...out of this comes the feeling of unity."

"Referring to the alleged assailant, Chmielinski said, 'I don't know the background of him but I noted two things. One, (the accused) was under psychiatric care. Two, he was addicted to some kind of drugs.'"

Chmielinski compared the shooting to past crimes in Massachusetts committed by psychiatric patients and condemned the state's present policy of "empting every hospital...of dangerous (mental) patients. God forbid we see a (presidential) shooting again but until we have more obstacles and care given in the release of patients, we'll see more violence."

"I was shocked upon hearing the news," said Mayor Arthur Tobin.

"We were in the middle of a staff meeting Monday when I received a phone call from my wife—that was how we heard about it," Tobin said. "We monitored it throughout the afternoon on radio and TV, as everybody else did."

"I contacted Rev. Keith Munson of the Church of Presidents to see what we could do about setting up an ecumenical service. I felt that we, as the city of Presidents, should express our concern for the President and the other persons who were shot."

"I was shocked obviously," said Cong. Brian Donnelly Tuesday.

"Everybody down here is pleased the president's doing well, of course, and concerned for (presidential press secretary) Jim Brady."

Marsha Brady Cannon

First Woman Named To Head Quincy Post Office

QUINCY POST OFFICE'S first female manager, Martha Brady Cannon began her duties this week.

Quincy's Post Office has its first female manager early this week with the appointment of Mrs. Marsha Brady Cannon of Squantum.

Cannon, who moved to Squantum in February, manages 175 employees and is responsible for the delivery of over one million pieces of mail each week. She will also be instituting a "Model Office" in Quincy for instructional leadership for other post office managers.

"My first priority will be to insure mail delivery," says Cannon. "But at the same time, I'll encourage employee participation in the mailing system. A participation which, hopefully, will lead to proper employee safety and a more cost effective system."

She says her new management rules are part of the Model Office Program she is operating.

"Quincy will serve as a training site for other offices," she comments. "We will have the latest in equipment and techniques for mail delivery and what we don't have, we will have a priority in requisitioning."

Cannon says the Quincy Post Office is using a new system of central delivery to the North Quincy and Wollaston Post Offices. A set of metal containers are now filled with mail to be distributed to these offices rather than the old way of boxes and mailbags.

Other changes at the Quincy Office includes a reassignment of postal office space for money saving measures and employee morale raising procedures.

Cannon wants to see the post office more involved in local

50 City Jobs Saved By Early Retirements

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

About 50 city employees took advantage of sweetened retirement benefits this month to retire early, according to Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Those retirements by some of the city's veteran employees meant that about 50 jobs were saved for persons at the low end of the seniority scale, Tobin said.

In the fire department, for example, early retirements during March reduced planned cutbacks from 11 layoffs and six demotions to 10 layoffs and no demotions, Tobin said.

Employees who chose to retire early during March received as much as $5,000 more than normal, according to former city Auditor Charles Shea, now acting as an advisor to Tobin.

Under normal circumstances, Shea said city employees are eligible to be paid for 50 percent of their accumulated unused sick leave, up to a maximum of $2,500. From late February to March 31, the upper limit was changed so that 50 percent of the unused sick time, up to $7,500, was paid to persons who had reached the top level of retirement benefits but were not yet at retirement age.

"The only thing it cost us was the difference between what the people actually received and $2,500," said Shea.

"Those 50 people that retired mean there are 50 people less that we will have to lay off," Tobin said. "So we're also saving on unemployment costs."

"We're also able to maintain municipal services by keeping as many jobs as possible," Tobin said.

Shea said that the exact number of persons who opted for the early retirement, as well as the exact cost to the city, were still being counted.

Dunkin' Donuts Approved For Wollaston Site

The City License Board approved by a 4-1 vote Tuesday plans for the city's fourth Dunkin' Donuts shop, to be located at 724 Hancock St., Wollaston, the site of a former Gulf gas station.

Voting against the venture was Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh.

The shop will be open 5 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Dunkin' Donuts architect Leonard Markir told the board the old gas station would be demolished and a new building erected as far back on the property line as possible.

Ward Councilor Stephen McGrath said that neighbors were satisfied with the plans and felt the shop would be an asset. However, McGrath said he opposed the shop's request to be open 24 hours a day.

Gillis and Police Chief Francis Finn agreed that shop shouldn't be open 24 hours.

Finn also said he wanted to see a right turn only sign at the shop's exit on Hancock St. "I don't want to see cross cut traffic on Hancock St.," said Finn.

Barry pointed out that Markir didn't state he would install a new odor control system if the original one didn't prove efficient, only that he would work on the problem. Markir said he didn't have the authority to guarantee a second system.

Dr. McKeogh said the operation shouldn't be put in if they can't control odors.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald concluded "if the odor control system doesn't do the job, we can revoke the license."

Dunkin' Donuts can re-apply for extended hours in six months.

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Continued to April 28, a request from Shell Oil Company, 315 Hancock St., for a permit to store 10,000 gallons of gasoline, under ground, in addition to the present storage of 14,000 gallons of gas.

- Board members will view a Shell station on Gallivan Boulevard, Dorchester, as an example of how the station will be improved if the increased storage is granted. A rendering of the improvements is also to be submitted to the board.

Can Still Borrow

City's Bond Rating Suspension May Not Be Long

City officials aren't waving the white flag yet on last week's decision by Moody's Investors Service of New York to suspend bond ratings for Quincy and 36 other communities.

That suspension may last only about two months, until Moody's has a chance to examine Quincy's 1981-82 budget, said former Auditor Charles Shea.

The New York firm suspended ratings for the 37 communities because of uncertainty over their ability to raise funds due to Proposition 2½. The ratings serve as a guide for potential investors—such as banks—to the communities' fiscal stability.

Quincy's rating had been 'A'—the middle step of five ratings: AAA (the highest), AA, A, B and C.

Until the city's rating is restored, said Mayor Arthur Tobin, the city is still able to borrow money, but may pay a higher interest rate.

"Right now, it may cost the city more, but it's hard to say how much," said city Treasurer Joseph Foy. "The city of Brockton is going in to borrow some money this morning and we'll be watching to see how they come out. That will probably be the first indicator."

"As of now, it's a wait-and-see situation," he said.

"We're not looking at it the way a lot of municipalities are," said

Tobin. "Look at the city of Boston—they've got a huge deficit, they're having big school problems, all sorts of other problems. I don't want to criticize the city of Boston but who would buy city of Boston municipal bonds?"

"We didn't take the drastic approach to 2½ that other communities did. We've taken a humane approach, we've streamlined budgets, we've tried to protect public safety."

"What Moody's is doing is putting everybody on equal basis," said Tobin. "After 2½ begins to clear, I think they'll go back and take a look at each of these communities and decide how they've dealt with 2½."

NO. 1 RETIRES — Joseph Nichol, holder of Badge No. 1 retired Tuesday. Here he receives certificate of appreciation from Mayor Arthur Tobin. Nichol was a member of the police department since 1942, when he was appointed permanent reserve by Mayor Thomas Burgin. He is a resident of 52 Ratford St., Houghs Neck and had been assigned to City Hall for 10 years.

License Board Approves Wine, Cheese Shoppe

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board approved plans Tuesday for a Lire and Wedge, Wine and Cheese Shoppe at 230 Washington St., Quincy Point, which should be ready for business by about August according to the owner.

A second request from Nicholas V. Trifone for storage of 8,000 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil in underground tanks on the premises was continued for one week pending inspection of the tanks. The tanks are on the premises because the site was formerly a Citgo station.

Trifone, whose wife Sheila will manage the shoppe, said he will be investing $150,000 in the business. He said construction should begin about mid-April.

Atty. Richard Barry, representing the Trifones, said the shoppe would offer specialty Italian food and there would also be a beer and wine retail package store.

Barry said 25 feet would be added to the present structure to house the package store section and hours of operation would be 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Trifone was requesting the gasoline storage for personal use by himself and his family, and not for sale to the public, said Barry.

Councillor Daniel Raymondi said the Ward II Civic Association's Board of Directors voted 9 to 2 to approve the plans.

Raymondi also said he considered the plans another aspect in development of the area. Atty. Paul Marini, an area resident, said he favored the plans and that they would be an improvement to the property.

City Clerk John Gillis informed the board that the South Shore Chamber of Commerce favored the plans. The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association board also favored the plans, Trifone told the board.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh said he objected to the food and gasoline combination even if the latter were for personal use.

"I suggest you drop the idea of the gasoline and go one way or another," said Dr. McKeogh. "The (gasoline) odor alone would jeopardize the food service."

Police Chief Francis Finn also said he wasn't sure if mixing food and gasoline was a good idea.

Barry responded that an estimate of $10,000 had been given to the Trifones for removal of the tanks which would be required by law if the storage permit was denied.

Trifone also said "Nowadays, gas in the ground is worth more than a dollar in a bank."

Dr. McKeogh replied, "Not if it's next to a food business. McKeogh also reminded Trifone that a license from the Health Department was necessary if there was to be take out food business."

A beer and wine retail package store license was granted by the board with the stipulations the completed building come as close as possible to the rendering shown the board, and that the building, landscape and sign be approved by the building inspector.

The matter of gasoline storage will be discussed again next week.

Quincy Tops County In Dog Population

Norfolk County Treasurer James M. Collins has issued his annual Canine Report showing that there were 48,743 licensed dogs in the county in 1980, not including those in kennels.

Quincy had the largest number, 3,884, including 2,194 males, 1,440 spayed females and 246 females.

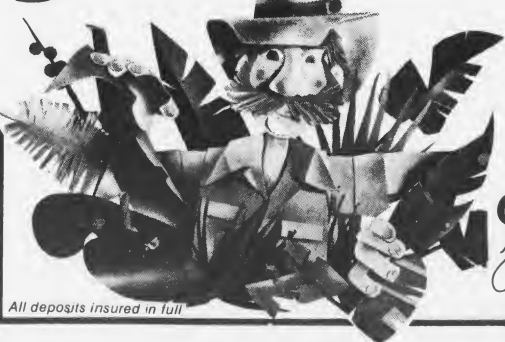

Collins reported that the county dog receipts from the 28 communities came to $145,562.96 with disbursements of $82,608.99 and a balance of $62,953.97 returned to the cities and towns.

Quincy received the largest return, $5,073.34, with the funds going for library purposes.

The county issued two $10 kennel licenses and two $25 kennel licenses of Quincy, out of which the city received $38.84.

Rice Eventide Home Appoints New Administrator, Elects 2 To Board

The Board of Directors of the William B. Rice Eventide Home, Quincy announces the election of two new members, Mrs. Ruth Dobbie and Mrs. Kathryn Losordo, and the selection of Miss Priscilla Urann as the Home's Administrator, at its recent annual meeting.

Mrs. Dobbie, a Quincy resident, is the executive director of the Quincy Visiting Nurses Association. She has her BS and MS in Nursing from Boston University and is a member of the Mass. Nurses Association and the Mass. Public Health Nurses' Association. She is also a member of the Boards of Directors of the Quincy Council on Aging and RSVP (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program).

Mrs. Losordo, also a Quincy resident, is a member of the Quincy Hospital Auxiliary, the Quincy Historical Society and the Florence Crittendon League, and is a member and past President of the Quincy Women's Club and the Mass. Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Urann has served as Acting Administrator of Eventide following the resignation of Andrew J. Comeau, former administrator. Comeau is presently the administrator of The Home for Aged Women in Jamaica Plain.

Miss Urann, a Braintree resident, is a graduate of Emmanuel College. Formerly with the Boston Redevelopment Authority, she was also director of Social Services at Eventide prior to her appointment as administrator. She is a member of the South Shore Chapter of the Mass. Federation of Nursing Home Administrators and the Boston and South Suburban Division of the Association of Massachusetts Homes for the Aging.

Secretaries Day At Quincy Junior College

It was Secretarial Career Day at Quincy Junior College yesterday (Wednesday), the day that QJC alumnae return "to acquaint those interested in careers as secretaries with the realities of the working world."

"While the movie 9 to 5 is definitely not what the real world of work is all about," said Virginia Waller, chairman of the Secretarial Department, "our alumnae usually do relate a few amusing anecdotes about themselves as well as dispel some of the misconceptions of being a secretary."

Among the visitors this year were Susan Duggan of the Suffolk Law School Admissions Office, Cathy Howard of Dedham Medical Associates, Judy Timcoe

Morris of the First National Bank Legal Department, and Lisa Popolo of the UMass Student Services.

Ron Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, spoke on what employers expect of their secretaries.

QCH Offering Free Breastfeeding Class

A free breastfeeding class for prospective parents and mothers who are nursing their babies will be held Wednesday, April 1, at 9:30 a.m. at Gordon House, Quincy City Hospital.

Topics to be covered are: whether or not to breastfeed, care of the breasts before and during breastfeeding, adapting breastfeeding to the hospital schedule, nutrition for the nursing mother, establishing a modified demand schedule, expressing and freezing breastmilk, possible problems and how to deal with them.

To register, call Ann Kurkjian at 848-8564.

GIVE US A HELPING HAND AND SOME AMAZING FEET.

Support the "Walk-For-PSSB" on April 5th.

On Sunday, April 5th the Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB) is holding its 7th annual "Walk-For-PSSB." And 1st American Bank is proud to be the sponsor. For the past 32 years PSSB has offered the South Shore a broad range of services designed to help families of all ages, races, and religions.

"Walk-For-PSSB" is a major source of the Bureau's funding for these services.

During the past six years the response to the "Walk" has been amazing. Hundreds of people from all walks of life have walked to raise thousands of dollars.

The 10 mile walk starts and ends in the parking lot of our Quincy office at 77 Granite Street. The walk begins at 1:00 P.M. and refreshments will be served at its conclusion.

This year we're asking for a helping hand or some amazing feet from you. If you'd like to walk for PSSB or sponsor a walker, please write or call Thelma Wilde, manager, at the Quincy office, 471-1112.

It could be one of the most moving experiences of your life.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

BEWARE THE STAIRS

Of the 20,000 persons killed in accidental home falls last year, all too common was the incidence of falling down stairs. Fortunately, this is a hazard that can be greatly reduced with very little effort.

All stairs should have hand rails - and open stairways should have one on each side.

Surprisingly, rubber mats, used to prevent slipping, often do more harm than good, especially if they are worn skid-smooth or fastened poorly. Varnished steps also prove more likely to send people flying. Considerably safer is just plain paint of bare wood stairs.

Advice ... Add a little fine sand to paint before applying to steps to make an abrasive surface. Make the bottom and top steps more visible with a bright colored paint or strip of reflective tape. Be sure stairways have adequate light that can be operated from both top and bottom.

Parents Of Son

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Nicklas of 54 Bowdoin St., Montclair, are parents of a son, Brian, their first child, born Jan. 25, at St. Margaret's Hospital for Women, Boston.

The ball which benefits the society's scholarship fund, will begin with a grand march to the strains of bagpipes playing tunes as "Scotland the Brave". Many Scots and Scots-Americans attend in traditional dress making the March especially colorful.

There will be a traditional highland dancing exhibition and a demonstration of Scottish country dancing by the "Odd Couples" team.

The evening will conclude with the bagpipes playing "Amazing Grace" and "Auld Lang Syne".

For more information, call Robert Jack at 472-3713. Tickets can be obtained from Alexander Dakers, vice president, at 524-1861.

Quincy Emblem Club Adopting Foster Children

The Quincy Emblem Club voted at a recent meeting to donate $10 monthly to adopt foster children.

The idea was introduced to the group by member Susan McGregor.

It is one of a number of charitable endeavors conducted by the club.

Club members also visit the Veterans Administration Hospital monthly in conjunction with the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

Sons Of Italy Hold Irish Night

Irish dancing and music was featured at an Irish Night held recently by Quincy Sons of Italy in honor of St. Patrick.

Green was the color for the evening due to the efforts of Joe Sacco assisted by John Rossi.

Potted green shamrocks adorned each table and were presented to the youngest at the table. The menu also had a touch of green in the form of ice cream and creme de menthe. Those attending the event wore green ties, shirts and dresses.

Dressed in Irish costumes, students from the Maureen Hansen School of Dancing performed the Reel, six handed jig and the hornpipe.

Vincent Pinella and his band provided Irish music for dancing the remainder of the evening.

16 Hospital Retirees Honored At Reception

A tea and reception was held recently at Quincy City Hospital to honor 16 retiring members of the hospital staff.

Michael Kitchen, QCH director, presented framed service awards to all retirees. Those with 15 years or more of service also received Paul Revere Bowls.

Mary McLaughlin, of Continuing Care and Oncology with over 42 years of service, and Dorothy Kelley, ICU, with 39 years, were recognized for their service to the hospital.

Other retirees honored at the reception were Harold Bates, maintenance department; Elizabeth DellaBarba, record room; Mary Deschaine, dietary; Marguerite Gordon, record room; Monica Kelsch, CSR; Eleanor Pendleton, dietician; Agnes Ritchie, dietary; Winifred Taylor, billing; Grace Troupe, deputy collector's office; Regina Carnathan, secretary on Hunting II; Anna Gange, record room; Rita Galvin, nurses' aide; Bertha Magnes, Utilization Review; Helen McInnis, CSR.

Tsongas Staff Member Office Hours April 9

A member of Sen. Paul Tsongas' staff will hold office hours Thursday, April 9 at City Hall to meet with residents and answer questions.

Staff member Shirley Simons will be at City Hall from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Anyone needing assistance with federal matters or information on government programs is encouraged to meet with her.

Fuel assistance, housing, social security, veterans benefits, immigration, Medicaid and Medicare are among the concerns many residents have raised recently when meeting with Tsongas' staff aide. Others have dropped by to talk about budget cuts proposed by the Reagan Administration or to voice their views on the situation in El Salvador.

Community Action To Elect Directors

The Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc., the city's anti-poverty agency, will hold elections for its board of directors Wednesday, April 1, from 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Voting will take place at two locations, the South West

Community Center, 372 Granite St., and St. Boniface Church, Shed and Palmer Sts., Germantown.

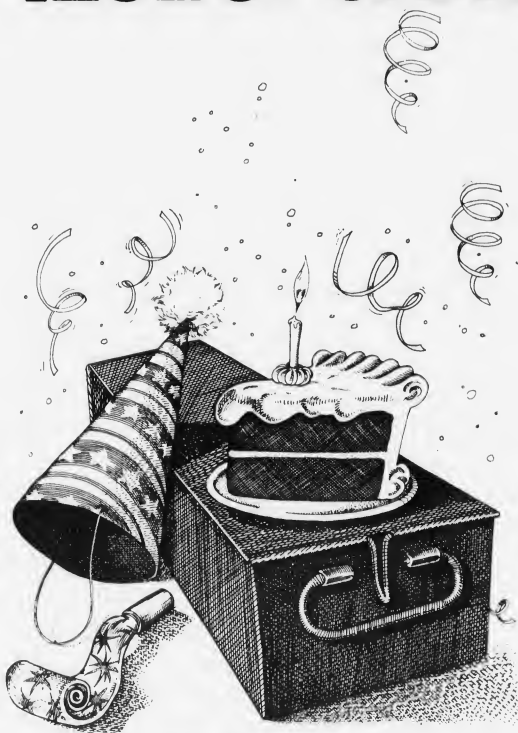

Those wishing to serve on the board must be low income people willing to serve for one year.

Board members are called upon to plan and implement programs and evaluate existing programs that will impact the lives of low income and elderly residents of the target areas.

For further information, call Mary L. Brelsford at the South West Community Center, 471-0796.

Thank You, QJC

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

This is a love letter to a school. Quincy Jr. College, as colleges go, is not your large university surrounded by magnificent lawns and imposing buildings. On the contrary, it is small and squeezed into a city's main center; but if ever there was living proof that learning does not depend on fancy surroundings, Quincy Junior College is that proof.

People of all ages attend this school. It is a starting point for young people who cannot afford the larger universities or who work and find this school fits into their schedules. It is a place for older people who allowed life to sidetrack them to return to. They can go on to a higher education here and they do, in droves.

I fit into the latter category. I am due to graduate in June and I want to turn the tables and congratulate, no thank, the following teachers who have helped me grow and learn:

Thank you: Mary Sagan, my first QJC teacher, for giving me something to strive for professionally.

Larry Creedon, for teaching me to ask, "how come?"

Bill Hutchinson, for giving me the courage to put the words on paper.

Burt Barker, for helping a city girl learn more about the environment than why the grass grows between the concrete.

Charlie Munson, for helping me to understand other people.

Paul White, for teaching me how different people are and how very much alike they are at the same time.

Lt. Francis Mullen, for helping me understand the criminal justice system.

Bob Cavley, for opening the Pandora's box with his encouragement and for loving the written word.

Butch Mahoney, for caring so much about kids in trouble.

Carl De Vasto, for giving my writing direction and form.

Readers Forum

Alicia Coletti, for making me proud of any talent I might have.

Lawrence Hines, for telling the truth about history and for making it so interesting.

Ron Della Chiesa, for loving music so and bringing joy and knowledge of music into my life.

Bob Waywood, for opening his mind wide and sharing the wonders of literature and for teaching me to strive for perfection.

Edward Loughman, for helping me to know myself.

Pat McDermott, for giving me courage to speak and, lastly, but most important, thank you.

Joe Greene, my husband, for his encouragement, support and without whom none of these things would be possible.

Thank you, Quincy Junior College, for being there.

Brownell Asks More State Aid To City

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell testified before the Joint Taxation Committee in support of legislation to provide $360 million in additional local aid to cities and towns.

Quincy would receive $769 dollars under the formula.

"This legislation provides a mechanism for an equal sharing between state and local government of the revenue losses the cities and towns must now bear under Proposition 2½, without increasing taxes," said Brownell.

"By allocating a higher percentage of the sales, income, and corporate excise tax contributions to the Local Aid Fund (40 to 50 percent) the state budget would redirect approximately $360 million in fiscal 1982 to the cities and towns.

"It is incumbent upon the state to explore this avenue before considering any new taxes."

The figures used in the allocation formula are based on projections for anticipated growth in the sales, income, and corporate excise taxes as prices, incomes, and profits rise.

Brownell said the cities and towns should share in this surplus since they have no revenue producing growth taxes of their own.

Jack Donahue: Coach And Friend

You don't run across many Jack Donahues during a lifetime. And, that's too bad.

Because men like the former North Quincy High School football coach have a tremendous influence on youth. A good, healthy influence.

Donahue, now 76, is convalescing at his Quincy Ave. (135) home from a hip fracture suffered in a fall some weeks ago.

He retired in 1960 after 28 years as NQHS coach.

He was, until then, the only head football coach the Raiders ever had. And, he was a good one.

He was tough, but fair. And he really knew his football.

Donahue was an outstanding guard and captain of the 1925 Boston College team under Frank Cavanaugh, the famed "Iron Major."

When Donahue came to North at age 28 in 1932, he brought with him the Cavanaugh spirit and method of playing football. It was the right combination.

Donahue's 28-year record at North: 157 wins, 99 losses and 22 ties.

He, probably more than anyone else, was responsible for that intense school loyalty and spirit that still exists today.

He could work an underdog North team up like Knute Rockne. In fact on any Thanksgiving Day morning, Quincy High School could count on finding itself up against a high school version of Notre Dame -- especially if Quincy was favored.

Pete Zoia, who played half-back for Donahue's very first North team and was captain in 1935, idolized him then. And, still does.

He was a strict disciplinarian," Pete recalls. "He was really tough, but he was clean and fair. He taught you to go in and hit as hard as you could--but never ever to be dirty. He wouldn't stand for dirty play. He inspired you on and off the field."

Another former player, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon who played guard around 1950, also formerly remembers his coach.

In fact, the other day, Creedon came across some letters in the attic of his family's home on Kendall St., North Quincy.

They were written by Creedon's father, Peter, a Navy lieutenant during World War II and later Quincy deputy fire chief.

DONAHUE

One letter, dated Sept. 23, 1943, was written to Larry's brother, Joe, who was Donahue's quarterback that year.

Dr. Creedon recently shared the contents of the letter with Donahue and noted: "I thought you might appreciate hearing how you were valued by a parent of one of your athletes."

An excerpt from the letter to Joe:

"Keep up this good work in high school and future life whatever fate may bring you, service to your country or to the community. No greater teacher of fair play exists than Mr. Jack Donahue and your playing for him will be remembered long by you and your classmates."

To which Dr. Creedon added in a get-well note:

"Coach, those words were written nearly 40 years ago. The future my father spoke about is now all but the past. His realization of your profound influence on not only my brother, Joe, and all the Creedon boys, but also on hundreds of young men from North Quincy, spoke a truth that each of us who were privileged to play for you now knows to be true.

"God bless you and thank you. My Dad was right on target."

Here's wishing you a speedy recovery, Jack.

SOURCES CLOSE TO Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond are pretty sure he will run for mayor this year if incumbent Arthur Tobin is not a candidate for a third term. Raymond would be considered a strong contender.

RAYMONDI

IF THE CITY Council were to vote this week for a new auditor to succeed Charles Shea who suddenly stepped down two weeks ago, the betting is that the job would go to Robert Foy. The latter, one of the city's most popular and competent treasurers and tax collectors, reportedly is very much interested.

FOY

Quincy Quiz

Just two winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

The only persons to correctly answer were Rachel Boland, 30 Reardon St., West Quincy and Dominic Venturilli, 64 Cross St., West Quincy.

The big stumper, for 14 different contestants, was the question as to what is the city's longest street. According to the city Engineering Department, Sea St. is 16,500 feet long and Hancock St. the second longest at 16,370.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the manager of Quincy City Hospital?
2. In what section of the city is Independence Ave.?
3. Name the five members of the City Licensing Board.
4. How many elementary schools does the city now have?
5. The Willard School was named for Solomon Willard. Who was he?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Sacred Heart Church is located in North Quincy.
2. JoAnn O'Malley is president of the Quincy Education Association.
3. Quincy City Hospital is located at 114 Whitwell St.
4. There are nine city councillors.
5. Sea St. is the city's longest street.

April 9 Entry Deadline

Art Festival Open To Local High School Students

The Quincy Art Festival open to high school students from Quincy in grades nine to 12 will be held May 9, at Adams Academy, 8 Adams St.

All entries from Quincy schools will be picked up Thursday, April 9. Students attending schools outside Quincy should bring their work to the Parish House entrance of First Parish Church, Quincy Square, that day between 3 and 5 p.m.

Two entries of original works are allowed per student. Entries can be in any media: painting, carving, ceramics, jewelry, weaving or photography.

To be accepted, works should not exceed 22 x 28 before framing. Application labels must be filled out and attached to the upper right hand corner.

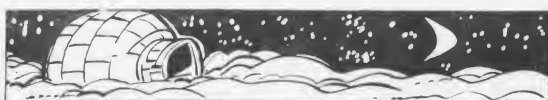

A champagne preview, featuring presentation of awards, will be held for students, parents, teachers and guests, Friday, May 8, at 8 p.m.

First prizes of $25 will be awarded at each grade level.

There will also be second and third prize ribbons awarded as well as two $25 cash awards for photograph and objects d'art.

Judges will be Constante Bergfors Rice, Maryland artist; Richard Ramsdell, arts and humanities director for the Quincy Public Schools; Olive Tompkins and Kay Hansen, Quincy Art Association members.

Anet Palieranni is festival coordinator and Kay Hansen is exhibit chairman. Marcia Oster is association president.

The sun is not seen in the North Pole for 186 days a year.

Shock, Prayer, Concern Reaction To Reagan Shooting

"It's going to raise the question of gun control, but it's more complex than that."

"Unfortunately, it's becoming a common occurrence for someone to take a shot at the president. It's symbolic of a sickness in our society."

"There's obviously a serious problem with violence in our society. How government addresses itself to this is the question."

Police Chief Francis Finn called the assassination attempt "heartbreaking" and "a terrible thing."

"I happen to think Massachusetts has good solid gun laws and that there would be a lot less problems if other states had them too," said Finn. "There are just too many guns out there. It's a never win battle. You can't win with all the violence," said Finn. He concluded, "It's very sad."

The more than 250 persons in at the service heard remarks by Rev. William Underhill of St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston; Rev. Thomas DeLorenzo of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy; Rev. Bedros Baharian, pastor emeritus of Quincy Point Congregational Church; Robert Johnson of the Woodward School for Girls and Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth El.

In addition to prayers for the President, speakers called for an elimination of the conditions that result in crime and for stricter gun control.

Rabbi Jacobs said, "We are grateful that our president was not added to the gruesome list of victims by gun toting Americans. Gun control has no priority with our official legislation...we urgently require the gun control we deserve, what greater sacrifice must be made to get it."

The issues of crime and gun control and the President's position on them were on the minds of many there. Questioned on gun control after the service, Chmielinski doubted gun control would work. "People who want guns can get them," he said.

Governor's Councilor Peter Eleey agreed with Reagan's stand. "Gun control is not the way. Tough mandatory sentences for persons who commit a crime with a gun are the answer."

For others, the criminal assassination attempt was the reason they came to pray.

Barbara Lynch of Quincy was "against it happening again in (her) lifetime. We've got to do something about it with our laws. Crime is out of control."

Woodward School student, Alison Maloney was sick over the shooting. "I don't know what we can do to tell you the truth. It is just too strange to deal with."

Fire Dept. Layoffs Cut From 17 to 10

Cutbacks in the fire department have been reduced from 17 men to 10 and, possibly, even less.

"Originally, they (the city) sent out notices to 17 men," said Quincy Fire Fighters Association president George Lamb. "Then, last Thursday, they sent out more notices to seven men, saying they won't be laid off the next day."

Lamb said that the large number of retirements in the fire department recently about 15 may reduce the number of layoffs necessary to six or even less.

"We had a very good meeting with (former city Auditor) Charlie Shea yesterday," said Lamb Tuesday. "We're waiting for him to get back to us for a meeting today or tomorrow."

"I think that the numbers are going to be reduced," he said.

"We are continuing negotiations," said Mayor Arthur Tobin. "The talks are very positive and progressing."

As of last week, Tobin was proposing to reduce the fire department by 29 positions.

Eleven men would be laid off and 18 positions would be eliminated by attrition, he said.

Also, one deputy chief and five captains would be demoted.

The six demotions and one of the 11 layoffs were made unnecessary by early retirements in the department, Tobin said Tuesday.

"We're still working very closely with the firefighters. We hope to get the number (of layoffs) under 10," he said. "But, I can't say much more about it at this time."

First Woman Heads Post Office

light," she says. "I'd like to talk to groups about our programs and help them understand what we do." She and her husband, Robert, joined the Squantum Community Association prior to moving into their homes. "We wanted to be part of our neighborhood," she explains.

Originally planning a career in education, Cannon applied for and got a job with the Postal Service after proding from her father, a postal employee. "I wanted to work part time while in school."

The affirmative action program of the service encouraged her she says, to consider a management position in the organization. "I joined a training management program and ended up here."

Cannon says that even though the postal service is a male dominated occupation, male employees are very respectful to a woman manager.

"If she is qualified,"

Responding to a question about her future career in the post office, Cannon says, "I enjoy my work here. The Quincy Post office is a large operation and, consequently, is considered a very good job. How far a person goes in any occupation depends upon herself. Right now, I am staying here."

Lewis Elected City Manager At $10,000 A Year

Edward T. (Red) Lewis, administrative assistant for the past three years, was elected to the $10,000 a year post of City Manager of Quincy by a 7-0 vote of the City Council.

Lewis would be making $3,500 less than his predecessor, Donald H. Blatt, who resigned March 19 to accept a similar post in West Hartford, Conn.

It was learned that the City Council was considering the appointment of George A. Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, to the job of administrative assistant.

NEW POST OFFICE NEEDED

A survey of buildings in the Boston Postal District indicated that the Quincy Post Office, which was built in 1909, was among those most needed to be replaced.

Boston Postmaster Joseph P.W. Finn said the Quincy building was inadequate in efficiency and economy because the work rooms, the loading platforms and the parking areas were too small.

PERFECT RECORD

Rep. William W. Jenness (R-Quincy) observed his 52nd birthday by answering his 2000th consecutive roll call, which was believed to be an all time record in the 176 years of the House.

Jenness had never missed a roll call since he entered the House in 1945 after chalking up a perfect attendance record on the Quincy City Council between 1938 and 1945.

HUNGRY THIEVES

Burglars broke into the home of George Harvey, 72 Nightingale Ave., South Quincy, and stole a ham, a chicken, a pound of hamburger and two pounds of steak but passed up $6.60 in cash on a kitchen table.

ANTI-COMMUNIST TALK

Superior Court Clerk Thomas Dorgan, author of a book on communism called "The Teachers Oath," spoke on his fight against the Reds at a meeting of the Fellowship and Service Institute at the home of the Rev. Oswald A. Blumit, 45 Myopia Rd., Wollaston.

PARKING OPPOSED

A proposal by Olga and Pasquale Rosatone, 99 Bigelow St., to create a 100-space private parking area in the Bigelow-Mechanic St. section of Quincy Center, received stern opposition at a Council hearing.

The program is open to the public.

Squantum Church Holds Second Service Involving Fine Arts

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum held the second of its Lenten services involving the fine arts Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached a sermon "Dawn Came Too Late", written some years ago by Rev. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the U.S. Senate.

The Youth Choir sang "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley", a traditional spiritual. The Chancel Choir sang, "I Will Not Leave You Comfortless" by Everett Titcomb.

Also participating were four young women from the Atlantic Assembly of Rainbow, whose members and advisory board were attending the service.

Diane Haskins gave the call to worship. Nancy Burnhauser led the opening prayer. Holly Bumpus and Bonnie Adams joined with the pastor to read the Scripture.

Mother Advisor to the Atlantic Assembly, Muriel Burnhauser who is also church secretary, was honored by the congregation for her long hours of hard work in behalf of the church. She was presented a bouquet of flowers by the pastor and Deacon Ellen Ogilvie.

Greeters for the service were Warren and Marjorie Miller and their granddaughter, Tracy. Ushers for the service were Don Frazer, Richard Williams, Mark Paul, Bonnie Adams, Paul Paulson, Tore Wallin and Laura Johnson.

Johnson.

A reception after the service honored the visiting Rainbow girls and their leaders. This was hosted by Barbara Frazer, Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne.

The first Lenten service involving the fine arts was held at the church recently. The pastor illustrated his sermon on "Jesus' Last Supper" with over 100 slides of great paintings and contemporary scenes. The slides were projected on the front wall of the sanctuary as the pastor preached.

Paintings shown were by Cranach, Boutz, da Vinci, Juan des Juanes, Juste de Grande, Giotto, Haidt, Rembrandt, Rubens, Masaccio, Velazquez, Rouault, Del Sarto, Schongauer, Francesca, Caravaggio, Fra Angelico, Nolde, Dali, Njau and the artist who painted the second century picture of the Lord's Supper in the catacomb of St. Callistus. Richard Williams assisted with the projector. Earlier in the service, Dr. Langevin had given the children in the church a special explanation of the Lord's Supper.

The Chancel Choir sang "God So Loved the World" by John Stainer.

The service concluded with the Lord's Supper. Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Leon MacIntyre, Doris Longmire, Grace Holmes, Hazel Mayne and Tom Williams.

Greeters were Edward and Marie Reister and their daughters

Karin and Kristin. Ushers were Paul Paulson, Tore Wallin, Laura Johnson, Steve Williams and Bonnie Adams.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Millie Johnson, Ginny Galerneaux and Sally Wainwright.

Special services scheduled include a showing of the movie "Parable" during the service Sunday, April 5, and a puppet play by The Way-Uppers Palm Sunday, April 12. The services begin at 10:15 a.m.

Easter Sunday there will be a Sunrise Service at 7 a.m. at Mosseswetuset Hummock. The traditional Easter celebration will be held at 10:15 a.m. at the church.

The church is also sponsoring a series of programs weeknights throughout Lent. Beginning with the first one on Ash Wednesday, they have alternated Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

The Lenten programs begin with a brief devotional and a filmstrip on the life of a famous Christian. They conclude with an open discussion of the series theme, "What It Means To Be A Christian".

Christians whose lives have been studied include the Apostle Paul, Francis of Assisi, John Wyclif, Martin Luther, John Wesley and Walter Rauschenbusch.

This week's program was held Wednesday, April 1. Next week's program will be Tuesday, April 7, 7 to 8 p.m. Coffee is served.

Soren Kierkegaard Film Sunday At St. John's

A film on Soren Kierkegaard, Danish philosopher and Christian existentialist, will be shown Sunday, April 5, at 8 p.m. at St. John's School, Phipps St., Quincy.

The film is the fifth in a series on "Faith in a Time of Crisis" being presented Sundays during Lent.

There is no charge for the films and they are open to all.

Refreshments are served.

The final film in the series will be on William Blake April 12.

British commentator Malcolm Muggeridge narrates the film series produced by BBC/TV.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Over 800 To Take Part In PSSB 10-Mile Walk

Joining with some 800 church members from the South Shore on April 5, will be more than 500 people from Quincy as they take part in the 1981 "Walk-for-PSSB."

The annual 10-mile event is for the benefit of the Protestant Social Service Bureau. The route will include Quincy, Braintree, and Weymouth.

A goal of $28,000 has been set, according to H. Wallace Sylvester, co-chairman, of Quincy. Last year the walk raised over $22,000 for the family counseling and adoption services of the agency which serves South Shore Communities.

Local churches participating in this year's walk include Atlantic Methodist, Atlantic Memorial, Bethany Congregational, Central Baptist, Christ Church, Covenant Congregational, Faith Lutheran, First Church, Squantum, First United Presbyterian, Wollaston Baptist, Fort Square United Presbyterian, Houghs Neck Congregational, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Quincy Centre Methodist, Quincy Point Congregational, St. Chrysostoms, Union Congregational of Wollaston and Wollaston Congregational.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau has been designated one of the outstanding adoption agencies in the nation.

"In just 5 years," said Robert Taylor, executive director, "PSSB has placed more than 200 children in permanent homes. Many of the youngsters have been handicapped.

Along with its family counseling services, the Protestant Social Service Bureau sponsors delinquency prevention programs for children. "Our goal is to help them avoid developing a pattern of life which will get them into trouble states Mr. Taylor.

Anyone interested in sponsoring a walker may make a pledge by calling Carol Block, co-chairman, at 773-9239.

'Devastating Effect' On Athletics 27 High School Coaches To Lose Jobs

By TOM SULLIVAN
Proposition 2½, which is costing the jobs of nearly 200 teachers in the Quincy school system, will have a tremendous impact on the Quincy and North Quincy High School athletic programs.

"I don't think the taxpayers realize what a devastating effect this will have on our high school athletic programs," said Lou Tozzi, president of the North Quincy High Coaches Association. "At least 27 coaches on the high school varsity and junior varsity level are due to lose their jobs and the athletes are going to suffer."

"Among the sports which will be affected are Quincy soccer, Quincy gymnastics, North gymnastics, North volleyball, Quincy swimming, North wrestling, Quincy and North hockey, North baseball, North tennis and all boys and girls basketball at both schools."

"The basketball program, in particular, will be affected. This year, for the first time, all four boys' and girls' teams made the Eastern Massachusetts tournament and each of these teams will lose a head coach or assistant."

"There won't be enough teacher-coaches left in the system and they will have to go outside for coaches. The Boosters Clubs are upset and are going to see if they can do anything."

Although the school committee last week saved the jobs of 29 teachers (197 are still due to be cut) and saved the junior high sports programs, the action will have little effect on the coaches' cuts. The physical education department is being hit the hardest and most of the coaches are in physical ed.

"It really is a shame," said North Quincy principal Peter Crisom. "Here at North we are on the upswing both athletically and scholastically and it is hard to see the bottom falling out. We will lose some outstanding young coaches who will be awfully hard to replace."

Quincy principal Lloyd Hill concurs. "We have some excellent young coaches here and the athletes will be the ones to suffer," he said. These young men are not only coaches, they are like big brothers to the players and it is going to be difficult to find capable replacements."

Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone is extremely unhappy at the cuts but admitted nothing apparently could be done to prevent them.

"If we have to go outside for coaches, I hope some of those being cut can return," he said. "We have to give teachers in the system first preference but, if we have to go outside, we will."

Among the coaches due to be cut are North Quincy varsity basketball coach Ed Miller and head hockey coach Kevin Lewis, who have done excellent jobs bringing their teams along.

"I would like to keep on coaching and I want to see our program continue on the upswing," Miller, who has been coaching eight years, said. "I hate to see someone not qualified take over. The basketball programs, both boys and girls, at both schools, are outstanding and I hope they won't begin to go down."

Ken McPhee, defensive coordinator for the North football team, feels like Miller. "I've been coaching 10 years and I would like to keep on coaching, even if I lose my teaching job. I just can't turn my back on these kids. I've put in a lot of time and effort, just as all our other coaches have."

Football Coach Dave Burke is scheduled to lose McPhee and at least one other assistant.

Quincy Football Coach Tom Fitzgerald will be one of the hardest hit. He is due to lose his entire staff of assistants.

"This is hard to take," he said.

"We have such a dedicated group of assistant coaches. Where are we going to get qualified coaches to replace them?"

"We have been fortunate in the past few years to get football scholarships for most of our seniors. This is the result of the excellent coaching the boys received. It will be a lot harder for them to get scholarships if the calibre of the coaching goes down."

"These fine young coaches are awfully close to the players, both on and off the field. One of them had tears in his eyes as we talked recently. He just can't accept the fact he will be leaving the boys."

One person not involved in the cuts but who feels very strongly about the situation is Bob Nolan, who coached North basketball for several years before Miller took over and who is a former assistant football coach.

"Eddie Miller was my first captain and later my assistant, and I coached Ken McPhee in football," he said. "They have done wonderful jobs, as have all the other coaches, and they have paid their dues. My biggest concern is the calibre of the coaches who replace them. I hope teachers who are not qualified but just want the extra money for coaching are not appointed and the programs begin going downhill."

Although the junior high sports have been saved (Leone had felt cuts would have to be made there, there apparently will be coaching problems there, also).

Many of the high school coaches teach in the junior high or elementary schools. If more junior high coaches are appointed to the high school staffs, it will be hard to find capable replacements on the junior high level.

So, where do they go from here? Regardless of what happens, the high school athletes are going to be the big losers when the coaching cuts take place.

SUE MURRAY, left, and Sue Coleman of Quincy recently completed outstanding seasons for the Northeastern University women's tennis team. Murray, a freshman, played third singles and had an 8-3 record. Coleman, a junior, teamed with senior Joan Grasso to form the Huskies' first doubles team and finished with a 9-2 record. Murray played volleyball and tennis at Abp. Williams, while Coleman earned three varsity letters in tennis at Quincy High, captaining the team in each of her three years.

Sterling Girls Win Jayvee Basketball Crown

The Sterling Junior High girls' junior varsity basketball team, coached by Jerry Quintiliani, won the city championship with a 9-3 record.

The team started slowly, losing its first two games, but "hard work, team spirit and determination changed all that," Quintiliani said.

"The addition of Donna Campbell, who missed the first two games, fine rebounding from Darlene Derbes and the leadership and scoring of Captain Chris Cucinatta, as well as the great team play from the reserves, helped us win the next seven games."

The most exciting game of the year was a double overtime win over Central, 19-15. Clutch shots by Campbell and Joanne Doherty clinched the victory.

The starting five included guards Cucinatta and Karen Eames, center Derbes and forwards Campbell and Brenda Mitchell.

Rounding out the squad were Nancy Beguerie, Sherry Cavallo, Beth Doherty, Joanne Doherty, Beth Greenfield, Stacy Horrigan, Lisa Panella, Laurie Pitts, Suzanne Shaw, Ruth Simon, Georgia Traficante, Cindy Wilkinson, Melanie Wilkinson, Heidi Bowness, Kelly Crowe and Colleen Phillips.

Cucinatta led the team in scoring with 65 points. Quintiliani picked Derbes and Campbell as the Most Valuable Players.

"We are planning a victory get-together and have ordered championship jackets," Quintiliani said. "I want to thank the parents for their fine support all season."

The varsity team, coached by Rich Speranzo, finished 6-6 and outscored the opposition, 294-280.

The team was led by Capt. Christine Gallery, the leading rebounder. Rounding out the squad were Tricia Davenport, Susan Morrison, Lisa Boyne, Barbara David, Kelly Burke, Christine Balducci, Lori Ryan, Barbara Cahill, Robin Estrella, Joyce Callahan, Cindy Manupelli, Janice Walsh, Laurie Panella, Laura D'Andrea and Cheryl Miller.

● Mite-Squirt House Feeney's, Lydon Win Balducci, Harold Tie

Feeney's Devils continue to hold their two-point lead over Quincy Teachers in the Mite-Squirt House League.

Feeney's edged Teachers, 3-2, with Mark Rudnisky scoring two goals and Bill Thomas one. Matt Smith, Thomas, Gibbs and Rudnisky had assists. Tom Gleason and Mark Cafano scored for Teachers with assists for John Heaney, Joe Hajjar, Bill Dineen and Ed Devin.

Lydon Russell topped Balducci's, 7-3, sparked by Ron Molloy's hat trick. Ron Last had two goals and Bob Merrill and Sarah Harrington one each. Last and Jeff Connors had two assists apiece and Molloy, Merrie Roman, Bill Lydon and Chris LaForrest one each. Kevin Daley had two goals for Balducci's and Ken Staskywick one. Jeff Hemphill and Daley had assists.

Balducci's and the Harold Club tied, 4-4, with Charlie Quiggly having two goals for Balducci's and Daley and Joe Jackson one each. Bob Ford and Daley had two assists apiece and Jackson, Quiggly and Staskywick one each.

Rich McDonald had two Harold goals and Steve Carroll and Joey Zona one each. Mike Baylis had two assists and Bob Miller, Zona, Rich Watt and Carroll one each.

Teachers defeated BoCar, 6-2, as Dineen exploded for five goals and Mike Hughes had the other. Thomas, Hajjar, Jeff Freeman and Cafano had assists. Walsh and Moriarty scored for BoCar with assists for Mike Witham and Jacky Arnstein.

Lydon upset Feeney's, 3-2, with Connors scoring twice and Roman once. Last had two assists. Scott O'Connell scored both Feeney goals with two assists for Sean McArdle and one for Ferrara.

QJC Has Good Nucleus

By PETE ZOIA

Dave Burke is starting his 13th year as Quincy Junior College baseball coach and his current squad could be one of his best ever.

Last year Burke led the Jaguars to an 8-1-2 record, and he appears to have the nucleus for another successful season. QJC opens against Bunker Hill Community College Wednesday, April 8, at O'Rourke Field, where its eight home games will be played.

Veterans Rob Thomas, unbeaten last spring, and Brian Condon head the pitching corps with two newcomers, Jack Connolly of Weymouth North and Dan Lyons of Quincy looking good. Former North Quincy High pitcher John Wilkinson is nursing a bad ankle. John also starred for Morrisette Legion.

Burke has two fine catchers in Steve Cook of Abp. Williams and Morrisette Legion and Ken Doolin of Weymouth North.

Infield returnees are Eric Carrera and Paul Vespaziani from Quincy High and Condon, who will play in the infield when not pitching.

Other infield hopefuls are Joe Argento of Hanover and John Connolly of Quincy.

John Newcomb and Mike McCormack are veterans in the outfield. Each had a fine year last spring. Also vying for outfield berths are Frank Belcasto of Braintree, John Damilano of Brockton, Jim O'Leary of Weymouth and John Cantelli of Quincy.

Next Monday QJC will play its annual practice game with Charlie Bunker's North Quincy team at 3 at O'Rourke. Burke is a North teacher and head football coach.

"If the weather cooperates and we get in some good practices, we could field a good unit," Burke said. "As in the past, some players work in the afternoon, thus missing some practice sessions, making it hard for them to be ready when the season opens. However, despite this, we should have a well-balanced team with good pitching, sound defense and good hitting."

Sue Keith On Curry Softball Team

Sophomore Sue Keith of Quincy is one of eight veterans on the Curry College women's softball team, which opens a 14-game schedule Friday at 3:30 against Endicott Junior College at the Will Athletic Field in Milton.

Last year the Curry women played only seven games and won only one, but with so many veterans, the team is looking for better things this spring.

Elementary Division Tourney

Snug Harbor, Point, Beechwood, Montclair Win

Snug Harbor defeated Atherton Hough, 28-6, in the quarterfinals of the Quincy Recreation Department's all-city Elementary Division basketball championships at Broad Meadows Junior High.

Snug Harbor's Billy Bunkenhead lead all scorers with 16 points, followed by Steve Austin's 12. Tom Logan, Steve Picarski and Kyle Robinson had two points each for Atherton Hough. Tom Keenan played well defensively for Snug Harbor.

Snug Harbor is coached by Steve Buckley, while Kevin Craig coaches Atherton Hough.

The second game established Quincy Point as the team to beat as it romped over Lincoln-Hancock, 43-24.

Dan Memmelo was the day's high scorer as he had 25 points for Point. Dennis Cronin had six points and Dan Overby four. Rich Coose's Lincoln-Hancock club was led by Jeff Sprague with eight, while Steven Fox had six and Mike Snow four. Scott Grant played well and Point coach John Franceschini had good words for Joe Gendreau, the smallest player in the tournament, and Tim Brillo.

Beechwood Knoll romped past Central, 40-13. Chris Barry had eight points for Jim Holleran's Beech team, Capt. Jim Phelan, Adam McGregor and Dave Buckley had six each. Holleran praised Bob O'Callahan for his ball handling. For Brian Buckley's Central team Mark DiMartio had five points and Mike Casetti, Jim Kilcommons and Scott Sacchetti two each.

In the final game Jerry Pratt's Montclair team topped Jack Kelly's Wollaston squad, 32-21.

Kevin Segala had 16 points for Montclair and Jeff Morris had 10. Steve Happas had four points and handled the ball well. Peter Tufts had eight points, Joe Lourey seven and Mike Kiley six for Wollaston.

Montclair, Central Meet In Celtics Preliminary Game

The Montclair Warriors and Central Celtics met for the third year in a row recently at Boston Garden in a preliminary to a Celtics game.

This year they played before the nationally-released Celtics-Philadelphia 76ers game.

In the past the teams played for the title at the Garden but this year the championship game was played in Quincy and the Garden game was only an exhibition. Montclair, which had won the title game, 33-27, also took the Garden exhibition game, 27-9.

The teams earned their way to the Garden by being finalists in the junior high division of the Quincy Recreation Department all-city basketball tournament.

The young players received a thrill when they found themselves sharing a locker room with members of the Celtics.

Coach Bill Fitch ordered some of his players, who needed medical attention, into the locker room adjacent to the Celtics' regular dressing room. To Fitch's surprise the Quincy boys were occupying the room.

The boys received a cordial greeting from the Celtics, then gathered up their gear to leave the Celtics alone in the room.

Montclair was coached by Jerry Pratt and assistant Brian Dowling. Central's coach was Brian Buckley.

Bill Bilton paced Montclair with eight points, Steve Manning had seven, John Comeau six, Steve Downing two and John Ennis four. For Central Andy Lenhardt scored four, Al Martel and Dave Magnell two each and Paul Marsters one.

The trip to the Garden was made possible by Steve Riley, a native of Quincy and a Celtics' executive.

The Montclair squad comprised John Comeau, Bill Bilton, Sean Downing, Steve Manning, John Ennis, Chris Gray, Louis Morales, Mark Bilton, Dan Baker, Steve Higgins, Chris Bunker and Paul Ceurvels.

Quincy Girls Track Opens April 8

The Quincy High School girls' track team is working out under coach John Franceschini in preparation for its opening meet April 8 against Cambridge Rindge and Latin in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The First Ladies sprinters are led by Darlene Marston and Capt. Sue McLaughlin.

"Darlene was the MVP during the winter track season and is one of the best sprinters at 100 yards in the Suburban League," Franceschini said. "Sue is a returning varsity letterman and her fine talent in the 220 and the long jump should make her a consistent scorer."

Other runners to watch will be Chris Irvine, Leonore Salvaggio, Jeannie Sandomato, Kathy MacKinnon, Nancy Martin, Diane Morrissey, Mary Kussman, Susan Uhlar, Maryellen Monahan, Sharon Uhlar, Sue Murray, Ann Mulligan, Joanne Medicke, Regina Fruzetti, Tricia O'Toole, Jackie McLaughlin, Cathy Brown, Kathy Reddish, Maureen Lamie, Michele Dauphinee and Sandra Harris.

The distance runs will be taken care of by Franny Brown, Julie Hannon, Theresa Monroe, Andrea Brown, Diane Theoharous, Maria Burke and Jean Dullnig.

Two veterans, Tricia Ilacqua and Jacqui Irvine, outstanding last year, lead the field events and promising newcomers are Ann Abdallah, Cheryl Derbes, Jill Nelson, Suzanne Pitts and Maureen Walsh.

"The girls have been working extremely hard and we are looking forward to a successful spring season," Franceschini said.

Friends Launch Membership Drive To Aid Library

The Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library are coming to the rescue of the beleaguered library, which is suffering from the ravages of Proposition 2½.

The Friends, who were formed three years ago to help the library in better times, have started a membership drive to raise funds for the purchase of books and other library materials.

Needless to say, the library is encouraging it.

"The Friends are growing more and more important to the library," said L. Paul Marini, chairman of the Board of Library Trustees.

"We suffered a greater percentage of cuts than any department in the city but we don't have the clout that the policemen, firefighters and teachers have. They've got the votes. We're orphans."

The Friends are offering three membership plans, individual at $2, family at $5 and patron at $10. Anyone interested in joining should apply at the Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy 02169.

Lions Club To Hold Pancake Breakfast

The Quincy Lions Club will hold its annual Pancake Breakfast Sunday, April 5, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock School, Water St., South Quincy.

The breakfast will feature coffee, juice, sausage, and pancakes.

Proceeds will benefit Mass. Eye

Research.

Tickets can be purchased at the breakfast or from club members.

The breakfast committee, headed by King Lion Ed O'Leary and including Dave Nelson, Fred Nolan and Dave Smith invite all to join them for the breakfast and help support a worthwhile cause at the same time.

Signup Time For YMCA Camps

The Quincy YMCA is accepting registrations for boys and girls, ages 8 to 14, for Camps Burgess and Hayward on Cape Cod. The first of four camp sessions begins June 28.

Activities include waterskiing, boating, canoeing, swimming, archery, softball, basketball, arts and crafts, photography and gymnastics. For the first time, horseback riding will be offered for girls.

For brochure and registration form, call the YMCA at 479-8500.

Coed Archery Class At YMCA

The Quincy YMCA will begin a 10 week coed archery class starting Saturday, April 4.

Boys and girls, ages seven to 10, will meet 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.; ages 11 and up will meet 10:45 to 11:45 a.m.

Enrollment is limited. Those interested should sign up now at the "Y" Front Desk. A fee is required.

Magician Robert Olson To Perform At Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will host a characterization of 19th century magician Richard Potter, Sunday, April 5 at 2 p.m. at the Adams Academy Building, Adams St., Quincy Center.

The program, starring Robert Olson, will be a unique repertoire of tricks and characterizations based on the performances of Richard Potter, America's first successful native magician.

Born in 1783 in Hopkinton, Mass., Potter later traveled to Europe where he learned his craft. After returning to the United States, his first recorded performance was at the Columbian Museum in Boston in 1810. He subsequently traveled throughout the northeast presenting magic, ventriloquism, songs, comic characterizations, and dissertations.

ROBERT OLSON of Old Sturbridge Village as 19th-century magician Richard Potter.

Robert Olson, now Assistant Director for Interpretation at Old Sturbridge Village, has had a lifelong fascination with both magic and history. About nine years ago, after discovering a book on magic published in 1832, Olson combined his knowledge and talents to produce 'the Richard Potter show. Dressed in period costume, Olson excites and involves his audiences in the wizardry of a man who lived almost two centuries earlier. Olson has performed for numerous organizations throughout New England, as well as at Old Sturbridge Village.

Robert Olson will appear at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St. The public is invited, particularly children. Admission is free. For further information call 773-1144.

3 Residents Council Members For BSO Musical Marathon

Three Quincy women are members of the Council of Friends of the Boston Symphony Orchestra helping to plan the BSO WCRB "Musical Marathon 81" which begins Friday at 9 a.m. and continues to Sunday at midnight.

The women, who are also members of South Shore I group, are chairman Mrs. Norman L. Wilson, Mrs. Davenport Jackson and Mrs. Hugo Mujica.

The Musical Marathon, the symphony's most important fund raiser of the year, will feature three days of around-the-clock music, interviews with orchestra members and special guests broadcast over WCRB-FM 102.5.

Those who make a pledge over a certain amount by calling 262-8700 can select a gift premium.

A special performance by the BSO, celebrating its 100th anniversary, will be shown over WCVB-TV Ch. 5, Sunday, 5:30 to 8 p.m. Seisi Ozawa is music director for the symphony to be conducted by Sir Colin Davis, principal guest conductor, John Williams, Boston Pops conductor, and guest celebrities.

There will also be a pledge booth at the Quincy Market Rotunda with Gene Shalit of NBC's "Today" show as host.

Local residents are invited to "Turn your money into music for the Boston Symphony and Boston Pops".

7 Residents In Milton Players 'Forum'

Seven Quincy residents are taking part in the Milton Players production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" April 2, 3, 9, 10 and 11.

Show time will be 8 p.m. each evening at the Milton Women's Club, 90 Reedsdale Rd., Milton.

Directing the show is Margaret Kennally Spencer of French St., North Quincy.

Other Quincy residents appearing in the musical comedy are Glenn Spencer, in the leading role of Psudolus; Robert Chaput as Senex, an aging, lecherous citizen of Rome; Chris Moore, Dee Griffin, Rita Fatseas and Jeannette DeJong as four of the six courtesans in the bawdy House of Marcus Lycus.

Tickets are available by contacting George Kublin, business manager, at 361-6747, or by writing the Milton Players, P.O. Box 1, Milton.

Reduced rates are available at the box office for students, senior citizens and groups of 10 or more.

Items for sale will include furniture, household goods, antiques, tools, toys, appliances, sporting goods, books, lamps. Auctioneer will be Bill Tuori. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. William W. Doerr Photo In Polaroid Exhibit

A photograph by Dr. William W. Doerr of Wollaston is on display through April 30, as part of "Instants: A Polaroid Portfolio" at the Clarence Kennedy Gallery, Cambridge.

"Instants" is the sixth annual exhibition of photographs by employees of Polaroid Corporation.

Doerr's "Yukon Grass" is a still life close-up of the thick tufts of grass bordering a stream.

"This grass is typical of the type that grows near streams and rivers in the Yukon," Doerr explained. "There's a distinct difference between this and the grass that grows on the tundra."

Doerr took the picture while backpacking in Carmacks, Yukon Territory, last summer.

Territory, last summer.

For Doerr, photography has been a serious hobby since he was in high school. "I enjoy taking pictures on all kinds of film, instant or otherwise," he says.

"Recently I have found wilderness photography to be particularly satisfying," he said.

A senior engineer working on Industrial Product Development,

Using over 20 larger than life puppets and an enormous puppet stage, girls and boys of The Way Up, a Quincy, church-sponsored youth program, are presenting a Passion Play in area churches.

The puppet troupe presenting the play is "The Way-Uppets".

The play, "The Week That Shook The World", has already been presented at the First Baptist Church of North Abington, South Congregational Church of Braintree and First Congregational Church of Braintree.

It will also be performed Sunday, April 5 at 7 p.m. at First Baptist Church of Randolph.

Palm Sunday, April 12, it will be included in the morning worship service of the First Church of Squantum at 10:15 a.m. That evening at 7 p.m. it will be presented at the First Trinitarian Congregational Church, Scituate.

"The Admission is always free," explained the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, director of The Way Up, "because we think of the performance itself as our offering to God. No other offerings or collections of any kind are ever taken."

Each production is preceded by a brief time of worship led by young people from The Way Up.

Dr. Langevin continued, "The play is different from many of the other plays that the Way-Uppets have done in that it has such a serious theme. Even so, it is highly suitable for persons of all ages. Indeed, we hope that whole families will come together to see it."

The play recounts the events of the final week of Jesus' life, from Palm Sunday through His Resurrection.

Located in Wollaston, The Way Up provides a variety of social services to young people including counseling, case work, advocacy, employment, referral and religious programs. The program serves girls and boys aged 13 to 17.

Toys, Games Collection On Loan To Library

The children's room of the Thomas Crane Public Library has received a demonstration collection of games, toys and recordings for use with children with special needs.

This collection of learning resources is on indefinite loan from the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System in Boston and was federally funded under a grant administered by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners.

Materials in the collection help develop one or more of the following skills: reading and language, listening, motor, visual, and number skills. Effective use of the materials requires active adult participation in the learning experience.

Also included in the collection are several slide tapes which may be borrowed, by agencies and organizations concerned with special needs children.

One of the slide tapes, "Home Stimulation for the Young Developmentally Disabled Child," suggests how to stimulate learning through interaction with people, toys, and surroundings.

Another, "Robbie's Room," emphasizes the importance of providing a child with a stimulating environment.

The Library received the collection on loan for its co-sponsorship of Special Needs

Awareness Month in Quincy, also sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

For further information call Jane Granstrom, supervisor of Children's Services, at 471-2400.

WEEK OF APRIL 2

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Salesmanship is a strong point; if that's your line of work you're due for success. Good week to arrange priorities, keeping in mind that romantic slump is strictly temporary.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

You're finding it much easier to start jobs than to finish them now. Friction with neighbor begins to smooth but a physical or mental contest is about to take place.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Financial favors not being returned? Don't be so shy about collecting them. Long-distance news finds you making travel plans. Think twice before jumping to romantic conclusions.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Platonic friendship is featured. Weekend is good time to discuss financial opportunities with new contacts. Stay in background if family dispute erupts.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Business, be forthright and frank. Friends draw you into personal problems; watch out for a conflict of interests. Thursday and Saturday are lucky for you.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

You're filling in the blanks of your social calendar, and the other good news is that you're in for recognition at work. One tip: Play up warm sense of humor over biting sarcasm.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Unpleasant surprises may show in the form of rivalry at work or unexpected pressures in a volunteer assignment. On the bright side, recent financial maneuvering bring profits.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Brand new career opportunity is beckoning, but don't rush into any new situation without knowing all the facts. In romance, be much more subtle, always choosing the light touch.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

It won't take much to fire your imagination... or your temper. Financial gains may be deceptive, but in romance your hunches are right on. Older friends find you irresistible.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Easy to be deceived by what you think you see, so jump to no conclusions. Arranging parties or meetings are your forte; don't be shy about adding innovative touches.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Be more direct in romance, but still be yourself. News can be unreliable and requires in-depth checking. Health needs—your own, your loved ones—require a more sensible attitude.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

High in originality, pioneering and enterprising. But impulsive—and how. If you can keep enthusiasm within bounds you can turn bright ideas into a series of profitable situations. Family matters dominate attention on and off through the year.

'Bag Of Support' Empty For Lincoln Hancock School

By BERNIE O'DONNELL
"The bag of support," School Committee member Frank Anselmo said of the Lincoln Hancock Community School, "is empty."

"You ask us for support," he told Ron Iacobucci, president of the Lincoln Hancock school council. "We've been supporting you for years. It seems to me we've come to the end of the line."

With that, Anselmo and his fellow committee members voted to change the formerly independent community school into a division of the Quincy Junior College revolving fund. Iacobucci had asked the committee to allow the community school to remain independent, saying its programs could come close to paying for themselves.

"All we're asking for the year 1981-82 is $10,000," Iacobucci told the committee.

But School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon called Iacobucci's estimates of enrollment and anticipated grants for next year overly optimistic. The community school is running a deficit of about $43,000 for 1980-81, he said.

"Left on its own, there is every reason to believe it would continue to run the kind of deficit it is now," Creedon told the committee.

"The issue isn't programs," Creedon said, "but administrative costs." Of the community schools' $50,000 budget, 60 percent of it is for a full-time coordinator ($20,000) and a full-time secretary ($10,000).

By comparison, he said, the school system's adult education program runs $250,000 in courses using only $20,000 in administrative costs.

"There is no way I can recommend a $50,000 budget with $30,000 tied up in administrative costs," Creedon said. "We just can't afford to do that sort of thing anymore."

Under Creedon's recommendation, Quincy Junior College administrators would work part-time coordinating the Lincoln Hancock program. The position of community school coordinator, held by Mary Jo Riley, would be eliminated.

"It'll be hurt, it'll suffer," Iacobucci said of the Lincoln Hancock program. He said he expected course enrollment to wither due to the lack of a full-time coordinator.

The community nature of the program would also be lost, Iacobucci said.

"In my opinion, it would destroy the concept of community education," he said.

Creedon told the committee that the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council, as before would continue to determine the program needs and course offerings.

Mary Collins and Patricia Toland joined Anselmo in supporting the shift into QJC.

"Rather than lose this program, I'd rather hang my hat on something a little more reasonable," Mrs. Collins said.

"It does seem irresponsible for us to keep on going with this," Mrs. Toland said.

Voting "no," in the 3-2 vote were John Sullivan and Christopher Kennedy. Joan Picard, also a member of the Lincoln Hancock Community School council, voted "present."

Koch Club Registration Saturday

The West Quincy District of the Koch Club will hold registrations for the boys baseball and girls softball programs Saturdays, April 4 and 11, from 10 a.m. to noon at the O'Rourke Playground Fieldhouse, Quarry St. and Joyce Rd.

All boys and girls eight years old before January 1, 1981 and under 14 years are eligible to register and participate in the recreation program. Every boy and girl who registers in the program will be assigned to a team and actively participate.

The boys baseball and girls softball leagues of the Koch Club are primarily organized for the recreational enjoyment of the children with the competition aspect secondary.

Men and women are requested to volunteer as coaches and umpires and may register with league officials.

There is a registration fee of $6, includes hat, jersey, balls and other equipment needed to conduct the program.

The West Quincy District is in its 10th year as a unit of the Koch Club. However, the boys baseball league has been in existence for twenty years formerly known as the Twi-League.

David J. Donaghy of West Quincy District, director, may be contacted at 88 Wallace Rd., West Quincy for further information.

Until After Easter Tobin Orders 'Lenient' Tagging

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Arthur Tobin has ordered "lenient enforcement" of parking regulations in the Quincy Center shopping area until after Easter in an attempt to boost local business which has been "very slow" in the last few weeks.

Tobin said the order was effective (Wednesday) at 8 a.m., and was specifically aimed at metered parking. Tickets will still be issued for violations of the law such as parking on crosswalks and in front of fire hydrants, according to Tobin.

"Lenient enforcement" of parking regulations in the North Quincy and Wollaston business districts can also be established if the merchants contact Police Chief Francis Finn for guidelines, said Tobin.

The mayor's order came after he met with Chief Finn who had conferred earlier that day with the downtown business community on problems resulting from an increase in parking tickets during the last few weeks.

On hand for the meeting with Finn were Quincy Center Business and Professional Association members Bernie Reisberg, president; Robert Colman, Richard Barker, Sandy Rounseville, Connie Affsa and Jack Powers; Police Superintendent Edward Lynch of General Services and Anthony Siciliano, General Foreman.

The merchants told Finn they were unhappy with the results of the increased tagging and had to get relief because business has been "very slow."

Reisberg said, "It's difficult to say how bad business has been, but it (tagging) hasn't done any good."

The downtown merchants were most unhappy about tagging of cars on Hancock St., Washington St., and in the parking garage, according to Reisberg.

Reisberg said customers have been "put out" because they deposit money in meters, shop for a half hour, and return to their car to find the bright red parking tickets.

Merchant morale is at "a very low ebb" according to Reisberg who also attributed that fact to the winter months and economy.

Finn said he and the business people discussed possible solutions to the parking problems such as eliminating the meters, establishing a parking lot and having shopper's ticket's validated.

Changing the parking meters from School St. to the South Shore Bank from 15-30 minutes to two hours was another possibility, according to Reisberg.

A live parking area in front of the former Sears building was also discussed Reisberg said.

Since no consensus was reached at the meeting Tuesday, the business community and police chief are scheduled to meet again April 21, at 8:30 a.m. in the third floor conference room of City Hall.

Said Reisberg, "The police have cooperated to the fullest. The situation is tough but we have one goal."

"We know people want to shop in Quincy. And we want to give them the stores and services that they want."

Raymondi, Sheets Ponder Runs For Mayor

At least two city councillors, one of them spurred on by the possibility of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin becoming clerk of courts, are considering runs for mayor in this year's election.

Councillor Daniel J. Raymondi said he plans to make an announcement of his candidacy or non-candidacy April 23 at Morrisette Legion Post, whether or not Tobin abandons City Hall for the courthouse.

Councillor James A. Sheets said he is reassessing his plans to run or not to run because "obviously, if Arthur does not run, it's a new ball game," and will decide before the end of the month.

Raymondi said he is evaluating the situation now.

"I have been meeting with people who have supported me before," he said. "If there is citywide support and people are enthusiastic, I will run. If just my wife, mother and uncle are there, then forget it."

"It doesn't really depend on what Tobin's plans are. My decision will be based on the amount of support I see out there."

Sheets said he does not think that there will be a special election for mayor, even if Tobin's appointment were announced today by Gov. King. It would still have to go through the governor's council.

If Tobin resigns to replace the retiring Dennis Ryan as clerk of Quincy District Court, then City Council President Leo J. Kelly would become acting mayor.

If the resignation came before July 1 a special election would have to be called. If it came after July 1 Kelly would serve until the winner of the November election qualifies in January.

City Clerk John Gillis said it would cost the city about $40,000 to hold a special election if there were more than two candidates and a preliminary election were needed.

Tobin declined to speculate on reports that his name was on the list of candidates for the court post.

"I can't live by rumors," he said coyly.

Asked to speculate on candidates who might run for mayor this year, he said:

"Are you going to count me out?"

So far the only announced candidate for the mayor's office is City Councillor Francis X. McCauley.

Firefighters' Layoff Grievance In Court Friday

Hearing will be held tomorrow (Friday) at 9:30 a.m. in Norfolk Superior Court on a bid by Quincy firefighters to halt the layoff of 10 men pending grievance arbitration.

The Quincy Firefighters Association is seeking a temporary injunction to prevent the city from taking Engine B at headquarters out of service until the grievance is heard.

The case originally was to be heard Monday but it was postponed until Friday and a temporary 10-day restraining order issued by Judge Thomas E. Dwyer was extended for the extra four days.

The firefighters claim that the city violated their contract by laying off the 10 men with bargaining.

Association President George Lamb said grievance arbitration usually takes three to four months but he was assured by the union attorney that matters could be expedited with consent of both parties.

The action also seeks the reinstatement of the 10 men pending arbitration.

Tobin Asks Downtown Memorial For Jason Feldman

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin has started a movement to name the intersection of Cliveden and Hancock Sts. in downtown Quincy in honor of the late Jason Feldman.

Feldman, who was president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and past commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans, died recently in a Boston hospital.

The intersection of Cliveden and Hancock Sts. is diagonally across Hancock St. from the Feldman family store, Jason's Luggage and Music Shop.

Tobin wrote to City Clerk John Gillis, who is commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, suggesting that a committee be set up to plan an appropriate ceremony Memorial Day, May 25.

He suggested that Rabbi Jacob Mann, of Beth Israel Synagogue; Irving Isaacson of the Jewish War Veterans; John Comer of the American Legion, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Bernard Reisberg and Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth form the nucleus of the committee.

Trifone Given Go-Ahead To Store 8,000 Gallons Gasoline

The License Board voted 4 to 1 Tuesday to allow Nicholas V. Trifone of NVT Corporation to store 8,000 gallons of gasoline, underground, at 230 Washington St., the site of a planned Litre and Wedge, Wine and Cheese Shoppe.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh voted against the permit.

Trifone had told the board at last week's meeting that his wife

Sheila would manage the Italian specialty store to be constructed at the site of former Citgo station.

He asked the board for permission to store 8,000 gallons of gasoline in tanks still on the premises and said the gasoline would be for use by himself and his family, not for sale to the public.

At this week's meeting, Fire Chief Edward Barry said that he and Building Inspector Allan

MacDonald had viewed the premises and favored the storage request as long as the pumps were as far back on the property as possible.

Dr. McKeogh had said at last week's meeting he was opposed to the food and gasoline combination even if the latter were for personal use. He reiterated his stand by voting against the request Tuesday.

Police Get 278 New Guns, 5 Rifles FREE

By BERNIE O'DONNELL

If you're in the market for a new car, you'll probably envy the deal the Quincy Police Department got on new guns.

The department recently swapped its entire complement of 10-year-old guns for new ones, at no cost.

Besides being completely new, said Chief Francis X. Finn, the new guns are easier to repair and maintain and of a "far superior quality" to the old ones.

So why were the new guns supplied by Sturn, Ruger and Co. of Southport, Conn., free?

"There's a great demand for used handguns in many parts of the country," said Finn. "In many places, the prices of new guns are regulated, but used guns aren't."

"So the value of a used handgun more than makes up for the price of a new one," Finn said. "In some parts of the country, people are arming themselves to the teeth."

And, he added, Sturn, Ruger and Co. no doubt made the deal a little sweeter to break into the police arms field, long dominated by Smith & Wesson.

In last month's swap, Quincy police traded 218 four-inch revolvers, 60 two-inch revolvers and five rifles, all 10-year-old Smith & Wesson models, for the same number of new Sturn, Ruger guns.

Finn estimated the value of the handguns at $250 and the rifles at $285. The two-inch handguns are carried by detectives; the four-inch guns by patrolmen and the rifles are stored for use by a specially trained "SWAT"-like unit.

Handguns get almost all of their use twice a year, when officers are required to take four hours of target practice.

LT. WALTER FRAZER holds a Turn, Ruger four inch revolver and rifle which Quincy received in a recent trade with the armament company.
(Keith Westerman Photo)

The average officer fires about 250 rounds during each of these sessions, Finn said, and this is the only time most of the guns are ever fired.

The police union contract specifies that guns are replaced every 10 years for safety purposes, Finn said. But the average life of a gun used as sparingly as a police gun is much longer than this, he said.

"We're convinced that we got a much superior quality of guns," Finn said. "We had a Boston Police Department guns expert in to look at them and he was satisfied that we were getting much better guns, as well."

McDonald's Requests Play Area At Southern Artery Site

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Ronald McDonald and his friends could be moving into the McDonald's at 473 Southern Artery, Quincy, if plans for a children's play area at the establishment are approved at the April 14 City License Board meeting.

The matter was continued at this week's board meeting so that Building Inspector Allan MacDonald could meet with City Solicitor Robert Fleming and John P. Gillig of McDonald's to determine if the plastic hamburgers and other devices in the play areas constitute signs for the establishment.

Atty. John J. Doyle, representing Gillig, told the board weekend sales at the Southern Artery McDonald's are down 25 per cent compared to last year.

Doyle indicated the Quincy establishment is losing business because families would rather go to the McDonald's in Weymouth or Braintree which have the playground area.

The playground area at the Quincy site would be located in front of the establishment on a platform the same height as the building, according to Doyle. Some 2,000 Quincy residents have signed a petition favoring the playground area, added Doyle.

Doyle also said he met with the city solicitor who said that if McDonald's logos were removed from the playground equipment, the equipment would not be considered as signs.

MacDonald differed on that point saying the equipment was advertising devices.

If the equipment is deemed to be signs, it will have to be approved by the building inspector with regard to location, amount of equipment and other matters.

'Mickey Mouse Amendment'

Tobin Won't Send Hospital Account Bill To Legislature

By TOM HENSHAW

Independence Day for City Hospital, declared by the City Council Monday night, has run into a new roadblock in, of all places, the office of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

Tobin, who initiated the proposal to place the hospital on a revolving account, said he will not pass the required home rule petition on to the State Legislature as long as Councillor Francis X. McCauley's amendment is attached to it.

The amendment would give the Council the power to appoint three members of the Hospital Board of Managers while cutting the mayor's power to appoint back to six members.

Tobin called it "another one of their Mickey Mouse amendments."

"It doesn't look like the hospital petition is going to get filed unless the Council changes its ways," said Tobin Tuesday. "What they did last night is unacceptable to me."

"The City Council had their own blue ribbon committee jumping up and down about getting politics out of the hospital and then they turn around and try to usurp the authority of the mayor by giving themselves the right to appoint three members of the board."

"When my time comes to leave the office of the mayor, I intend to leave this office just as strong as it was the day I entered it. I think I owe that to all future mayors."

Tobin said his next move probably would be to ask "one of the four councillors who supported me to bring the petition back into the Council."

Tobin's supporters on the Council are John J. Quinn, Daniel G. Raymond, Leo J. Kelly and James A. Sheets although the Council was not called upon to vote for the proposal in its purest form Monday.

A compromise amendment offered by Quinn, which would have left all appointments to the mayor but subject to Council confirmation, lost 6-3 with Quinn, Sheets and Stephen J. McGrath voting for it.

McCauley's amendment was passed by a 5-4 vote, with Quinn, Raymond, Sheets and Kelly in opposition.

Then the whole proposal, as amended, was passed by a 6-2 vote, Sheets voting with the yeas, Quinn and Kelly the nays and Raymond voting present.

Raymond said he could have accepted Quinn's amendment but he balked at McCauley's.

"Two blue ribbon committees studied the hospital," he said, "and both came to the same conclusion that there was just too much political interaction with that particular department."

"I am against any attempt by the City Council to involve itself or any other political body with the management of the hospital."

Raymond said passage of the mayor's proposal as would "set the hospital on its own course and end the financial maneuvering the hospital has experienced over the past decade."

Sheets urged the Council to take action on the proposal, amended or not, immediately because the revolving account would have to be in place by the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

"We are entering the red danger zone in time for getting it by the legislature," he said.

"I feel it will be approved eventually but I'm sure the Local Affairs Committee is going to raise some questions about setting up a revolving account that involves $26 million."

Mayor Tobin said City Solicitor Robert Fleming has "legal reservations about how the McCauley amendment can be implemented."

"The amendment changes the appointments," he said, "but it doesn't say how to implement them. Who makes the next appointment? Does the mayor get the next six? Does the Council get the next three?"

"I have done everything conceivably possible to take politics out and turn that hospital around. Now it is up to them."

Tobin said he has not yet sent to the Legislature a similar petition setting up a revolving account for Quincy Junior College.

"I'd like the City Council to come to their senses so we can send both of them in together," he said.

Looks Like Lively Election

The stage may soon be set for one of Quincy's most interesting and liveliest election years in a long time.

If Mayor Arthur Tobin is named clerk of Quincy District Court, the city of course, is going to get a new chief executive.

Only one official candidate so far: Councillor Frank McCauley. But he certainly isn't going to get a free ride.

Most probable challenger is Daniel Raymond. A

McCauley-Raymond race would be a good one with a lot of hard-hitting campaigning.

And, it might open a floodgate of candidates for Raymond's Ward 2 City Council seat. Potential contenders include: Ted DeCristofaro, long active in the Ward 2 Civic Association, Democratic State Committee-woman Kathy O'Donnell who ran against Raymond two years ago; Robert Beniers, City Recreation Department director under former Mayor Joseph LaRaia; James Papile, assessor under LaRaia and one-time state representative candidate; Joseph Cortese, Frank Brille, former assistant recreation director; Raymond Dunn, active in youth baseball.

Ron Iacobucci, president of the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council, who has been mentioned as a potential council at-large contender could get into the Ward 2 race instead. He lives in the area.

Another possibility is Peter Gacicia, businessman long active in GOP circles and civic affairs who with his wife, Norma, headed up the George Bush campaign for President here.

In contrast, Ward 1 is fairly quiet and may remain so. Despite the fact that Ward Councillor Leo Kelly is also City Council president and would be the first one directly affected if Tobin takes an appointment.

But if Kelly becomes acting mayor he reportedly has no mayoral ambitions of his own. Sources close to him say he will run for re-election to a fifth term in Ward 1. And, that will probably keep candidates for that seat to a minimum.

MONTCLAIR'S Joe Gildea, back from a stay in Winter Haven, Fla., reports the Red Sox are looking good — especially in the pitching department. Biggest thrill for him was watching North Quincy's Bob Biagini warming up Dennis Eckerley and then hitting a few long ones.

Biagini, a standout catcher in high school and for Morrisette Legion Post will be assigned to a minor league team by the Sox.

Biagini used to bowl in Gildea's Little League. Joe introduced him to the Red Sox's radio and TV voices, Ken Coleman, former North Quincy resident, and Ned Martin. Both were impressed with Biagini's natural ability.

Joe says the biggest attraction at the Sox camp was Ted Williams. And, the biggest hope: Frank Tanana.

REP. ROBERT A. CERASOLI, who was recently named to the House Ways and Means Committee, has discovered that he is the first state rep from Quincy or Weymouth to serve on that prestigious group for more than 80 years.

The last one, according to Cerasoli's research, was James Thompson, a Quincy Republican, who was one of three legislators from the Fifth Norfolk District, then made up of Quincy and Weymouth. He served on Ways and Means from 1897-98.

Cerasoli's Third Norfolk District encompasses Ward 2 in Quincy and seven precincts in Weymouth.

In 1898, Quincy had a population of 20,712 and 3,897 registered voters. Each voter had to pay a poll tax and women and men under the age of 21 could not vote. Today, Ward 2 in Quincy has 10,196 registered voters.

Thompson, who was born in Scotland in 1848 and lived at 44 Franklin St., was a granite dealer by trade. He was president of the City Council 1890-92 and an incorporator of the Quincy Savings Bank.

Mahoney Proposes

Court-School 'Marriage' As Youth Crime Fight Aid

John W. Mahoney, coordinator of social health in the Quincy Public Schools, has proposed a "marriage between the schools and the courts" as a means of combating juvenile delinquency in these days of Proposition 2½.

"Quincy will not have one in its delinquency prevention programs this coming 1981-82 fiscal year," he said in a statement issued after attending a meeting of the Governor's Task Force on Juvenile Crime.

"If Massachusetts' Proposition 2½ is an accurate mood indicator of the public's attitude toward spending for social programs, then we cannot expect increased funding from either local, state or federal tax sources."

Mahoney recommended that non-political youth commissions be created in the community to act as an "early intervention tool," with representation by all the agencies in the community.

"Statistics show that school failure is a contributing cause to serious delinquency," he said. "Therefore:

- Focus in on attendance and increased surveillance and supervision of juveniles.

- "Work with children's problems at early grade levels.

• "Reading, writing and math skills assist youngsters to be productive citizens, keeping children in the mainstream."

• "Convince school leadership that the 5 per cent or so that are kicked out of school without alternative educational opportunities result in an enormous cost to society due to delinquency and crime."

• "Fight social promotions (grade advancement based solely on age and not competency).

• "Explore all avenues to assist communities on tough attendance cases (alternative schools or possibly a Middlesex Training School concept)."

Mahoney recommended that court officers meet with the schools' pupil personnel people and attendance officers and cooperate in dealing with young people. This would, he said:

- Assist in developing procedures for promoting cases.

• "Eliminate misunderstanding which would cut down administrative and time delays.

• "Improve the day-to-day court-school relationships."

"In addition, the courts should:

• "Enforce school attendance as a term of probation.

• "Include parenting courses as part of the juvenile probation thereby improving the communication between parent and child."

• "Encourage work projects in non-profit organizations as part of the probation of a youngster."

• "Exercise existing laws that relate to attendance and children in need of service."

"Lastly, both courts and schools should encourage communities to develop alternative homes for a five or six-month cooling-off period."

Mahoney said his suggestions will not eliminate juvenile delinquency entirely.

"But," he added, "they will provide for all of us clear objectives, reduce duplicating efforts, and give the citizens a sense that something is happening."

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers. One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

4. The School Department lists 13 elementary schools in Quincy.
5. Solomon Willard was the architect who built the Bunker Hill Monument of Quincy granite and is regarded as the father of the granite industry in the United States.

Sister Scoffs At Speculation Amelia Earhart Was A Spy

By JOHANNA BRASSARD

America's, and Quincy's, most famous woman flyer vanished because of fatigue and bad weather, not because of any conspiracy or mysterious spying mission, says the sister of Amelia Earhart.

Mrs. Muriel (Earhart) Morrissey of Medford shared her recollections of her younger sister with standing-room-only crowd at the Quincy Historical Society's Adams Academy last week.

Miss Earhart, who became the first woman to fly solo across the Atlantic in 1932, used North Quincy's Dennison Airport as home base for many of her flights during the 1920's and '30's. The airport later became the Squantum Naval Air Station.

She, navigator Fred Noonan and their airplane disappeared without a trace Feb. 5, 1937 during flight over the South Pacific. That mysterious disappearance gave rise to rumors that Miss Earhart was still alive, or had been spying on the Japanese for the U.S. Government and had been executed by them. She was 39 at the time.

Nonsense, says Mrs. Morrissey: "she probably went down in the ocean."

A combination of fatigue and bad weather probably caused her plane to go down over Howland Island, north of Australia, where Miss Earhart was headed when radio contact ceased, Mrs. Morrissey said.

Amelia had planned the trip Mrs. Morrissey said, to gather statistics on the amount of punishment a plane's engine could take. The monsoons in the South

AMELIA EARHART

Pacific were stronger than anticipated, causing the plane to go down and making a rescue attempt impossible.

Mrs. Morrissey has written a book about her sister called "Courage is the Price" and is a flying enthusiast herself. She said Amelia became interested in flying during World War I, when she entered the "Voluntary Aid Detachment" in one of the largest military hospitals in Toronto, Canada.

The military had just begun to use planes for reconnaissance missions, and Amelia's interest in flying was sparked by her contact with injured pilots, who despite their injuries were eager to fly again.

After the war, Amelia went to California where she became friendly with a barnstormer. He took her on a plane ride, unheard of for women then. But Amelia enjoyed it and became determined to fly.

Mrs. Morrissey recalled that her sister was a determined, courageous woman who did "things not for honor or glory, but for inner satisfaction and the feeling that she had opened the door for somebody else."

"Amelia's flights were not made as stunts," she said. "She wanted to show that women could do it."

The two sisters grew up in Kansas, where they had what Mrs. Morrissey describes as an "exciting childhood." They were tomboys she said, whose mother had their seamstress make them bloomers so they could "shimmy up trees and ride horses bareback."

Mrs. Morrissey remembered an incident from their childhood in which they built a "roller coaster" after a visit to an amusement park. The girls greased two planks with butter, leaned them against a shed, and slid down. "Midge, it's just like flying," Mrs. Morrissey remembers Amelia saying.

The statement was prophetic. Besides being the first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, in 1935 Amelia Earhart became the first person as well as the first woman to fly from Hawaii to California.

Mrs. Morrissey's talk, part of the Historical Society's "Quincy Remembers" series, was followed by a question and answer period. Events in the series take place on the first, third and fifth Thursdays of every month. The public is invited to attend free of charge and refreshments are served.

Public Financing Of Political Campaigns Backed by Brownell

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has endorsed legislation providing for public financing of political campaigns.

"This legislation is an effective way to curb corruption in state government as no candidate will be indebted to any one or more contributors of large sums of money," he said.

"The system has worked well on the federal level and Massachusetts should follow suit as recommended by the Special Commission Investigating State and County Building Contracts."

The legislation, which Brownell cosponsored, would allow for a $2 check-off system on state income tax forms to finance campaigns. Only the amount of revenue raised by the check-off system could be withdrawn from the General Fund and targeted for candidates.

Private contributions would be limited to $1,000 for statewide office seekers, and $500 for other office seekers such as state representative, mayor, or city council.

The legislation has received support from Common Cause, Citizens for Participation in Political Action, Mass Pig, and the League of Women Voters.

Quincy Hospital Seeks Volunteers

City Hospital is preparing to observe National Volunteer Week with a drive to interest people with time on their hands in doing volunteer work at the Hospital.

Special attention is being devoted to senior citizens, high school and college students to perform such services as feeding patients, assisting in ward duties and provide information service.

For further information call the City Hospital Volunteer Office at 773-6100, extensions 271 or 272, between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Koch Club Scholarship Deadline April 13

Monday, April 13, is the deadline for applications to be filed in the Guidance Office of the North Quincy High School, Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School for seniors interested in applying for the Koch Club Scholarship Awards.

The Koch Club Scholarship Fund was established in 1959 with a $100 scholarship award presented to a boy and girl graduate of North Quincy High School. The program was expanded to include a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School in 1964 and a $50, award to a boy and girl graduate of the Vocational Technical School in 1969.

Five hundred dollars will be presented this year bringing to $9,400 the total awarded by the Koch Club in the past 23 years.

One hundred boys and girls have been recognized by the Koch Club and its scholarship committee since the 1959 inception.

In 1973, on the 25th anniversary of the Koch Club, a Permanent Scholarship Fund was established to continue the recognition of youth scholastic achievement should the Koch Club no longer exist. In 1998, on the 50th anniversary, the permanent fund will annually provide the scholarships.

A recent gift of $100, from the Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Memorial Foundation has raised the total amount to $11,000.

The Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund is established through the city of Quincy. Those wishing to contribute may make checks payable to the same and mail to Robert E. Foy, Treasurer, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Health Works '81 At Manet Center April 28

The Manet Community Health Center, 1193 Sea St., Houghs Neck, will be the site of a free health screening clinic Tuesday, April 28, 1 to 6 p.m., as part of Health Works '81 being conducted at 88 locations April 27 to May 2.

Health Works, a public service project of the Shawmut Banks and WCVB-TV, Ch. 5 in association with WHDH radio, is the largest health screening project in Massachusetts' history.

Free medical screening and preventive health education will be offered at sites throughout eastern and central Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

According to local site coordinator Patricia Ridlen, the Quincy clinic is open to persons age 18 and over.

The clinic will offer multiple test screening including height and weight, vision acuity, blood pressure, anemia, glaucoma, hearing and special tests such as Sickle Cell and Tay Sachs.

There will also be exhibit lectures and demonstrations a part of the health education portion of the event.

Participants will receive a personal review of the screening test results and will be directed to local sources of health care when referral is indicated.

There is no charge except for an optional blood chemistry exam.

Pre-Schoolers From Low Income Families Eligible For Head Start

Pre-school children from low-income families are eligible for Head Start, a free-half day pre-school program funded by the Federal Government.

Children must be four years old before Dec. 31, 1981 to enter during the coming school year. Children with special needs may enter the program at age three.

Hot lunches and nutritious snacks are provided daily. Free transportation to and from school is also provided.

Each classroom is staffed with one head teacher, two classroom aides and parent volunteers. A special needs aide is available to work with those who need special attention.

The daily program is geared to developing skills in reasoning, reading readiness, social and emotional development and health and nutrition within the framework of play and participation. There are also field trips.

Parents have input into major decisions concerning operation of the program. Assistance is provided families in social services, health, nutrition and education.

Parents of children eligible for Head Start can call 471-3350 for more information.

Spring into home improvement, indoors and out

Home remodeling and improvement surging

Homeowners today are anything but "on the move." Tight mortgage monies, spiraling interest rates and rising inflation have caused them to take a second look at their homes. The result has led to a surge in home remodeling that the U.S. Census Bureau estimates will equal or exceed that of homebuilding expenditures this year.

According to John Hammon, executive vice president of the National Home Improvement Council, "All signs indicate that remodeling, which has consistently been on the rise for the past 30 years, will continue to grow at a rate of approximately 15 percent in the next few years."

And, although the do-it-yourself segment of the remodeling market seems to be growing at a rapid rate, Hammon added that "70.4 percent of the total market is still professionally installed remodeling."

But, if money is so tight, why are people willing to remodel?

One reason is the aging housing stock. Although there are more than 78 million homes and apartments in this country, at least half are more than 17 years old. To maintain this aging housing stock, remodeling is essential.

'SOUTHERN COMFORT'

The fastest growing markets for new homes in the country are Fort Myers and West Palm Beach, Fla. The Chicago Title Insurance Company says both areas are moving ahead at a rate five times higher than the national average for new homes.

Secondly, the growing concern for energy conservation, sparked by ever increasing utility and fuel costs, has motivated homeowners into updating their homes' energy efficiency through remodeling.

"The fact that insulation and replacement windows, storm doors and windows remain two of the most popular home improvement projects easily verifies this point," according to Hammon.

"And, since a house is probably the largest investment a family or individual is likely to make, remodeling is a way of investing in an investment," he added.

According to NHIC's Green Book of Home Improvement Contractors, the most popular home improvement projects are remodeling, reroofing, residing, replacement windows, storm doors and windows.

LOW MAINTENANCE, GOOD LOOKS and a wide range of surfaces, colors and designs are available to homeowners considering aluminum or vinyl siding.

Do-it-yourself beams add a rustic touch to ceilings

If you have a suspended ceiling or plan to put one in your kitchen, family room, attic or basement addition, you might be interested to know you can easily incorporate rustic-looking beams in a couple of hours for under $15.

No permanent alterations to the ceiling are necessary, and you can remove the beams in just a few minutes.

Ceiling beams give a room a strong, cozy character. They are not only interesting focal points in themselves, but they also accent the surrounding ceiling material.

Real wooden beams have become pretty expensive, however, so they're usually among the first "extras" to be eliminated when paring a redecorating budget down to size.

Also, the heft of real beams puts them beyond the skill and confidence thresholds of many amateur handymen and handywomen.

Fortunately, the ceiling experts at Armstrong have come up with a simple method of attaching rustic beam lookalikes to a suspended ceiling using inexpensive lightweight 2 x 4s and ordinary self-sticking vinyl paper.

A suspended ceiling consists of crisscrossing metal supports hung by wires from the old ceiling, and ceiling panels which rest freely in the grid slots. It's not a hard type of ceiling to install yourself.

The do-it-yourself beams are attached to the main runners of the grid system, which are spaced four feet apart and extend from wall to wall (perpendicular to the joint direction).

Here's how to fabricate the beams:

- First, install all the grid elements; don't insert the ceiling panels yet. If there is already a suspended ceiling up in the room, temporarily lift the panels out of their slots.

- Next, wrap the 2 x 4s with the self-adhesive plastic paper. Such covering can be purchased in many stores in a wide range of rustic patterns and shades.

- Then, along the length of each 2 x 4 drill two rows of holes at 18-inch intervals. The space between the two rows should be exactly equal to the width of a main runner.

- Now, you're ready to lift the 2 x 4s-turned-beams up to the main runners. Have a helper hold the 2 x 4 flush against the runner while you screw a washer into each of the pre-drilled holes. The washers should overlap the flanges of the runners, securely holding up the lightweight beams.

the past few months become most apparent.

An airing alone won't get rid of these built-up odors because they're trapped in your rug and curtain fibers, and even in your upholstery.

Rugs and carpeting can be cleaned in a variety of ways. The steam extraction method is most effective.

Whatever method you choose, the secret of carpet cleaning is in removing all detergent because any remaining residue dries, clings to the carpet fibers, and becomes a sticky trap of all future dirt and odor.

Loosely woven draperies, whether they are a synthetic or natural fiber, prevent cleaning problems because they often shrink and lose their shape when dry cleaned. Some manufacturers of the synthetics even warn against dry cleaning.

One possible solution is to wash the panels, one by one, in tepid water and hang while still wet. Then, very gently, starting at the top of the panel, pull small sections of the drapery back into shape.

Once this is done, run your vacuum cleaner rod through the hem. This will weight the panel while drying, and keep the hem-line even.

Odors also get trapped in closets, storage trunks and dresser drawers. To keep your winter clothes fresh as spring pour a cupful of "Love My Carpet"™ rug and room deodorizer in an old nylon stocking and tuck it into the storage trunk with your clothes.

Do the same in your dresser drawers. An open canister, left on a shelf, will do the same in your linen and clothes closets.

Once clean, it is easy to keep your home smelling fresh. However, even with windows opened, your carpet fibers, especially if you have pets, will continue to trap and hold odors.

Time To Insulate Now

Now is the time, with fuel costs rising to think about insulating your home, reminds the Frank Evans Co.

According to Frank Evans, there are many things the homeowner can do to tighten up the home and save on energy costs:

Among them are caulking around windows, weatherstripping doors, stuffing insulation around pipes at the point of entry into the home and stuffing insulation into spaces between the main sill of the house and the foundation.

The next place to think about would be the attic. Attic insulation is very important and can account for up to 25 percent saving on your energy cost, according to Evans. If your attic is easily accessible and does not have a sub-floor you can buy rolls of 6" fibre-glass insulation and do the job yourself. If your attic has a sub-floor you will have to take the boards up to do the job.

If the job seems to big for you, then it's time to call in a professional insulation contractor, who will give you his professional opinion as to the best way to insulate your home and the cost of the work.

NO JOB TOO LARGE OR SMALL

New siding products offer good looks, low maintenance and choices, choices, choices

People interested in remodeling generally want materials that need little or no maintenance, such as aluminum or vinyl siding, which save the time and cost of constant repainting.

But, siding can do more than save on maintenance costs. It can give your home a new look and, with a little imagination on your part and some help from your remodeling contractor, your home can take on a new personality. Homeowners today can select from a wide range of colors, surfaces and finishes.

Advanced technology

In the last few years, many new, high-quality products have come to market—products that are the result of advanced technology in both manufacturing and in the development of coatings or finishes.

For example, Alcoa aluminum siding is made from an extra-strong alloy called Super 40 which provides added strength and rigidity to the metal, making it easier for your contractor to apply, and better looking on your home.

New coating systems available

Another example of an improved process is the coating used on aluminum siding products to provide resistance to chalking, corrosion, mildew accumulation or dirt pick-up.

Alcoa's process, called Alumalure 2000[®], includes a corrosion-inhibiting prime coat, followed by a second coat for weatherability. This new coating system allows Alcoa to offer a 40-year limited warranty on its siding products.

Wide range of products

In addition to aluminum siding, today's homeowner can choose from a wide range of vinyl siding products. Made of impact-modified polyvinyl chloride (PVC), vinyl siding resists cracking, breaking, denting, splitting, flaking, chipping and blistering.

Because of its PVC formulation, vinyl siding is impervious to moisture and is unaffected by most acids and immune to attack by insects and pests. Alcoa's Super-V Vinyl Siding[®] is backed by a 40-year limited warranty.

But, there's more to siding products than just practicability. There's color and lots of it. The trend, in recent years, has been toward darker, "earthy" shades, to keep pace with the "color explosion" going on around us. Alcoa's line includes Primrose Yellow, Colonial Blue, Fern Green, Sandtone, Sierra Tan, Villager Red, Musk Brown, Desert Gold, Willow Green and, of course, White.

Wide selection of surfaces, sizes

Hand-in-hand with this color shift is the rising preference of homeowners for sidings with woodlike surface textures. An example of the numerous woodlike surfaces available are Alcoa's Country Oak, Random Oak and Western Oak textures.

Country Oak reflects the warmth and beauty of mill-finish lumber while Western Oak provides the look of real wood with a roughcut touch. Random Oak features a deep-grained surface.

And the choices go on. Homeowners can also choose from a wide range of siding widths. For example, double 4-inch horizontal siding offers a full eight-inch exposure and appears as two individual four-inch panels. The style is best on homes of colonial design.

Double 5-inch offers 10-inch exposure and is recommended for Colonial and Cape Cod designs. There are also vertical siding panels as well as a choice of polystyrene-backed siding featuring a 7/16-inch-thick backing with reflective foil for added rigidity.

Today's siding story

Low maintenance, good looks and a variety of colors and surfaces to please every taste. That's today's siding story.

The spring brings—time for home repairs

With the melting of the winter's snow comes the realization that the home repairs that weren't done last spring or fall can't be put off any longer. And, now there is winter damage that must be corrected.

To assist the homeowner in making a thorough and efficient "spring home check," Insta-Foam, manufacturer of Great Stuff, a multi-purpose urethane foam sealant, has developed this checklist of priority areas that should be evaluated for repair each spring.

• Roof: Ceiling or wall cracks or wetness will indicate damage. Check for missing or broken shingles, the areas where the chimney meets the roof, roof vents and skylights.

• Doors and windows: Check your heating bills. Heat leaks in winter will become air conditioning leaks in summer. Use foam insulation around all entrances with air leaks.

• Window sills: Wetness or peeling paint indicate a poorly fitting window. Without repair, wood will rot.

• Gutters and downspouts: Remove leaves and other debris that may have settled in during the fall and winter. This will prevent water from accumulating on the roof.

• Screens: Don't feel guilty if you didn't check for holes when you put them away for the winter. There's still time for repairs.

• Air conditioning system: Clean filters of window units, and add freon if necessary. Central cooling systems should be professionally maintained. An efficient air conditioner will save you money and electricity during the summer months.

• Outdoor gaps: Pipes, utility meters and lawn hose bibs should be checked for cracks which allow insect and rodent intrusion. Using a sealant around these areas will prevent this.

• Aluminum siding: Sealing any cracks or open areas at the bottom edge of siding—and where the foundation meets the frame—will keep moisture and dust out.

By completing these basic "insta-fix-ups" early in the year, there'll still be plenty of time for lounging in the hammock with a tall lemonade.

In the past, a rubbish receptacle was nothing more than a dented, rusting metal container used to hold trash as it passed from home to sanitation truck and, finally, to city dump.

Not so with newer, heavy-duty plastic refuse containers. This variety of trash bin is not only rust- and dent-proof, but it can also be used to store many kinds of home supplies.

While refuse containers have a pretty important job—collecting almost three tons of trash from every American family each year—that's not all they do. Plastic refuse containers, such as Rubbermaid's Rough-necks, for example, can be put to work around the house or in the yard, making day-to-day life a whole lot easier. Here are some of the jobs these containers do well:

• Recycling bins—Separate newspapers, bottles and cans for easy delivery to the recycling plant.

• For the fireplace—Keep firemaking supplies such as kindling, small logs and coal together in 20-gallon containers, and be ready for that first cold night!

• For the lawn—Fertilizer, lime and grass seed stay fresh and dry all year round, and can be carted easily to where they're needed.

• Pet food storage—Whether it's dog food, bird seed or horse feed, you can avoid splitting bags and messy floors.

• Garden supplies—Potting soil, peat moss and wood chips needn't be mistakenly thrown out. Label each canister with its contents and use. These containers are handy for holding hose and rope too.

• For parties—To keep refreshments cold, fill with ice and your favorite beer, wine, soda, or how about a watermelon!

• Clean-up—Instead of the old-fashioned tarpaulin that loses half its leaves, cart them away in a lidded refuse container.

• Driveway—For snowy winters, sand or cinders will make that driveway drivable. Keep a 30-gallon container handy.

Plastic refuse containers make noisy, battered galvanized cans a thing of the past. The heavy-duty plastics developed for this type of hardworking equipment give consumers a product that not only does its primary job well, but is also adaptable for numerous storage jobs around the house.

LOOK FOR CERTIFICATION SEAL

Kitchen remodeling should be designed to improve efficiency as well as appearance. Consumers who look for the certification seal of the National Kitchen Cabinet Association when shopping for cabinets are assured of low maintenance and durability, as well as good looks.

Fires Give Taste Of 2 1/2

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy got what may be a preview of firefighting under Proposition 2 1/2 last weekend.

It could have been a disaster. Three fires that started almost simultaneously late Saturday night and early Sunday morning found Weymouth firefighters battling a blaze in South Quincy and North Quincy uncovered for up to an hour.

The first of two alarms was turned in at 11:24 p.m. Saturday for a house fire at 60-62 East Elm St., Wollaston. It was attributed to a faulty electrical connection in the attic.

Damage to the two-family house owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Finn, was estimated at $12,000 to the building and $3,000 to the contents.

Firefighters were still at the East Elm St. blaze at 12:30 a.m. Sunday when the alarm was turned in for another fire in a 13-unit apartment house at 153 Water St., South Quincy.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti said the fire was regarded as of suspicious origin.

It started in a cellar storage area not far from barrels of oil. Damage was estimated at $5,000 and all residents were evacuated when heavy smoke began seeping through the building.

Weymouth firefighters responded to the mutual aid call and covered the Quincy Point station.

The Water St. fire was still in progress when yet another alarm was turned in at 1:15 a.m. Sunday for a fire in a four-family apartment house at 87 Brook Rd., South Quincy.

"The first company on the scene was a ladder company," said Valenti. "Everything else was tied up."

"Under normal circumstances, Weymouth would have gone from Quincy Point to headquarters but instead they had to go to this fire."

Braintree sent a piece of equipment to cover West Quincy and a mutual aid call went to Boston. But Boston was too busy to respond right away.

"There was a gap of about a half hour to an hour Sunday morning when North Quincy was not covered," said Valenti.

Valenti said the Brook Rd. fire also is listed as suspicious.

It started in the cellar around an oil barrel and the loss was estimated at $20,000 to the building and $5,000 to contents. It is owned by Harold Hogan of Braintree.

And, to top off the night, the apparatus had returned to the stations by 3:32 a.m. Sunday when another alarm came in for a two-family duplex at 26 Bedford St., Quincy Center.

It turned out to be a smoky fire in a living room chair but five pieces of apparatus responded — Engines 1 and 4, Engine B, Ladder 1 and Rescue 1.

"Engine B was at the three fires on Water St., Brook Rd., and Bedford St.," said Valenti. "If we didn't have Engine B at Brook Rd. we would have lost the building."

Engine B is scheduled to be phased out under Proposition 2 1/2.

Passion Play With Puppets Sunday At Squantum Church

A full Passion Play with larger than life puppets will be performed Sunday, April 12, at 10:15 a.m. at the First Church of Squantum.

The play, "The Week That Shook The World", will be included in the traditional Palm Sunday service.

All of the puppets, which are called Way-Uppets, and the enormous stage were created by young people of The Way Up, a church-sponsored youth center located in Wollaston. Churches and individuals throughout the state contribute money so that The Way Up can provide local teen-agers with various social service and religious programs.

Director of The Way Up, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, is also Protestant Chaplain at Quincy Juvenile Court and pastor of the First Church of Squantum.

The service will include the distribution of palms and the music of four choirs.

A Palm Sunday breakfast will be served before the service, 9 to 9:30 a.m. by the women in the church.

Reservations, which must be made in advance, can be called in to the church office at 328-6649. Proceeds will be used for youth programs in the church.

Last Sunday, the congregation saw a film, "Parable" before observing the Lord's Supper. The film was produced by the Protestant churches of New York for presentation at the World's Fair when it was held there some years ago.

During the service, worshippers also made their offering to "One Great Hour of Sharing", a social service program sponsored by many of the major Protestant denominations to aid the needy overseas.

The Chancel Choir sang Mozart's "Ave Verum" in Latin, under the direction of Mary Ruth Scott.

Greeters for the service were Katherine and Joan Hansen. Ushers were Bonnie Adams, Tore Wallin, Paul Paulsen, William Cogswell, Richard Williams, Sandra Ahearn and Don Frazer. Steve Williams assisted with the projector. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Chris Young, Carolyn Chisholm and Lee Sindelar.

Last week's Lenten program was held April 1. A filmstrip was shown on the life of Adoniram Judson, America's first foreign missionary. He and his wife did their work in Burma.

This week's program was held April 7. Like the other programs in the series, it was on the general topic "What It Means To Be A Christian." A filmstrip on the life of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was shown.

Palm Sunday Service At Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy Center, will begin its Palm Sunday service April 12, at 9 a.m. with a processional and distribution of palms.

The Senior Choir will present a cantata, "Easter Celebration" by Ralph Carmichael under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Berg and accompanied by Kevin Galic at the organ.

Continuing a tradition of many years, church members and friends will visit Fair Havens Rest Home in Middleboro and distribute gifts and refreshments to residents.

The LYFE youth group will present a musical program.

Those needing transportation to the rest home are asked to be at Faith Center, 65 Roberts St., by 1:30 p.m.

Friday Deadline For Easter Services Schedules

Schedules of Holy Week and Easter services should be in The Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. by Friday, April 10, to insure publication in the April 16 issue.

Palms To Be Distributed At St. John's Masses

Palms will be distributed at Masses Saturday and Sunday at St. John's Church, Quincy Center. Masses Saturday will be held at 4 and 7 p.m.

The schedule of Masses Sunday will be 7 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 9:45 a.m. (solemn blessing and procession of palms), 11 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 5:15 p.m.

Masses April 13, 14 and 15, will be held at 7 a.m., 8 a.m., 12:10 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Palm Sunday Services At Bethany Church

Bethany Congregational Church will celebrate Jesus' Triumphant Entry into Jerusalem at services Palm Sunday at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Children of the church school will attend the opening portion of the 10 a.m. service. They will sing two selections under the direction of Edward James, who also accompanies them on the guitar.

The chancel choir, with Linda H. Roberts at the organ, will present the anthem, "Draw Nigh to Jerusalem" by Williams. Mrs. Jean E. Bettinson will sing "The Palms" by Faure. Both Mr. Elden D.J. Zuern and Mr. J. William Arnold will participate in leading the worship. Pastor Arnold will preach the sermon "The Meek King."

As a symbol of the event, small African crosses made of palm leaves will be distributed to all worshippers. The palm crosses are made by Christians in seven villages in Tanzania. They have used the income from the crosses to build and maintain their first permanent school.

An Easter Egg hunt for children of the church school, toddlers through sixth graders, will follow the worship service at 11:15 a.m.

The egg hunt is sponsored by the Bethany Mother's Club and will take place on the lawn area between the chapel and the main sanctuary.

The final Lenten Breakfast Service will be held in Bethany Chapel, Wednesday, April 15 at 7 a.m. Rev. Arnold's meditation will be on Jesus' words: "Father, into thy hands I commit my spirit" (Luke 23:26).

Russell Hodgkins will assist in leading the worship. Thomas Vorella is organist.

A light breakfast is served at 7:30 a.m. which allows persons time to leave for work, school and other appointments.

43 On St. Joseph's Honor Roll

Forty-three students at St. Joseph's School, Quincy Point, have been named to the honor roll for the second trimester after maintaining an 85% or higher in all academic areas.

They are: Elaine Healy, Masanobu Horiyama, Karen Curran, Amy Connell, Noreen McBride, Filene McDonnell, Carolyn Carney, Sheila Cronin, Susan Morey, Richard Sangeleer, Michael Staff, Joseph Abouzaid, Jeremy Burn, Matthew Connell, Brandon Farrell, John Glennon, Amy Burke, Trina Furbish, Marie McDonnell, Lina Russo, Lauren Tully.

GOD
FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken habits to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Mosher Optimistic

Quincy Has Experience, Depth

By TOM SULLIVAN

A year ago Quincy baseball coach Bud Mosher had visions of an outstanding season and a berth in the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

However, he dropped five of his top senior players who decided to vacation in Bermuda and Florida instead of staying around for the first week of the season.

As a result the Presidents suffered through a 4-12 season, and left Mosher still five victories short of the 100 mark.

This spring the veteran coach has no such problem, as the seniors went away during the February vacation.

"We have the makings of a good team with experience and a lot of desire," Mosher said. "We have some good hitters, a good defense and a promising pitching staff."

Junior Paul Quigley is the number one catcher who looks good and Tom Canavan, a transfer from Abp. Williams, who is suffering from tendinitis, will be his backup.

"Canavan has a real good bat and will be a designated hitter and also will be in the lineup somewhere when he is ready," Mosher said.

Senior Hugh Campbell will play first base and also will see action at third and will be a DH. Canavan will also see action at first.

Veterans will fill the other infield spots with Gary DiNardo at second base, Jim Austin at short-stop (he also will pitch) and Walter Kilgallon at third base.

"This is good defensive infield with experience," Mosher said. "We should be all right at these spots."

In the outfield Mike Abboud is the only veteran starter but there are several other good outfield prospects including Si Tobin, Dennis Donaghey, Alex Hern, Mike Jaehning and two pitchers who will also play in the outfield Sean Martin and Jim Bandera. Mark Baker and Dave Dwyer are other outfield hopefuls.

For pitching Mosher has Bruce Tobin, DiNardo, Austin, Bob Ready, Pat Connolly, who looms as a top reliever, Paul Dwyer, Martin and Bandera.

Quincy last weekend made its annual trip to Cape Cod for several scrimmages and the Presidents will open their season Friday at 3:30 at Silver Lake.

Quincy will open its Suburban League season next Tuesday at 3:30 against cross-town rival North Quincy at Adams Field. Next Thursday, April 16, the Presidents will host Brockton at 3:30.

Rich Hutchison is again Quincy's junior varsity coach and he will inherit some of Mosher's junior players.

Quincy will play an 18-game schedule, 16 league games and two with Silver Lake.

CHARLES McDERMOTT of 187 Liberty St., Quincy, was a member of the Suffolk University basketball team. McDermott, a 6-foot-2 junior forward, averaged 9.6 points a game.

Bunker Rebuilding

North Pitching Strong

The script has changed for North Quincy baseball coach Charlie Bunker.

The past few years Bunker has all set at every position except pitching, which was a question mark at the start of the season.

But this year pitching is his strong point as he is forced to do a major rebuilding job at every other position.

"I lost my entire infield, the best catcher in the Suburban League and most of the outfield," Bunker said. "The pitching looks strong but I have no idea who will start at the other spots. I have scheduled a lot of scrimmages but I probably won't know my starting lineup until our opener against Quincy April 14."

The biggest hole is behind the plate, where Bob Biagini, who has been working out at the Red Sox spring training camp, held forth the past three years. Biagini the past two seasons batted .500, had many extra base hits, was one of the leading base stealers in the league and had a great arm. There were very few stolen bases against him.

He was signed by the Red Sox last fall and has made quite an impression at spring training in Winter Haven, Fla.

Jim Sullivan, a senior who played as a sophomore but did not play last year, and sophomore John Kozlowski are battling it out for the vacant catching spot and both have looked good in practice.

Every infield position is a tossup. Mark Millane will play first base when not pitching and Glen Segalla will be there when Millane is on the mound.

At second it will be John Sweet or Pat Burke, a transfer from B.C. High, at short it will be Ken Mann, who saw a bit of varsity service last year, or sophomore Bob O'Brien, and at third it will be either Steve Belcastro or Steve Sacchetti. Pete Alibrandi is a fine utility man who can play at any position.

Jamie Walsh and Segalla are veterans in the outfield. Segalla will be out there when Millane is playing first base and Walsh will do some pitching. Other outfielders are Tom Smith and Paul Earle, also a pitcher.

Bunker has some depth on the mound with Millane, Bob Bolster, Earle and Walsh all strong hurlers. Tom Heffernan is an ideal man for short relief.

"This is really a rebuilding year, except for pitching, but we should be competitive," Bunker said as he strives to better last year's 11-7 record and make the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

"Speed will be a big factor as this team has the best speed I've ever had. It will be an interesting season."

Kevin Lewis is back as junior varsity coach and has a promising squad, mostly sophomores.

Tom Cornwell are the managers.

Following next Tuesday's 3:30 game with Quincy at Adams Field, North has a bye Thursday, then hosts Brookline Monday, April 20, at 10:30 a.m. at Adams. The Raiders play a 17-game schedule, 16 league games and one with Milton.

North Girls Open Against Hingham Friday

The North Quincy girls' softball team will open its season Friday when it hosts Hingham at 3:30 p.m. at Artery Field.

The Raiderettes will play Quincy at Faxon Field Tuesday at 3:30. Saturday they will compete in a 100-inning game from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Artery Field. This annual event is held to raise funds for the team.

Coach Lou Ioanilli's team hopes to improve on last year's 7-10 record.

"The team is still on the young side, with only four seniors, but we still have plenty of experience, with seven returning starters," Ioanilli said.

The pitching staff consists of Eileen Cronin (5-1 last year as a sophomore), Elva Reed and Simone Koch.

The catching will be done by Lisa Tenaglia, a sophomore with a strong arm; senior Lauren Apollo will share second base, Laurie Barba and Maureen McAleney will share second base, Joann Runge and Simone Koch will split the shortstop chores and Denise Carroll and Lynn Cahill will share the third base duties.

The outfield will comprise Kim Alberti, Kit Harrow, Sue Connor and Sue Ayles.

In a pair of scrimmages North lost to Milton in extra innings and to Randolph by one run.

"There have been a few key injuries and a lot of sickness, but we have been improving and hopefully we will be ready for the season's opener," Ioanilli said.

The junior varsity, coached by Rick Hutchins, is 2-0 in scrimmages, blanking both Milton and Randolph.

Karen Boutlier, Tricia Meehan and Karen O'Reilly are the jayvee pitchers, Michelle White and Cheryl Murphy will do the catching, Mary Holleran and Maureen Berry will be at first, Boutlier, Meehan and Marie Paz will play second, Lisa Julian is the shortstop and Patty McKinnon is the third baseman.

The outfielders are Karen Merrigan, Debbie Kiley, Janet Rooney, Debbie McGovern, Sheila Durkin, Lisa McCormack, Kim Horrigan and Karen Horrigan.

Milton Troop Wins Boy Scout Swim Meet

Milton Troop 3 of Milton Academy won the recent Blue Granite District Boy Scout swim meet at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

Wollaston Troop 19 of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston was second and Houghs Neck Troop 35 of the Most Blessed Sacrament Church third.

Bill Walker, North Quincy High coach, director of the Lincoln-Hancock Pool and himself a former scout and Merit Badge counselor, helped officiate. John Mulken organized and ran this new event for the district.

Mulken brought a great deal of experience to the planning of the meet, having served several seasons as an aquatics director at the Storer Scout Reservation in Barnstead, N.H., where the Quincy scouts go with their troops to attend one or two weeks of summer camp.

In a special event for the mentally handicapped scouts, Billy Mahoney of Troop 151 of the Quincy Kiwanis Club won the 50-yard freestyle. Handicapped scouts from Troop 151 also competed in all of the regular events.

The individual winners: 50-yard freestyle, 11-12 year old - John Bogan, Troop 35, Houghs Neck.

50-yard freestyle, 13-14 - Danny Kenney, Troop 35, Houghs Neck.

50-yard freestyle, 15-17 - Jim Boudreau, Troop 19, Wollaston.

50-yard breaststroke, 11-12 -

John Donlan, Troop 19, Wollaston.

50-yard breaststroke, 13-14 - Paul McMillen, Troop 35, Houghs Neck.

50-yard breaststroke, 15-17 - Bill Boudreau, Troop 19, Wollaston.

50-yard backstroke, 11-12 - Shawn McGrath, Troop 34, Squantum.

50-yard backstroke, 13-14 - Todd Moran, Troop 3, Milton.

50-yard backstroke, 15-17 - Bill Boudreau, Troop 19, Wollaston.

3-man relay, 11-13 - Troop 3, Milton (Carson Agnew, Nick Tangney and Peter Tangney).

3-man relay, 14-17 - Troop 19, Wollaston (Bill Boudreau, Jim Boudreau and Paul Foley).

REDUCE FLOOR FALL DANGER

Every house has a floor. And that floor, covered or bare, has been the scene and the cause of all too many accidental fatal injuries especially to old people. You can do something about this innocent looking menace.

One of the prime offenders is the magic flying carpet known as the scatter rug. Make sure all scatter rugs are securely fastened down. Tacks will work, and there are a number of paints, sprays, powders and padding on the market designed to provide a non-skid backing to scatter rugs. In tests, Consumer's Research found that your best bet, for both gripping and long wear, is a reinforced foam rubber sheet placed beneath the rug.

When waxing, apply an even, thin coating of wax and the shine like crazy. A high shined, well buffed, waxed floor is surprisingly safe because the wax is hard and dry. It is the underpolished, or slightly wet, slippery floor that is slippery and unsafe.

Seniors Being Surveyed by WUMB

Mrs. Marion Andrews, Executive Director of the Quincy Council on Aging, is co-operating with a survey being conducted by WUMB Radio to determine senior citizen interest in radio programming.

WUMB, broadcasting at 91.9 on the FM dial, will soon go on the air as the newest public radio station in the Boston-South Shore area.

Operated from the Harbor Campus of the University of Massachusetts, it will broadcast 24 hours a day to a potential 700,000 listeners within a 15-20 mile radius of its Quincy antenna.

Results of the surveys will have a direct effect on the format of the station's proposed elderly program "As Young as You Feel."

The survey deals with the listening habits of senior citizens, their preference of music, favorite recording artist, their hobbies, community interests, problems relating to the elderly, age group and income level. Signatures are not required.

Mrs. Andrews has survey forms at the Council on Aging office, 1120 Hancock St., for those interested in participating.

Senior Citizen, housing unit residents will also be invited to participate.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the Second account of STIPHEN T. KEFFE, JR. as Conservator (the fiduciary) of the property of said ward has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the thirtieth day of May, 1981, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account. If you desire to object to any item of said account, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of March 1981.

CITY OF QUINCY

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for the care and maintenance of Cemeteries as noted in specifications in the City of Quincy will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 206, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts at 10:30 A.M. on Tuesday, April 14, 1981 at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The Contractor to whom the contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the contract within 5 days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect so to do, the Commissioner may at his option determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to give a guarantee of his work and file a bond in an amount acceptable to the City of Quincy for the fulfillment of his guarantee and contract. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of five per cent (5%) of the face value of the contract shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works upon deposit of $5.00 for each set, which will be refunded provided they are returned promptly and in good condition.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

WHEN I DIE DON'T HAVE A FUNERAL FOR ME

JUST THROW ME IN THE GROUND

That is a common statement. There is a problem with it, however, when someone we love dies survivors react with strong emotions. We feel sad, we are upset and we cry. We find it hard to believe that death has come. Without formal ceremony we may lose an opportunity to gain support from friends and loved ones. By not seeing the deceased we lose the chance to confront the reality of death. Funerals and visitations can help. Some psychologists have said that the funeral and visitation is an important first step in adjusting to our loss. Lack of a funeral and visitation will have no effect on the deceased but it can have serious consequences on the survivor.

$2 Million Loan Approved For Back Blue Cross Premiums

The City Council has given Treasurer Robert E. Foy III permission to borrow $2 million so the city can pay its past and future Blue Cross-Blue Shield premiums.

Although city employees are still covered by health insurance, Blue Cross-Blue Shield suspended payments on claims last March 25 until the city comes up with the money for overdue premiums.

Foy said the shortfall was caused by underestimated expenses, more and higher claims, plus the fact that Mayor Arthur H. Tobin cut $570,000 from his budget and the Council slashed another $300,000.

That touched off an exchange between Councilors Joseph J. LaRaia and Daniel G. Raymond over the Council's actions a year ago in slicing the 1981 budget by 10 percent.

"A year ago," said LaRaia, "the mayor said he could live with the cuts that were made by the Council but obviously he knew he'd have to make it up elsewhere."

"Raymond blew his own horn last year about how he led the cuts and he wanted credit for them. Now he wants to blame others."

"It is going to cost this city $100,000 in interest, so Tobin and Raymond can share the blame for this $100,000 mistake."

Raymond noted that the Council was under a 4 per cent tax cap at the time and $700,000 of the total was for the previous year's bills "so we were not that far off in anticipating the budget."

LaRaia, he said, "is continuing the politics of blame that has been destroying this city. I refuse to participate in it."

Foy said that it was customary to have a Blue Cross-Blue Shield deficit at the end of the fiscal year and it was "rolled over" into next year's budget. Under Proposition 2½ that's no longer possible.

"It means jobs now," he said, "not next year's tax rate. 2½ has ended a lot of practices that have been detrimental to the city."

Approval to borrow the $2 million was given by an 8-1 vote, with LaRaia voting against it.

"I voted for this money a year ago when the Council was cutting it out," he said. "I could have been a star last year but I chose not to be."

The work is in conjunction with a new $24.4 million interchange that will provide direct access from Routes 128 and 3 to the parking garage at the Quincy Adams MBTA station.

Completion date is scheduled for November, 1983.

Rtes. 128-3 Connection Ramp Reduced To One Lane

The connector ramp between Route 128 southbound and Route 3 northbound has been reduced to one lane after 9 a.m. to allow work to begin on reconstruction of the tri-level bridge to the South-east Expressway.

Condon Switches Vote

Tobin Winner On Hospital Showdown

By TOM HENSHAW

Sen. Paul D. Harold says he sees "no immediate problems" in pushing through the State Legislature home rule petitions that would cut the purse strings between the city and City Hospital and Quincy Junior College.

The hospital petition was finally passed by the City Council the way Mayor Arthur H. Tobin wanted it Monday night after Councillor Joanne Condon switched her vote on an amendment that would have given the Council three appointments to the Board of Managers.

The vote on the amendment was 5-4; the vote on the main motion to set up a revolving account that would grant financial independence to the hospital was 7-2.

Harold, who is chairman of the Committee on Local Affairs which will hear the petition, said the Legislature generally takes a dim view of setting up revolving accounts to finance the normal functions of city government.

"But the hospital and the junior college are not the usual municipal functions," he said. "There are only about nine municipal hospitals in the state and Quincy has the only city-supported junior college."

In addition, he said, the State Bureau of Accounts has set up a procedure for auditing revolving accounts which may make it more attractive to cautious legislators.

"A lot of revolving accounts have been filed this year because of Proposition 2½," said Harold. "None of them have passed as yet. We have been holding them all to see what the Bureau of Accounts was going to do and what city functions would be allowed."

Both Mayor Tobin and Councillor Condon denied that any "deal" was made to get Condon to switch her vote. She had voted for the amendment before but Tobin refused to sign the petition if the amendment was included.

"I finally rationalized that the petition was not going to go through unless it went the way he wanted it," said Condon. "It was a case that if one of us did not change his vote the hospital would not have an enterprise account."

"I worked so long and so hard for that, that it would be very difficult for me to stand back and

Library Out Of Money

The Thomas Crane Public Library has run out of money for the current fiscal year and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin indicated that he is in no hurry to come through with a fresh infusion of funds.

"They wouldn't allow the library to close down," said L. Paul Marini, chairman of the board of trustees. "Bill Grindlay, the acting auditor, is going to bring it up at Monday's Council meeting."

"There is no threat of missing a payroll," said Library Director Warren Watson. "We have run out of money but Mr. Grindlay is going to take care of it next week."

But Tobin appeared to indicate in an interview with The Sun that he is going to tie the library's financial problems in with his proposed Water and Sewer Commission, which has been defeated four times by the Council.

Watson said that the retirement incentive program at the library has cost some $62,000 in benefits, thus wiping out whatever funds it had left in the budget for fiscal 1981. The payroll, he said, is down from $18,000 a week to $13,000.

In an interview with The Quincy Sun, Tobin wouldn't confirm that Grindlay will ask for funds for the library next Monday. He wouldn't say he wouldn't, either.

The interview went like this: SUN - The library is out of money. What are your plans for that?

TOBIN - I've been telling the Council if they supported the legislative proposal for the Water and Sewer Commission that we would address all of the deficits.

SUN - But they didn't. What happens to the library now?

TOBIN - I don't know. Wait and see what the Council wants.

SUN - It's up to the Council then?

TOBIN - They're not listening to me on the Water and Sewer Commission. I told them if they failed to act they're going to be closing libraries and closing fire stations. It's right out there now.

SUN - Are you saying you're not going to do anything to get money for the library?

TOBIN - I didn't say that. I've done everything.

SUN - If the Council does nothing on the Water and Sewer Commission, what will you do to keep the library open?

TOBIN - I told the Council what the consequences would be. You're asking a question putting the onus on me.

SUN - And the consequences are that the library will close?

TOBIN - I've said this right along but no one's listening. You're not listening to what I'm saying. I've been out there on four separate occasions.

SUN - But you're faced with the reality now that the library is going to close.

TOBIN - What do you suggest I do? Do you want me to come in with a fifth proposal?

SUN - How would that help the library now?

TOBIN - It's not going to help the library.

SUN - Then the library is going to close.

TOBIN - Unless the Council does something, unless they come up with some sort of compromise.

SUN - Right now you're not going to do anything?

TOBIN - I told them the ball is in their court. I went out there with a legislative proposal. You've got to go back to square one. Who caused the situation we're in now. It was caused by the Council.

SUN - If the Council takes no action, when will the library close?

TOBIN - I have no idea.

Ch. 5 Filming City's Historic Sites For 'Salute To Quincy'

Channel 5's Sunday Open House program is in town this week filming Quincy's historic sites for an upcoming "Salute To Quincy."

The show, co-hosted by Frank Avruch and Janet Langhart, will include visits to General Dynamics Shipyard, the Adams Mansion, Adams Birthplaces, Abigail Adams Cairn, and Swingles Quarry. Avruch was at the Mansion today.

Assistant Producer Paula Law said the segment on Quincy will run about three minutes. She said it will "probably" be broadcast Sunday, May 3 at 9:30 a.m. but could not confirm the date.

Channel 5's tour of the city was coordinated by Jayne Morovich, manager of community development for South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Carol Pisano, assistant planner of tourism development for the city, and Garry Brennan, chairman of Quincy Tourism Association.

Previous Sunday Open House Programs have focused on the cities of Lowell, Worcester, Brockton, New Bedford and Salem.

Avruch said residents of famous cities sometimes take their history for granted. He said he hoped the Ch. 5 program will encourage people to explore the famous sites.

Police Cracking Down On Precious Metals Purchases

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
"This is how we're going to stop housebreaks in Quincy," says Police Chief Francis X. Finn of the police department's new strict enforcement of a city ordinance regulating the purchase of second hand precious metals by merchants.

The ordinance requires that merchants file daily records with the police department of gold, silver and other precious metal purchases, and that the merchandise purchased be held in its original state for 30 days.

Holding the merchandise for 30 days, explained Finn, allows time for the property to be identified and returned to owners if it should have been stolen and unknowingly purchased by merchants.

Finn said strict enforcement of the ordinance is a multi-community effort in reaction to rising incidence of housebreaks on the South Shore.

Police Det. Lt. David Rowell said some of the communities involved in the effort are Hingham, Braintree, Weymouth, Pembroke, Hanover and Hull.

Since strict enforcement of the ordinance went into effect April 8, merchant response to the regulations has been "fair" according to Rowell.

"I don't know if the merchants have questions or don't realize what they are to do," said Rowell who added he has assigned a man to the effort.

Rowell said those not in compliance with the regulations would be brought before the License Board and would also have to answer for violation of a city ordinance.

At this week's License Board meeting, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald backed Finn's enforcement measures and said, "If that's what it takes to stop housebreaks, that's what we have to do."

Quincy marshes to create a fire wall between homes and businesses and marsh grass.

Council President Leo J. Kelly who lives in Houghs Neck where marsh grass abounds, said that the grass is drying and youngsters have been starting fires to them.

"The marshes of Quincy," he said, "have been a constant source of problems to home owners and fire department personnel because of the danger of fire."

The Council referred his study request to Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Chief Barry.

Sullivan Hopes To Save School Art, Music Programs

By FRANK MORTIMER

School Committeeman John J. Sullivan wants to save all public school art and music programs even if it means overriding the $26.7 million budget limit set by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

Sullivan also recommended that the Alternative Learning Environment program be kept.

Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon told the committee at its April 8 regular meeting that it would cost $500,000 to save music and art, and $100,000 to save ALE.

No action was taken on Sullivan's recommendations due to the absence of members Francis F. Anselmo and Joan C. Picard.

Speaking on behalf of ALE, Sullivan said "We know it works successfully. It's an error, a bad error to abolish this program."

He cited the recent presentation of "Manhattan Mania" as an example of the accomplishments in the music department.

Sullivan criticized the manner in which the school budget was set.

"The budget was submitted to the city council without the dignity to the school committee to voice itself on what it wants," he said. "All we ever heard is 'this is what you're going to have.'"

"We had nothing to say about the setting of the budget, and that miffs me."

Sullivan expressed hope that the city council would favor a budget override if approached the right way.

"If we tell the city council these programs are of great interest to us, I have a feeling the council will look sympathetically to these changes."

Member Patricia Toland recommended tabling both matters until the full committee is present. "We have to be careful of the approach we take," she said.

Dr. Creedon said the ALE program has six teachers, three of whom are among the 197 teachers scheduled for layoff in June.

The committee did not ask Dr. Creedon to present a revised budget that would reflect the saving of the music and arts programs.

Quincy Point Business District Under Study

The consulting firm of Metcalf and Eddy has begun a $20,000 study of the Quincy Point commercial area and is expected to make recommendations for improvements by the middle of July.

The study, which is similar to earlier studies made of North Quincy and Wollaston business areas, is financed $10,000 from the city and $10,000 from the Norfolk County Development Council.

Robert Luongo of the Planning Department said the information gathered by Metcalf and Eddy may be used to obtain a Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) designation.

That would entitle merchants and developers in the area to special considerations when obtaining loans.

Luongo said the area currently under study includes only Washington St. from Southern Artery to the Fore River Bridge. A later study will be made of the Town River Bay area.

The recommendations will cover plans for land use, circulation (both vehicular and pedestrian), parking and visual design (including store fronts).

Luongo said the Brewer's Corner area of Southwest Quincy is under consideration for future study.

April 25 At Lincoln Hancock

Mayor's Commission Plans 'Woman To Woman Day'

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women will hold its annual "Woman to Woman Day," featuring workshops, luncheon and a social, Saturday, April 25, at the Lincoln Hancock School.

The free, all-day event is sponsored by the commission, Quincy Junior College's Women Center and the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

Emphasis will be on women's health: physically, mentally and economically.

The day will begin with coffee and registration 8:45 to 9:15 a.m. The opening session 9:30 to 9:45 a.m. will feature welcoming remarks by Deborah Ormon, commission chairperson, and opening remarks by Alicia Coletti, QJC Women's Center director.

There will also be greetings from Mayor Arthur Tobin.

Participants can then choose from among three morning workshops to be offered 9:45 to 11:45 a.m.

"Personal Balancing Act" or "Surviving in Taxachusetts" by Quincy Cooperative Bank staff members Doris Morford, Donald Gohl and Deborah Zawlich. Topic will be money sense: budgeting, investment plans, special accounts, deductions, and borrowing.

Donna Ferguson On Upsala Honors List

Donna L. Ferguson of 118 Cranch St., Quincy, has made the honors list at Upsala College for outstanding academic achievement during the fall semester.

To qualify for the honors list, a student must achieve at least a slightly better than "B" average.

Miss Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Ferguson, is a senior majoring in biology. She is a graduate of Boston Latin Academy, Dorchester.

"Your Medical Rights: Legal and Ethical" with Norma Swenson and Joan Rachlin offering a basis on which women should look at and rate their health care and doctors. Miss Swenson has been active in women's health care for 20 years. Family law attorney Joan Rachlin, who has worked before with Miss Swenson, is executive director of the "Public Responsibility in Medicine" group.

There will be a lunch break 11:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. with sandwiches available for a nominal fee to benefit the Quincy Crisis Center. Coffee and tea will be provided.

Miss Swenson, also co-author of "Our Bodies, Ourselves" and former president of International Childbirth Education Association, will give the keynote address 12:30 to 1:10 p.m. on "Our Right to Health."

Afternoon workshop 1:15 to 3:15 p.m. will be:

"Woman Stress" with Alma Dell Smith, Ph.D., associate professor at the B.U. Medical School, and a clinical psychologist in the bio-behavioral clinic at University Hospital, Boston. Stress for women and demands made on them, as well as family situations, hypertension and illnesses resulting from stress, will be discussed.

"Beef, Schmeef - What's the Alternative?" will have Joanne Cavatorta, co-owner of the Hingham Grain and Spice Company and nutritional consultant, discussing eating right to look and feel our best. Personal diet evaluation techniques, foodstuffs and recipes, will be shown and described. Also conducting the workshop will be Rita Roberts, head cook at the Green Pastures Inn, a holistic health retreat in Scituate.

"Be a Sport - Exercise" will feature cardiovascular specialist Lindsay Hicks speaking on becoming fit through dance aerobics. Laura Reilly, specialist in comprehensive conditioning, will stress toning the body through running and lifting weights. Helen Burgess of Quincy will discuss Yoga.

Following the programs at 3:45 p.m., a social will be sponsored at the Quincy Neighborhood Club by the Quincy Cooperative Bank.

John R. Herbert, president of Quincy Cooperative Bank, and Henry Bosworth, publisher and editor of The Quincy Sun, will be presented plaques in appreciation of their help in furthering the goals of the commission.

QCH Women's Auxiliary To Donate $9,780 In Equipment

McDonald's Playland Approved Over Finn's Objection

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City License Board approved on a 4 to 1 vote Tuesday for a children's play area to be located at the front of McDonald's, 473 Southern Artery, Quincy.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn opposed the play area saying, "I can't get in and out of the police station (across the street from McDonald's) now, and they want to put in an amusement park."

The play area request was continued from last week's meeting so that John P. Gillig of McDonald's Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and City Solicitor Robert Fleming could discuss whether or not the plastic hamburgers and other devices used in the play area constitute signs.

If the devices were deemed signs, as MacDonald contended, they would have to be approved by the building inspector with regard to location, amount of equipment and other matters.

However, Fleming ruled the devices were not signs.

At this week's meeting, Attorney John J. Doyle, representing Gillig, said the outdoor playland would have a six foot fence around it and that no children would be allowed to enter without an adult.

Doyle said there would be benches for parents and that a McDonald's employee would also monitor the area.

Equipment planned for the play area includes a tree house, slide, rocking horse and teeter-totter, according to Doyle.

The play area will take six to eight weeks to build, said Doyle, after the plans are approved by the building inspector.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said he strongly favored the play area and felt it would be an "asset."

Criticizes Legislators' Attitude

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The students at Central Junior High are to be commended for their self control and maturity during the recent demonstrations. Of course the staff was instrumental in exerting the persuasion that kept the students in school carrying on 'business as usual' under tremendous pressure from outside peer groups to abandon their studies and participate in unruly demonstrations.

The Central Junior High students, cooperating with their principal and teachers, showed far greater respect, support and empathy for the 'victims' of Proposition 2½ than foul mouthed, disobedient transgressors who abandoned their schools and educators and wandered aimlessly around the City of Quincy committing acts of vandalism that involved 'useless' activity on the part of police, fire department and public works employees.

It is appalling to me as a taxpayer and parent to see the turn that the public's anguished cry for Tax Relief has taken. Instead of our leaders at the State level cutting the tremendous waste of the taxpayers hard earned dollars and giving relief to the cities and towns, our legislators have adopted a callous attitude of, "You made your bed, now lie in it."

The burden of implementing Proposition 2½ at the local level is seriously debilitating the educational system in Quincy. Successful and essential programs that have been instrumental in graduating productive citizens are being discarded. Dedicated professionals of nine and 10 year's experience, with outstanding qualifications, are being dismissed. The talents of many of these educators will be lost to us forever as they despairingly join the ranks of the unemployed and seek alternative ways of supporting themselves and their dependents. A school system that formerly was cited on a national level for outstanding success in providing educational opportunities to everyone seems doomed to mediocrity or worse.

I deplore the events of the past six months. I condemn our legislators who haven't the gumption to act as the voters intended. The mandate to get rid of the awesome waste and unnecessary programs of patronage that exist has instead been implemented to imbue the dispossessed educators, firemen, policemen and public servants with animosity toward their friends and acquaintances in the cities and towns where they have provided exemplary service and help for many years.

The Modern Little Red Hen

Have you heard the story about Little Red Hen? I mean the new one.

Quincy Police Lt. Don Riley who comes from the old school that believes right is right and wrong is wrong and you should work for what you get, sends it along.

Actually, it appeared in an advertisement of the Milliken & Company in a recent issue of The Review of The News. You might appreciate the message. Goes like this:

Once upon a time, there was a little red hen who scratched about the barnyard until she uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her neighbors and said, "If we plant this wheat, we shall have bread to eat. Who will help me plant it?"

LITTLE RED

"Not I," said the cow.

"Not I," said the duck.

"Not I," said the pig.

"Not I," said the goose.

"Then I will," said the little red hen. And she did. The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain. "Who will help me reap my wheat?" asked the little red hen.

"Not I," said the duck.

"Out of my classification," said the pig.

"I'd lose my seniority," said the cow.

"I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the goose.

"Then I will," said the little red hen, and she did.

At last it came time to bake the bread. "Who will help me bake the bread?" asked the little red hen.

"That would be overtime for me," said the cow.

"I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the pig.

"If I'm to be the only helper, that's discrimination," said the goose.

"Then I will said the little red hen.

She baked five loaves and held them up for her neighbors to see.

They wanted some, and in fact, demanded a share. But the little red hen said "No, I can eat the five loaves."

"Excess profits!", cried the cow.

"Capitalist leech!" screamed the duck.

"I demand equal rights!" yelled the goose.

And the pig just grunted. And they painted "unfair" picket signs and marched round and round the little red hen shouting obscenities.

When the government agent came, he said to the little red hen, "You must not be greedy."

"But I learned the bread," said the little red hen.

"Exactly," said the agent. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anyone in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. But under our modern government regulations, the productive workers must divide their product with the idle."

And they lived happily ever after, including the little red hen, who smiled and clucked, "I am grateful, I am grateful."

But her neighbors wondered why she never again baked any more bread.

Quincy Quiz

A full complement of winners in the Quincy Quiz this week. Quincy Sun T-shirts go to Mrs. Helen R. Sullivan of 33 Albion Rd., Wollaston, and Evelyn T. Levangie of 121 Martensen St., Quincy Point.

George E. McDermott, 26 Chestnut St., Quincy Center, and Frances Gherardi, 115 Piermont St., Wollaston, win Quincy Sun bumper stickers.

The question that stumped most of the entrants was the name of the City Planning Director. It's not John Lydon; he's a city councillor. It's not Bedros Baharian; he's chairman of the Planning Board. It's not Richard Meade, although he works for the Planning Department. The correct answer is below.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. If Mayor Tobin resigns to become Clerk of Courts, then the president of the City Council will become acting mayor. What is the name of the president of the City Council?

2. The noted woman flier Amelia Earhart disappeared 44 years ago on a flight over the Pacific Ocean. What was Miss Earhart's connection to Quincy?

3. What well known building is located at 16 Nevada Rd.?

4. True or false: Quincy is named for Col. Josiah Quincy, the Revolutionary War hero who spied on the British fleet from his home in Wollaston?

5. In what section of the city is Curlew Rd.?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Quincy's five junior high schools are Atlantic, Broad Meadows, Central, Point and Sterling.

2. The name of the City Planning Director is James Lydon.

3. Eastern Nazarene is the only four-year college located in Quincy.

4. Squaw Rock is in the Squantum section of Quincy.

5. The Woodward School for Girls is located at 1102 Hancock St.

let it fail."

Fueling speculation of a deal was the fact that Tobin had been holding up his permission for the Atlantic Neighborhood Center to move into the city-owned Little Building in North Quincy, a move dear to Condon's heart.

"If people are going to say there was a deal I'll have to live with that," said Tobin. "I know it makes for good reading but it would be sad if the press were to dwell on a deal everytime something is discussed on its merits."

"Politics is the art of compromise. Sometimes it is the art of getting things done in the neighborhoods for the good of the city. You have to have a strong mayor to get things done in the city."

Tobin said he had met with Condon to discuss the hospital.

"I see nothing wrong with sitting down with individual councillors to work things out and get things done," he said. "Mrs. Condon is satisfied that we will have a strong, independent hospital. That is her goal and that is my goal."

"We came to a mutual understanding that we strive for the same thing."

Tobin said he plans to pass the petitions for the hospital and the junior college, which was passed last month, on to the Legislature "as soon as we can get the paper work from the clerk's office."

Councillors Francis X. McCauley, Joseph J. LaRaia, John J. Lydon, Jr. and Stephen J. McGrath fought a last ditch battle Monday night to amend once again the petition.

When that bid lost on a 5-4 vote, McCauley and LaRaia switched their votes so that the revolving account passed 7-2.

"We pursued what we felt was a good check and balance on the Board of Managers," said LaRaia. "When that was defeated then the only thing we could do was vote yes or no on the enterprise account. We had to give the hospital the tools."

Councillors John J. Quinn, James A. Sheets, Daniel G. Raymond and Leo J. Kelly, who have opposed the amendment all along, said they did so because it would not accomplish the goal of getting politics out of the hospital operation.

Councillor Lydon did much to underline that fear.

"As late as today," he told the Council, "I received a letter from a nurse who was laid off at City Hospital, stating that she was employed for 20 years."

"She asked me as a City councillor that she would appreciate anything I could do for her with respect to her continued employment at the hospital."

"Now that was a policy decision up there and I have an elected responsibility to look into that letter but as a city councillor we have no policy input in that hospital."

"Without the amendment, once the council does not have policy input into the board, you become disinvolved with your elected responsibilities. I think that's a bad move for the city."

Dr. Elliott Schiffman, president of the medical staff at City Hospital, pounced on Lydon's statement.

"In the last four months," he said, "Since Hospital Corporation of America has run the hospital, I have seen an absence of political interference in running the hospital with respect to hiring and firing."

"What does frighten me a little bit is the potential political interference expressed by Mr. Lydon with respect to this letter from the nurse, who I am sure by law has been offered an alternative job within the hospital."

"We hear again for the first time in four months perhaps some effort at political interference in the management of the hospital. This is the type of thing we would like to avoid."

Councillor LaRaia said that if the Council is going to abolish political interference in the hospital "we might as well start with the mayor's."

"Perhaps we should eliminate the mayor's six members of the board as well as the council's three members and let Hospital Corporation of America operate it independently. That is the most non-political situation there is."

Dr. Russell I. Irons, former president of the medical staff, was all for it.

"I would like to look toward the future as Joe LaRaia said," he told the council, "and abolish all political appointments to the Board of Managers and create some sort of a system where these people are picked by the citizens of Quincy through an ad hoc committee."

Councillor Sheets agreed.

"I hope," he said, "I see the time come when I can help make a decision that is going to establish that hospital not only free from the council's direct control but free from the mayor's direct control as well. That's the direction we're going and I want to keep it up."

Councillor Condon, who is chairman of the Hospital Committee, said she might just work toward that goal.

"I'd like to see a board that is elected at large," she told The Sun. "Maybe this could be Step 2 in straightening out the hospital. We should start by finding out from other hospitals how their boards of directors are named."

Old Colony Train Service To End

Laurence F. Whittemore, president of the New Haven Railroad, said that unless some new source of revenue is found passenger service to the South Shore on the Old Colony line will end in a few months.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that if we cannot relieve the cost of operating this service by some such arrangement as state purchase of the South Station we will not be able to continue after this summer."

Whittemore said when the New Haven applied for rate increases in New York it was told, "We won't give you a cent until you stop wasting money on the Old Colony in Massachusetts."

He placed losses at $1.7 million in 1947 and $2.2 million in 1948.

FIREARMS BAN

Mayor Charles A. Ross filed an ordinance with the City Council that would ban firearms within the city limits except by licensed gun clubs and military organizations.

Allen H. Hermance Jr., 20, of Milton was shot and killed April 2 by a stray bullet while he was target shooting at Lyon's Quarry. The shot was believed to have been fired by another target shooter.

"The time has come when we must put a stop to tragedies like this," said Ross.

TRAILER CAMP OPPOSED

Mrs. Ambrose S. Thomas, president of the Squantum Women's Club, announced that the club will revive its fight for a city takeover of Squantum Park to forestall construction of a trailer camp.

Mayor Ross said that a prominent Boston politician had been trying to get a permit to establish such a camp there but that Ross had turned it down. The area is owned by the city of Boston.

"A trailer camp is unthinkable," said Mrs. Thomas. "The fact that a trailer camp was even considered shows how important it is for Squantum Park to be taken over as a public park."

QUINCY LOSES OPENER

The Everett High School baseball team pounded three Quincy pitchers for 15 hits and drew 10 walks en route to a 17-4 victory over the Presidents in their season's opener.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard announced that the city's long range school construction plan will start with additions to the Atherton Hough and Wollaston Schools and conversion of an auditorium into classrooms in Wollaston.

Library Out Of Money

SUN - But it will close.

TOBIN - I don't know that. You said that.

SUN - Will you keep it open?

TOBIN - I'm not aware of where they are right now.

SUN - Mr. Watson says they're out of money. Obviously you can't keep going with no money.

TOBIN - The library's not the only one out of money.

SUN - It's the only large department out of money.

TOBIN - I'm not so sure of that. SUN - What other ones are out of money?

TOBIN - We're transferring money between accounts.

SUN - Will you transfer some into the library account?

TOBIN - If we have it. If we don't then there's going to be additional layoffs. I told the council this.

SUN - You're not going to make any move until the Council does?

TOBIN - I've been out there four times.

SUN - It sounds like you're holding the library hostage for the Sewer and Water Commission.

TOBIN - You said that. I'm not holding anybody hostage. It's just that I'm trying to make the Council act.

SUN - It sounds as though if there is no Water and Sewer Commission then the library is going under.

TOBIN - We told the Council that. It doesn't necessarily have to happen.

Easter And Holy Week Services

Edited by Nancy McLaughlin

Bethany Congregational Church

The traditional Maundy Thursday service will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church.

The first portion of the service is the celebration of Holy Communion, commemorating the institution of the sacrament during the Last Supper in the Upper Room.

The Rev. Alden D. J. Zuern will give the meditation, "What An Example" based on John 13:1-15, and Rev. J. William Arnold will conduct the communion liturgy. Deacons serving the communion will be William Greene, Robert Lockwood, Edwin Roberts, George Roberts and Clayton Simpson.

Following the Last Supper, the events leading to Christ's arrest, trial and crucifixion will be portrayed in the fourth century Office of Tenebrae. These happenings are recalled by the reading of selected Gospel passages.

The Tenebrae readers this year are Russell Hodgkins, Donald MacLeod, Kinya Mikami, Kenneth Rickson, James Ross, Richard Sprague, Alfred Toy and Howard Willard, Sr.

As each reading is completed the candles and lights will be extinguished one by one in the chancel and nave until everything is complete darkness, symbolic of the flight of Christ's followers who deserted him in his hour of trial.

The chancel choir, under the direction of Linda H. Roberts, will sing as the closing anthem, "Tis Midnight and on Olive's brow."

Two Easter Sunday services will be held at the church.

An outdoor sunrise service will take place at 7 a.m. at the point at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lipp, 7 Edwards Lane.

Young people will participate in leading the worship. William Ross will give the meditation.

A light breakfast will follow the worship. In case of inclement weather, the service will be held in Bethany Chapel.

At 10 a.m. in the main sanctuary, the Resurrection of Jesus will be celebrated. Included will be a trumpet fanfare, glad hymns, and an act of adoration of the Risen Christ.

The Chancel Choir, with Linda L. Roberts at the organ, will sing the anthem, "Come Ye Faithful" and as a closing praise response "Hallelujah" from Handel's Messiah.

The two children's choirs, Cherub and Junior, will sing under the direction of Nancy Renn.

Rev. Zuern will assist in leading the worship. Pastor Arnold will preach the sermon based on Matthew 27:65, "As Secure As You Can."

There will be over 150 lilies in the sanctuary. The lilies will be delivered later to sick and confined members and friends of the church.

No church school classes will be held so that children may attend the Easter service with their families. The nursery will be open and staffed for babies and pre-school children.

St. Chrysostom's

The annual Passover Seder Meal will be held at St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m.

The event, hosted by the Communion Preparation Class, will include a chicken dinner and a ceremony.

At 8 p.m., the Holy Eucharist, Memorial of the Institution of the Lord's Supper, hymns, sermon, and solemn stripping of the altar will take place.

A children's service will be held at noon Good Friday.

A two hour devotion commemorating the Passion of Jesus Christ will begin at 1 p.m. Worshipers may come and go throughout.

There will be a Good Friday liturgy at 7:30 p.m. with the ministry of the word, prayer for the day of Jesus' crucifixion, hymns and choir anthem.

The liturgy of the word is scheduled for Holy Saturday at 8 a.m.

At 7 p.m., the Great Vigil of Easter will take place with lighting of the Paschal Candle, liturgy of the word, hymns, renewal of baptismal vows and Holy Baptism.

The Festival of the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated Easter Sunday, the Sunday of the Resurrection, at 8 and 10 a.m. There will be a choir and brass ensemble. A baby sitter will be on duty. There will be no church school.

Faith Lutheran

Pastor James Kimmell will preach on "The New Covenant" at a Maundy Thursday service with Holy Communion tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy Center.

A Tenebrae Service will be held at the church Good Friday at 7:30 p.m. Pastor Kimmell will preach on "Family of God".

Four services are scheduled for Easter Sunday.

A Sunrise Service with Holy Communion will be held at Faith Center, 65 Roberts St., at 6 a.m. An egg hunt for children will follow. Breakfast will be served by the LYFE Group.

Festive Holy Communion services will be held at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Pastor Kimmell's Easter message will be on "New Creation".

A Finnish service with Matt Salomaa preaching will be 2:30 p.m. at Faith Center.

First Church Of Squantum

The First Church of Squantum will hold its traditional candle-light observance of the Lord's Supper Maundy Thursday (tonight) at 7:30 p.m.

This is a service from which worshippers are asked to leave in silent meditation.

The congregation will hold two services Easter Sunday: an Easter Sunrise Service at Mosswetuset Hummock at 7 a.m. and the traditional Easter service at the church at 10:15 a.m. The public is invited to both.

Wollaston Lutheran

Wollaston Lutheran Church will commemorate Maundy Thursday of Holy Week with a 7:30 p.m. Holy Communion Service tonight.

Rev. Frank J. Bauer, pastor, will preach on "The Third Absurdity." The service will be followed by a fellowship and refreshment hour in the lower hall.

The Good Friday Service, also at 7:30 p.m., will be a solemn, penitential service entirely spoken except for hymn accompaniment by the organ. The pastor will preach on "The Seven Last Words."

The Easter Sunday Festival Service will be at 10 a.m. with a celebration of Holy Communion. Pastor Bauer's sermon will be on "Metamorphosis".

Organist for all the services will be Professor Charles E. Seifert of Eastern Nazarene College.

Good Shepherd

A Maundy Thursday service of Holy Communion will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, 308 West Squantum St., North Quincy.

The service commemorates the night that Jesus instituted the sacrament.

A Service of Tenebrae will be held at the church Friday at 7:30 p.m. The worship area is gradually darkened until it is completely dark. Church members focus on Jesus' death on the cross and the betrayal of his disciples.

Easter Sunday's worship service will be at 10:30 a.m.

St. John the Baptist Church School Street, Quincy, Mass. HOLY WEEK SCHEDULE

Dear Friends,

May you and your loved ones experience personally and together all the happiness of Easter, that truly wonderful day when Jesus Christ made possible for us a new life that will never end.

Be strengthened, be encouraged by Christ's words, "I am with you always," He understands your needs, your problems. Place them in his hands, through prayer.

Open your heart to others in Christ's name through kindness and understanding and His love will reach more people through you. Attend and participate in these Holy Week Services and receive Holy Communion each time, and may the strength you derive from celebrating Christ's Paschal mystery fill your heart and your home with lasting peace.

Holy Week At Saint John's

St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church announces its Holy Week schedule as follows:

On Holy Thursday, there will be low Masses celebrated at 8 a.m. and 12:10 p.m. The solemn Mass of the Lord's Supper and the Mandatum will be celebrated at 8 p.m. followed by adoration of the Blessed Sacrament until midnight.

Good Friday Services will be held beginning with solemn stations of the cross, with harp accompaniment, at 12:10 p.m. The solemn service of Good Friday, including Adoration of the cross, the chanting of the Passion and distribution of Holy Communion, will be held at 3 p.m. and repeated at 8 p.m. Parishioners are encouraged to visit the church Good Friday from noon to 3 p.m. to meditate on Christ's Passion and death.

On Holy Saturday, there will be no Masses celebrated during the day. However, Confessions will be heard from 3 to 4 p.m.

Beginning at 8 p.m. there will be the solemn Easter Vigil Services held in both the upper and lower church, which will consist of the Service of Light, The Liturgy of the Word, Baptismal Liturgy and Liturgy of the Eucharist.

The Easter Vigil in the upper church will be accompanied by the Parish adult choir and guest instrumentalists, and also by the Young Adult Folk Group.

The Easter Vigil in the lower church will be accompanied by a special folk group conducted by Andy Murray. This Vigil in the lower church will be geared toward families with children.

Participation in the entire Easter Vigil Services satisfies the obligation for Easter Sunday. Parishioners who receive communion at the Easter Vigil may also receive again on Easter Sunday.

A special Easter sunrise service will be held at Nantasket Beach. Cars will be parked in the church parking lot. Those participating will depart at 5 a.m. and proceed to Hull for the service. They will return at approximately 8:30 p.m. This Service is not a Mass and it will be conducted by the Parish Young Adult Folk Group.

Easter Sunday Masses will be as follows:

7 a.m., 8:30 a.m. with organ and congregation singing; 9:45 a.m. upstairs, choir Mass; 9:45 a.m. Downstairs with organ and congregation singing; 11 a.m. upstairs family Mass with Young Adult Folk Group; 11 a.m. downstairs with organ and congregation singing; 11:15 a.m. outdoor Mass for pre-schoolers, near the Convent grounds; 12:30 p.m. Mass with organ and congregation singing and 5:15 p.m. Mass with Folk Music. The daily Masses during the week after Easter will be at 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Wollaston Congregational

Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave., will host a union Maundy Thursday service with the Congregational and Baptist Churches of East Milton tonight at 7:45 p.m.

A candlelight service will commemorate the Lord's Last Supper and celebrate the Office of Tenebrae.

Rev. Llewellyn Smith and Rev. Lloyd Martin will be assisted by deacons from the churches. Music will be provided by the Combined Choirs.

A series of devotions commemorating the Seven Last Words from the Cross will be held Good Friday, 12 to 3 p.m., in Wollaston Methodist Church.

Rev. Martin will speak on the third word. Don Reade, Marian Channon, Luisa Dano and John Flavin will also participate.

Members of the Senior High Fellowship will conduct an Easter Morning Service at 7 a.m. on the grounds adjacent to the stone tower on Forbes Hill. In case of rain, the service will be held at East Church.

Easter Breakfast will follow at approximately 8 a.m. in Martin Hall, East Church. Orange juice, cereal, french toast, sausages, coffee, tea or cocoa will be served. Among the chefs are Ethel Schow, John and Buell Fuller and Joseph and Peg Sandahl.

Easter morning service will be held at 10 a.m. in the Wollaston Congregational sanctuary. Rev. Martin's sermon will be: "Where Christ Has Led". There will be special music.

Jewish Faith Prepares For Passover - Pesach Holidays

By LESTER E. GLASSER

Passover-Pesach holidays will be ushered into the Jewish homes of Quincy beginning with services at the Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point, Saturday, April 18, followed by the first Seder supper in the home.

Other services will be held Sunday morning and evening followed by the second Seder supper. Services will also be held at the synagogue Monday morning and will continue throughout the week.

Passover services will conclude Sunday morning, April 26. Yizkor (memorial) prayers will be recited during the services, which will be conducted by Rabbi Jacob Mann.

Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris Semigran will conduct the Passover services at Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St. At Congregation Adas Shalom, 435 Adams St., Passover services will be held on the last two days of the holiday, April 25 and 26. Rabbi Samuel S. Kenner and Cantor David Grossman will officiate.

The Passover holiday comes in the springtime.

Preparations are started early. Every room from attic to basement receives a thorough cleaning. Dishes are changed; silverware is boiled, dried and polished. Sometimes new pots and pans are substituted for ones used during the year.

The Orthodox and Conservative Jews observe Passover for eight days while most Reform Jews celebrate only seven days, as do Jews in Israel.

The story of Pesach is the story of the search for freedom by the Jews. It is the story of how God freed the early Israelites from slavery. Their newborn freedom gave the Jews the will to become a nation strong enough to conquer a land they could call their own. Freedom was the burning torch that led them across the parched desert to a land of milk and honey.

Pesach, known as Passover, recalls the last night in Egypt, when the Angel of Death passed over the homes of the Israelites, sparing their first-born and smiting only the sons of Egypt. It is called the time of deliverance and Chag Hamatzos, the Feast of Unleavened Bread.

The matzo we eat recalls the flat bread the Israelites ate when they fled from Egypt. So hasty was their departure that there was no time to prepare the dough properly and the bread was baked in the desert sun without leaven - flat bread, the bread of slaves fleeing oppression.

At the beginning of the Seder everyone sits down to a beautifully set table bedecked with flowers and candles. At the head of the table is a special platter. On the platter in specified order are:

Three matzos in memory of the unleavened bread which the Jews ate when they were freed from Egypt; Bitter herbs for the bitterness of slavery; the shank of a lamb as a reminder of the Paschal lamb; a roasted egg, symbolic of the freewill festival offering which accompanied the sacrifice of the Paschal lamb in the Temple; Haroseth, a food made of apples, nuts, cinnamon and wine, mixed together to look like mortar which the Hebrew slaves used in servitude; parsley or watercress, suggestive of the ancient customary hors d'oeuvres. It is now used as a token of gratitude to God for the products of the earth.

Finally a cup of wine is set at the place setting of each celebrant at the table.

As in all Jewish ceremonies of rejoicing, wine is used as a token of festivity. If desired, fermented raisin wine is substituted. Each participant is expected to partake of four cups of wine, a number selected as symbolic of the four divine promises of redemption made to Israel in Exodus 6:6-7.

An empty wine cup is in the center of the table. This cup is filled as part of the Seder ceremony. It is known as Elijah's cup. It symbolizes the hope of man for the quick coming of God's kingdom on earth.

Early in the Seder service one of three matzos on the ceremonial platter is divided in half. The half which is put away to be eaten at the close of the meal is called Aphikoman, which is derived from the Greek, meaning after-meal or dessert.

The origin of this custom may be traced to the Paschal lamb which was eaten on Passover night. It was customary to reserve a small portion of the lamb to be eaten at the close of the meal. When sacrifices had ceased, a piece of Matzah was eaten. The Aphikoman, hidden early in the Seder, is left to the end of the meal, in order that the children may be kept alert during the entire service.

In this connection, a game of paying forfeits originated. The head of the family pays no heed when the Aphikoman is spirited away by the children, who do not surrender it until the master of the house is forced to redeem it by some gift so that the meal may be concluded.

The order of the Seder Service is as follows:

The Kiddush (Sanctification), in which all take the cup of wine while the leader recites this benediction - "Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the Universe, Creator of the fruit of the vine. Blessed art Thou O Lord our God, King of the Universe, who hast chosen us among all peoples and sanctified us with Thy commandments. In love hast Thou given us, O Lord our God, solemn days of joy and festive seasons of gladness, even this day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, a holy convocation unto us, a memorial of the departure from Egypt. Thou hast chosen us for Thy service and hast made us sharers in the blessings of Thy festivals. Blessed art Thou, O Lord, who sanctifiest Israel and the festive seasons. Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, who has preserved us and sustained us and brought us to this season."

All the celebrants drink the first cup of wine. Next, all wash their hands, omitting the customary prayer. Then comes the eating of the greens, which marks the green that comes to life in the springtime; then the breaking of the middle matzo by the leader, putting half away as the aphikoman.

The platter is set down. Wine is poured again into the cups or glasses and the youngest among the celebrants addresses the "Four Questions" to the leader: Why is this night different from all other nights?

On all other nights, we eat either leavened or unleavened bread. Why on this night, do we eat only unleavened bread?

On all other nights, we eat all kinds of herbs. Why on this night, do we eat especially bitter herbs?

On all other nights, we do not dip herbs in any condiment? Why on this night do we dip them in salt water and haroseth?

On all other nights, we may sit at the table either erect or leaning; on this night we recline.

The leader replies to the child:

To the first question, when Pharaoh let our forefathers go from Egypt, they were forced to flee in great haste.

To question two, our forefathers were slaves in Egypt and their lives were made bitter.

To question three, for a sign of hope.

To question four, because reclining at the table was a sign of a free man in olden times.

The leader continues from the Haggadah, which means telling of the story of the Exodus from Egypt.

The Rabbis said that there are four kinds of children, each one quite different from the rest, and each needs to be told the story of the Exodus in a different way.

The first is the wise child, who loves Pesach and is eager to celebrate the holiday; another is the irreverent child, who is scornful and does not feel part of the whole celebration; the third is the simple child, naive and innocent and very shy, who would like to know what Pesach means, the fourth kind is the child who does not even realize that something unusual is going on. He must simply be told, as the Torah puts it, "This is because of what the Lord did for me when I went forth from Egypt."

When the story is finished the food is brought in.

The first course is hard boiled eggs served with salt water, for tears and hope have always been the lot of the Jews.

Other food is fish and chicken or turkey and for dessert each person receives a small piece of Matzo. The leader rewards the finder of the Aphikoma.

After drinking the cup of wine, the door is opened and the fourth and last cup of wine, the Cup for Elijah the Prophet, is filled and Elijah is admitted. All at the table rise to greet him.

Elijah in Jewish tradition is the long expected messenger of the final redemption of mankind from all oppression.

Taking the cup of wine in his hand, the leader recites the final benediction. Then the company completes the reading of the Haggadah.

Seven weeks after Passover, comes the Festival of the First Fruits or the Feast of Weeks, Shavuot.

Joseph Cortese Announces For Ward 2 Council Seat

Joseph Cortese, 48, of 48 Ellerton Rd., Quincy Point, a retired Quincy police detective, has announced his candidacy for the City Council from Ward 2.

His was the first announcement for that office since the current Ward 2 councillor, Daniel G. Raymondi, disclosed that he is considering a run for mayor.

In his announcement, Cortese noted that his family has lived in Quincy Point for 125 years and that he was "born, raised, attended school and lived in Ward 2 all my life."

He attended Quincy Junior College and Northeastern and recently retired as a detective on the Quincy Police Department in which he also served as secretary of the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

He was also a union steward affiliated with Local 4335 of the United Steel Workers.

Cortese, who is the father of two sons, Joseph Jr. 24, and Michael 21, is a member of the Sons of Italy and has been active in youth sports, particularly in the Quincy Point area.

"I have been involved with issues dealing with community affairs and I am aware of the problems facing the people of Ward 2," he said.

"I will exert all my energy and efforts to being elected and I pledge to provide the people of Ward 2 with constant representa-

Raymondi Adds Office Hours

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has announced that he will be at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., to meeting his Ward 2 constituents on the following dates:

Tuesday, April 21, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Tuesday, May 19, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Raymondi said that, while he already maintains contact with constituents at Ward 2 Civic Association meetings he feels it is important to extend his hours for their convenience.

If anyone can't make it to the Fore River Clubhouse on those days, he said, a mutually convenient time and place can be arranged.

Passion Play With Puppets Held At Squantum Church

There were more people than seats in the sanctuary of the First Church of Squantum Sunday for a Passion Play performed by puppets as part of the traditional Palm Sunday service.

The play "The Week That Shook The World" was enacted by The Way-Uppets, a group of young people from The Way Up which is a church-sponsored youth center in Wollaston. Over 50 teenagers and adults helped produce the play.

Adult production assistants were Evelyn Ahearn, Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne.

Assisting with the stage, the properties or the costumes were Evelyn Ahearn, Mildred Bostwick, Jennifer Carroll, Katie Crossman, Valerie Gorrill, Grace Holmes, John Malmgren, Hazel Mayne, Helen Miller, Ellen Ogilvie, Mary Ruth Scott, Stewart Scott, Pat Sorensen, Ruth Swenson, Ida VonRiegers and Robert Von Riegers.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, narrated the play. He is also the director of The Way Up.

Puppets used in the play were unique because of their size. Most stood nearly seven feet tall and had heads two or three times the size of human heads. The stage filled the entire chancel.

The service began with a call to worship by Sandra Ahearn, an opening prayer by Bonnie Adams and a scripture reading by Steve Williams. During the procession of palms, palm leaves were distributed to each worshipper by Louis Morales, Michael DiPalmo, Craig Brown and Michael Stamos.

Four choirs combined to sing "Hosanna! Blessed is He That Comes" by Gregor-Mueller. They included the Junior Choir, the Boys' Choir, the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir, Robert Gorrill accompanied them with his trumpet. Mary Ruth Scott played the piano.

Greeters for the morning were Del and Ralph Dougherty. Ushers were Tore Wallin, Paul Paulson, Don Frazer and Harry Holmes. The fellowship hour was hosted by Gloria Cutler, Fred MacMillan and Isabelle Preston.

During the fellowship hour, a videotape recording of the morning's service was shown for those who wanted to see it again. Robert Gorrill supervised the videotape equipment.

The morning began with a Palm Sunday breakfast sponsored by young women in the church including Marie Reister, Ellen Ogilvie, Gretchen Bumpus, Barbara Colwell, Sandra Ahearn, Nancy Ellis, Debbie Stohlberg, Susan Scott and Sarah Mildrum. Also helping were Jimmy Sumner, Krista Colwell, Si Porter and John Malmgren.

This performance of the Passion Play by the Way-Uppets was fifth in a series of six being done in area churches. It had already been done at churches in Abington, Braintree, Randolph and South Braintree. Sunday night it was enacted one more time at the First Trinitarian Congregational Church in Scituate.

Maryanne Conway On Suffolk Dean's List

Maryanne Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Conway of 13 Royal St., North Quincy, has been named to the dean's list at Suffolk University.

Miss Conway, a senior majoring in law and government, maintained an A average.

Morrissey Bill Would Permit Special Use Of School Buses

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has testified before the Committee on Public Safety in favor of a bill that would allow senior citizens and non-profit organizations to use school buses during off hours.

The legislation was filed by Morrissey and other members of the Quincy State House delegation, Sen. Paul D. Harold and Reps. Thomas P. Brownell and Robert A. Cerasoli.

Morrissey cited the amount of time that fleets of school buses stand idle when they are not used for school functions.

"There are many non-profit groups in cities and towns that would make good use of these buses when the school system is not using them," he told the committee.

"Currently, Department of Public Utilities regulations do not allow such groups to use these buses for fear of competition with private carriers."

Morrissey assured the committee that there would be no competition with private carriers since use of the buses would be limited to senior citizens, churches and other non-profit organizations.

"Rental price for the bus would only cover the expenses incurred for the use of the vehicle," he said.

"In a time of energy conservation, fuel efficiency and tight budgets, this change in the law seems to be a reasonable solution for all concerned."

The committee is expected to report on the bill in the next few weeks.

Richard Koch Cancer Crusade Chairman

Richard J. Koch of 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy will serve as Cancer Crusade chairman in Quincy announces State Crusade Chairmen Thomas and Rosemary Costin.

Costin serves as Postal Service Administrator in Lynn, and is a former mayor of that city.

Costin noted Massachusetts residents raised $2,571,473 last year exceeding the goal by more than $11,000. This year's Quincy crusade goal is $2,723,000.

The 1981 Cancer Crusade will culminate April 28 with a house-to-house solicitation in Quincy and throughout Massachusetts. Statewide, more than 100,000 volunteers will participate.

The American Cancer Society does not receive money from the United Fund nor is it government funded. The Cancer Society depends upon voluntary gifts to support its cancer control program.

Koch credited the Ward and Precinct Chairmen and efforts of 1,500 door to door workers with the $11,329 record of last year's residential drive and the generosity of the Quincy people with $31,753.30 received last year on behalf of cancer research and education.

The 1980 drive exceeded its goal by 20 per cent and its quota for 1981 is $35,500; $6,580, or 18 1/2 per cent, has been received to date largely from Memorials.

Volunteers are needed and requested for the April 28 Cancer Crusade.

Brighten your house with new aluminum trim

New aluminum trim can brighten an older house as effectively as new accessories rejuvenate last year's clothes, if the rest of its exterior is in good condition. It can also save you won't have to paint the new trim.

Aluminum trim comes in a variety of colors. White is particularly effective in setting off a dark color house, while other colors, ranging from light to dark shades, let you match old brick, stucco, shingle and other wood surfaces. Or, you can use a contrasting color trim to perk up the outside of your home.

Variety of uses

Standard aluminum trim is generally used for the roof overhang (soffit), the roof edging (fascia), and gutters and downspouts. However, new installation techniques make it possible for a skilled technician to duplicate even the most complicated designs by forming them from aluminum coil stock (a roll of flat aluminum), also available in a variety of colors. Other siding materials are difficult to form to required shapes.

New gutters and downspouts can put the finishing touch on new house trim. In addition to carrying water from the house efficiently, a good gutter system protects the fascia, eliminates streaks and stains on the face of the house, and helps prevent water damage to the foundation. It's also a factor in keeping basement walls dry.

Before you add new gutters, though, make sure your roof is in good condition, and repair any damage to the fascia.

A very steep 1920s-style Tudor stucco house is an example of how the exterior can be improved by the imaginative use of aluminum trim.

Here, the owner wished to retain its basic appearance, enhance it where possible, and, again, eliminate as much painting and repair work as possible.

The tan stucco surface was left intact, but soffit, fascia and all other trim was covered with brown aluminum, and new brown color gutters and downspouts were added.

Then, to cover the original natural wood shakes in the gables, matching double-four-in. aluminum siding panels were used. The contrasting brown color and the horizontal pattern of the newly covered gables reduce the appearance of excessive height.

Even very old, turn-of-the-century houses are candidates for new aluminum trim. Typical is a rambling old New England one.

Here, the wood shingles were still in good condition and matching white aluminum trim became the practical alternative to the spiraling costs of repainting the trim periodically.

The new white aluminum soffit, fascia, roof and numerous window frames blend pleasingly with the architectural design of the old house and give it a well-kept appearance. Without touching the aluminum trim, it is impossible to differentiate it from wood.

Modern houses can also benefit from adding aluminum trim. The owners of a dramatic 10-year-old contemporary home with brick, masonry and glass panels, and wood trim, decided they wanted total freedom from exterior painting.

They had the long lengths of wood soffit covered with white aluminum, and the aluminum fascia stretching along the length of the house covered with black aluminum.

Avoid expensive roofing problems by learning early warning signs of damage

You can avoid expensive problems by knowing the early warning signs of a damaged roof. Leaks, unseen moisture and seepage can rot roof boards and rafters, reduce the effectiveness of insulation, and ruin stored possessions if a damaged roof remains unrepaired.

Since most homeowners may never have had to replace a roof, they are frequently not as well informed as they could be about available materials, their characteristics and costs. Hasty or uninformed decisions could be costly in the years to come.

Putting a roof over your head is no longer a simple matter of selecting a durable material at an affordable price.

The wide variety of colors, styles and textures currently available adds new dimensions to roofing selection which home owners will want to consider.

A thorough examination of your roof will help you decide whether it is ready for retirement or simply in need of minor repairs.

It may be a little more difficult to detect problems in the attic which are caused by water damage.

If there are any doubts about a roof's condition, it is advisable to call a reliable home improvement contractor. Most likely he will inspect your roof at no charge and prepare a cost estimate for repair or re-roofing.

If it develops that your roof does need repair or replacement, asphalt shingles offer exceptional durability and fire resistance.

Asphalt has been used as a waterproofing agent for more than 5,000 years, and walls built with asphalt binder in ancient Babylon are still standing.

Today, high quality asphalt shingles manufactured in the United States are available in a wide range of weights, textures, colors and styles.

An organic felt or a fiberglass based mat is saturated with special asphalt and covered with a thick coat of rock granules that protect a shingle from its worst enemy, the sun.

Then, spots of adhesive are evenly spaced on each shingle. Set into sticking action by the sun, these thermoplastic dots seal down every shingle with a grip that holds even when subjected to winds of hurricane force.

Most standard asphalt shingles are warranted for 15 years. However, it pays to investigate heavy weight, top-of-the-line asphalt shingles which are usually covered by a 25-year limited warranty.

Check your roof for weather damage and consider all of the options before repairing or re-roofing. The time and effort you take now could mean a big savings in the long run.

Advice on how storm windows save energy offered in free new booklet

Selection of storm windows is easier with the help of a free new booklet entitled "Combination Aluminum Insulating Storm Windows," being offered by the Aluminum Window Information Bureau.

The booklet shows you how a "second set" of windows can help insulate your home throughout the year to help you conserve energy and be more comfortable.

It also gives examples of possible savings in major areas throughout the U.S. through the use of storm windows. The informative booklet describes the various types of self-storing storm window and screen combinations available.

Italian ceramic tile seen as latest trend in home design

You can increase the value of your home—one of the best investments to have these days—by decorating with ceramic tile, one of the latest trends in residential design.

The fastest growing tiles, in terms of sales, come from Italy. They are available in the U.S. in a wide range of designs and styles, enabling homeowners to create an individual and distinctive look while at the same time enhancing the intrinsic value of their property.

Italian ceramic tiles are renowned for their beauty and design, and their durability and easy care make them more practical than vinyl or carpeting.

According to the Italian Tile Center, whether remodeling, redecorating or starting fresh, Italian ceramic tile can be used in any decorating scheme.

- Use vividly colored ceramic tiles in rooms which do not receive much sunlight to brighten them up

- Transform an ordinary bathroom with great flair by using patterned Italian tiles to create murals on the floors and walls.

- Glazed Italian ceramic tiles make highly practical and attractive kitchen countertops.

They resist stains, and hot pots and pans will not leave scorch marks.

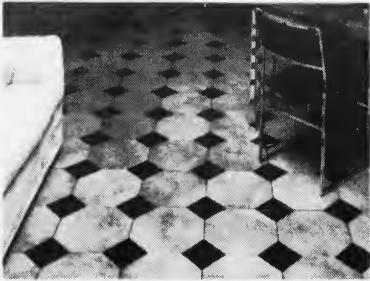

- To make a small room appear larger, use the same tiles on the floors and walls.

- If there is a large amount of floor space to cover, use a patterned tile or alternate with two different tile shapes, for example, a hexagon and square, to bring the floor and walls together.

- Create a "rug" on the floor of a family room using Italian tile. It is much easier to keep clean than the real thing and will not require rolling up for dancing or children's game playing.

- Construct a platform around a bathtub with Italian ceramic tile for a dramatic and waterproof look.

- Tiles can divide a multi-functional room into separate areas. For example, a different color or pattern under a conversation area will set it off from the dining area in a combined living dining room.

THE CLASSIC LOOK OF CERAMIC TILE blends well with the contemporary furnishings of this living-dining room

OPERATING COSTS HIT THE ROOF

The cost of operating a home has increased approximately 150 percent in the last 10 years, report housing experts.

Although the advancing costs of maintenance and repairs is the number one culprit; hikes in insurance, real estate tax and utilities are nearly as high.

Windows play vital role in energy

Since a considerable amount of your home's exterior wall space may be made up of windows, the role they play in your home's energy efficiency is an important one.

Andersen Corporation, which manufactures Perma-

Shield windows and gliding doors, suggests selecting windows with built-in energy saving features, such as a preservative-treated wood core sash and frame, double-pane insulating glass and factory-applied weatherstripping.

Spring's the time to make the home fire-safe

Spring Clean-up—an annual tradition—began more than a half-century ago in Cleveland, Ohio. Bertha Chapman, a school teacher, convinced a student from the slums to care more about her appearance. This inspired the young girl to carry this new respect for cleanliness into her home.

As neighbors watched her family cleaning their house, they soon were caught up in the spirit—the result being the first spring clean-up campaign, which eventually caught on nationwide!

This annual event should be for more than aesthetic reasons, however. It's the perfect time to go through the home, checking for fire hazards which might normally be otherwise overlooked.

Following is a Spring Cleanup checklist which anyone can use when embarking on a Spring Clean-up this year:

- Have the furnace checked and cleaned every year.
- Arrange for professional care of chimney, pipes and flues. After heavy winter use, creosote build-up can easily start a fire in the chimney.
- If painting is on the cleaning agenda, store paints in metal containers (not glass) with tight-fitting lids away from heat, sparks and children. Remember, fumes are as dangerous as the liquid—fires can ignite just from the fumes! Throw out paint and solvent when the job is finished.
- After painting, check to make sure the windows aren't painted shut, and that there's a key within arm's reach if windows have locks.

Insulating your house will help lessen energy waste

Homeowners have become painfully aware of the cost of energy. With utility and fuel costs rising between 10 and 15 percent annually, homes that were once "toasty warm" during the winter now often settle for "livable."

Although the cost of energy will continue to rise in the years ahead, there are ways homeowners can take the defensive. The National Home Improvement Council advises consumers to lower thermostat settings, add storm doors and windows, and use electrical appliances and lights only when necessary.

All can help keep energy waste in check. NHIC also recommends insulating your home to today's standards: at least R-30 for attic floors; R-19 for sidewalls.

NHIC, the largest professional association devoted exclusively to home improvement, estimates that as many as eight out of 10 homes in this country may be wasting energy because of inadequate insulation.

The association suggests the following ways to find out if your home needs insulation.

• Look for insulation between floor joists and rafters in the attic and over unheated areas such as crawl spaces, garages and basements.

Installing the right kind of insulation in ceilings, walls and floors, according to energy experts, can mean savings of up to 50 percent in fuel consumption.

• To check wall insulation, turn off the electricity. Remove a light switch plate from the inside of an exterior wall. Shine a flashlight into the wall cavity to determine if there is any insulation.

Another way of checking insulation is feeling the inside surface of an exterior wall. If it feels quite a bit cooler, insulation is needed.

If you find inadequate insulation, call in a professional contractor to conduct a thorough check on your home. He will be able to suggest the best type of insulation, determine the amount necessary, and give you an estimate on the cost.

Donald Gohl Chairman Boy Scout Sustaining Membership Drive

O. Donald Gohl, assistant vice president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, has accepted the chairmanship of the 1981 Sustaining Membership Enrollment Campaign to benefit Boy Scouts in the Blue Granite District which serves Quincy and Milton.

Gohl, who started in banking in Quincy in 1946, has been actively involved in community and charitable campaigns. He has chaired the United Way, the Cancer Drive, the UNICEF campaign, and several scouting campaigns. He also aided last year's successful capital fund drive for the redevelopment of Camp Massasoit as a year-round camping facility.

O. DONALD GOHL

Several years ago, he served the Blue Granite District as district chairman. He has worked on behalf of the Scouting movement in Quincy for a long time.

Gohl was a boy scout while growing up in Atlantic City, NJ, and as a young man, served as Junior Assistant Scoutmaster of his troop.

Today, one out of every three boys who are of age to join, are Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts, and these Scouting programs are available in every neighborhood of the city.

Sustaining members of the local Boy Scout council are individuals and businesses in the community who wish to support the local scouting programs financially. These memberships once established may be renewed annually which provides an ongoing and dependable source of support for Scouting each year.

Assisting Gohl with the campaign are:

Richard Coleman of the Colonial Federal Savings and Loan Association; Orville R. Sapp of the Furnace Brook Medical Labs; Harvey Kurr, Worldwide Travel Agency; Thomas Galvin, Boston Gear; Joseph Richiardi, U.S. Trust Co.; James Triglia, Johnson Motor Parts; Atty. Paul Hayes, Matthew Ridder, Springfield Services; Nicholas Pepe, Administrative and Financial Services, Inc.; Francis X. McCauley, Presidential Cooperative Bank, and William O'Connell.

Volunteer Scouters assisting with the campaign are Harold Crowley, district chairman; Willard Nolan, district vice chairman; William Shaw, in charge of enrollment of Scout families and leaders; and John and Buell Fuller, who are heading up the enrollment of the Century Club members, those who contribute $100.

"Colonial Wills" Historical Society Topic

Reservations should be made by Friday, April 17, for a dinner to precede the regular meeting of the Quincy Historical Society Thursday, April 23, at United First Parish Church, Quincy Center.

A catered dinner will be served in the church's lower hall at 6:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the society's office in the Adams Academy Building at 773-1144.

The meeting, open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the upper hall.

Elizabeth A. Little will discuss "Colonial Wills, Inventories and Account Books as Sources for Local History."

Mrs. Little, of Lincoln and Nantucket, has a Ph.D. in physics. After a career in science, she has been active since 1970 in historical and archeological projects.

Monsignor Aloysius R. Finn, 94, Our Lady Of Good Counsel Pastor

A funeral Mass was celebrated April 11, at St. John the Evangelist Church, Winthrop, for Monsignor Aloysius R. Finn, 94, first pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy.

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros officiated at the Mass for Monsignor Finn who died April 7, in Regina Cleri, the home for retired priests in Boston's West End.

The Mass was concelebrated by Monsignor Finn's nephew, Monsignor Joseph J. Bukay, pastor of Star of the Sea Church, Marblehead. The eulogy was said by Rev. Robert W. Kirchmeyer, associate pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Holbrook.

Monsignor Finn served at the Quincy church from 1938, when it was first built, to 1949.

He was an associate pastor of St. John the Evangelist Church, Swampscott, St. Mary of the Assumption Church, Brookline, St. Mary of the Annunciation Church, Melrose, and pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church,

Msgr. ALOYSIUS R. FINN

Cambridge, and St. John the Evangelist Church, Winthrop. He retired in 1968.

Born to Irish immigrant parents who settled in Dedham, he was one of 12 children.

He leaves a brother, Monsignor Charles A. Finn, 104, the oldest Catholic priest in the United States and oldest alumnus of Boston College, who lives at Regina Cleri.

Burial was in Brookdale Cemetery, Dedham.

Donations in Monsignor Finn's memory may be made to Regina Cleri Home, Cardinal O'Connell Way, Boston.

Tozzi Optimistic But Cautious

North Girls Open Track Season On Strong Note

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team, following another fantastic winter season, has begun the spring season and veteran Coach Lou Tozzi expects a good season.

"But I'm concerned that people will expect too much from us now that we have won titles in cross country and winter track," he said. (The Raiderettes won the Eastern Mass. cross country title last fall and the state indoor crown in the winter).

"Our first priority is to do well in the state meet, the second to have a good dual meet season and third to let everyone participate in a team concept."

The North girls, 6-2 last spring and second to Falmouth in the state meet, opened last Friday and defeated Weymouth North, 65-53. They met Weymouth South yesterday (Wednesday) and will compete in the state coaches' relay meet April 25.

Tozzi has some fine sprinters but lacks depth. Junior Kathy McCarthy will run the 100 and 220 and relay, junior Mary Kate Kennedy was third in the state indoor meet and was a medalist in the EMass. 220 last spring, and sophomores Diane Flynn and Liz Elliot show good potential.

Tozzi considers the mid-long sprints as the team's strongest area with junior Karen Lindenfelzer, an outstanding, versatile veteran; Kennedy, senior veteran Lisa Cavanaugh, Lisa Reynolds and Janet Zdanowski impressive sophomores and Kathy Mulloy and Michelle Romano other sophomores who are doing well.

In the middle distances junior Nancy McCarthy leads the way.

She won the state indoor 600 title and was a medalist in the 440 last spring. She is joined by veterans Mary Ellen Timmons and Kathy Moriarty, both juniors.

Tozzi has an outstanding group of distance runners, including sophomore Sheila Barrett, fourth in the state indoor two-mile; sophomore Linda Kennedy, fifth in the state indoor two-mile, and seniors Deirdre Corrigan and Robyn O'Donnell, veterans who helped the cross country team to the EMass title. Another outstanding senior is Mary Crehan, who will run the half mile and mile.

"Barrett and Kennedy make up probably the best sophomore 1-2 punch in the state," Tozzi said. "Both have superb attitude and are very hard workers."

Junior Kara Crehan, the state indoor champion and a Globe all-scholastic, heads the high jumpers, Mary Kate Kennedy and Crehan will also be in the long jump and Nancy McCarthy, Mary Gannon and Timmons also look good.

The brilliant Michelle Millane, a junior, leads the weight event hopefuls. She won the state discus last spring and is another Globe all-scholastic. She was unbeaten during the winter season in the shot put. Junior Caryn Smith looked good in the discus, Lindenfelzer is another discus thrower and Kathy McCarthy is an excellent shot putter. Tozzi is working with Cavanaugh, junior Sue Quintiliani and sophomores Sheila Quintiliani and Liz Wygonowski in the javelin.

Tozzi lost his top three hurdlers but junior Siobhan Corrigan, a hard worker, looks good and sophomores Linda Welby and Jane Leonardi and Sheila Quintiliani are other hopefuls.

Also competing for spots on the team are sophomores Elizabeth Garrigan, Andrea Gelsomini, Terry Jones, Laure Maule, Jeanne and Pauline Pappas, Marie Pesirides, Monica Reilly, Kathy Reddington, Dawn Tower, Nancy Wildes, Julie Zakrewski, Mary Lou McTigh and Chris Comeau.

"My biggest concerns are that some of our important veterans are not out for the team and we've had a large number of dropouts," Tozzi said. "We are still looking for a certain type of girl - one who is motivated and willing to make a real sacrifice."

In the win over Weymouth North, Millane won the discus and shot put with Smith third in each event; Kara Crehan won the high jump and was second in the long jump, Kathy McCarthy was third in the 100, Mary Kate Kennedy won the 220, Lindenfelzer won the 440, Nancy McCarthy won the 880 with Mary Crehan second, Linda Kennedy won the mile with O'Donnell second and Barrett won the two-mile with Deirdre Corrigan second.

North trailed all the way and with only the mile and the two relays left it trailed, 52-47. Linda Kennedy and O'Donnell put the Raiderettes on top, 55-53 with their 1-2 in the mile and both relay teams won.

Running on the 440 team were Mary Kate Kennedy, Kara Crehan, Kathy McCarthy and Lindenfelzer. The mile team comprised Gannon, Mary Crehan, Nancy McCarthy and Barrett.

LAURIE BARBA of Quincy, receives the Bobby Orr Sportsmanship Award from the former Boston Bruin great at an awards ceremony held at the Natick Hilton Inn. The award, presented to selected Amateur Hockey Association players for dedication and achievement in the game, is part of a program sponsored by Standard Brands Incorporated of New York to help bolster youth hockey in the New England area.

Snug Harbor Wins Elementary Division Title

Snug Harbor Center won the Elementary Division championship of the Quincy Recreation Department basketball tournament with a 26-18 victory over Montclair Center last Saturday.

Snug Harbor coach Steve Buckley saw his team jump off to an 8-2 lead with George Reese scoring all of his four points in the first quarter.

Steve Austin, Billy Burkhead and Tom Conneen had six points each for Snug Harbor and Ed Flavin and Reese had four apiece.

Montclair's Kevin Segalla led all scorers with 12 points, while Keith Segalla, Jeff Morris and Steve Haggas had two each. Coach Jerry Pratt also praised Bob O'Connell and Chris Higgins.

Receiving championship trophies were Austin, Burkhead, Reese, Mike O'Neil, Herbert Cohen, Conneen, Chris Devol, Fred Preadable, Flavin and Marcus Hanley.

Runnerup certificates were given to Morris, Kevin Segalla, Keith Segalla, Haggas, Higgins, Monsour Hashid, Bill Murphy, David Carter, Pat Leary, John Rodphele and Bob O'Donnell.

Snug Harbor had made its way into the finals by defeating Point, 45-27, in the semi-finals.

Burkhead led all scorers with 17 points for Snug Harbor, Austin and Reese had 10 each, Conneen four and Cohen and Flavin two each. For John Franceschini's Point club Dan Memmolo scored nine and Dennis Cronin and Dan Overly eight each. Franceschini praised John Ciccone and Tim Brillo for their defensive efforts.

Track Club Registration Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration for the outdoor season for all new and old members this Saturday, April 18, and Saturday, April 25, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The fee is 10 per person with a $20 family rate.

The club is holding a spring league this year for elementary school athletes, running from April to the end of June. Practices for the spring league are on Tuesdays starting April 21 at 6 p.m. A meet will be held every Thursday in the stadium with ribbons awarded. The first meet is on May 7.

The traveling team will begin practice April 20 and will work out

Mondays and Wednesdays. This year, all club members will be given a track and field test, designed by Coach Jeff Hennessy. The athletes are tested in 16 different ways to determine the events they are best suited for.

Several OTC members completed last Saturday in the final indoor meet of the season at Taunton High School.

Georgia Traficante had a big day, winning the shot put (32-11), the high jump (5-0) and the 300.

Tammy Powers won the 12-13 girls shot put (31-9), her best toss ever, and Noreen Connolly took second with her best effort (30-9).

John Delappe won the 14-15 high jump at 5-2 and Colin Powers continued his excellent performance by winning the shot put with a 42-6 throw.

GINO PILLARD of North Quincy's wrestling team has been unbeaten for the past two years with a 33-0-2 record in regular season competition. He won the Norwell tournament for three years in a row, twice at 134 pounds and once at 140. He was third in the South Sectionals and fourth in the states this year and placed in the same spots a year ago.

Central Gym Girls Defeats Atlantic, Broad Meadows

Barbara Donelin's Central Junior High girls' gymnastics team got off to a fast start last week with victories over Atlantic and Broad Meadows.

The Central girls faced Sterling yesterday (Wednesday) and will host Point Monday at 3:30 at the National Guard Armory, where all home meets are held.

Central made its record 2-0 with a 77-1-62.4 victory over traditional rival Broad Meadows.

For the second meet in a row Central swept the top three places in each event.

Kristen Dever placed first on floor exercise (6.8), balance beam (7.7) and uneven bars (6.2) and placed second in vaulting (7.6). Catherine O'Brien placed first in vaulting (7.7), took second on uneven bars (4.9) and third on balance beam (6.0).

Julie Nee placed second on floor exercise (6.2) and Maureen Doherty was third (6.0). Lauren O'Rourke took third in vaulting (7.4). Nora Furey was second on balance beam (6.1) and Elizabeth Maher was third on uneven bars (4.5), rounding out Central's sweep.

Earlier in the week Central had opened with an easy 72.9-59.9 victory over Atlantic, again sweeping the top three places in every event.

Donelin has many outstanding ninth graders back for their third year of competition and all did well in the first two meets.

Ninth graders Dever took first in floor exercise (7.1) and vaulting (7.6). O'Rourke took first on balance beam (5.8) and second on vaulting (7.5), and Julie Nee took seconds on floor exercise (6. & 0 and balance beam (5.3) and third on uneven bars (4.5).

Other returning ninth graders are O'Brien, who took third in vaulting (7.4), Natalie Nigro and Amy Harrison.

Central also has some talented seventh graders including Maher, who took first on uneven bars (5.0) and third on floor exercise (6.6) and Maureen Doherty, who took second on uneven bars (4.7).

"We have approximately 40 girls with many of them capable of competing on all four pieces," Ms. Donelin said. "My biggest problem is trying to give each girl an opportunity to compete in one of our four dual meets."

YMCA Sponsoring Trip To Red Sox-Rangers Game

The Quincy YMCA Leaders Club is sponsoring a trip to Fenway Park next Tuesday for the Red Sox-Texas Rangers game. The trip is open to the public and the cost is $4.50 which includes transportation and a game ticket. Anyone seven or younger must be accompanied by an adult.

Liset New Coach

North Track Team Off To Good Start

George Liset has taken over as head coach of the North Quincy boys' track team and his assistant is Bart Petracca, himself a former North standout who excelled in track at Cornell.

In practice Liset takes care of the field events while Petracca handles the runners. But in a meet this division ends and the coaches work together.

The Raiders got off to an impressive start last week when they won 10 events in topping Weymouth North, 78-67.

North met Weymouth South yesterday (Wednesday) and will be off until April 28 when it hosts Waltham.

Liset, also a football assistant at North, was pleased with the opening day win but is looking for depth.

"We have people who can come in first, but we have to develop people who can come in second and third. This depth is a must in dual meets. We are lucky that we are strong in the field events, that helps. We should be able to handle most teams." (North is in the strong Suburban League and faces some stiff competition.)

Petracca was satisfied with the way his runners performed. "I knew weren't any surprises out there today," he said. "Everything went as expected. We have some people who can be really awesome. But, as George said, we need depth."

North had one double winner against Weymouth North as Joe Dudek won the 220 in 23.6 and the long jump at 19-10½. The Raiders won five of the six field events.

North's other winners were Jack Brown in the 100 (10.6); John Mantolos, 440 (55.1); Walter McConaghy, triple jump (38-1); Rich McCarthy, pole vault (10-6); Bob Pound, shot put (42-10); Lou DiPietro, discus (139); Neil Fisher, javelin (121-11), and the 440 relay team of Brown, Rich Palma, Kevin Wood and Dudek (47.1).

Second place finishers for the Raiders were Pat King, 880; Joe McDonald, mile; Gary Morin, two-mile; Wood, low hurdles; Palma, high hurdles; Wood, high jump, and Brown, long jump.

Finishing third were McConaghy, 440; Garth Petracca, 880; Jack Leone, high jump, and Tim Allen, discus.

Other members of the team are Peter Clark, 440; Dave Cuervals, dashes; Paul Ciafella, discus; John Dunlea, middle distances; Bill Feeney, javelin; Ed Gearin, shot put; Dave Marcham, distances; Bobby Morin, distances; Rich Stevens, discus; John Toland, high jump; Troy Wilson, dashes, and Marco Zanelli, dashes.

Quincy Track Team Upsets Cambridge

Quincy High has had little luck in track during the past few years due to a lack of interest.

However, things may be changing and, under the coaching of Mark Conroy and Peter Chella. The boys' team got off to a good start last week with a 74-70 upset victory over Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

The Presidents met Waltham yesterday (Wednesday) and will be off until May 1 when it goes to Weymouth North.

The opening day meet with Cambridge went down to the relay and Quincy's 440-yard relay team upset Cambridge's vaunted sprinters to win the event and the meet.

"This team has a great attitude," Conroy said. "Now we have to prove that the win over Cambridge was no fluke and I'm sure we will. The victory was a total team effort, from the determination on first-year pole vaulters John Herald and Joe Sheehan, who took second and third, to the exciting 440 relay performance of Chris McCray, David Church, Michael Shaughnessy and Mike Williams. Balance did it for us.

Taking firsts for Quincy were Williams in the 440, Larry Newman, javelin; Fran Duggan, discus; McCray, triple jump; Kurt McDonald, high jump, and Bill Walsh, high hurdles.

Taking seconds were Church, 100; Shaughnessy, 220; Kevin Dunn, mile; John Cascarano, two-mile; Ron Pettinelli, javelin; Steve Ganno, shot put; Herald, pole vault; Williams, long jump; Jim Zupkofska, high hurdles, and Shawn Burns, low hurdles.

Placing third were Parker, 100; McCray, 220; Garth Morris, mile; Herald, two-mile; Dan Mahoney, shot put; Sheehan, pole vault; Richard Parker, long jump, and Burns, high jump.

Nesti Wins Bowling Balls In Olindy's MDA Contest

William P. Nesti of Quincy won the top prize of a Paramount bowling ball and carrying bag set in the final drawing in Olindy's Lucky Total Contest for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Nesti's guess of 367 was closest to the three-string total of 376 bowled by Olindy's co-owner John Mezzetti.

Bowling towels were worn by the runnersup, Richard Cimino of Quincy and B. Adams of Hingham.

Olindy's Lucky Total Contest raised $431 for muscular dystrophy in addition to $1,476 from the Bowl-A-Thon. The money goes for research and medical services provided by MDA.

The contest and bowl-a-thon were co-sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee for MDA, which is chaired by Henry Bosworth and Richard J. Koch.

QJC Blanked By Bunker Hill, 2-0

The old baseball cliché that "good pitching will stop good hitting" proved true last week as Bunker Hill Community College defeated Quincy Junior College, 2-0, in the season's opener for both teams.

QJC's two other scheduled games were postponed, one with North Shore CC to the unavailability of a field, and the other with Blue Hills Technical due to a schedule mixup.

Dave Burke's Jaguars will host Wentworth today (Thursday) at 4 at O'Rourke Field and next Tuesday will be home at 3:30, the opponent to be announced.

Bunker Hill pitcher Dave McLellan held QJC to four hits, struck out eight and walked only one.

Quincy's Bob Thomas also pitched an outstanding game, giving up four hits, walking three and striking out three. It was his first loss for QJC. He was unbeaten in six games last season.

A stolen base following an opening walk set up Bunker Hill's first run in the opening inning. Romeo DiStasio's single drove in the run. An infield error enabled the second run to score in the third.

Quincy had its chances but left nine men on base. The only hits were by John Newcomb, Thomas, Steve Cook and Jack Connolly.

The Jaguars turned in several outstanding defensive plays, Brian Condon slugging a hot liner at first, Eric Carrera making a fine diving catch in right field and Mike McCormack throwing out a runner at third base with a bullet throw.

"This team has too much talent not to do well," Burke said. "I'm sure we will start getting our share of his and have a respectable season."

Club's collection, now owned by the Historical Society, will be displayed and discussed.

The program, which is free to the public, will trace the history of bicycle travel from its earliest beginnings in France through the great bicycle boom of the 1890s.

Sacred Heart Folk Singers Complete 'Godspell' Tour

The Sacred Heart Folk Singers and Company have completed their 1981 Massachusetts Tour of the Broadway hit "Godspell".

The company has been working together for the past six months with the show and have played to 5,000 people. The cast ended its tour with a free performance at Sacred Heart in North Quincy as a sign of gratitude to the parish.

The cast of 12 includes Dick Ryan as Christ, Jackie Kelly as Judas, Ann Kennealy, John McDonald, Steve Ryan, Cheryl Depolo, Bill Kelly, Barbie Collins, Maryjo Kelly, Paul Kelly, Nancy Shea, and Judy MacKinnon as Apostles.

Tommy Ryan played the drums, Steve Ryan, guitar. Dick Ryan and Paul Kelly the piano. Director was Margaret Kennedy Spencer and producer and coordinator, Arlene Ryan.

Den 3 Wins Award In Wollaston Cub Scout Gong Show

Cub Scout Pack 14, of Wollaston Congregational Church, held its annual Gong Show recently with more than 50 boys participating.

Acts included a puppet show, cheerleading, singing and comedy routines.

Den 3's comic fashion show won the "Fantastic 14" award, entitling the boys to a free pizza party. Members of Den 3 are: Bill Early, Andrew Dodd, James Farrara, Christian Ballerino, David Kiley, Erik Schwendeman, Paul Wilson, Steven Tobin, and Michael Tufts. Den Mother is Rosemary Early.

Cubmaster Bob Kvalnes, on behalf of Pack 14, presented Jane Granstrom, Supervisor of the Children's Department in the Thomas Crane Public Library, with $50 to be used to purchase children's books for the library.

The Pack had earned the money at its Christmas Bazaar and decided to make the contribution because the library's budget had been so severely cut due to Prop. 2½.

WEEK OF APRIL 16, 1981

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

The problem this week is that you're heeding everyone's advice—but your own. Breakthrough in career appears hopeful; don't be shy. Weekend includes some exotic surprises

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Thursday-Friday are filled with picky chores, but weekend is festive. Don't try to beat anyone—especially a rival at work or in romance—at his/her own game

ARIES - March 21-April 20

From the smorgasbord of activities this week, you may get to sample something—a sport or an extracurricular activity—that catches your fancy in an enormous way

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Better to tackle entire jobs than fragments. News of an upcoming visit puts you in a spin. Little gestures mean quite a lot to a rich or famous friend

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Fairstaking care to details is essential where health and/or money matters are involved. Recent restriction is lifted and you're due for a forward lifestyle change

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Travel plans become more exciting and more realistic as the week progresses. In dealing with old problems, look for new viewpoints, especially those of children

LEO - July 23-August 22

Miscellaneous developments in personal relationship come into clear focus. Employment ideas are bright, but don't spill them until they're concrete. Weekend is rich in sentiment

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Your motto is service, but this week finds you the pampered person. Mechanical problems can lead to cancellation on the weekend. Unusual travel ideas should not be dismissed

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Situations should be considered in light of short term versus long term gains. Thursday through Saturday accent buying, selling and bartering, generally, you come out the winner

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Change of setting helps you gain a fresh perspective on current problem. Good week to get better acquainted with newfound friend, you find that opposites really do attract

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Be careful if taking any kind of a stand because it can be quite difficult to step down from your platform. Legal complexities, perhaps over property, start to ease up

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Career—your own or your loved one's—interferes with romantic life, but things brighten by Tuesday. If decorating or dressing up, emphasizes bold shades and modern styles

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Finances shine over the next three months. Also, if there's any chance of tying the knot, this can be the year. Any surprise that your stone is the diamond? Positive trait: You're great at coming up with ideas. Negative: Sometimes too impatient about implementing them

UNINTENTIONAL AEROSOL BOMB

Aerosol cans are a great convenience, but also a potential hazard. When you read the warning about keeping it away from heat, take it seriously, or you're liable to have an uncontrollable missile on your hands.

Empty cans still contain some gas that expands when heated and can rip the container apart. One woman who threw an empty aerosol can on a trash fire was killed when the resulting explosion hurled a sharp piece of metal, cutting her jugular vein.

To dispose of aerosol cans, give the valve one last squeeze to be sure that all the pressure is relieved, then put the can in the trash. Aerosol cans still being used should never be set on stoves or near other hot places. This includes the trunk or back seat of a car. They have been known to explode from the sun's heat and shoot right through the window or shell of the car.

QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOLS NOTICE

The Quincy Public Schools today announced a free milk and free meal and reduced price meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price of milk and meals served in schools under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast Program and Special Milk Program. Local school officials have adopted the following family size-income criteria for use in determining eligibility.

INCOME ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA FAMILY SIZE AND GROSS INCOME SCALES

Family Size (All members of household)	Maximum Gross Income For Free Milk and Free Meals	Maximum Gross Income For Reduced Price Meals
One	$ 0 to 5,700	$ 5,701 to 8,730
Two	0 to 7,220	7,221 to 10,730
Three	0 to 8,750	8,751 to 13,110
Four	0 to 10,270	10,271 to 15,490
Five	0 to 11,800	11,801 to 17,870
Six	0 to 13,320	13,321 to 20,250
Seven	0 to 14,851	14,852 to 22,620
Eight	0 to 16,370	16,371 to 25,000
Each Additional Family Member	1,530	2,380

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown are eligible for milk and meals free or at reduced prices. In addition, families not meeting this criteria but with other special hardship conditions due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply. Further, children having parents or guardians who become unemployed are eligible for free or reduced price meals or for free milk during the period of unemployment, provided that the loss of income caused the family income during the period of unemployment to be within eligibility criteria. Should your income or family size change, contact the approving official.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the following statement is placed just above the parents' or guardians' signature on the application: "I certify that the above information I have given is true and correct, that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of State and Federal funds, that school officials may for cause: (1) request an informal conference with the parents to substantiate the information on the application (or if requested by either party the Fair Hearing Procedure may be used); (2) verify the information on the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of the information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and Federal criminal statutes."

Parents should clearly understand that every meal served in schools is subsidized to a greater or lesser degree by State-Federal reimbursements. Those lunches served at full price are subsidized as well as those served free or reduced. Therefore, there should be no reluctance to apply for either a free or reduced price meal. If your family size, and gross income is within the "Income Eligibility Criteria" for free or reduced price meals, we urge you and all eligible persons to fill out the application. The intent of these programs is to improve the nutrition of all children.

They may do so by filing in the application forms sent home with a letter to parents. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. In certain cases foster children are eligible for free milk and free meals or reduced price meals regardless of your family income. If you have such children living with you and wish to apply for such milk and meals for them, please file a separate application for each child, and indicate the amount of State support only as income.

Under the provision of the policy, the principal will review all applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she may wish to discuss the decision with the approving official on an informal basis or make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision to Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, Superintendent, Quincy Public Schools, Quincy, MA 786-8700.

Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy and a complete copy of the policy is on file in the office of the superintendent of schools where it may be reviewed by any interested party.

The policy also provides that there will be no overt identification and/or discrimination against any child because of his race, sex, color, handicap or national origin, in the operation of the child feeding program.

Application forms for the Free or Reduced Price Meals have been sent home to all parents of children in the City or they may be obtained from the following agencies.

SANDY ROUNSEVILLE rides through downtown area ala Paul Revere as he continues his battle against parking meters.

(Jonathan Burak Photo)

For This Week Anyway

Lenient Parking Enforcement Continues

By FRANK MORTIMER

Lenient enforcement of parking regulations in downtown Quincy will continue—for this week, anyway.

Mayor Arthur Tobin said Tuesday that no permanent ticketing policy will be made until he meets with Police Chief Francis X. Finn who was out of town.

Tobin earlier in the month had ordered a "lax enforcement" of parking meter violations until after Easter in an attempt to boost business.

Members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association had complained when enforcement was vigorously stepped up.

Tobin had a smile and praise for Sandy Rounseville, who dressed as Paul Revere, rode horseback up and down Hancock St. Patriot's Day warning: "The meter maids are coming, the meter maids are coming!" He carried a plastic parking meter.

Rounseville also held a cake and coffee party in front of his downtown Beacon Fabrics and Furniture Store on Hancock St. Appropriately, the huge cake was shaped like a parking ticket.

"I've known Sandy for years," Tobin said. "I have a respect for his initiative in drumming up business."

Tobin said he hopes to meet with Chief Finn and Quincy Center Business and Professional Association president Bernie Reisberg sometime this week.

The relaxed rules, which remain in effect, do not apply to parking violations at crosswalks and fire hydrants.

Rounseville gained prominence in the meter battle by recently offering to pay the $2 ticket for any customer who spends over $10 in his fabric and furniture shop.

Rows of bright red tickets are currently displayed in Rounseville's store window, and he reports that he's already paid $120 in fines for customers.

Rounseville is also sponsoring a parking ticket drawing April 30 in front of Quincy District Court. He said anyone in America can enter by sending him the number of a parking ticket. The winner "will receive dinner for two at any Quincy restaurant with free parking," said Rounseville. He said, however, "if a Floridian wins he'll have to find his own transportation to the city."

Rounseville said his own business is "up about 400 percent" since he first began his assault on parking tickets.

He said his 15 minute gallop through Quincy Sq. was widely covered by newspapers, wire services and television.

"We will ride again, if necessary," he vowed.

Sheets said Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi's expected announcement of his candidacy "will make for an interesting race but it will have no effect on my decision."

"I will have an announcement the first part of next week," said Sheets, who has been a city councillor from Ward 4 since 1974 and served two terms in the State House.

Library Receives State Aid Windfall

The Thomas Crane Public Library has received an unexpected windfall in financial aid from the state to help in its battle with constraints imposed by Proposition 2½.

The state has decided to advance the city $65,000 in regional library aid to which it is entitled for providing service to 26 other libraries in southeastern Massachusetts.

Earlier, the Board of Library Commissioners awarded the city $45,000 for the purchase of books.

in spite of the fact that Quincy's expenditures for books does not qualify it for state aid.

Library Director Warren E. Watson said he suspects the money was granted to Quincy because the city is having such hard financial going under Prop. 2½.

'Dynamic Campaign' Raymondi In Mayor's Race

By TOM HENSHAW

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi will announce tonight (Thursday) that he is running for mayor of Quincy.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, a close friend of Raymondi since their school days, all but confirmed The Quincy Sun's information that Raymondi will formally announce at 7:30 p.m. at the Morrisette Post. "I'm better than 90 per cent sure," Cerasoli said.

Raymondi reserved the Morrisette Post hall three weeks ago for a meeting of supporters at which, he said, he would announce whether or not he would be a candidate.

Raymondi's star as a mayoral candidate began to rise a month ago when it was disclosed that Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was likely to be named clerk of courts and not be a candidate for re-election.

However, Raymondi said the possibility of his candidacy did not depend on Tobin's bowing out of the race.

Cerasoli, who does not come up for re-election himself until 1982, appeared eager to hit the campaign trail for Raymondi.

They were classmates at Quincy High School, Class of 1965, of which Raymondi was president and Cerasoli vice president.

"I foresee a dynamic campaign," he said, "with young aggressive people, professional people who have not been involved in campaigns before, something the city has not seen in a long time."

DANIEL RAYMONDI

"If Danny runs I think that by July there will be a clear distinction between candidates; it will be Raymondi on one side and the politics of the past on the other."

The only other candidate in the race thus far is City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, a frequent critic of Tobin on the Council, who announced in January.

"The politics of negativism can no longer be tolerated in this city," said Cerasoli. "This will become apparent as the campaign goes on."

"I don't see a lot of big name people coming out for Danny at first but as the campaign

100 MPH Chase Ends In Firestone Showroom

A 15-year-old Quincy boy was arrested after the stolen car that police of seven communities had been chasing crashed through the show window of the Firestone tire shop at Quincy Ave. and School Sts.

The chase began in Marshfield shortly before midnight Monday when police spotted the car weaving in and out of Route 139 traffic. It sped away when they gave chase.

The chase by local and state police continued at speeds up to 100 miles an hour through Hanover, Norwell, Hingham, Weymouth, Braintree and Quincy.

It ended when the driver of the car missed a turn from Quincy Ave. to School St. and crashed through the window of the tire shop, coming to rest at the back wall of the showroom.

Tobin Proclaims 'Health Works Week'

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin will proclaim the week of April 26 "Health Works Week" in Quincy.

The proclamation is in recognition of the local Health Works to be held April 28, 1 to 6 p.m. at the Manet Community Health Center, 1193 Sea St., Houghs Neck.

Anyone over age 18 will receive a free health screening with an optional blood test at a small fee. Multiple test screening including height and weight, vision acuity, blood pressure, anemia, glaucoma, hearing and special tests such as Sickel Cell and Tay Sachs have been scheduled.

There will also be pap smear tests and breast examinations.

Health education exhibits, lectures and demonstrations will also be featured as well as health counseling including a personal review of screening test results.

Referrals will be made to local sources of health care.

Between 350 and 500 people are expected to attend the local fair which is part of a series of community-based health fairs offering free medical screening and preventive health education throughout eastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

Purpose of Health Works is to promote health and increase understanding of the link between health and lifestyles, identify

HEARING TESTS, as demonstrated by (left) Brenda Gaudette, lab technician, and Anne McFadd, registered nurse, are among the free tests that will be available at Health Works '81, Tuesday, April 28, 1 to 6 p.m. at the Manet Community Health Center, 1193 Sea St., Houghs Neck. City Faces Loss Of Sewer Funds

Quincy is in imminent danger of losing state and federal funding for construction of the $2.5 million South Quincy-Faxon Park Wastewater Collection and Pumping Facility.

Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti said he has been informed that "if the city does not file for a grant within the next month or so, present funding will be distributed and Quincy will be out."

But, said Ricciuti, the problem is that the city cannot file for a grant until it has an acceptable plan for a sewer use charge and it can raise the money for its 10 per cent share of construction costs.

Over the past six months, the City Council has several times rejected Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's proposals for a sewer use charge, the last time when it was associated with a proposed Water and Sewer Commission.

Ricciuti said he has received a letter from the firm of Weston and Sampson, the city's consultants, noting that the planning and design stages of the South Quincy-Faxon Park project are done.

"The city is eligible for state and federal funding on this project but must submit a grant application to receive that funding," said Stephen Corr, vice president of Weston and Sampson.

"An integral part of that application will be assurance that a user charge approvable by the federal government will be adopted and that sufficient funds have been approved by the city."

"You are undoubtedly aware that any further delays in submitting a grant application will jeopardize Quincy's chances for obtaining funding."

Corr said he has received indications from Washington that the Reagan administration, if it permits construction funding at all, may trim the federal grants from 75 to 50 per cent of the project cost.

"Based on the above," he wrote to Ricciuti, "we believe that the city should make every effort to submit a grant application in the immediate future. Any delays may foreclose federal funding."

Ricciuti said he received a telephone call from Corr last Thursday in which Corr reiterated his urgency.

"He said he was told that if the city does not file for a grant within the next month or so present funding will be distributed and Quincy will be out," said Ricciuti.

Ricciuti said he has forwarded Corr's letter and a memo on the phone call to Tobin and to members of the City Council.

"I hate to keep using the same cliché," he said, "but nobody wants to listen. I just don't know how else we can be forceful in trying to stress what we're up against."

"What it means basically is that we have completed steps one and two of the project. We have a commitment for step three. If we can't exercise it within the next month we're going to lose it."

Ricciuti said the city has already received $154,000 from the federal government and $25,000 from the state for planning and design work.

Mayor Tobin indicated that he has no further plans for submitting a sewer use charge proposal to the city council.

"I've been out there with proposals four times and I haven't got the votes to do anything," he said. "As long as some members of the Council treat it like a political football nothing will happen."

He added that his proposal for a Water and Sewer Commission "is the only plan that will accomplish what we want to do with state and federal aid."

Mailing checks isn't worth a nickel.

First class postage just went up another three cents, so now it will cost you 18¢ every time you pay one of your bills by mail.

Fortunately, there's an alternative.

It's called Pay-by-Phone. If you haven't signed up for it before, maybe you'll be persuaded to try it now.

Because each Pay-by-Phone transaction still costs only 13¢, you'll save a nickel on every bill you take care of by phone, instead of by writing and mailing checks.

You'll find Pay-by-Phone is fast and easy, as well as less expensive. You always have complete freedom of choice whenever you want to write a check, of course.

Before you pick up your checkbook again, though, pick up your telephone and call 471-3500 for a Pay-by-Phone application, or visit our nearest office.

When you watch the nickels, the dollars still take care of themselves.

Today's Women

'Bodies' Author Speaker At Woman-To-Woman Day

Norma Swenson, co-author of "Our Bodies, Ourselves," will be the keynote speaker at the fourth annual Woman-to-Woman Day program all day Saturday, at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

John R. Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, and Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun, will be honored for their support of women's programs.

Registration will be held from 8:45 a.m. to 9:15 a.m., the morning workshops will be from 9:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. and the afternoon workshops from 1:15 p.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Swenson, who is a former president of the International Childbirth Education Association, will discuss "Our Right to Health" about 12 noon.

The program is sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College and the Quincy Cooperative Bank. It is offered free of charge.

Swenson and Joan Rachlin, executive director of Public Responsibility in Medicine and Research, will lead one of the morning workshops on medical rights.

The other one, Personal Balancing Acts or Surviving in Taxachusetts and Your Medical Rights --- Legal and Ethical, will discuss money sense, investment plans and special accounts.

In afternoon sessions:
• Dr. Alma Dell Smith, associate professor at the Boston University Medical School and a clinical psychologist will discuss stress and its impact on women.

• Representatives of the Hingham Grain and Spice Co. and the Green Pastures Inn of Scituate will explore protein alternatives, diet evaluations, nutritional needs and special recipes.

• Cardiovascular specialist

Lindsay Hicks, Laura Reilly and Helen Burgess will discuss and demonstrate fitness through dance aerobics, running and lifting weights, and yoga.

The day will conclude with a social sponsored by the Quincy Cooperative Bank at the Neighborhood Club.

Deborah Ormon, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission, noted that each of the previous Woman-to-Woman Day programs were attended by more than 200 participants.

"I am confident that with the excellent speakers and topics that this program will be even more successful than past programs," she said. "I urged as many people as possible to attend."

Ormon and Alicia Coletti, of the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, will deliver opening remarks and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin will bring the greetings of the city.

Brunilda Nettleton Added To Coalition Staff

Brunilda Torres Nettleton of Norwell, formerly of Quincy, has been added to the staff of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights' housing program as a housing counselor.

Holder of a masters degree in social work from Boston College, she has been director of Tenants Service for the Cambridge Housing Authority.

BRUNILDA NETTLETON

The South Shore Coalition's housing program has been in operation for two years and Chairman Jeffrey J. Isaacson reported that it has placed some 20 racial minorities in housing on the South Shore.

"Our efforts to place racial minorities would not have been so successful if it were not for the cooperation of various developers and housing authorities," said Isaacson.

The private developers who have been cooperating with us include O'Connell Brothers, Winter Valley Residences, Wollaston Lutheran Church and Corcoran, Mullins and Jennison Co.

"The housing authorities which have cooperated with affirmative action efforts include the Quincy Housing Authority."

QCH Auxiliary Votes

$6,796 For Renovation Work

The Executive Board of Quincy City Hospital's Women's Auxiliary recently voted to contribute $6,796.86 to remodel and update the waiting room area of the emergency room.

The sum is in addition to $9,780 already donated by the auxiliary for the purchase of new equipment for the emergency room.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

AVOID BICYCLE FATALITIES

Last year there were about 800 fatalities and 38,000 injuries resulting from collisions between bicycles and motor vehicles. Many of these tragedies are avoidable. Here's some advice from the experts.

Don't buy a bike that is too big for child and then provide blocks for the pedals. Children riding bikes too big for them are involved in far more accidents - due to falls - than children on correct-size bikes.

When riding a bicycle in traffic, ride on the right side of the road, with the traffic, not on the left against the traffic. Walk your bike across heavily-travelled intersections. If you ride in a group, travel single file. And, if riding at night, have a white front lamp and a red rear light in good working order. Reflective tape and light-colored clothing are also recommended.

Charles Peterson Elected President Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree Merge As South Shore YMCA

The Quincy YMCA has a new name and a new president.

It is now the South Shore Young Men's Christian Association, merged with the Weymouth YMCA and the Braintree YMCA.

The new- and first- president under the new name is Charles G. Peterson, of Quincy, president of the Braintree Cooperative Bank. He succeeds Morrie P. Hibbard.

Peterson was elected at the YMCA's 89th annual meeting at the Quincy Neighborhood Club recently. The merger and South Shore YMCA name were also voted at the meeting.

Other officers elected were:

Mary Wentworth and Charles A. Pearce, vice presidents; Mrs. James K. White, clerk; Nelford J. Platner, III, treasurer and James D. Asher, Jr., assistant treasurer.

Walter H. Carroll was elected to the Advisory Board. Norman Collier and William Galarneau were elected as new members to the Board of Directors. Re-elected to the board of directors were: Mrs. Robert L. Blair, Alexander G. Clark, Richard A. Fee, Floyd J. Folmsbee, John A. Fredrickson, Eliot C. Johnson, William A. O'Connell, Charles G. Peterson, William J. Robertson, Peter G. Ruscitto, William P. Smith, Jr., James G. Walsh, Jr., and Mary Wentworth.

Peterson commended outgoing president Hibbard for his two years of leadership to the association and presented him with a Past President's pin and

DOVE In Need Of New Home

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
DOVE, Inc., which for two and half years has provided an emergency shelter and other services for abused women and children, now must find itself a new home by May 31, if the agency is to survive.

At a news conference April 17, at Quincy City Hall, Dr. Bernadette M. MacPherson, president of DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) said the organization has been notified it must vacate its present facility by the end of May.

And if no new location is found, DOVE's services will have to end because funding is contingent on its having a residence, she said.

Dr. MacPherson explained that DOVE, which was begun by a dozen volunteers who believed no one deserved to be beaten, has been located rent free in a city facility. The location is not disclosed for security reasons.

It has always been acknowledged, explained Dr. MacPherson, that the arrangement was temporary at best and she stressed the need to move was not a result of Proposition 2.

Nancy Nuh, who is on the Executive Board of DOVE and is also a member of Mayor Arthur Jones's staff, said DOVE has been in the city for a year and a half. The city's policy is to provide shelter and support for abused women and children.

Dr. MacPherson said the agency is looking for a new home. "We are asking all of our friends to 'beat the bushes' for benefactors who know of property people would like to hold on to and keep occupied," said Dr. MacPherson.

DOVE could not pay rent, according to Dr. MacPherson, but would pay for utilities and maintenance.

"We have provided emergency shelter and supportive programs for 391 women and 585 children from Norfolk County and 156 other cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts, as well as handling over 6,000 calls on our 24 hour crisis hotline," said Dr. MacPherson.

"Without DOVE, women and children from the City of Quincy and surrounding communities will once again be victims without recourse."

She said anyone with a possible solution to DOVE's need for a new home could call the hotline at 471-1234.

In a statement read by Detective Barbara DiNatale, Police Chief Francis X. Finn said the closing of DOVE would have a devastating effect on the department's ability to assist victims of domestic violence. The department handles nearly 1,000 domestic violence calls a year, according to Finn.

Finn continued, "In the past, the police have been able to help women and children who are in danger. But if DOVE is closed, we will be unable to help them. We will be forced to turn away victims who are in danger and who need help."

Also showing support for DOVE at the meeting were Karen Wolk, chairman of the United Way's Allocation Committee, Ronald Hersh, executive director of the South Shore Mental Health Center, and Jim Iardaman of the Executive Offices of Human Services, who organized the South Shore Women's Center.

Each stressed the importance of DOVE's continuing.

Toland To Run For Council

School Committeewoman Patricia Toland is ready to step into the City Council at-large race.

Close sources say she has given it considerable thought, has made up her mind and will make her official announcement shortly. Probably next week.

Mrs. Toland, now in her sixth year on the School Committee, has two years left on her current second term.

But that does not automatically create a vacancy on the School Committee this election year. If she wins the council seat, the City Council and School Committee will elect her successor on the school board. If she loses her council bid, she will fill out her school term.

If she does win the council seat it would be a similar situation to the year Francis McCauley ran for councillor at-large while a school committeeman and won. Frank Anselmo, who had been defeated for re-election was the choice of the School Committee and City Council to fill McCauley's unexpired term.

Why is Mrs. Toland jumping to the City Council?

I couldn't explain it at this time, but she has given it considerable thought. She has made up her mind and will make her official announcement shortly. Probably next week.

And, according to those friends, she's not just putting her name on the ballot. She's going to make an all-out run.

□

ANOTHER HAT will soon be in the Ward 2 City Council ring. Ted DeCristofaro is expected to formally announce his candidacy next week. DeCristofaro grew up in Ward 2 and has long been active there. He is a former president of the Ward 2 Civic Association and for the past six years has been vice-chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board.

MEANWHILE, political social activity seems to be picking up.

A cocktail reception for state Sen. Paul Harold is set for Thursday, April 30 at the Neighborhood Club. Tickets $50 per couple.

A fund-raiser dance for mayoral candidate Frank McCauley will be held Saturday 8 p.m. at the George I. Bryan M.W. Post. Tickets $14 per couple may be obtained by calling campaign chairman Jack Perkins, 472-5821. They'll also be available at the door.

And Joseph C. Coe will jump into the Ward 2 City Council ring next week. He is currently employed as a sales manager for the Quincy City Council. Tickets $50 per couple.

Multibank To Purchase Gosman Stock For $10.6 Million

--Multibank Financial Corp. announces it has entered into an agreement to purchase from Abraham D. Gosman all 353,241 of Mr. Gosman's shares of Multibank stock for $30 per share, or a total of approximately $10.6 million.

Gosman recently engaged in an unsuccessful attempt to take control of the bank holding company in a proxy contest at a special meeting of stockholders held last month. He owns approximately 22.7 per cent of Multibank's outstanding stock.

The purchase of Gosman's shares pursuant to the stock purchase agreement is subject to certain conditions, including the approval of Multibank's stockholders, and the lack of objection or imposition of onerous conditions by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston within a 45-day waiting period following the filing of a notice relating to the proposed transaction. Multibank filed such notice today.

The agreement also provides for the termination of all pending litigation involving Gosman and Multibank which arose out of the proxy contest. In addition, it provides that Mr. Gosman will not acquire any Multibank stock or engage in a proxy contest with Multibank for a period of ten years after the closing.

Stockholders will be asked to vote on the agreement at a special meeting in lieu of the regular annual meeting, scheduled for May 26, 1981.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week --- and everyone tripped up on the same question.

No, Quincy was not named for Col. Josiah Quincy, the Revolutionary War hero who spied on the British fleet from his home in Wollaston. The correct answer is below.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The newest member of the Quincy Planning Board is a former aide to Cong. Brian J. Donnelly. What is his name?
2. In what section of the city is Everett Sutermeister Square?
3. The Quincy Adams Yacht Yard won six Navy "E" for excellence awards for its work during World War II. Where in Quincy was the Quincy Adams Yacht Yard?
4. The Nut Island Sewage Treatment Facility is operated by the MDC. What do the initials MDC stand for?
5. What well-known building is located at 54 Miller St., West Quincy?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. Leo J. Kelly is the president of the Quincy City Council.
2. The noted woman flyer Amelia Earhart used Dennison Airport in North Quincy as home base for many of her flights during the 1920s and 1930s.
3. The River Clubhouse is located at 16 Nevada Rd.
4. False. Quincy was named for Col. John Quincy, colonial representative, town moderator and great grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.
5. Curlew Rd. is in the Adams Shore section of Quincy.

Election Time Blues

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

We, the people of the City of Quincy, should start thinking of the pros and cons of changing the terms of office of our politicians from two to four years.

My argument is in favor of four-year terms, and my reasons are as follows:

Can an elected official do the job we've selected him to do when he has to spend many months campaigning and worrying about the competition, as well as the possibilities of re-election and possible defeat?

How much does an election cost?

Who pays for an election? We, the people, do.

Then, of course, there are the fund raisers. How often can you say "No" when asked by the man or woman of your choice?

The going rate today is Fifty Dollars ($50.00).

The date today is April 9, 1981. I have been asked to donate $50.00 for a mayoral candidate, a Ward Council candidate, a Senatorial candidate, and a second Ward Council candidate.

Now we can all assume that another mayoral candidate will enter the picture. Without a doubt, his or her workers will ask for at least $50.00.

The only argument I have had is that possibly we may get someone in office who is harmful to the City.

I cannot buy this, as we have had only one person in office for as long as I can remember who has served at least 4 years.

Then, of course, we can have a condition to this change, if the people so desire, and that is to have the condition of recall or address included.

You must weigh all of these arguments carefully. Only you, the people of the City of Quincy, who are the voters can bring about this or any change.

Even if you consider the one instance when an elected official was replaced after two years, approximately 15,000 voters did not feel he did too badly and wanted him re-elected.

I know that I want those for whom I vote to remain in office long enough to do the job they were elected to do, and I'm weary of going to fund raisers too often and paying tax dollars for salaries and donations for campaigns.

NCCJ Chapter Founded Here To Promote Brotherhood

By JOHANNA BRASSARD

"One of the most discouraging things," says John R. Herbert, "is that you can pass all the laws you want and never achieve a sense of brotherhood among different groups."

"That's why I'm impressed by the amount of work the National Conference of Christians and Jews is doing to promote brotherhood on the South Shore."

Herbert, a former editor of the Patriot Ledger and the Boston Herald Traveler and now president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, recently was named chairman of the newly founded South Shore chapter of the NCCJ. He was the catalyst for establishing the South Shore Chapter.

"As a newspaper editor for many years," he said, "I have been interested in the problem of people living together without hating each other."

The NCCJ Northeastern Region will hold its annual spring dinner Tuesday, April 28, at 7 p.m. at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston, its big fund raising event of the year. There are no dues or by-laws.

Herbert says he has already recruited 12 financial sponsors from the South Shore business community who will meet annually to discuss ways to encourage the work of the NCCJ on the South Shore.

The NCCJ was founded in 1928 in opposition to an anti-Catholic campaign mounted by the Ku Klux Klan against the presidential candidacy of Roman Catholic Alfred E. Smith.

Since then it has grown to include more than 70 regional offices and 200 local chapters devoted to "maintaining a society in which the religious ideals of brotherhood and justice shall become the standards of human relationships."

Herbert became involved six years ago when Richard D. Rand, fellow Boston rotarian and regional executive director of the NCCJ, asked him to serve on the general committee.

"I think the hope of the future in achieving some basis for people to live together is through young people because, in general, young people are more tolerant than adults," says Herbert.

Mrs. Arlene Rand, northeastern regional coordinator of the NCCJ, agrees, adding that more than one half the budget in the region is spent on youth programs.

It is easier, she says, to discourage prejudice in young people than in adults because they are less set in their ways and it is equally important to encourage sympathy for others in young people because they will be the leaders of tomorrow.

Sen. Paul D. Harold spent a summer in an NCCJ brotherhood camp as a youth and participated in NCCJ workshops in high school. These experiences, he says, prepared him to deal with the problems of different racial, ethnic and economic groups in his job as state senator.

Four of the five programs which the NCCJ sponsors on the South Shore are designed for youth.

They are "Books for Brotherhood," the national reading program and essay writing contest for Grades 4-9; "Classmates Today, Neighbors Tomorrow," a program in which a high school senior is nominated by his peers, teachers and counselors for his volunteer work in the community; "High School Media Workshop," in which 200 juniors spend an evening at WBZ-TV discussing careers in journalism and race relations; and "Prejudice and the Establishment of Values Youth Workshop," in which 50 high school students explore the origins of their values and prejudices.

Mrs. Rand recalls that in the past 11 years, Quincy has had the most participants in the "Books for Brotherhood" program of any city in the state, with prize winning essays every year.

This she attributes to cooperation between the public and school libraries.

This year's winners in the "Books for Brotherhood" program have not been announced, but awards for "Classmates Today, Neighbors Tomorrow" went to Ann Marie Sullivan of Quincy High School, Thomas P. Coch, of North Quincy and Eric D. Stone of the Vo-Tech School.

Another NCCJ program, "Adults in Quincy," recognizes adults for their volunteer work in the community with annual awards.

This year's winner was Vicki L. Carolan of 166 Granite St., Quincy, for her work with the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights. She organized the Coalition in 1977 and served as its president for two years.

Local sponsors of the NCCJ include in addition to Herbert: Everett P. Grossman, executive vice president of Evans Products, Co.; Sen. Paul D. Harold; William B. Austin, president of the South Shore Bank; Ronald E. Zooleck, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Robert G. White, president of Hendries, Inc.; Henry W. Bosworth, Jr., Publisher of The Quincy Sun; Richard D. Allen, general manager of the Patriot Ledger; Harold H. Slate, attorney and director of the Hancock Bank and Trust Co.; Forrest I. Neal, Jr., director of the Quincy Cooperative Bank; and Eugene V. Roundtree, president of All-Stainless, Inc., Hingham.

said, "It is our intent to make a special presentation to you and the family to acknowledge your late husband's work here at the court to assist those in need."

Flag raising ceremonies will be held outside the courthouse at 8:30 a.m. Law Day ceremonies will begin at 9 a.m.

Burgin Sets Tax Rate At $33.40

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin announced a $33.40 tax rate for 1937, a reduction of 20 cents due largely to a $200,000 City Council slash in the budget and an increase in state aid of nearly $100,000.

The total valuation of the city was also reduced from $124.1 million to $122.6 million.

Most of that reduction was caused by a new state law which removed the assessment of manufacturing machinery from the local assessors and placed it in the hands of state tax officials.

Actually, the value of real estate in Quincy went up by $673,225.

George J. Wood, Jr., 19, Shooting Victim

A funeral Mass for George J. Wood, Jr., 19, of Quincy, a Stonehill College student who was the victim of a shooting in Boston, was held Monday at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merry-mount.

Mr. Wood died April 16, at Boston City Hospital.

Richard Barnett, 25, is accused of shooting Mr. Wood who was found lying on the floor of Barnett's living room with a gunshot wound to his back Thursday evening, April 16.

Barnett was arraigned on murder charges April 17 and held on $50,000 bail. He pleaded innocent.

Police said Mr. Wood was apparently visiting Barnett's apartment at 632 Columbia Rd., April 16, about 9:40 a.m. when the shooting took place. The incident was reported to police by Joseph Erickson, a friend of Mr. Wood's.

Mrs. Edythe M. Saery, 74, Member Pearl Harbor Survivor

Funeral services for Mrs. Edythe M. (Webster) Saery, 74, of Quincy were held April 18, at Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mrs. Saery died April 15, in Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

Rev. Robert E. Duncan, pastor of Fort Square United Presbyterian Church, officiated at the service. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Mrs. Saery who was born in Quincy lived in various sections of the country before moving back to this city in 1948.

Mrs. Saery was a member of the who lived with Barnett.

Mr. Wood was taken to the hospital where he died at 10:36 p.m. Barnett was arrested at the scene and charged with murder. A .22 caliber pistol found in the apartment is believed by police to be the murder weapon, they said.

Barnett was ordered to undergo 20 days observation by Judge George Tracy to determine his mental state.

Mr. Wood, who lived at 72 Norton Rd., was a sophomore at Stonehill, North Easton. He was graduated from Boston College High School in 1979.

He is survived by his parents, George J. and Janice B. (Hurley) Wood; two brothers, Mark S. Wood and Christopher J. Wood, all of Quincy; his grandparents, Walter J. and Josephine F. (MacDonald) Hurley of Quincy.

New Testament Dramatization At Squantum

A dramatization of the New Testament story of the women's early morning visit to the tomb began the Easter morning service at the First Church of Squantum.

Although the drama began in a darkened sanctuary, when the women ran from the tomb with the angel's message "He is not here; He is risen!", the room became ablaze with light. Easter flowers could then be seen throughout the room and, as the congregation sang the traditional Easter hymn "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," the procession of four choirs and the pastor came down the aisle. Robert Gorrell played the trumpet.

This way of beginning an Easter service goes back to the eleventh century. Originally, the parts were spoken in Latin. Most historians regard this play, apart from the Lord's Supper, as the beginning of Christian drama.

Genevieve Todd, Gretchen Bumpus and Holly Bumpus played the women. Brothers David and James Gerry were the angels.

A traditional Easter greeting, also known to the church throughout the ages, was given several times during the service. In it, the pastor says, "Alleluia! Christ is risen!" The people reply, "The Lord is risen indeed! Alleluia!"

The Boys' Chorus and the Junior Choir combined to sing "Alleluia" by Mozart, Nash and Scott. Instrumentalists were Colleen Crocino, Kerry Galvin, and Christopher Shionis on the glockenspiel; Lee Ann Miller, Karin Reister and Kristen Reister on the tone bells; and Kimberly Galvin, David Scott and Lillian Shionis on the xylophone.

Karin Reister helped the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, explain to the children that "Jesus Came Back!"

Members of the Youth Choir, radiant in their new robes, sang, "Walk Softly in Springtime" by Eugene Butler. They were directed by Mary Ruth Scott, who was in charge of all music for the morning.

The Chancel Choir sang "Joy Fills the Morning" by Antonio Lotti.

Scripture for the morning was taken from the 15th and 16th chapters of I Corinthians. Dr. Langevin's sermon was "The Easter Break-through" based on the text, "For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive."

Greeters for the morning were Barbara and Don Frazer. Barbara is chairman of the flower committee; Don is chairman of the Board of Deacons.

Ushers were Tore Wallin, Charles Todd, Harry Holmes and Don Frazer. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Joan Hansen, Vi Willner and Gladys Chandler.

During the fellowship hour, a videotape of last Sunday's Passion Play by the Way-Uppets, a puppet troupe from The Way Up, was shown for those who wanted to see it again. Robert Gorrell supervised the videotape equipment.

Earlier in the morning, members of the church had gathered at Mosswet Hummock, a historic site near the entrance to the Squantum peninsula, for an Easter Sunrise Service. After the service, an Easter breakfast was cooked and served on the beach. In charge of the breakfast were Hazel Mayne, Grace Holmes, Steve Williams, Bonnie Adams, Mark Paul and Sandra Ahearn.

Service next Sunday, which will also be attended by members of the Robert I. Nickerson Legion Post 382, is open to the public and will begin at 10:15 a.m.

THE EASTER VIGIL service at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, featured the welcoming of six adults into the Catholic faith. From left, are Rev. Daniel M. Graham, associate pastor and chairman of the catechumenate program; Joseph A. Papile, master of ceremonies and chairman of the Spiritual Development Commission; Kenneth Rudinsky and Nancy Kelly, both of whom were baptized; Douglas Savich, Susan Bird, David Fuller and Dean Bird. All six adults made their full profession of faith in the Catholic Church and received the sacraments of confirmation and the Eucharist.

St. John's Welcomes 6 Into Catholic Faith At Easter Vigil

St. John's Church, Quincy Center, welcomed six adults into the Catholic Faith during the Easter Vigil Ceremony Saturday.

Welcomed into the faith were Kenneth Rudinsky, Nancy Kelly, Douglas Savich, Susan Bird, David Fuller and Dean Bird.

Miss Kelly and Rudinsky were baptized. Then, all six adults made their full professions of faith in the Catholic Church and received the sacraments of Confirmation and Eucharist.

The catechumens were under the instruction of Rev. Daniel M. Graham, associate pastor of St. John's. Mr. Joseph A. Papile, chairman of the Spiritual Development Commission, and Mrs. Janet Blakeley.

The Easter Vigil Service is the most important liturgy of the church calendar's year. Highlight is the welcoming of new members to the faith.

I JUST HEARD THAT BILL CLARK DIED.

I'D LIKE TO HELP. WHAT SHOULD I DO?

Many bereaved people complain that they feel avoided and alone after a death. Friends complain of awkwardness in finding an appropriate way to offer assistance. They feel they might intrude or fear creating further upset. The solution to this dilemma lies in taking the initiative! Call your bereaved friends and tell them of your willingness to listen or to help. If they want your assistance they will gratefully accept. If they refuse your offer keep in mind that they are not rejecting you personally, they are simply saying they do not need your help at this time. Many grieving people find it difficult to seek help on their own behalf. So remember, friends and neighbors who make a specific offer of assistance may relieve some of the burden.

GOD FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Many Residents Opposed Board Continues Request For Streetside Inn

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Residents of Wollaston and North Quincy showed up in force at Tuesday's License Board meeting to voice mainly negative feelings towards a proposed "Streetside Inn" at 479 Hancock St.

City Hall's Council Chamber was nearly filled with area residents concerned with the request for a common victualer - all alcoholic license for the proposed establishment. The matter was eventually continued to the May 5, meeting.

Atty. William C. Eastman told the board that Robert F. Crosby, who also owns Body Craft, Inc., and other property in the area, was proposing a two-story restaurant with an "international flavor".

Eastman said the present vacant structure would be razed and a new building constructed with a small pub, waiting area and two dining areas.

Hours of operation would be 11 a.m. to 1 a.m., according to Eastman who added that there be parking spaces for 30 cars, and valet parking at the peak hours. Crosby said the Body Craft lot could be used for additional parking if necessary.

The restaurant would cater mainly to a dinner clientele and maximum seating capacity would be 119, said Eastman.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh said if Crosby's plans are approved, he would like facilities for the handicapped included.

Speaking in favor of the inn at the meeting were Wayne McCulley, president of North Quincy Taxi; Paul Lashure, a resident of 483 Hancock St.; Gerald Rutstein, of Rutstein Insurance; Edward Hard, Jr., who owns property in the area; and Joseph Doherty, of Doherty Insurance.

Eastman presented letters to the board from Rev. William D. Underhill, rector St. Chrysostom's Church, and Rev. Frank J. Bauer pastor Wollaston Lutheran Church and executive director of Fenno House, both of whom favored the inn.

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath said he opposed the inn as did some 600 area residents he said signed a petition in opposition.

"It's not the thing to go in the area" said McGrath who cited inadequate parking and lack of a need for such an establishment in the area.

Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon echoed McGrath's sentiments saying she, as well as residents of her ward, were opposed to the inn.

Vincent Formisano, a resident of 476 Hancock St., said the inn would be a "big headache" for neighbors because of inadequate parking and other matters.

Formisano said Crosby is a "wonderful guy" and a "good neighbor" but that he would be making a big mistake to put in the inn.

Paul F. Earle of 470 Hancock St. said putting in another eating and drinking establishment would result in the area "ending up like Blue Hill Ave." Earle said he would sell his house if the inn goes through.

David Tenney of 55 Albion Rd., Richard Smith of 461 Newport Ave., and Kathryn Rohan of 500 Hancock St., also spoke against the inn.

After hearing both sides of the argument, the matter was continued for two weeks

1,500 In Cancer Crusade April 28

More than 1,500 neighborhood volunteers will visit homes in all sections of the city beginning on the weekend to leave a cancer education pamphlet and seek a contribution, on behalf of the American Cancer Society.

The neighborhood Cancer Crusade is scheduled for Tuesday, April 28, when volunteers are requested to complete their house to house campaign visit and return the assigned Crusade kits to the main office of the Hancock Bank, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center. The bank will be open from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. to accept returns. Ward and precinct chairmen will also take returns to save time and travel.

Richard J. Koch, Quincy Cancer Crusade Chairman, is seeking additional volunteers to assist in the local effort. Those interested in helping may contact Koch or any of the following Ward chairpersons for assignments: Richard J. Koch, Jr., 46 Putnam St., Ward 1; Theodore DeCristofaro, 17 Murdock Ave., Ward 2; Mrs. Janet Crowley, 139 Highland Ave., Ward 3; David J. Donaghy, 88 Wallace Rd., Ward 4; Joseph E. Burke, 145 Willow St., Ward 5 and Mrs. Linda Bowes, 241 Newbury Ave., Ward 6.

Residents can recognize the Cancer Crusade Volunteers with a lapel identification badge, cancer education materials and the contribution envelope. Those not at home at the time of the visit will find the pamphlet and materials at the door and are asked to mail their donation in the envelope marked.

In 1981, approximately 805,000 people will be diagnosed as having cancer and at least 268,000 of those patients will be alive at least five years after treatment, according to the American Cancer Society.

Koch said that last year the Quincy Crusade totaled over $31,000. This year's goal is $35,500.

Collected in the house to house Quincy Crusade last year was $11,329.50. This year's goal is $13,000.

Received to date in the 1981 Crusade is $7,000 with a large percentage of the contributions being memorial donations.

The American Cancer Society is able to keep its fund raising costs low because the society's programs are carried out primarily by more than two million volunteers. The society's ratio of volunteers to staff is 800 to 1.

PSSB To Honor First 3 Life Members

The Protestant Social Service Bureau's first three life members will be honored at the Quincy-based agency's annual meeting April 23.

Representatives of some 50 South Shore churches will attend.

Executive Director Robert F. Taylor, said special plaques and lapel pins have been prepared for Miss Louise B. Forsyth and H. Wallace Sylvester, both of Quincy, and Curtis M. Chase of Randolph in recognition of being named life members.

Each has made a gift of $1,000 to the Life Member Fund established by the bureau to initiate new programs and services for the South Shore.

"We have started an endowment fund for the Protestant Social Service Bureau," said Taylor. "We want to always be ready when service opportunities are presented and the Life Member Fund will allow us to move forward." The agency plans to have 10 Life Members each year.

At the meeting, which will take place at the Winthrop Congregational Church, Holbrook, distinguished service awards will be announced. These will go to two volunteers who have "given of themselves in support of PSSB."

Catholic Daughters Flea Market, Saturday

The Catholic Daughters of the Americas will hold its second annual Flea Market and Mini-Fair

Previous distinguished service award winners include Gordon Clark of Marshfield, Miss Ruth V. Johnstone of Milton, Miss Mary Lou Glaman, H. Wallace Sylvester and George MacDonald, all of Quincy.

The Rev. Edward Moyer of Randolph's First Baptist Church and president of the agency, will preside.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau provides family counseling and adoption services to ten local communities.

Saturday, April 25, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

A variety of items will be on sale.

Raymondi In Mayor's Race

progresses and people see what kind of a campaign it is going to be then more and more will get involved.

"But the campaign is going to be run by people who have not been involved in the power structure of the city in the past."

Cerasoli said he will play "an active, up front role in the campaign."

Raymondi, who is in his third two-year term as city councillor from Ward 2, has been known for his aggressive questioning of witnesses before the Council and his quick reflexive actions under attack.

Lately, however, observers thought that they detected a change in Raymondi's style.

When he was assailed by name by Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia at a recent meeting he responded by saying that LaRaia "is continuing the politics of blame that has been destroying this city. I refuse to participate in it."

Raymondi, who is 33 years old, started in politics 10 years ago when he was elected to a four-year term on the School Committee. He has never lost an ensuing election.

Son of the late Alfred Raymondi, who was superintendent of highways for 10 years until his death in 1976, he captained the football team and played basketball and baseball at Quincy High.

He was also captain of the football team at Holy Cross, from which he graduated in 1969 with a degree in history. He obtained a law degree from Boston College in 1973.

After four years on the School Committee, Raymondi was elected to the City Council in 1975 and has won re-election twice, turning back strong opposition in Kathleen O'Donnell, Democratic state committeewoman, in 1979.

He has been a member of the Democratic City Committee since 1972 and has served as chairman since April, 1980.

Ward 5 Joseph Burke, 145 Willow Street — 472-6121.
Ward 6 Linda Bowes, 241 Newbury Avenue — 328-6635.

IDENTIFICATION TAGS will be worn by all volunteers.

EDUCATIONAL MATERIAL will be left at every home.

If you won't read these 7 signals of cancer...

You probably have the 8th.

1. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
2. A sore that does not heal.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere.
5. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Obvious change in wart or mole.
7. Nagging cough or hoarseness.
8. A fear of cancer that can prevent you from detecting cancer at an early stage. A stage when it is highly curable. Everyone's afraid of cancer, but don't let it scare you to death.

Cancer is often curable.
The fear of cancer is often fatal.

If you're afraid of cancer...you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

Bases On Balls Makes Difference North Gets Only One Hit But Defeats Brookline

North Quincy's baseball team was held to one hit Monday but took advantage of bases on balls to defeat Brookline, 4-0, to even its record at 1-1.

The Raiders played at Brockton yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Weymouth North Friday morning at 10:30 and Monday will host Waltham at 3:30 at Adams Field. Jamie Walsh collected the only hit but North combined it with walks to score all four runs in the fourth inning Monday.

Bob Bolster pitched a two-hitter, struck out 12 and didn't issue a walk for his second well-pitched game in a row. The only hits for Brookline were a blooper which just eluded the outfielders and an infield hit.

"Bob pitched beautifully and our sophomore catcher, John Kozlowski, did an excellent job handling him," Coach Charlie Bunker said.

Last week North lost to Quincy, 4-2, despite a four-hitter by Bolster, as errors hurt his cause.

North had only three hits, doubles by Walsh and Mark Millane and a single by Kenny Mann.

DiNardo Fires 6-Hitter Quincy Blanks Waltham

The Quincy baseball team blanked Waltham, 2-0, Monday, behind the pitching of Gary DiNardo, to improve its record to 2-1.

The Presidents played Weymouth North yesterday (Wednesday), will host Weymouth South Friday at 10:30 at Adams Field and will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday at 3:30.

DiNardo pitched a six-hitter for his second straight win and Bob Ready drove in both runs with a single, giving him six RBI in three games.

Last week Quincy dropped a 10-6 decision to Brockton as it left 12 men on base.

Brockton clinched the decision with five runs in the fifth inning after scoring twice in the third and twice in the fourth.

Bruce Tobin was the starting pitcher and loser for Quincy and Pat Connolly pitched well in relief.

Jim Bandera drove in three runs with a two-run triple and a single, while DiNardo had two hits and Tom Canavan, Hugh Campbell and Mark Abboud had one each. Coach Bud Mosher praised the play of Sean Martin, who was forced into service as catcher when Paul Quigley injured his knee in an earlier game with North Quincy and was unable to crouch.

"I needed to find a catcher in a hurry, because I didn't know about Paul until just before the game," Mosher said. "Sean said he'd do it and that saved us from using Canavan and having to rearrange our infield."

Earlier in the week Quincy defeated North Quincy, 4-2, behind DiNardo's three-hitter. Ready was the hitting star for the Presidents.

Duggan To Receive Football Scholar Awards

Fran Duggan, Quincy High's all-scholastic tackle and one of the top linemen in the state the past two years, will receive the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Eastern Mass. Chapter's Scholar-Athlete Award on May 11 at the Lantana in Randolph.

Duggan, a 235-pounder, who has many college offers, will be one of 11 schoolboy players to receive the award, chapter president Eddie Miller announced.

Tickets for the dinner can be obtained by calling Jack Grinoki at Northeastern (437-2691), Miller at Boston College (969-0100, ext. 3245) or Scotty Whitelaw at the ECAC (771-5060). Whitelaw, a former North Quincy High athlete, is commissioner of the ECAC.

Sox Assign Biagini To Elmira Class A

North Quincy's Bob Biagini, who made such an impression on everyone, including Quincy's Sam Mele and Ted Williams, at the Red Sox spring training camp in Winter Haven, Fla., is now in St. Petersburg for an extension of spring training until June.

Bobby will then report to the Sox' Elmira, NY, Class A team in the New York-Penn League, managed by Dick Berardino.

Mele, a special assignment scout and batting instructor for the Red Sox, was enthused by Biagini's display of power at the Class A camp.

"I tell you, Bobby looks great all the time," Sam said.

And the legendary Ted Williams, a special batting instructor, was just as enthused as Mele, a close friend.

"I love Biagini," Ted said. "He's as good a hitter at that stage as I've ever seen. There's nothing I could show him because he got damn near classic swing already."

Biagini shows a lot of intelligence with the bat and hits to all fields, something which impressed both Mele and Williams.

"The only thing I'd like to see is him quicken up a little bit," Williams said. "He'll get stronger, though, as he gets older."

Biagini, the outstanding catcher in the strong Suburban League the past two years, hit over .500 both years for North Quincy High. He hit with power with many extra base hits and excelled behind the plate. He has a bullet arm and very few bases were stolen on him. Also, he has good speed for a catcher, and had a large number of stolen bases himself.

Quincy Girls Tennis Team Defeats North, 4-1

The Quincy girls' tennis team defeated North Quincy, 4-1, last week in a Suburban League match.

The First Ladies took two out of the three singles matches and swept the two doubles matches.

In singles Quincy's Bernie DiPietro defeated Linda Rickson,

2-6, 6-4, 6-4; Sue Ryan of North defeated Janet Linehan, 6-2, 6-2, for the Raiders' only win, and Quincy's Patricia Garrity defeated Ann McLaney, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

In doubles Quincy's Julie McAuley and Donna Marcin defeated Janine Edgar and Dee Simmons, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, and Barbara Fain and Lorraine Morine defeated Mary Toland and Marjorie Ladas, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4.

The Quincy girls, who lost to Brockton, 5-0, later last week, will play at Weymouth South Friday morning at 10:30 and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday at 3:30, while the North girls will be home to Weymouth North Friday at 10:30 and will play at Waltham Monday at 3:30.

Self-Defense Classes At YMCA

Co-educational self-defense classes for adults will be held on four consecutive Wednesday nights beginning April 29 at the Quincy YMCA.

The two-hour sessions will begin at 7 p.m.

The class will be taught by Harold Whalen, a black belt instructor. Enrollment is limited.

Quincy Midgets Edged In Girls Tourney Finals

Quincy's Midget team went to the finals of the recent Bonnie MacMurdo girls' hockey tournament before being edged by Billerica, 2-1.

Quincy defeated Hobomock, 3-1, and Randolph, 6-1, to make the championship game. Karen Cullen scored Quincy's only goal in the final.

Playing for Quincy were Kim Horrigan, Marie Burke, Michele Masuret, Karen Horrigan, Linda Mills, Karen Cullen, Debbie Mosher, Laurie Barba, Kim Alberti, Maureen Worley, Sheila Graham, Kris O'Gara, Robin O'Donnell, Diane Murray, Barbara Kelley and Maureen Santry. Gordon Blaney was the coach and Dan Gorman his assistant.

In the Squirt division Quincy didn't fare as well as it bowed to Lowell and Amesbury. Hobomock defeated Lowell, 4-2, in the championship game.

Quincy's Squirt players were Christine Loud, Jill Rennie, Merri Roman, Louanne Roman, Christine Gorman, Janice Blaney, Debbie Blaney, Kim Hartford, Kellie Brooks, Karyn Mosher, Merissa Zona, Elizabeth Harrington, Sarah Harrington, Carrie Hughes and Marsha Zanadelli. The coaches were Buckie Zanadelli and Paula Constan.

Squirt teams were centered from Amesbury, Canton, Chelmsford, Hobomock, Lowell and Quincy. Midget teams came from Billerica, Hobomock, Quincy and Randolph.

Registrations for any girls interested in playing hockey will be taken Monday and Tuesday from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Wins Championship Meet

Kristen Dever Top Junior High Girl Gymnast Again

Kristen Dever of Central Junior High School, for the second year in a row, is the best all-around girl gymnast in Quincy. She outscored every other gymnast in last Thursday night's championship meet before 600 spectators at North Quincy High School.

This is the first time a junior high girl has repeated as the all-around champion. Dever won by scoring 6.9 points on floor exercise, 8.2 on vault, 7.2 on balance beam, 6.6 on uneven bars for a total of 28.9.

The silver medal in the all-around category also went to a Central girl, Catherine O'Brien. The competition between Dever and O'Brien for the all-around title was close with O'Brien only 2.25 points behind.

O'Brien scored 6.3 on floor exercise, 7.65 on vault, 6.1 on balance beam, 5.6 on uneven bars for a total of 25.65.

Third place in the all-around competition went to Sharon DelGrecio of Broad Meadows with 19.5 points.

In the boys' all-around competition David Fahey of Central captured first place with scores of 7.8 on vault, 6.0 on floor exercise, 4.2 on high bar, 4.0 on pommel horse, 3.6 on parallel bars and 3.0 on still rings for a total of 28.6.

The silver medal went to Bryan Ellis of Atlantic with 27.6 points and third place went to Lenny Logan of Broad Meadows with 24.9.

The girls' team championship went to Barbara Donelin's Central team, which finished with a perfect 5.0 record and a total of 79.15 points in the championship meet.

Broad Meadows was second with 63.0 points and Sterling placed third with 62.5.

The boys' team title went to George Winters' Atlantic team with 73.2 points, followed by Broad Meadows with 71.0 and Central with 57.8.

The floor exercise competition for the girls was one of the most exciting events with only six-tenths of a point separating the first five girls. Kristen Dever won with 6.9 points. Eileen Morris of Central was second with 6.6, Julie Nee of Central third with 6.5, Sharon DelGrecio of Broad Meadows fourth with 6.4 and Cindy Manupelli of Sterling with 6.3.

In vaulting Dever won with 8.2, Lauren O'Rourke of Central was second with 8.1, Cindy Manupelli third with 8.0, Renee Ryan of Broad Meadows fourth with 7.7 and Debbie Squires of Atlantic fifth with 7.6.

On balance beam Central swept the first three places with O'Brien winning with 6.1, Nora Furey second with 5.1 and Maureen Doherty and Lauren O'Rourke tied for third with 5.0. Laura Rizzi of Sterling was fourth with 4.6 and Julie Nee of Central fifth with 4.4.

On uneven bars Central again swept the top three places with O'Brien winning with 5.6, Elizabeth Maher second with 5.1 and Maureen Doherty third with 4.7. Lisa Burrell of Sterling was fourth with 4.6 and Michelle Healey of Broad Meadows fifth with 4.3.

In boys' vaulting Ellis of Atlantic was first with 8.1, Fahey of Central second with 7.8, Brian Peach of Broad Meadows third with 7.4, Lenny Logan of Broad Meadows fourth with 7.1 and Joe Monahan of BM and John Palma of Atlantic tied for fourth with 7.0.

In floor exercise Fahey won with 6.0, Logan was second with 5.4, Ellis third with 3.8, Peach fourth with 3.6 and John DeLappe and Palma of Atlantic and Monahan tied for fifth with 3.5.

On high bar Fahey won with 4.2, Ellis was second with 3.5, Logan third with 3.4, Palma fourth with 3.2, and Monahan fifth with 3.0.

On the pommel horse Fahey won with 4.0, Ellis was second with 3.8, Dan Trabacco of BM third with 3.7, DeLappe fourth with 3.6 and Palma fifth with 3.5.

On parallel bars Fahey won with 3.6, Ellis was second with 3.3, Logan third with 3.1, Palma fourth with 3.0 and Trabacco and Atlantic's Mark Wilkins tied for fifth with 2.9.

On still rings Ellis won with 5.1, Wilkins was second with 3.4, Logan third with 3.2, Fahey and Monahan tied for fourth with 3.0 and Marc Aboud of BM and Palma tied for fifth with 2.8.

The championship meet was a perfect end for Donelin's Central girls' team and an auspicious beginning for boy's gymnastics at Central under the guidance of John Franceschini.

Donelin and Franceschini directed the meet, held under the dual sponsorship of the City of Quincy Athletic Department and the Physical Education Department.

In regular season meets the Atlantic girls defeated Point, 52.4-40.8, winning every event.

Scoring for Atlantic were Debbie Mosher first, Debbie Squires second and Donna King third in floor exercise; Squires first, King second and Patty Sullivan third in vault; King first, Squires and Suzett Chase tied for second in balance beam, and Alice Seto first, King and Sullivan tied for second on bars.

Broad Meadows defeated Atlantic, 67.5-63.3 with Atlantic's Squires first, King second and Sullivan third in floor exercise; Squires first, King second and Sullivan third on vault, Sullivan first, Squires second and Dawn Prussman third on beam, and Seto first, Carol Keating and King and Prussman tied for third on bars.

QJC Turns Back Wentworth, 4-2

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team defeated Wentworth Institute, 4-2, last week to even its record at 1-1.

The Jaguars, who faced North Shore Community College yesterday (Wednesday), will host Wentworth next Tuesday at 4 p.m. at O'Rourke Field and next Thursday will be home to Blue Hills Technical at 3:30 at O'Rourke.

Bob Thomas, the number one pitcher, filled in for the injured Brian Condon at first base and sparked the offense with two hits and two runs batted in.

QJC, still in a batting slump, had only six hits but them count. Eric Carrera, Steve Cook, John Wilkinson and Jim O'Leary had the other hits.

Jack Connolly pitched for Coach Dave Burke's team. He had been scheduled to pitch three times previously but each time the game was postponed.

Quincy scored in the first inning on hits by Carrera and Thomas and in the third Thomas singled home Cook, who had singled.

Connolly struck out seven and had a no-hitter for five innings but in the sixth a triple by Scott McNevin, a walk and a single tied the game for Wentworth.

QJC loaded the bases with no outs in the fifth but a pop fly and a double play ended the threat. Quincy scored the two winning runs without a hit in the sixth. Mike McCormack walked, John Newcomb bunted and, when the throw went into right field McCormack scored and Newcomb reached third. Newcomb scored on Wilkinson's sacrifice fly to right.

"Connolly (two-hitter) pitched a smart game," Burke said. "He was strong at the end. We had been idle for more than a week and the boys were anxious to play. It was a good win."

QJC shortstop Jo Argento played a fine defensive game and Wilkinson had two stolen bases.

Quincy Girls Track Team Rolls By Waltham

The Quincy girls' track team bounced back from an opening day loss to Cambridge Rindge and Latin to defeat Waltham, 66-48, last week.

The First Ladies will host Weymouth North next Thursday at 3 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

New coach John Franceschini is pleased with the progress of the girls. "All of the girls' attitudes have been positive since day one of practice," he said. "There have been some key people out of action in the first two meets due to injuries, but newcomers like Mary Kussman, Ann Abdallah and Jeannie Sandomano have stepped in to win the 100 yard dash, low hurdles, discus and high jump. This is due to the hard work of all the girls."

Capt. Sue McLaughlin was outstanding in the first two meets taking two firsts in the long jump, a first and second in the 220 and was a key member of the winning 440-yard relay team against Waltham.

Junior Sue Murray also is off to a fine start in the 100 and long jump. She took first against a strong field in the Waltham meet in the 100 and was second in the long jump in both meets.

Lisa Zannis, Tricia Ilacqua and Jacqui Irvine placed in both meets in the discus and javelin. Joanne Medice, Andrea Brown and Jean Dulling have led the distance runners and Chris Irvine's times keep getting lower and lower in the 440.

The sophomores are doing an excellent job and among those who have placed are Nancy Martin and Julie Hannon in the low hurdles, Sharon Uhlar in the long jump and 100, Cheryl Derbes in the shot put, Theresa Monroe in the 220 and Kathy Reddish in the low hurdles.

Maureen Lamie, Diane Theoharous, Denise Wright, Kathy McKinnon, Maryellen Monahan, Lenore Salvaggio, Sandra Harris, Anne Mulligan, Regina Fruzzetti, Carol Nichols, Jill Nelson, Tricia O'Toole, Michele Dauphinee, Betty McLaughlin and Franny Brown all continue to improve in their events and should soon break into the winners' bracket.

In the Waltham meet McLaughlin won the 220 and long jump and Quincy's other winners were Murray in the 100, Kussman in the low hurdles, Sandomano in the high jump, Abdallah in the discus, Zannis in the javelin and the 440 relay team of Uhlar, Murray, McLaughlin and Monroe won.

An Inspiration To Others

Mike Bondarick: He Wouldn't Give Up

By TOM SULLIVAN

Six years ago when he was 14, Mike Bondarick broke a knee cap while playing Bantam hockey in the Quincy Youth Hockey Association program.

That would have been the end of the dreams and hopes of many youngsters.

But Mike was no ordinary youngster and his story should be an inspiration to others who are ready to give up in similar circumstances.

Bondarick dropped out of Quincy High at the end of his junior year at age 16.

He came back and put on a pair of skates for the first time in about 2½ years and tried out for the Quincy team.

He proved Coach Bob Sylvia's most pleasant surprise that year and played on the first line as the team advanced to the state semifinals at Boston Garden.

Mike went on to New Prep and played two years for Coach George Korzak. In his second year there he captained the team and led it to a 27-6-1 record, while scoring 27 goals and being named Most Valuable Player.

According to Sylvia, this second year at New Prep was the turning point in Bondarick's career.

Last fall Mike entered Salem State College, a Division 2 hockey powerhouse.

He was cut from the squad and begged for another tryout. He received one and made the team when another player dropped from the team.

He proceeded to be Salem's second leading goal scorer with 20 goals, all while playing on the fourth line.

He scored in both playoff games, having a goal in the 4-3 story over Babson and two goals in the 5-3 loss to Merrimack in the ECAC semifinals.

One of Bondarick's biggest

boosters is Sylvia. "Mike deserves an awful lot of credit," Sylvia said. "I called him our 'diamond in the rough' when he made our team in his senior year. He was our most pleasant surprise that season."

"Mike's biggest attribute was his skating. He was one of our finest skaters and I feel we helped him improve in other departments. He proved to me that season he had ability and a lot of courage. He was a real hustler who played left wing but could play anywhere for us."

"I think he made a smart move in going to New Prep and I think his second year there was the turning point for him. He proved then he could play hockey with anyone. He improved so much in every department that he was ready for college."

"Too many boys try to go right from high school to college but they aren't ready for college hockey. Mike got the experience and gained the maturity he needed."

"He proved this year he was ready to play college hockey. There is very little difference now in Division 1 and Division 2 hockey and, now they realize at Salem State what a fine player they have in Mike, I think he has a fine future. He should continue to get better and better there. To score 20 goals as a freshman for such a strong team was a great achievement."

Mike, also an excellent basketball and roller hockey player, didn't go to school on a scholarship and he made his own breaks with hard work and determination.

Quincy Girls Off To Slow Start

Barbara Webster's Quincy girls' softball team was 16-3 a year ago and the Suburban League champion.

The First Ladies defeated Barnstable but lost to Silver Lake in the Eastern Mass Tournament.

With only three returning starters, they are off to a slow start this year and last week lost their first two Suburban League games.

Quincy dropped an 8-5 decision to North Quincy, then was bombed by Brockton, 19-2.

The Quincy girls played Waltham Tuesday, met Weymouth North yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Weymouth South Friday at 10:30, will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Monday at 3:30 at Faxon Field and will be home to Newton North next Wednesday at 3:30.

Sue Gallery, who pitched every game last year and probably will do the same this season, pitched well against North but several windblown pops went for hits and the Quincy defense let her down on several occasions.

Quincy received a tough break when Janet Witham hit what looked like a three-run homer but she failed to touch second base and was called out following an appeal by North and the First Ladies wound up with only one run.

Sue Callahan had three hits for Quincy.

Among Quincy's veterans are Gallery, three-year starter Callahan in center field and catcher Nancy Chludzinski, who batted .325 last season.

"Our infield is entirely new, but everyone is working hard and I know they are giving it their best," Miss Webster said.

Other players are junior Witham and Kathy Duggan, seniors Karen Kozlowski and Marie Callahan, senior Liz Derbes, who saw some action last year, her sister Michelle, Cheryl Carmody, Barbie Schumacher and Robin Veneto.

Undefeated In Tourney

Montclair Wins Girls Bombardment Championship

Montclair won the Quincy Recreation Department girls' bombardment championship without losing a single game in the single elimination tournament.

Nine teams representing recreation centers throughout the city participated in the tournament with 135 elementary school age girls taking part in the three-week competition. Bombardment is a form of dodge ball and is played with teams that number 15 players to a side.

Montclair defeated Merrymount in three straight games in the championship series. Montclair continued to dominate as it had the entire tournament as Nancy Flukes, Susan Adamcheck, Marie Dion and super thrower Ann Anderlionis led the team to its three-game sweep.

Alongi also presented runnerup certificates to Coach Sue Ranahan's Merrymount players, Karen Robertson, Kristen Haddigan, Chris Barrett, Maura O'Gara, Paula Sutliff, Nancy Barrett, Allison Sage, Kerri Tolson, Jennifer Gale, Kerry Haddigan, Paula Tolson, Lori Sullivan, Maureen Tolson, Kerri Savage, Lisa Pugliese, Rachael D'Angelis, Yolanda Pledger, Nancy Laitinen and Melissa Zannes.

Adams Center, a team with no real practice area, opened the tournament with a surprising victory over defending champion Beechwood Knoll.

Siohban Sheils and Terry Duggan stood out for Adams, while Clare Murphy, Carrie LaPenna, Stacy Scateland and Tricia Koski played well for Beechie.

Adams continued to surprise in the quarterfinals by defeating Squantum, two games to one. Susan Parry, Cindy Duggan, Alanna Sheils, Siohban Sheils and Terry Duggan starred for Adams, while Ginger Bunker, Sarah Midrum, Sheila D'Antoni and Erin McDonough sparkled for Squantum.

Merrymount topped Parker in two straight games in the second quarterfinal game, led by Sutliff, Barrett, Pledger, O'Gara and Norton. Cindy Alibee, Chris Rogers and Dianne Gorham played well for Parker.

In the third quarterfinal Snug Harbor ousted Atherton Hough, two games to one, with Pam Austin, Jill Bonner and Yvonne Willbridge starring for Snug Harbor and Chris Menz, Susan Blowers, Patty Morrell and Chris Lovell leading Atherton Hough.

In the last quarter final Montclair defeated Wollaston in two straight games as Anderlionis, Dion, Adamcheck and Cooke sparked for the eventual champions and Janya Manway, Laura Gerwer, Bethany Walshand Kim Musso standing out for Wollaston.

In the first semifinal series Adams' Cinderella team won the first game from Merrymount, but Merrymount came back to win the next two games and move into the finals.

Maureen Tolson, Bouley, Barrett and O'Gara stood out for Merrymount, while Linda Welch, Parry, Terry Duggan, Ginny Duggan and Siohban Sheils all played well for Adams.

In the second semifinal Montclair again won two straight games to eliminate Snug Harbor. Minton, Bunker, Cooke and Welch continued to play well for Montclair, while Kim Kelly, Caroline Kennedy, Jill Bonner and Darlene Koestner excelled for Snug Harbor.

Youth Soccer League Opens With Close Games

The Quincy Youth Soccer League, comprised of boys and girls from grades 1 through 8, opened its season Sunday with close games.

In Grades 1 and 2 the Tea Men and Furies played to a 1-1 tie with Christine Barrett scoring for the Tea Men and Mike Oliver for the Furies.

The Stags and Wanderers also tied, 1-1, with Greg Warren scoring for the Stags and John Bertrand for the Wanderers.

John Fahey had three goals and Matthew O'Toole one as the Express blanked the Spurs, 4-0.

The Celtics and Rogues tied, 1-1, as Amy Bertrand scored for the Celtics and Tony Giandra for the Rogues.

In grades 3 and 4 the Diplomats topped the Rovers, 3-0, on goals by Sean Squire, Pat Flynn and Peter White.

The Metros topped the Roughnecks, 2-0, with Mick Gowan scoring both goals.

The Lancers defeated the Kicks, 3-0, with Dave Hutchings scoring twice and Eric DePeor once.

In Grades 5 and 6 the Tornados topped the Rowdies, 2-0, with Pete Quavalin and John Corrigan scoring the goals.

The Rangers edged the Caribous, 4-3, with Jim Kilen scoring two goals and Chris Barry and Tony Annis one each for the Rangers. John Cicerone had two goals and Mario DelVecchio one for the Caribous.

In Grades 7 and 8 the Cosmos and Timbers tied, 3-3, with Ed

Flynn, Kevin McCafferty and David Duffy scoring for the Cosmos and Nem Tu having two goals and Pat Feeney one for the Timbers.

The Sounders edged Atecs, 1-0, with Forite scoring the only goal.

Track Club Registration Saturday

The Quincy Track Club will hold its second registration day Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Registration fee is $10.00 per athlete with a $20.00 family rate. Boys and girls 4 to 18 are invited to join. Last year more than 500 joined to make the Quincy club the biggest youth track club in the country.

Practice for all new members will be on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 8 p.m. All members will be given a track and field potential test designed by Coach Jeff Hennessy to see which events the athletes are best suited for.

The new members will participate in intramural meets every Thursday from May 7 to June 18 and will have a cookout on Saturday, June 27. Awards will be given in the meets and also for boys and girls making the biggest improvements.

On June 27 outstanding boys and girls will be selected for the traveling team which tries out for trips to national meets.

Quincy Alumni Honors This Year's Tourney Team

By PETE ZOIA

This year's Quincy High basketball team, which made the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fourth year in a row, was honored recently at the fourth annual Quincy Alumni reunion.

The event was sponsored by the Quincy Alumni Basketball Association.

"This past season brought the boy out of me as I was so enthused during all of the games," current Quincy coach Joe Amoroso said.

"We were picked to be in the lower four in the Suburban League, but we surprised quite a few people. I enjoyed working with twelve wonderful boys who always helped each other."

He mentioned that 72 boys tried out for the recent all-star game in Worcester and Quincy's Steve Priscella and Kurt McDonald made the team. He also said Sean Burke will be going to Boston University and Gary DiNardo to Southeastern Mass. in the fall. He thanked the Alumni group for honoring and backing the team and paid tribute to his assistants, John Franceschini and Doug McFarland.

Chairman Guido Pettinelli introduced his committee, consisting of Bob Page, Vic DiGravio, Bob Nankin, Pete Ramponi, John McKinnon and Bob MacDonald.

Many former players attended including Dick Mula, now dean at Quincy Junior College; Sheriff Cliff Marshall, Rep. Bob Cerasoli, City Clerk John Gillis, former YMCA director Gil Crofts and City Councillor Dan Raymond.

Members of the famed Granite Chips presented were Jack Pettinelli, George Page and Ralph Graham. Other former players and friends of this year's team included Paul Duggan, Joe Cortez, Bill Mavor, Gus Russo, Walter and Ray Pecce, Bob Pettinelli, Jim Hebert, Mike Barba, Jimmy Freil, Frank Rouillard, Rippy Lint, Jim Boddie, Frank Kerns, Tubba Tropea, Jim Pena, Eddie Marchant, John Rodophele, Bob Gumprecht, Bill Dracchi and Denny and Sonny DiNardo. Leo Papile Sr. entertained with stories and Pettinelli introduced Eddie Dunn and DiGravio, two former Quincy greats who went on to gain fame as referees.

Brown, Leone Going To U Of Maine

Jack Brown and Jack Leone, two of North Quincy's standout football players the last two years, will attend the University of Maine in the fall. They are co-captains of the North Squam football team.

Brown, the Quarterback, and Leone, the Running Back, were named to the All-South Shore football team.

Both are going to the University of Maine in Orono, Maine. Brown is a member of the Maine Football Association and Leone is a member of the Maine Football Association.

Leone may be the best all-around athlete in Massachusetts, said Maine Coach Ron Rogerson.

Leone, a hard-core kicker and one of the best place kickers in New England last year had two touchdowns, kicked 15 extra points and kicked two field goals. He kicked eight field goals, including a 51-yarder, during his North career. He also was the Raiders' leading passer.

Leone also holds the Suburban League high jump record and was an outstanding diver for the swim team. He is one of the best swimmers in the area.

Jack Brown, North Quincy's All-American, is capable of kicking 50-yard field goals, too, Rogerson said.

Brown and Leone are among 22 schoolboy student-athletes who have decided to attend Maine and first-year coach Rogerson expects more to announce their intentions of attending within the next month.

North Girls Off To Good Start

The North Quincy girls' softball team is off to a good start and, following an easy win over Hingham, upset Quincy's defending Suburban League champions, 8-5, last week in the first league game for both teams.

Lou Iannilli's Raiderettes played Brookline Tuesday, met Brockton yesterday (Wednesday), hosts Weymouth North Friday morning at 10:30 at Artery Field. Monday will play at Waltham at 3:30 and next Wednesday will be at Weymouth South at 3:30.

Eileen Cronin, who was 5-1 last year and who had a rough start against Hingham, came back to pitch excellent ball against Quincy. She also had three hits.

Sue Ayres had two hits and drove in two runs for the North girls.

MILESTONE — 1st American Bank for Savings celebrated its first anniversary in Quincy recently with a week-long anniversary celebration at its 77 Granite St. office. Serving a piece of anniversary cake are Thelma I. Wilde, manager and Robert G. Lee, president.

Peter O'Connell Elected Granite Co-operative VP

Peter F. O'Connell of 40 Hatherly Rd., Quincy has been elected Vice President of the Granite Co-operative Bank.

Mr. O'Connell, President of O'Connell Brothers Construction, Inc., has been a director of the bank since 1976. He is presently chairman of the Security Committee and a member of the bank's Executive Board.

Mr. O'Connell is well known in the city as developer of over 1,000 housing units. Currently the O'Connell firm is involved in building an office complex at State Street South in North Quincy as well as "The Clipper" apartments on Palmer Street and "Louisburg Square" condominiums on Morrissey Blvd.

Re-elected to bank posts were Mr. Bernard C. Cohen as President and Nissie Grossman as Chairman of the Board.

PETER O'CONNELL

The bank has assets of over $26 million and maintains its headquarters at 440 Hancock St., North Quincy and a branch at 100 Granite St., Quincy Center.

McKinnon Speaker At Realtors Breakfast

Sen. Allan R. McKinnon of Weymouth will be the speaker Thursday April 23, at 8:30 a.m. in the Sheraton Tara in Braintree at a breakfast meeting of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors.

Honored guests at the breakfast will be the winners of an essay contest for local high school students on the theme, "What are my private property rights and how will they affect my future?"

Board President Eleanor King will present the winners their prizes, $100 for first, $50 for second and $25 for third.

The breakfast is the local highlight of National Private Property Week, April 19-25.

Helen Blowers, the board's Make America Better chairman, said more than 50 entries were submitted from the various schools.

EILEEN WOLUSKY

EVA SIDLAUSKAS

At South Boston Savings:

Laine Re-elected President Archibald Executive V.P.

Richard R. Laine was re-elected president of South Boston Savings Bank at the annual corporator's meeting.

Laine reported the bank has "made tremendous strides" during the previous year's unusual economy.

"I believe that the most significant factor in our growth pattern during the past year is due to the fact that our depositors realize that the South Boston Savings Bank always pays the highest interest rates allowed by law," he said.

Paul A. Archibald, a South Boston resident, was elected Executive Vice President and trustee. Archibald had been a vice president prior to his advancement.

Two Quincy residents were promoted.

Eileen Wolusky was elected assistant treasurer. She has worked since 1966 in the savings bank life insurance department.

Eva J. Sidlauskas was elected trustee. She is also an assistant treasurer who has been with the bank since 1958.

The bank has branches at 690 Adams St., Quincy, and in South Boston and Neponset Circle.

Blue Birds Donate Books To Children's Library

A group of Quincy Blue Birds, youngest members of the Camp Fire Organization, recently donated Camp Fire books to the children's department of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The books were purchased with proceeds from the annual Camp

Fire candy sale.

The project was undertaken as a public service activity, since the children's department has had no public funds in over six months and could not replace worn out or damaged Camp Fire books.

Participating in the project were Gretchen O'Hara, Crystal Lee Moffett, Melanie Moffett, Amanda Baler, Kara Delahunt, Rebecca Chin, Valerie Chin, Lisa Dymant and Laura Felker.

Square Dancers At Fenno House

Quincy Art Festival To Be Held May 9

The fifth annual Quincy Art Festival will be sponsored by the Quincy Art Association Saturday, May 9.

The art exhibit will take place within and outside of the Adams Academy building, 8 Adams St.

On Friday, May 8, scholarships, awards and prizes will be given at a champagne reception. Participants will include Quincy High School students and members of Quincy Art Association. The public is invited to both events.

Quincy Art Association exhibits for 1981 include displays at Quincy Junior College, Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Historical Society, State Street South Bank, South Shore Plaza, Quincy School Offices and Quincy City Hall Centennial Celebration.

The association is now working toward a building fund to rent or buy a location to further extend cultural activities, lessons and events for citizens young and old.

St. John's Soloists In Concert May 2

St. John's soloists will present "Another Evening to Remember" Saturday, May 2, in St. John's Church Hall.

Social hour is from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. with the first show scheduled for 9 p.m. and the second for 11 p.m. One ticket is good for both performances.

During the intermission a buffet will be served.

The five lead soloists are Donald Hovey, tenor, who is director of music for St. John's Choir; Vivianne Curran, dramatic soprano; David Fuller, lyric baritone; Lisa Berger, soprano; and William Masters, lyric tenor.

Herman Weiss will be pianist. Tickets and reservations may be purchased and reserved by contacting Roger Laberge at 479-2431, Phyllis Ross at 773-2213 or any choir member.

Phyllis Ross is chairwoman for the evening assisted by Roger Laberge, tickets; Helen Milne, decorations; Mrs. Stephen Lindsay, prize table; and Mrs. Russell Fruzzetti, publicity.

Bowling

Alibrandi Elected Koch Men's League President

Tony Alibrandi has been elected president of the Koch Club Men's Bowling League.

Mike Cruise will be secretary and Bob Woods, treasurer, for the 32nd season in 1981-82.

The annual awards banquet will be held at the Alamo Restaurant, Abington, Friday, May 29.

Paul Koch's team has moved into first place in the team standings with 81 wins and 39 losses and is trailed by Tony Alibrandi, 77-43, Mike Doyle, 61-59, John O'Malley, 59-61, Al Mancuso, 58-62, Joe Koch, 56-64, Steve Palumbo, 55-65 and Mike Shields, 37-83.

Mario Scorra topped the weekly "325" Club bowling a 350 while Roger Galante scored 327 and Mike Shields, 326.

Shields has the best individual scoring record for the season to date with high average of 108.4, high three string total of 389 and best single of 163.

Others in the best 10 averages are Tony Alibrandi, 106.9, Tony Monti, 104.2, Steve Palumbo, 103.8, Al Mancuso, 103, Pete Alibrandi, 102.8, John O'Malley, 102.1, Dick Koch, Jr., 101.6, Paul Koch, 101.3 and Mike Doyle, 101.1.

Shields' team has the high three string total of 1583 and top single string of 566.

Joe Koch's team won the first half and will meet the second half winner in the season rolloff upon completion of the regular season.

A number of vacancies are expected next season. New bowlers are welcome to join the league as regular or spare bowlers. Applications are being accepted now for bowlers planning to participate in the 1981-82 season.

The league bowls Tuesdays at 7 p.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome, Quincy Shore Drive.

Present officers are: Mike Shields, President, Bob McLaren, Treasurer and Dick Koch, Jr., Secretary.

Historic Award Woman Wins $1.5-M In Bus Mishap

By TOM HENSHAW

An 87-year-old Wollaston woman, paralyzed since a Christmas Eve fall on an MBTA bus in 1979, has been awarded a $1.5 million settlement, believed to be the largest personal injury award ever recorded in Norfolk County.

Mrs. Janet H. Cook, who lived at 18 Albion Rd., is now confined to New England Sinai Hospital in Stoughton.

She was brought into Norfolk Superior Court during the week long trial before Judge Roger J. Donahue on a stretcher and testified into a microphone held by her attorney, Stephen T. Keefe, Jr. of Quincy.

"She was overcome, she was so pleased by the award," said Keefe. "It is the one thing that has been on her mind for months."

Two physicians, Drs. William Shriver of Newton and Dr. Milton Brougham of Quincy, testified that Mrs. Cook would never regain the use of her limbs and bodily functions below the neck.

The accident occurred Dec. 24, 1979, after Mrs. Cook had boarded an MBTA bus driven by Paul Somontes of 24 Delford St., Quincy Center.

She testified that she was walking to a seat on the bus when the bus started, then stopped, throwing her against the fare box and then into the stairwell.

She suffered a fractured cervical vertebrae and severe spinal cord damage.

Mrs. Cook originally sought $4 million in damages, $2 million from the MBTA and $2 million from Somontes.

Keefe said the 16 months from the time the suit was filed until the verdict was handed down by a 12-member jury Monday made it one of the speediest civil trials in years in Norfolk County.

It was hastened, he said, by a state law that requires speedy civil trials for elderly persons. Criminal trials take precedence over civil trials in the county.

Mrs. Cook, a widow, has three children, Arthur S. Cook of 64 Bay State Rd., North Quincy; Mrs. Janet Cochrane of Norwell and Mrs. Mary L. Peterson of Stoughton.

The MBTA has 30 days in which to file an appeal, either with the State Appeal Court or the State Supreme Court.

Keefe said it was the largest personal injury award he can recall in 30 years of practice in Norfolk County, although there was a recent medical malpractice suit settled for more money.

Study Committee Named Grace Period Over On Parking

Those red tickets are back on the windshields of illegally parked cars in downtown Quincy this week.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin announced Tuesday an end to the Easter grace period during which some meter violations were overlooked to encourage shopping in Quincy Center.

He also announced formation of a committee of city officials and businessmen to seek "long range solutions" to Quincy's parking problems.

Donald Hansen, executive assistant to Police Chief Francis X. Finn, was named chairman of the committee, which will have at least nine other members.

Tobin said the city is going back to stricter enforcement of the parking regulations, "not as strict as in the past but stricter than it was during the Easter grace period."

Chief Finn said the chief targets of the new policy will be those who abuse the all day parking privilege.

He said some 350 cars a day have been sneaking onto the top two floors of the parking garage in Ross Parkway before the gates open and parking all day for free.

Tobin said his committee will "address the overall problem of parking in downtown Quincy and make recommendations to Chief Finn who will bring them to me."

Named to the committee were: Greg Doyle, a principal planner in the Planning Department currently assigned to the Public Works Department. He will represent PW Commissioner James J. Ricciuti.

Richard Meade of the Planning Department.

Supt. Edward Lynch of the Police Department.

Donald Hansen, executive assistant to Finn and director of planning in the Police Department.

Unless $1.4 M Appropriated Sullivan: 'Boston-Like School Mess' Possible Here

By FRANK MORTIMER

Quincy public schools will be in danger of forced early closings this year if funds are not appropriated to pay $1.4 million in negotiated school employee raises, School Committee member John J. Sullivan warns.

Sullivan has recommended that the committee add $2 million to the $26.7 million budget set by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. About $600,000 of this would be needed to save the Alternative Learning Environment program, the elementary lab program, and to keep music and arts at their current levels in all grades.

Sullivan declined to predict what action the Committee would take last night (Wednesday) on his recommendations, but said that a failure to set aside funds for the overdue wage increases could put schools into "a fiscal mess worse than the one Boston schools are now going through."

"If the judge says we have to pay this money — and he will — we'd better have it," Sullivan said. "God forbid if the mayor and city council orders us (school committee) to pay it out of our current funds."

"If that happens then the only thing to do would be close the schools down before the 180 days are up."

The raises were negotiated in 1979, but the city council voted down the supplemental budget needed to fund them. The teachers union has sued to force payment, and, according to Sullivan, a court decision is expected soon.

If the teachers win the suit, the city council and mayor can either find a way to pay the raises outside the school budget, or force the committee to use funds intended for other purposes.

Sullivan wants the school committee to approve the funds now "to avoid the catastrophe that exists in the city of Boston," he said Tuesday. "We'd have to close schools early."

The budget additions recommended by Sullivan were on Wednesday night's meeting agenda.

The committee has until early June to finalize its budget.

Firefighter Settlement Close?

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin said the city is close to a settlement that would restore 10 laid off firefighters to their jobs.

"There is a possibility there will be no layoffs," he said.

However, George Lamb, president of the Quincy

Firefighters Association, said the two sides "are no closer than we were three weeks ago. But things can change in 10 minutes."

Tobin said a proposed settlement has been drafted and lawyers for the city and the union are going over it now "to make some technical changes and review the wording."

The 10 firefighters were laid off a month ago when the city had to cut back on expenses due to an underfunded 1981 budget plus the first effects of Proposition 2½.

Tobin declined to disclose the current settlement proposals, except to say that "some things have to be given up now that the union realizes that the money is not there."

The mayor said he is looking forward to the settlement.

"I appointed these young men in the first place," he said. "A lot of their fathers were firefighters, too. It was very hard to send those notices out."

Kelly Seeks Report On Nut Island Waiver

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has asked Cong. Brian J. Donnelly for a status report on an application by the MDC for a waiver on secondary sewage treatment at the Nut Island facility.

The application, which was filed in September, 1979, is currently before the Environmental Protection Agency in Washington.

An Eastern Massachusetts Metropolitan Area (EMMA) study in 1975 recommended that 28 acres of Quincy Bay be filled so that the Nut Island plant could be converted to a secondary treatment facility.

Later, the MDC agreed to seek a waiver that would require only advanced primary treatment.

"The MDC is reviewing the EMMA study," said Kelly in a

Quincy Bay Inn Hours Extension Request Continued

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Quincy Bay Inn, 24-29 Hancock St., North Quincy, got high marks from a Ward Councillor at Tuesday's License Board meeting for eliminating neighborhood parking problems.

But inn management will have to work just as hard to remove the apprehensions of some board members over a request for extension of the establishments' liquor license and closing hours from 12 m. to 2 a.m.

The matter will be discussed next Tuesday at 10 a.m. at City Hall, as will the inn's other request for a Sunday entertainment license to allow dancing by patrons and guests from 1 p.m. to midnight.

Ward 6 Joanne Condon told the board at this week's meeting that since neighborhood parking problems were discussed at the March 24, License Board meeting, a meeting has been held and improvements made.

Mrs. Condon said that as she suggested, inn manager Richard J. Vita has hired an additional police detail for Densmore St. where residents and business people had complained of parking problems caused by inn patrons.

Portable saw horses are also being used at the entrances of the street at night to prevent inn patrons from entering and parking, according to Mrs. Condon.

"Densmore St. problems have been totally eliminated" she said. "The neighbors seem quite pleased with the solution".

Mrs. Condon also said the neighbors have no objections to the inn's application for a 2 a.m. closing.

John Timcoe, a Densmore St. resident, backed Mrs. Condon's statement saying, "As long as the extra police detail is maintained, I have no complaints".

Vita told the board he would continue the police detail, which brings to four the number of officers at or around the establishment Friday and Saturday nights. He also said he would extend the officers' hours to 2 a.m. if the extended hours were granted.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh offered the first objection to the 2 a.m. closing saying, "The (police) detail solved the problems for one week-end, but I don't see that as an overwhelming commitment".

Dr. McKeogh recommended that the board wait a month or two and watch the situation before granting a 2 a.m. closing.

Vita countered that the establishment has proved itself over the three months it has been in operation.

Det Robert Miller told the board there have been no police problems reported.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn said the board has placed restrictions on the inn that other establishments don't have.

"He (Vita) has cooperated with us. We should cooperate with him", said Finn who made a motion to grant the 2 a.m. closing for six months. However, the motion died when no second was made.

City Clerk John Gillis said the inn has done nothing wrong and that the board should try to cooperate.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said it was a mistake to grant any 2 a.m. closings.

"Fifty thousand people a year are killed on highways", said MacDonald, "and half of them have been drinking".

Dr. McKeogh offered to make a motion that all 2 a.m. closings be rescinded, and Chief Barry and MacDonald both said they would second such a motion.

Chief Finn said that could not legally be done. He said accidents are caused not by people who pay $2.50 a drink in an establishment, but by people who drink beer and smoke pot, and then get into their cars and drive "bombed".

MacDonald asked that License Board secretary Theresa Gacica make a telephone survey of surrounding towns to find out how many 2 a.m. closings are being granted elsewhere.

The results will be discussed by board members at next week's meeting.

38th Anniversary Reunion Set

Crew Of 9th Wasp Petition For Nuclear 10th

By TOM HENSHAW

The USS Wasp, launched at the Fore River Shipyard 38 years ago and the ninth US Navy ship to bear that name, left a combat record second to none in the Pacific Theater during World War II.

Now, the surviving officers and crew of the fighting carrier are petitioning the Navy and the Congress to name the next nuclear-powered carrier the USS Wasp the 10th.

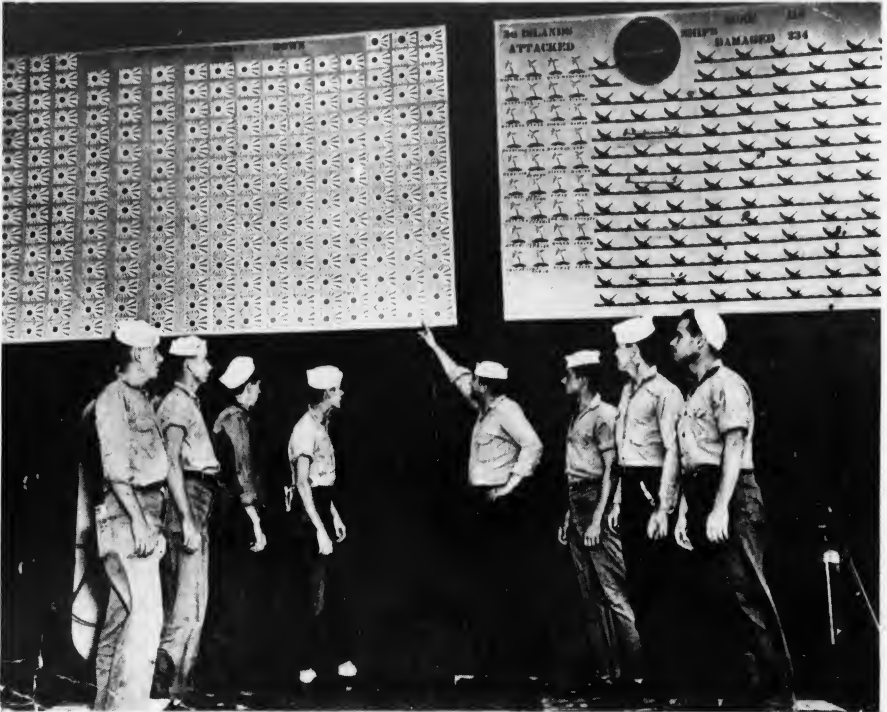

Veterans of the war aboard the Wasp will hold their 38th anniversary reunion Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9, in Cape May, N.J., and they are readying the petition for presentation at that time.

New England Co-Chairman Allyn (Flash) Gordon of Milton is spearheading the local drive.

The ninth Wasp was launched at what was then Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Quincy Shipyard on Aug. 17, 1943, commissioned on Nov. 24 and reached combat in the Central Pacific in May, 1944.

From that time until the end of the war in August, 1945, her airmen accounted for 230 Japanese planes; her guns brought down 16 more and 411 enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground.

In addition she was credited with sinking 52 enemy ships

WASP CREWMEMBERS point to World War II scoreboard that shows 230 Japanese planes shot down, 36 islands attacked, 114 ships sunk and 234 more damaged by the guns and planes of the fighting carrier. Picture was taken in 1946 while the Wasp was in Boston for refitting.

and damaging 305. Her record earned her the nickname, the "Stinger".

Wasp was decommissioned and struck July 1, 1972. Honorary Reunion Chairman John A. Roosevelt was scheduled to present the petition asking for a 10th Wasp to Navy officials at the Cape May reunion. He died Monday in New York.

New QCH Visiting Hours

Quincy City Hospital director Michael Kitchen announces that visiting hours at the hospital are now 2 to 8 p.m.

The new hours went into effect April 21, and do not apply to patients in special units such as intensive care, pediatrics, maternity and nursery.

Purpose of the revision of hours was to standardize the schedule, and this will be the permanent arrangements.

Brownell Samples Prop 2½ Opinion

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell is amplifying the feelings of his constituents on Proposition 2½. A questionnaire went out yesterday (Wednesday) to a selected 200 voters in the Second Norfolk District asking them to recommend changes, if any, they would like to see in the controversial tax-cutting law.

Brownell said the results of the survey will be turned over to members of his Committee on Taxation and will serve as a guide to his vote on the issue of Prop 2½.

The questions, summarized, are these:

- Should the Legislature make changes in Prop 2½ as it was voted by the people? What changes would you support?
- Should services be cut as a result of Prop 2½? If so, which services should be cut?

- What is the proper method of funding local services: Property tax? Income tax? Sales tax? User charge?

- Should the state government limit its 1982 spending to the 1981 level and return the automatic increases in income to the cities and towns? If a state spending limit is set, in what categories of state services should savings be made?

- If the state increases local aid and more money is needed, where should it come from: Income taxes? Sales taxes? Local income taxes? User fees?

- Do you own your home or do you rent?

Deadline for return of the questionnaire is Friday, May 8.

Robert Gibbons, an aide to Brownell, said the 200 people surveyed were chosen at random from among those who voted in the 1978 and 1980 elections.

Heart Attack Tests At YMCA

A Health Style Coronary Risk Factor Analysis will be held at the Quincy YMCA Sunday, May 3, from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. by appointment only. The analysis evaluates a person's risk of having a heart attack.

A written report will be made up explaining the test results with personal recommendations for ways to reduce factors for heart attacks and stroke.

The program will be conducted by Health Style-Heart Attack Prevention Program, a division of Brigham/Beth Israel Medical Group, affiliated with Harvard Medical School.

For information or appointment, call Bill Johnson at the Quincy YMCA, 479-8500.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. One of the ancient streets in Quincy runs from Squantum to the Milton line and has two names. Where is the dividing line between East and West Squantum Sts.?

2. City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond has announced his candidacy for mayor of Quincy. What ward does Raymond represent on the City Council?

3. What well-known building is located at 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point?

4. Three members of the Quincy School Committee are elected every two years. How long is the term of a member of the Quincy School Committee?

5. Quincy's high school football teams play their home games at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Where do their baseball teams play their home games?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. John Barron is the newest member of the Quincy Planning Board.

2. Everett Sutermeister Square is the intersection of Beale St., Prospect Ave., and Taylor St. in Wollaston.

3. The Quincy Adams Yacht Yard was located on Town River off Palmer St. near the Adams Shore-Germantown line.

4. The initials MDC stand for Metropolitan District Commission.

5. The Morrisette Legion Post home is at 54 Miller St., West Quincy.

Jim Burke Fondly Remembered

Jim Burke may have been out of Congress for more than two years but his influence is still being felt by two of his proteges, Gerry Studs and Brian Donnelly.

"Jimmy Burke sort of adopted me when I got to Washington nine years ago," Studs told the South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast last week.

"I was young and impressionable and I used to get so upset at the outrages that go on hourly on the floor of the Congress. I couldn't believe the pompous old so-and-sos who were paying no attention to people like me who had those wonderful ideas on how to save the world."

"I'd be sitting there grinding my teeth and Jimmy would come padding up and say, 'The trouble with you is you think this place is on the level.'"

"You're wrong again, Gerry," said Donnelly, who succeeded Burke in the House in 1979. "Jimmy's statement was 'Brian, the problem with Washington is that these people think the whole thing is for real.'"

FORMER Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, Quincy's elder statesman, returned to his home on Dixwell Ave. Tuesday after spending Easter and his 79th birthday (April 15) in the hospital.

Burgin, who served as mayor from 1935 to 1942 and again from 1950-51, was confined to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston for three weeks.

"I was going to walk to Quincy I was so glad to be going home," he said. But, a friend showed up with a car to drive him home.

OLDEST MEMBER at the recent Quincy High School Alumni Basketball Association reunion was Ellie Hughes who played on the 1924 team. But you'd never know it to see him. He looks more like he belonged with the 1944 team.

ONE OF QUINCY'S all-time popular municipal figures, Ed Leone, will be honored at a friendship party Thursday, May 21 at the George F. Bryan VFW Post. Social, 7 p.m., dinner 8 p.m.

Ed retired April 1 as city engineer, closing out a dedicated 48-year career with the city.

Tickets ($15 each) for the party may be obtained from Betty Grady, Engineering Department; Greg Doyle or Helen Duffy, Public Works office.

YOU MIGHT SAY that Win Bettinson, of WJDA's radio family, has a WJDA family of his own: Win, Jean (his wife), Dana (son), Andrea (daughter). Win, one of the nicest guys you'll ever meet, was honored Monday night by the Granite City Grange who presented him with their fourth annual Community Service Award. A deserving tribute, indeed, to a man who is interested in and helps the Community. Congratulations, Win.

THE BEST SHOW in town is watching (safely, from the sidewalk) the steel workers scrambling up and around the girders on the Quincy Center Plaza under construction in downtown. They move around the 10-story structure as nonchalantly as you do your living room.

INCIDENTALLY, if you were paying attention, you might have noticed a bank vault going in on the street floor. That's where BayBank/Norfolk Trust is going. The building they are now in is to be demolished.

AND, while we are looking around downtown, Old Colony Trust is definitely going into the old Thom McAn store at Hancock and Granite Sts.

NQHS Student Praises Rep. Morrissey

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Recently I was chosen by my fellow students to represent them at the State House on Student Government Day. Student Government Day was a statewide event in which each high school sent a delegate to hold an actual state office. I was chosen to spend the day as a State Representative and fortunate enough to have had Rep. Michael W. Morrissey of Quincy as my counterpart.

On Student Government Day, I talked to many other students and was surprised to find that a great many of them had not met their counterparts. Representative Morrissey, on the other hand, had taken the time to send me a letter of congratulations for being chosen, and to invite me to the State House to familiarize myself with the duties and responsibilities of a state representative. My experience, as a result, was much more rewarding.

On behalf of the students at North Quincy High School, I would like to thank Representative Morrissey. It is comforting to know that during these troubled times we have a devoted, competent, and caring representative. Thank you.

Liked Henshaw's Interview

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Congratulations on the forthright article written by Tom Henshaw (April 16 edition) on the Thomas Crane Public Library and its money and mayoral problems. Mayor Tobin is definitely using the Library as a political football. His answers to all questions were evasive and meaningless. He just can't justify the almost 50¢ cut in staff with the city's Library budget of less than 2¢.

The importance of our Public Library cannot be overstated. Library service is of equal value with the need of Public Schooling to further effective education.

A 'Splendid Interview'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you for the splendid interview with Mayor Tobin. In a place where journalists usually retail the politicians' handouts and endorse them, it is refreshing to find one who is not afraid to ask questions, as your colleagues do in Washington. If we had more papers like yours, our cities and towns would not be in the present mess and Proposition 2½ might have been unnecessary.

Donnelly, Studds Assail Reagan Budget Proposals

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly and Gerry E. Studds, both Democrats, took turns assailing Republican President Ronald Reagan's first budget at a South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast last week.

Donnelly called the President's proposal to cut some federal budgets and increase others while at the same time giving across the board tax cuts "a giant economic roll of the dice."

Studds noted that even Vice President George Bush, back when he was running for President himself, called Reagan's proposals "voodoo economics."

Donnelly, who is a member of the House Budget Committee, said that when he asked Treasury Secretary Donald Regan during a hearing what would happen if the Reagan Economic program failed, Regan refused to answer.

"My final statement to him was, 'Isn't this in fact a giant economic roll of the dice?'" said Donnelly, "and he said, 'I suppose that is an accurate statement.'"

"I don't think we can afford to take the economic impact of what would happen. Maybe I'm on the safe side. I think it's about time that we went on the safe side in this nation."

Studds said that what Regan is suggesting "is not so much a reduction in federal spending as it is a reorientation of federal spending."

"In fact," he said, "the people who told us for years that the primary source of inflation was the federal deficit have now presented us with projected deficits substantially higher than previous ones."

"This is the gamble Brian is talking about. They gamble that in future years there will be some returns from these tax cuts generated by some mystical process that Bush called 'voodoo economics' when he was running for the top job."

Studds said Reagan's budget cuts "take tens of billions of dollars, and down the years hundreds of billions, out of human and social programs and into the military programs at home and abroad."

Donnelly criticized the Reagan administration for its refusal to make a commitment to alternative energy sources other than oil.

"We have to get to more coal conversion in terms of our power plants," he said, "so we can build more coal-carrying colliers at the Quincy shipyard."

"We still have to make a financial commitment in terms of weatherization. When we built these buildings that we are living in now we did a pretty poor job of weatherizing them."

"The Reagan program of immediate decontrol both in oil and projected in gas is going to drive the prices so high that people absolutely are going to conserve."

"The flip side is that some people don't have the resources to conserve."

"The government would make a good investment by helping them, either through a tax credit or an outlay, to put these weatherizing devices in their homes."

Studds recalled that "the President himself has stated on several occasions that conservation is silly. He says it means being cold in the winter and hot in the summer. That's nonsense."

"Unfortunately, his budget reflects that attitude. It cuts the daylight out of federal conservation programs and out of weatherization and out of research into alternative sources of energy."

"It is our dependence on oil that is debilitating. With all the talk in Washington about threats to national security, it is infinitely more threatened by our dependence on oil."

"That's how we get ourselves into these ridiculous situations in the Middle East. We're scared to death about our dependence on the oil coming from that region."

"We should do everything we can to break our dependence on foreign oil and that means conservation and a whole variety of alternative energy sources."

Tax Rate $50.80 Down $3 From 1952 Record High

N. Gorham Nickerson, chairman of the board of assessors, announced a $50.80 tax rate for 1953, down $3 from the all-time high of $53.80 in 1952.

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. said he had asked State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long to approve a rate of $49.80 but the request was refused.

"I consider it crass interference on the home rule of a community," said Deegan, "crass interference with their right to determine their own economic welfare."

Deegan said Long would not give the city credit for the anticipated receipt of $150,000 in excise taxes that were not collected because Long's office sent the bills out too late in the year.

GRANITE CUTTERS STRIKE

Some 300 Quincy granite cutters from 20 cutting yards went out on strike in support of their demands for a 10-cent hourly wage hike to $2.10 an hour. Management was offering a nickel.

Elmer Fagerlund, president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association, and Costanzo Pagnano, president of the Granite Cutters International Union, said stalling negotiations would resume in a day or so.

NORTH EDGES QUINCY

Bob Coolidge's fly ball fell safely in the Quincy outfield, scoring Bob Spooner from second with the winning run in the ninth inning as North Quincy edged Quincy 2-1 in baseball.

Al Elkhill pitched a seven-hitter for North Quincy and the Presidents' Henry Berry limited the Raiders to three hits before he was relieved in the eighth by Ralph Morrison.

PARKING PROBLEM

Welcome Wagon officials informed the Quincy Chamber of Commerce they were being told by newcomers to the city that the lack of adequate parking had discouraged shopping in the downtown area.

"I used to shop in Quincy but now I shop in Boston," said Mrs. Samuel Sandler of 279 West Squantum St. "I became disgusted with the parking situation. When it becomes easier to park in Quincy, I'll start shopping there again."

CURBINGS PROTESTED

Costanzo Pagnano, president of the Granite Cutters' Union, protested the use of concrete curbing instead of granite on Quincy streets, even though granite cost less than concrete.

"Quincy's economy was largely founded on the granite industry," he said, "and I do not think the city should set an example of substituting concrete for granite."

Stella Del Nord Donates Dialysis Machine To Hospital

Stella del Nord Ladies Lodge of the Sons of Italy, Quincy, recently held contract signing ceremonies for the purchase of a dialysis machine for Quincy City Hospital.

The lodge, under the direction of venerable Helen Testa, held fund raising drives over the past year and raised $7,525 for purchase of the machine.

On hand for the ceremonies at Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center were Michael D. Kitchen, QCH director, and Rocky Rocuzzo, assistant director, as well as Stella del Nord members.

Rocuzzo and Maureen Bisognano, RN, assistant director of nursing, were instrumental in coordinating the selection of the machine with QCH's professional staff and the preparation of the formal contract for the Ladies Lodge.

The new hemo-dialysis machine, which cleanses toxins from the blood, will be used for patients in the hospital's intensive care unit who experience kidney failure.

Previously, patients who required this therapy were transferred to other hospitals for treatment.

Patients requiring chronic dialysis on a long term out-patient basis will still have to be referred elsewhere.

The machine selected for QCH is one of the most sophisticated models available. It is designed to provide maximum safety and protection for the patient.

Engineered with minimal components for ease of maintenance, its sound levels are extremely low for unobtrusive operation. The purchase includes training of hospital personnel as well as 24 hour servicing.

WJDA Documentary Wins Second Award

WJDA has won a second major award for its documentary "A Bucket Full of Gold and Silk", on hockey player David Silk and his homecoming to Scituate after the Olympic games in February, 1980.

The program, which was written and produced by Roy A. Lind, was judged best by the Associate Press in the New England Small Station Enterprise Reporting Category in 1980 competition.

It won a similar award earlier this year in the United Press International Tom Phillips competition.

Lind will represent WJDA in accepting the award from the Associated Press at a dinner Friday, May 22, at the Marriott Hotel in Springfield.

Direct Deposit.

A helpful service that's very well received.

★★★★★★★★★★

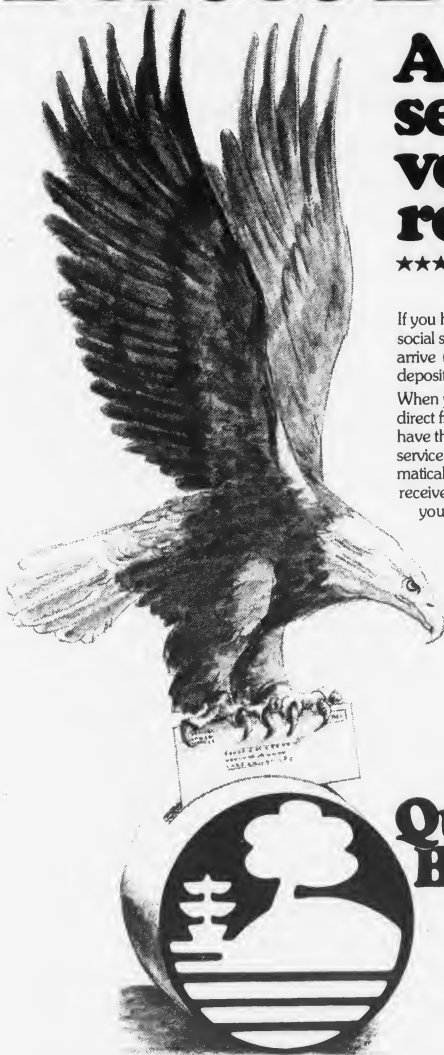

If you have better things to do than worry about when your social security check or other government check is going to arrive (or what you did with it), consider our direct deposit service.

When you authorize Quincy Savings to receive your check direct from the government, you know exactly when you'll have the money you're expecting. Because with direct deposit service, we credit your savings or REDI-NOW account automatically on the third of each month (whether we've actually received the check or not). So you can safely draw on your savings and/or pay some bills. We even offer a free REDI-NOW account if you're also 65 or older.

So if you receive social security, VA compensation, civil service retirement, pension or other government payroll checks, take advantage of direct deposit. It's safe, convenient and worry-free. Which is why direct deposit service is so well received.

For more information or an application call us at 471-3500, or visit our nearest office.

Ted DeCristofaro Candidate For Ward 2 Council Seat

Theodore P. DeCristofaro, 57, of 17 Murdock Ave., Quincy Point, chairman of the Ward 2 Civic Association, has announced his candidacy for the Ward 2 seat on the City Council.

The Council post is being vacated by Daniel G. Raymondi, who announced last week that he is passing up a bid for a fourth two-year term on the Council to run for mayor.

"The people of this ward need a councillor who is thoroughly familiar with Ward 2 and its problems," DeCristofaro told an organizational meeting of some 50 supporters.

"As an active member of several community organizations, I feel I am in a unique position to monitor the pulse of the ward and thus be able to express the views and concerns of its citizens more accurately."

DeCristofaro is the second candidate to announce for the Ward 2 seat. Joseph Cortese, a retired Quincy police detective, threw his hat in the ring two weeks ago.

In his announcement, DeCristofaro cited his "proven record of community achievement." He has been a member of the Park and Recreation Board for nine years and is currently its vice chairman.

He was a co-founder of the Ward 2 Civic Association 15 years ago and, as chairman, he successfully campaigned to close a number of bar rooms in the lower Quincy Point area.

"I have a great rapport with the merchants despite the closings," he said.

"I understand their need to make money and they understand my need to insure the people of this ward a safe and healthy environment in which to live."

With Proposition 2½, said DeCristofaro, "common sense, along with a knowledge of the legitimate needs of the citizens of this ward, are now more important than ever."

He is a life-long resident of Ward 2, a graduate of Quincy public schools and a Navy veteran of World War II. He is a member of the Morrisette Legion Post and the Quincy Amvets.

Active in the Sunday School Basketball League, he has won the Community Service Award presented jointly by St. Joseph's Church and the Quincy Point Congregational Church.

He is also a recipient of the Youth Service Award from the Quincy Point Congregational Church.

He is chairman of the Ward 2 Cancer Crusade, past president of the Quincy High School Basketball Club, a member of the Quincy City Club and an honorary deputy sheriff of Norfolk County.

DeCristofaro and his wife, the former Betty Petzoldt of Quincy Point, have five children.

Patricia Toland Seeks Council At-Large Seat

Mrs. Patricia M. Toland, 49, of 82 Cedar St., Wollaston, a member of the School Committee for the past six years, has announced her candidacy for an at-large seat on the City Council.

"My experience over the last six years has given me the opportunity to work extensively on the difficult and complex problems facing public education in Quincy," she said.

"I am now seeking the opportunity to apply that experience and the knowledge gained to a broader range of municipal issues which effect all our citizens.

"I intend to bring the same dedication and commitment to this effort that I feel has characterized my tenure on the School Committee."

Mrs. Toland is the second announced candidate for one of the three at-large posts on the Council.

Richard J. Koch Jr., who lost by a narrow margin in 1979, announced last month. Incumbents John J. Quinn and Joseph J. LaRaia have not yet announced. The third, Francis X. McCauley, is running for mayor.

Mrs. Toland was elected to the School Committee in 1975 in her first try for public office. She was re-elected in 1979, topping the ticket. She has two years to go on her current term.

She served as vice chairwoman of the committee during her first term and for the past two years she has been a member of the legislative committee of the Mass Association of School Committees.

She is also a member of the Mass Educational Conference Board and a director of the Board of Community College Association for the South Shore, which oversees Quincy Junior College.

Mrs. Toland is a member of the League of Women Voters in Quincy, the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Historical Society.

She is a graduate of Boston State College, did graduate work at Boston College and taught school in Randolph for 11 years.

She and her husband, John Toland Jr., have four children, John 16, Elizabeth 15, Gregory 12 and Brendan 8.

PSSB Honors 9 At 34th Annual Meeting

The Protestant Social Service Bureau marked 34 years of service to the South Shore with the presentation of its first life memberships and the awarding of honors to two volunteers.

The agency, located at 776 Hancock St., Quincy, held its 34th annual meeting recently at Winthrop Congregational Church, Holbrook.

Executive director Robert F. Taylor announced the agency's first Life Members. Those receiving special plaques and pins were: Curtis A. Chase, 213 Union St., Randolph, A. Wendell Clark, 74 Faxon Ln., Quincy, Louise B. Forsyth, 75 Monroe Rd., Quincy, Mary Marr McLennan, 129 Gaslight Dr., Weymouth, Rev. Gary Smothers, 28 Linfield St., Holbrook, H. Wallace Sylvester, 16-A Edison St., Quincy and Frederick D. Wohlander of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Each Life Member has contributed $1,000 or more to the agency's new Life Membership Fund which was established earlier this year as an endowment for new programs and services.

"With this fund," Taylor said, "the Bureau is looking to the future. In the coming years, we will have the resources to respond to community needs."

The agency, through its Life Membership Committee, is seeking 10 Life Members each year.

Special awards were presented to Mrs. Hannelte Wohlander, West Division St., Holbrook, and Vernon Caron, South Main St., Randolph. Named as the agency's 'Woman of the Year' and 'Man of the Year,' they were recognized for their volunteer services.

Both have been active with the Bureau's thrift shop at 776 Hancock St., Quincy. Caron helped establish the shop in 1975 and has served as manager. Mrs. Wohlander is coordinator of volunteers for the shop.

Caron is senior warden of Trinity Episcopal Church, Randolph and Mrs. Wohlander is a member of Holbrook's Winthrop Congregational Church.

The Rev. Ed Moyer of Randolph was re-elected president for the coming year.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau provides family counseling and adoption services for communities on the South Shore.

Music will be by Cynthia Elaine Miles of Sharon, an operatic, concert and musical comedy soprano, who studied at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Russell O. Barritt is Quincy area chairman while Alfred M. Toy, Erik A. Gustafson and Robert W. Gardner are in charge of tickets in Quincy.

James J. Galvin of Braintree is general chairman, assisted by area chairmen James T. Sisson in Braintree, James F. Eddy in Milton and Richard S. Fish in Weymouth.

Dr. STEPHEN NEASE

General ticket chairmen are

Donald G. Porter of Braintree and William R. White of Weymouth, aided by Vernon G. Graves in Braintree, Robert E. Foster in Milton and Stephen E. Bergfors in

CYNTHIA MILES

Weymouth.

Special arrangements are being handled by Russell F. Johnson, John G. Whyte and Philip W. Henley; music by Leslie M. Brierly and John W. Hill; publicity by David B. MacIntosh.

Nickerson Post Members Attend Squantum Church Morning Service

Thirty-five officers and members of the Nickerson Legion Post attended the service Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum.

John Pazyra, post commander, and Representative Michael Morrissey were among those attending.

The service, which began with posting of the colors by legion members, included patriotic hymns, reading of the names of deceased members by Richard Hendry, post chaplain, and a special memorial prayer by Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, church pastor.

The Chancel Choir sang "Love Is Come Again", an Easter carol set to an old French tune by Parker-Shaw.

Dr. Langevin preached on, "What Are Your Priorities?", the second sermon in a series on Christ's resurrection.

Renee Johnson and Adelaide

Nelson were greeters for the morning.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Walter, Claudia Young and Peggy Bryan.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Herbert, Bosworth Honored Over 300 Attend Women Workshops

"Excellent" is the word used by Deborah Ormon, chairperson of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, to describe the fifth annual Woman to Woman Day held Saturday at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

Over 300 women of all ages attended the workshops on stress, health rights, exercise, nutrition and banking.

At the social that followed at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, John Herbert, president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank, and Henry Bosworth, editor and publisher of The Quincy Sun, were presented awards for their help in supporting and covering women's programs.

The day's programs were sponsored by the Mayor's Commission, Quincy Junior College Women's Center and The Quincy Cooperative Bank.

"We attempted to concentrate on woman's total health - physical, mental and financial", said Mrs. Ormon, "and I think our effort was mightily appreciated".

Over 110 women attended the program on stress led by Alma Dell Smith, clinical psychologist.

Almost as many women listened to Doris Morford, Donald Gohl and Deborah Zawlich, Quincy Cooperative Bank staff members, discuss money and how to do more with what you have.

Any woman interested in joining the Mayor's Commission and helping to plan future programs can call Mrs. Ormon at 471-2400.

Norma Swenson, in her keynote address and in her program with Attorney Joan Rachin urged women to take more of a role in their personal health care.

"No doctor is worth retaining if he/she is not constantly aware of his/her patient's feelings and legal informational needs," she stated.

Miss Swenson went on to mention that constant vigilance is necessary to retain the medical rights we have and those we should have.

Alternative nutrition and exercise engrossed many women who felt the need to get more ideas for eating better, and differently. Stretching to disco music had many finding muscles they had forgotten about and several tried "pumping iron".

AWARDS were presented to John R. Herbert (left) president of Quincy Cooperative Bank, and Henry Bosworth, publisher and editor of The Quincy Sun, at the conclusion of Woman to Woman Day activities Saturday. Herbert and Bosworth were cited for their support and coverage of women's programs. From left, are Herbert, Harriet Goldman, co-chairwoman of Woman to Woman Day, Deborah Ormon, chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women which co-sponsored the day's events; Bosworth, and State Senator Paul D. Harold.

Q. MY HOUSE DEVELOPED SMALL BLISTERS ALL OVER JUST AFTER I PAINTED IT ON A RECENT HOT DAY. WHY?

A. Try not to paint in the direct sunlight on very hot humid summer days. Most likely you have a heat blistering condition. Dark colors are more prone to this as they absorb more heat but it can happen with any color. For expert solutions to all your painting problems be sure to see the "problem solvers" at Hancock Paint.

GEORGE D. HINES with citation for saving boy's life.

George Hines Cited In Rescue Of Boy

George D. Hines of Colby Rd., North Quincy, a splicing technician for the New England Telephone Co., has been cited for giving life-saving cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to a small boy rescued from Quincy Bay.

He was presented a framed certificate by Thomas G. Norris, vice president of New England Telephone, and Thomas Clark, general manager, at ceremonies in the company's Boston headquarters.

Hines was attending an outing at the Squantum Yacht Club when the boy was taken from the water after floating face down for at least 10 minutes. He had no pulse.

Hines took charge of resuscitation efforts and, along with two other men, performed CPR on the boy until a rescue team arrived. The youngster was revived after 30 minutes.

Hines has been employed by the telephone company for 28 years.

Wilkinson Hurls 3-Hitter

QJC Blanks North Shore

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team continues to receive outstanding pitching and last week blanked North Shore Community College, 7-0, behind the three-hit pitching of former North Quincy High and Morrisette Legion hurler John Wilkinson. He struck out three and walked three. The win improved the Jaguars' record to 2-1.

Previously Bob Thomas and Jack Connolly had turned in excellent pitching performances.

The QJC defense was outstanding behind Wilkinson and two double plays snuffed out North Shore threats. Eric Carrera tagged out a runner and threw out the batter for one of the double plays and shortstop Joe Argento started the other.

Argento, who made several fine plays, also tripled home a run and catcher Steve Book continued to hit safely in every game.

QJC scored two runs in the third inning on two walks, a sacrifice and an error. Coach Dave Burke's club added three in the fourth on a Wilkinson single and stolen base, walks to Argento and Cook and John Connolly's single.

QJC added single runs in the fifth and sixth, Argento driving in John Newcomb, and Jim O'Leary leading off the sixth with a triple and scoring on Carrera's infield out.

QJC's schedule has been revised due to several postponements. The Jaguars went to Bristol Tuesday and Bunker Hill Community College yesterday (Wednesday). They will host Bristol Friday at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field. Monday they will be at North Shore and Tuesday will be home to Wentworth at 4 at O'Rourke.

Burke is without two players, Brian Condon suffering from water on the knee and Mike McCormack from a foot injury.

"We are going to miss them both, and we are left with only eleven able players," said Burke. "We will have to play it by ear."

North Bows In Final Inning

The North Quincy baseball team, for the second game in a row, led going into the last inning Monday but dropped a 5-4 decision to Waltham.

The Raiders will host Newton North Friay at 3:30 p.m. at Adams Field, will play at Cambridge Monday at 3:30 and next Wednesday will face Quincy under the lights at 7:30 at Adams.

Trailing, 3-0, Monday, North went ahead, 4-3, only to have Waltham score twice in the seventh inning to pull out the victory.

Bob Bolster pitched another excellent game for the Raiders despite the loss and also drove in two runs with a key double.

Mark Millane had a run scoring single and Steve Belcastro had three hits for the second straight game.

Last week North led Brockton, 4-1, going into the last inning but the boxers scored three times in the seventh, then scored in the eighth inning to win, 5-4.

QUINCY'S BRIAN DJURF was a top reserve for the Curry College basketball team and saw action in all but one of the varsity games. The 6-2 junior guard scored 41 points and pulled down 32 rebounds for the Colonels.

TOM HANNON of North Quincy, a freshman forward, was a member of this year's Curry College hockey team. He had two goals and six assists.

Quincy's Power Fizzles, Drop 2

Quincy's baseball team continues to get good pitching but a lack of hitting cost the Presidents two games during the past week to drop their record to 2-3.

Monday Quincy dropped a 3-2 decision to Cambridge Rindge and Latin at Cambridge.

Last week the Presidents were held to three hits and 10 batters struck out as they lost to Weymouth North, 4-2.

Quincy's two runs off Rich Lockhead came on a run-scoring single by Mike Abboud and an error.

Quincy is idle Friday. Monday it will play at Brookline at 3:30. The Presidents will face North Quincy Wednesday night under the lights at 7:30 at Adams Field.

Police Rally Falls Short, 17-15

The Quincy Police softball team rallied for six runs in the ninth inning but fell to Waltham, 17-15, Sunday.

Quincy will play at Brookline next Sunday. There will be a $1 admission charge which will be used for the courtside foundation, which benefits the homeless and unemployed.

Waltham broke away to a quick 4-0 lead after two innings, but Quincy's Chico Caporale drove home two runs with a third inning single and Tom Malvesti's double drove in two more.

Waltham scored three runs in the fifth but Quincy again came back with four runs in the bottom of the inning on run-scoring hits by Caporale, Jim Bugle and Boog Manning.

Waltham won it with an eight-run surge in the seventh inning on seven hits and four Quincy errors.

Trailing, 17-9, in the bottom of the ninth, Quincy scored six runs as Ed Kusser, Buddy Moon and Joe Mannix drove in two runs apiece. The rally ended with Frank Rockefeller was thrown out at the plate.

Quincy, which finished third in the police state tournament last year, is favored to win the Suburban Division of the E. Mass. League this season.

"Defense is usually our strong point, but errors lost the Waltham game," said manager Caporale.

He had praise for Ron O'Donnell, who made an outstanding catch, crashing into the fence to rob the Waltham batter of a home run.

Babe Ruth Tryouts

Tryouts for Quincy's Senior Babe Ruth League team will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. Bishop Field, Montclair, and Sunday at 3 o'clock at Fore River Field.

Any Quincy resident 16, 17 or 18 years of age is eligible if born before Aug. 1, 1965.

Further information can be obtained by calling 773-1078.

Lawn Bowling Club Opens Saturday

The Quincy Lawn Bowling Green Club will open its 48th season Saturday at Pageant Field. The opening ceremonies will start at 1 o'clock and Mayor Tobin will roll the first ball. A game will be played in the afternoon and anyone interested in lawn bowling is invited to attend.

80 In Houghs Neck Road Race

Eighty Houghs Neck residents ranging in age from two years to over 30 took part in last Sunday's annual road race sponsored by Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Female winners were Lauren Keith in the one-to-8 year old class; Kerri Magee, nine to 14; Kristine Picarski, 15 to 25, and Joanne Dondero, over 30.

The winners for boys and men were Peter Ryan, one to 8; Mark Bishop, 9 to 14; Vinnie Servaes, 15 to 19; Randel Crombie, 20-29, and Bob Tilley, 30 and over.

The youngest runners were Tommy Vecchione, 2, and Sarah Mortimer, 4.

The races started at the post home on Sea Street. For those over 15 the route was Sea St. to Island Ave., over the top of Great Hill and return to the post home. The younger runners raced to the Great Hill School and back.

Comdr. John Christensen and Post Athletic Director John Duffy were in charge of the races and presented trophies to the winners.

Koch Baseball, Softball

The Koch Club boys baseball and girls softball leagues, one of the oldest privately sponsored recreational programs on the South Shore, will officially open its 31st season of activity on Monday evening, May 4 at the North Quincy, Broad Meadows, Montclair and West Quincy Districts of the City.

The North Quincy District will conduct its girls softball program on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 6 at the Atlantic Junior High School Field on Hollis Avenue and girls 7 thru 13 years are eligible. The Cadet Division, boys 5 and 6 years will also meet at the same location.

The Junior Division, 7 and 8 years old, will play at Cavanagh Stadium, Birch Street, on every Monday and Wednesday evening at 6 while the Intermediate boys, ages 9 thru 11 years will play on Tuesday and Thursdays at 6 p.m.

The Broad Meadows District will conduct its entire program every Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 6 starting May 5 at Broad Meadows Junior High School Field, 50 Calvin road, Adams Shore.

Boys, five years and older and girls, seven and up, are invited to register and participate.

The Montclair District will begin its season on Monday, May 4, at Bishop Field, Holbrook Road, Montclair, and registrations will continue Monday thru Thursday at the playground site starting at 6 p.m.

Boys and girls in the Wollaston and Montclair sections are invited to join and participate with girls 7 thru 13 eligible for softball and boys 5 thru 11 welcome in the baseball program.

The West Quincy District has a full compliment of boys and girls and will begin its season on Monday, May 4, at 6 p.m. at O'Rourke Playground on Quarry Street.

West Quincy boys and girls not registered may join and participate in the Montclair District.

Although organized in four geographical locations of the city, any boy or girl residing in any section is welcome to enroll and participate.

There are no tryouts in the Koch Club Recreational Programs and everyone that is registered will actively participate.

A Flag Day Parade will also be sponsored by the organization on Monday, June 15 with all Quincy youths invited to participate and the 34th Annual family picnic of the Koch Club will be held on Sunday, June 28, at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park.

Bishops Lose In Red Carpet Finals

The 1980 champion Bishops, comprising a number of Abp. Williams High players, again reached the finals of the recent 7th Red Carpet Midget hockey tournament at Pilgrim Arena in Hingham before bowing to the Northeast Chessmen, 5-4.

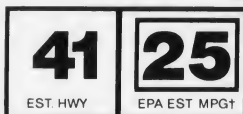

Included on the Bishop's roster were two Quincy players, Kevin Craig of Quincy High and Kevin Chase of Abp. Williams.

'Run For Your Life' Road Race To Aid Long Island Hospital

The third annual "Run For Your Life" road race will be held Sunday, May 3, over a new and longer course and for the benefit of a new hospital.

The race will start at 12 noon in front of the Chapel at Long Island Hospital and continue for 6.2 miles across the bridge to Moon Island to Squantum and through North Quincy to Cavanaugh Field.

Proceeds from registration fees and pledges will go toward the purchase of heart-related equipment for the Long Island Hospital.

The first two "Runs for Your Life" covered a five-mile course starting at the Vo-Tech School, down Adams St. and Newport Ave. to North Quincy and back via Hancock St. and Southern Artery.

Proceeds from those races went to Quincy City Hospital.

The past two years, "Run for Your Life" funds have helped City Hospital to purchase three patient cardiac monitors, a fetal heart monitor and a Life Pak 6 resuscitator.

New management has taken over at City Hospital and, says Joanne Condon, a member of the "Run for Your Life" committee,

"we don't want to conflict with their fund-raising efforts."

This year for the first time a portion of the proceeds will go to start a scholarship fund for a nursing student at Quincy Junior College.

Registration for the race, which is limited to 500 contestants, will take place between 10 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. Sunday at the Atlantic Junior High School on Hollis Ave.

Buses will leave from Atlantic Junior High School to take the runners to the starting line on Long Island. No alternative means of transportation will be allowed on the island.

The overall winner of the race will receive a trophy and other awards will go to the first three men and the first three women the age groups, 18 and under, 19 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 to 59 and 60 and over.

All finishers will receive "Run for Your Life" T-shirts.

In addition, the runner who has the highest amount pledged to him will receive the grand prize of a weekend for two at the Red Jacket in Falmouth.

The awards ceremonies will follow the race immediately in the Atlantic Junior High School.

Robert Thorne of Quincy, the winner of the first two races, is expected back as is James Capezuto, who finished second last year and won the Quincy Marathon last September.

Sen. Paul D. Harold, City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath and Richard J. Koch, Jr., who is a candidate for the City Council, are among the politicians who will be at the starting line.

Councillor Francis X. McCauley, who is a candidate for mayor, is expected to join those who will walk the route.

Members of the "Run for Your Life" committee include Joanne Condon, Louise Brabazon, Rhonda Merrill, Patricia Yovino, Ronald Tierney, Thomas Nutley, Brian Devin, Stephen McGrath, Richard Meade.

DAVID FAHEY

David Fahey Gym Federation Winner

David Fahey of Wollaston recently won the United States Gymnastics Federation Class III boys 13 to 15 Junior Olympics State Championship in Amherst.

Fahey, 13, was representing the David Ellis Gymnastic Club of Briantree. He scored first all around with a score of 50.70 and received a bronze medal for his efforts.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fahey of Wollaston, he is an eighth grader at Central Junior High School.

City Gym Hockey Tourney Underway

The Quincy Recreation Department All-City Gym Hockey championship tourney is underway, with 10 teams playing five games in the first round of tournament play.

In the first game of the single elimination tournament, Merrymount jumped to a 3-1 lead over Parker in the first period on goals by Mark Carreualle, Eric Seamons and Chris Holland. Bob Silva had Parker's goal. The second period saw Chris Holland add to Merrymount's lead by scoring his second goal. Parker's Mathew Edmonds and John Mooney scored in the third to close the gap, but Eric Seamons netted his second goal of the day to make the final score 5-3.

Atlantic Center, playing in its home gym, scored three quick goals and never looked back as they eventually beat Wollaston, 6-3. Don Green of Atlantic scored three of his team's goals, with two coming in the first period and one in the second. Rod Hubert scored in the first period for Atlantic, while Peter Tuffs scored Wollaston's first goal. Don Green of Atlantic scored, while Martin Feeney answered for Wollaston. The final period saw Mark Feeney put up Atlantic's final tally, while Mike Stanton and Brian Callo finished off a balanced attack for Atlantic.

Game three saw Snug Harbor take a commanding 4-0 lead enroute to its 5-1 victory over Lincoln Hancock. John Burke, George Reese and Mark Hanley scored for Snug before Craig Bowlen scored Lincoln Hancock's sole goal. Snug's Billy Burkehead had the final tally for Snug Harbor.

Game four between Squantum and Beechwood Knoll proved to be the game of the day from the spectators' point of view. In a game that saw 14 goals, Beechwood Knoll outlasted Squantum, 8-6, in a game that was tied 3-3 at the end of two periods. Adam MacGregor proved to be the big gun for Beechwood Knoll with four goals, while teammates Mike McGowan and Paul Murphy each scored two. Squantum on the other hand saw scoring from a variety of players as Bob Dolan, Steve Wysocki, Bill Newton, Mike McCormick, Paul Merrill and Steve Young each had one goal.

Quincy Center combined a high powered offense with a stingy defense to oust Central, 7-0. Nick Cangelml scored two to start Quincy on its road to victory. Tom Tegen matched his output of two goals, while Wally Callahan, Steve Wildes and Mike Benson had single goals.

The tournament teams are made up of participants from the Quincy Recreation Department's winter recreational centers. Over 160 elementary age boys are expected to participate in this year's playoffs. This tournament is the concluding event of the department's 24-week winter gymnasium program conducted at 17 locations around the city.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

IF OVERCOME BY GAS

Over 1,500 people a year are accidentally killed by poisoning from gas or vapors. Of these, over two thirds occur in or around the home. If you do find someone overcome by gas, in all cases, first remove the victim from the contaminated area into the fresh air. If this is not possible, open all doors and windows and shut off the poisonous gas at the source. Immediately give artificial respiration and call a doctor.

The gas most often causing asphyxiation is carbon monoxide, a colorless, odorless by-product of incomplete combustion in any material such as coal, wood, gas, paper or charcoal. This gas is usually produced in the home because of faulty heating equipment. However, other gases capable of asphyxiation are: manufactured gases leaking from appliances, and fumes from chemicals such as carbon tetrachloride (cleaning fluid) when used with little or no ventilation.

North Girls Down Weymouth S. For 2nd Win

The North Quincy girls' track team rolled to its second straight impressive win, a 75-43 Suburban League decision over Weymouth South.

The North girls, who finished third last Saturday in the State Coaches Relays with 46 points, met Waltham Tuesday and will be at Brockton Friday at 3:15. They will be at Brookline next Tuesday at 3:15.

Deirdre Donovan, Mary Kate Kennedy and Michelle Millane were double winners as the North girls won 12 of the 14 events. Weymouth's only wins came in low hurdles and the 440 relay.

Donovan won the 220 in 26.9 and the long jump at 16-7. Kennedy won the 100 in 12.0 and the 440 in 60.2 and Millane won the discus at 132-7, breaking her own school record, and the javelin at 99-1.

Other winners for North were Nancy McCarthy, 880 (2:24.4); Mary Crehan, mile (5:39); Sheila Barrett, two-mile (11:29.6), breaking Robyn O'Donnell's school record; Caryn Smith, shot put (30-7); Kara Crehan, high jump (5-2) and the mile relay team.

Taking seconds were Linda Kennedy, mile, and Smith, discus, and placing third were Kathy McCarthy, 100; Karen Lindenfelzer, 440 and discus;

Mary Ellen Timmons, 880; O'Donnell, mile; Deirdre Corrigan, two-mile and low hurdles; Mary Kate Kennedy, long jump, and Lisa Cavanaugh, javelin.

"This was a real team effort, as Weymouth South has a good team," Coach Lou Tozzi said. "Seventeen of our girls turned in their best performances in the meet."

The Raiderettes finished behind Methuen (60 points) and Falmouth (50) in last Saturday's coaches' relays.

North won four events with Lindenfelzer, Gannon, Corrigan and Linda Kennedy winning the distance medley relay; Lindenfelzer, Donovan, Nancy McCarthy and Mary Kate Kennedy taking the mile relay; Kathy McCarthy, Smith and Millane winning the shot put and Smith, Lindenfelzer and Millane copping the discus.

Hadcock has been a member of the Boston Symphony and Boston Pops Orchestra since 1965. A graduate of the Eastman School of Music, he was principal clarinetist with the Buffalo Philharmonic.

A teacher at the New England
Conservatory, he has given master classes throughout the U.S. and the People's Republic of China. He is also conducting classes for the Bell Telephone Great Orchestra

PETER HADCOCK and GWINDALE CASSIDY

Series and is writing a book on the E-flat clarinet.

Miss Cassidy has been a soloist with the Boston Pops and the Wichita Symphony Orchestra. A graduate of Boston University, she has won numerous competitions and fellowships including a Fullbright Scholarship. Two of her records are to release soon.

Hadcock and Miss Cassidy have given numerous recitals together throughout New England and New York.

WEEK OF APRIL 30, 1981

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
The pressure is on, but don't panic into making any personal decisions. You tend to be generous to a fault now, think again before spending out of proportion.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
This period is off to a dull start and you feel like chairman of the board. Until Saturday - when life becomes lively and new hobby leads to new interests... and then to new people.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Loved one's unpredictable moods may force you to clear the air by weekend. Leftover chores can be tackled with surprising ease. Financial perceptions are unusually sharp.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Last week's hard work pays major dividends, and you're high on employer's popularity list. Socially, timing is perfection - you're at the right places at the ideal times.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Be less impulsive in shopping, especially through the weekend and especially on "wholesale" items. Friends can be difficult but co-workers are surprisingly cooperative.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Relationships sweeten and you and loved one are on same emotional plane. Intellectual activities are interesting and profitable. Healthwise, promptly tend to any aches or pains.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Friendly and courageous, you may have to take a controversial stand on behalf of an unpopular colleague or neighbor. Bright note of the week is a definite financial upturn.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Family matters demand more consideration till Monday. Doubts over friend's loyalties are put to rest. Check tendency to overbook social calendar.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
You're still asked to tackle mammoth jobs, speak up if you feel that this is turning into a way of life. More imagination, less talk can help you out of emotional bind.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Nip the problem in the bud before family feuding becomes unnecessarily dramatic. In finance, the sooner you face facts head on, the sooner your situation is likely to improve.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Your optimistic outlook helps a friend rope with a major dilemma. With relatives, avoid tricky topics unless you have every conceivable fact at your fingertips.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Financial paperwork still takes lots of time. Friends may make a major announcement. Travel and moves favored, the former offering more fun than anticipated.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You've a knack for bringing out the best in others. Learn to accept criticism more willingly and others can bring out the very best in you. Major creative accomplishments can be realized by end of 1981.

BORN THIS WEEK
April 30th, singer Willie Nelson. May 1st, actor Glenn Ford, 2nd, singer Engelbert Humperdinck. 3rd, songwriter Betty Comden. 4th, actress Audrey Hepburn. 5th, singer Tammy Wynette. 6th, actor Stewart Granger.

No. 79F-3042-CT
Notice of Fiduciary's Account

To AGOSTINO ROSATI of Quincy, in said County, a person under conservatorship and to his heirs apparent or presumptive and to the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 72 that the 1st and final account of the temporary Co-Conservators SUSAN H. ENGLISH and JAMES F. REYNOLDS, JR. and the 1st and final account of the temporary Conservator GASPER ROSATI as (the fiduciary) of the property of said ward have been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said accounts, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the thirtieth day of May, 1981, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said accounts. If you desire to object to any item of said accounts, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirtieth day of March, 1981.

THOMAS PATRICK HUGHES, Register.

Landscape Construction

We have the experienced personnel and proper equipment for a concept-to-completion landscape project. We know what we are doing and we do it well. Included in our work are patios, walls and terraces... brick work and pool decks. Of course, estimates are always offered before we begin any project.

Maintenance

Because horticultural beauty is more than just planting and watering, O'Connell Gardens provides a seasonal staff of technicians who will maintain your yard in an attractive manner. Call us to get an idea of what professional lawn-cutting, trimming and fertilizing will cost. The convenience and results are worth the investment.

City Value To Hit $1.5 B, Higher Tax Bills Likely

Chief Assessor John P. Comer says that the 100 per cent revaluation project now in progress probably will produce a total valuation of $1.5 billion for the city of Quincy.

Since the city is now undervalued at about $270 million and the state figures the value at $1.1 billion, this is likely to produce higher tax bills for property owners next year.

"With Proposition 2½ and all the layoffs and cuts in service it's going to boggle some people's minds to find that their tax bills are going up," said Comer.

"That's why I say it may be a long, hot summer."

The court-ordered revaluation now being conducted by the firm of P.R.C. Jacobs of McLean, Va. is expected to be finished later this month. Then homeowners will have two months to appeal their figures.

Comer said the final figures on which the city will base its tax rate will be in about September.

The chief assessor cautioned concerned homeowners, particularly the elderly, the widowed and the handicapped, that "no one in Quincy is going to be put out of his or her home because of taxes."

Those homeowners were upset this week following reports that they would lose their abatements or exemptions if the value of their homes is more than $20,000, as it most certainly will.

Single family residences currently are assessed at an average of about 18 per cent of full valuation. Thus a house now valued at $10,000 would wind up in the $50,000 range.

Right now, the elderly, those over 70, with incomes of less than $7,000 if married and $6,000 if not, are entitled to an exemption of either $500 in taxes or $4,000 in value, whichever is larger.

In calculating property tax bills, they are allowed to exercise two options.

One excludes the value of the home and sets limits on the whole estate at no more than $17,000 if single and $20,000 if married. This option is used if the home has a high value.

The second option includes the value of the entire estate, including the home, and sets limits of now more than $40,000 if single and $45,000 if married.

Thus an elderly person who's home is jumped in value from $10,000 to $50,000 would still be entitled to an exemption under option one.

Widows and minor children are entitled to exemptions of $2,000 in value or $175 in taxes if the value of the home does not exceed $20,000; they have no option one to choose.

A bill that was reported favorable out of the Committee on Taxation on April 22 would extend the option of excluding value of real estate from the whole estate to widows and minor children.

"Similar bills have been in the legislature before," said Comer, "and they have always been defeated. But one is likely to pass eventually, possibly this year."

After Reikard Layoff Rent Control In City's Future?

By TOM HENSHAW

The spectre of rent control in Quincy's future was dangled before the City Council Monday night as it learned that Jane Reikard is being laid off as executive director of the Rent Grievance Board effective tomorrow (Friday).

The Council reluctantly appropriated $1,493.90 to pay Mrs. Reikard five weeks' back salary plus vacation time, then delegated Council President Leo J. Kelly to sit down with Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and see if there was some way in which Mrs. Reikard could be retained.

The departure of Mrs. Reikard, who is the only member of the board's staff, will render the board all but useless, since its unpaid members have other jobs and meet only one night a month.

The board has only six members, although there are provisions for as many as 12.

The members are Elenda Lipsitz, chairwoman, Kenneth Scarry, Mary Gethin, Thelma Rogers, Harold Page and Mrs. Reikard, who is an appointed member of the board as well as executive director.

Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. noted that the Rent Grievance Board, which at best has little more than the power of persuasion, was established a few years ago as an alternative to a rent control ordinance.

"Rent control has a great deal of drawbacks for a growing, vibrant city," said Lydon. "The Rent Grievance Board, under Mrs. Reikard, has done a lot to bring under control those bad landlords."

"If we have a vacuum in that office then we will be leaving ourselves open to cries for rent control and that would be an unhealthy thing for this city when we have before used so many proposals for condominium conversion."

Councillor Joanne Condon noted that Mrs. Reikard's $5,795 a year job was already budgeted for fiscal 1982 and that the amount appropriated Monday night would have paid her until the end of the current fiscal year.

"Would the mayor please clarify who is going to perform these services for the balance of this year?" she asked. "What do we do when tenants and landlords call and who do we refer them to?"

Mrs. Reikard said that on slow days she gets about 10 phone calls and "when the rent increases go through I get more than 50 and the telephone is still ringing when I leave for home."

"I get a tremendous number of calls from tenants with legitimate problems," said Councillor James A. Sheets, "and Mrs. Reikard has more than adequately resolved every single problem I've given her. That's a service the tenants in this city need."

"The service that Mrs. Reikard gives this city is far in excess of the money she gets. I have to assume there is some sort of misunderstanding involved here and I urge that Councillor Kelly meet with the mayor to see if something can be worked out."

Mrs. Reikard said she plans to do a few personal things that she has had to put off in the past and then she'll scout around for a job. "Strangely enough," she said, "I've had a few offers from some of the landlords I've dealt with in the past. I suppose they figure if I did a good job for the city I would do a good job for them."

"But I'd like to see the job stay. I've heard of people sleeping in cars and doubling up in apartments. Everyone is looking for space. It's a pathetic situation. Where do they go now to air their grievances?"

Firefighters To Vote On Pact To Save 10 Jobs

Firefighters will have another chance to vote Saturday on an agreement worked out between their union and Mayor Arthur H. Tobin that would save the jobs of 10 firefighters who were laid off last month.

The vote was supposed to have been taken last Saturday but, said Union President George Lamb, the firefighters decided that action then would be hasty and they wanted a chance to study the agreement.

The voting will take place at 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse in Quincy Point. Lamb said he is optimistic about getting a favorable vote on the agreement.

"I'm happy with it," he said.

"The union officers and our attorney have recommended a favorable vote, but you never know."

Details of the agreement have not been announced but it is believed to involve an exchange of some union benefits in return for the restoration of the 10 jobs that were lost under Proposition 2½.

Meeting Called On Ames St. Burglaries

Residents of the Ames St. area of West Quincy have set up a meeting Thursday, May 7, at 7 p.m. in the conference room at City Hall to see what can be done about a rash of burglaries in the neighborhood.

"In the past three weeks," said the notice of the meeting, "we have had three burglaries in our immediate neighborhood. Two of these occurred four houses apart on Ames St. The other was on Malden St."

"Each of us is very vulnerable."

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, City Councillor James A. Sheets and Mrs. Grace Kelly of Ames St. have been instrumental in setting up the City Hall meeting.

A member of the Police Department will be on hand to explain

Operation Identification and representatives of a burglar alarm firm will talk about the function of alarms.

The notice of the meeting recalled that the neighborhood went through a similar series of housebreaks a dozen years ago.

"It started with cars being stolen from driveways, etc., and progressed to housebreaks," it said. "The same pattern is again in progress."

"We stopped the activity 12 years ago with vigilance. Perhaps we can again."

Tobin In Washington

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was in Washington for two days (Monday and Tuesday) this week on one of his scouting expeditions for federal money to finance projects in the city.

"I wanted to see for myself how Reagan's cuts in federal programs are going to affect the city," he said.

Tobin was interviewed over the weekend by ABC-TV out of New York, which is compiling a show for later release on Proposition 2½ and its effects on the older cities.

As Best Defense

Loyalty Day Speaker Urges 'Prepare For War'

Lt. Cmdr. Arthur G. McLean (USN, Ret.) has urged Americans to "carry out the intent of George Washington when he told us 200 years ago, 'In time of peace, prepare for war.'"

McLean, a member of the Bryan VFW Post, was the main speaker at Loyalty Day exercises Sunday. "We are beginning to slowly become aware that the United States is no longer the undisputed No. 1 world power," he said.

"The Russian bear is showing his land, sea and air power in many areas of the world and particularly near the important strategic sea lanes of the world."

He urged his listeners not to heed those who would raise the "big hue and cry... Reduce defense spending... Do away with selective service... Keep reducing the strength of our Armed Forces."

"Due to the failure to maintain proper cost of living increases and the lack of incentive pay," he said, "we have seen so many of our very best, highly trained technical personnel leaving our armed forces to take much more highly paid civilian employment."

"Americans are not military-minded people. They have never desired large standing armies, fleets and air forces. However, history has consistently shown that in all our wars we were never prepared."

"I also wish to remind our people that the country of Switzerland, whose people consist of three ethnic groups, French, German and Italian, has not engaged in a war in over 200 years, has universal military service."

"Every male from 18 to 45 years of age must do two years of active duty training and serve in the reserve doing annual tours of duty until he reached the age of 45. They are prepared. They don't have wars."

McLean noted that the first of May is best known throughout the world as the great holiday of the Soviet Union.

"These May Day ceremonies are attended by hundreds of thousands of peoples of the Communist bloc countries," he said. "No one dares not attend."

"On this Loyalty Day let us pray that all Americans will show their loyalty to God, our country, our state and our communities."

"Let us help to return to our armed forces their former status of honor, respect and support."

Benefit Dance May 15 For Hero Firefighters

The Spanner Club of Dorchester and friends of Paul Lentini and James Gibbons will hold a benefit dance in memory of the two Boston firefighters from Quincy who died fighting a fire

Jan. 6.

Proceeds of the dance, which will be held Friday, May 15, from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the UMass Harbor Campus, will go toward a scholarship fund set up in their memory. Tickets may be

$1.4 Million Question:

Teacher Pay Raise Solution On New Layoff Problem?

By FRANK MORTIMER

School committeeman John J. Sullivan called it a move that could avert "a catastrophe" in the school system.

Mayor Arthur Tobin said it "does nothing" at best and may even force additional teacher layoffs.

And JoAnne O'Malley, president of the Quincy Education Association, took a middle road: "It's a step forward."

But no one seems to know the real significance of a School Committee vote to budget $1.4 million to pay school employee raises negotiated two years ago.

The teachers' union has sued for payment, and a Superior Court decision is expected soon, according to several School Committee members.

By budgeting the overdue raises, the committee has for the first time officially crossed the $26.7 limit set by the mayor in response to Prop. 2½. The proposed school budget now stands at $28.1 million.

The committee has already voted to close five elementary schools and lay off about 500 school employees, including 197 teachers, to stay within the mayor's budget figure. The cuts are effective July 1.

The motion to include a provision to pay the overdue raises were made by Sullivan. Joining him in an affirmative vote were Joan Picard, Francis Anselmo and Vice Chairman Christopher Kennedy.

Patricia Toland and Mary Collins opposed the motion. Mrs. Toland urged the committee to postpone a vote until the May 13 meeting, by which time, she said, the city may know how much state aid to expect.

Sullivan, Anselmo and Picard urged immediate action.

"It's my feeling the judge will rule the city of Quincy must pay the back raises," said Sullivan. "I feel confident he's going to rule this way..."

"If this judgement comes down before June 30, 1981 and the mayor decides that we should pay this money, then I'd hope the mayor and City Council would appropriate the money."

"If they don't appropriate the money, then we're in trouble."

"I'm trying to get away from a catastrophe."

Last week Sullivan told the Quincy Sun that forced early school closings this year were a possibility if no money was set aside to pay the raises.

Joan Picard supported the wage provision to avoid sending an additional budget to the City Council later.

"We've been slapped down hard for sending over additional budgets," she said. "I think it's time to clear this up."

But according to Mayor Tobin, little if anything was cleared up by the action. "I think it has done nothing," said Tobin in an interview Saturday.

Tobin, who did not attend the committee session, said only a windfall return of state aid could solve the problem of funding the $1.4 million in raises.

Otherwise, additional teacher layoffs might be necessary.

"For each dollar the school committee requests over and above the ($26.7 million) budget, if it is approved by the City Council it would have to be cut from other departments," said Tobin.

"I would not presume to second guess the City Council, but I do not believe there is one member of the council who will cut additional city and fire department employees (to meet the school dept. override)."

"I believe the council will tell the School Committee, 'If you want to leave the $1.4 million in your budget, then the School Committee will have to layoff additional teachers.'"

"I don't see the city council cutting fire and police to satisfy the School Committee."

O'Malley, president of the union that has sued for the raises, said after the meeting that the City Council could either challenge the court decision, fund the raises through a bond, or force the school committee to find the $1.4 million in the $26.7 million figure submitted by the mayor. She indicated that a fourth and least likely City Council action would be funding the raises through cuts in other departments.

Despite the dim outlook, she called the school committee vote "a step forward."

Kay Kyser Doing 'Something More Meaningful'

Bet you didn't know there's a Quincy Kay Kyser Fan Club.

It's a pretty exclusive club, too. Three members: Win Bettinson of WJDA, Frank Mitchell of the Quincy Cooperative Bank and myself.

We're thinking of opening up the membership. If you still appreciate the music of the big band era, we might let you join.

KAY Then

KAY Now

Of course if you're so young you think Kay Kyser must have been a female vocalist, we just won't let you in. No way.

You've got to be over 40 and remember the big bands of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Jimmy Dorsey, etc. And Kay Kyser, (real name James K. Kyser) who had one of the sweetest of them all.

But the Quincy Kay Kyser Fan Club was not formed just because Kay led a good band.

It was established because he's also quite a guy.

Win, Frank and I met him for the first time for lunch at the Quincy Neighborhood Club in December 1978.

The Ole Professor, in 1951, had closed the door on his College of Musical Knowledge—a long popular running radio and TV program "to do something more meaningful."

In a couple of minutes we felt we had known him all our lives. That charm and image of sincerity and niceness he projected on radio and in the movies and on television, is for real.

At the time we met, Kay was head of film and broadcasting for the First Church of Christ Scientist, stationed at the Mother Church in Boston.

He gave up conducting a band "to try to do a little more for mankind."

We reminisced about the good old days and the Kyser gang and learned that: singers Ginny Simms and Harry Babbitt are now selling real estate—Ginny in Honolulu and Babbitt in California. We also learned that Ish Kabibble who played trumpet and sang novelty songs like "Three Little Fishes" and "Mairzy Doats" was really Merwyn Bogue. We won the handle Ish Kabibble because of one of the band's popular numbers by that name that he sang.

And, of course, beautiful Georgia Carroll, a former Powers model who sang with the Kyser band from 1943 to 1946, married the boss. They have been happily wed 35 years, have three children and live in Chapel Hill, NC.

We met Kay a few weeks later at the Mother Church and came away thinking that he should be out on the lecture trail meeting and talking with people.

Well, now he is.

And on Tuesday, May 12, he will be back in the Greater Boston area. He will give a lecture at 8 p.m. in Sanders Theater, Memorial Hall on the Harvard Campus. The lecture "There Is A Way Out—God's Way" is free.

"A way out of what?" asks Kay. "Why, of any and every inharmonious human problem, whether it seems to be disease, drugs, alcohol, fear, limitations, grief; or a marital, social, ethnic or job problem."

The lecture, he adds, "is for the hungry hearts of all faiths."

THERE'S GOING TO be a fresh, new face in the School Committee race this year. James J. O'Brien of River St., Quincy Point hasn't officially announced his candidacy yet, but coffee hours are being lined up for him.

O'Brien is the manager of Wendy's on Newport Ave. and was formerly manager of the outlet on Southern Artery. His wife Barbara is a former Boston school teacher and they have three children.

O'Brien, incidentally, has been attending the School Committee meetings the past couple of months to acquaint himself with the issues and problems.

REP. Robert A. Cerasoli has been selected to appear in the 1980-81 edition of Who's Who in American Politics, the third time he has made that listing since he was elected to the State Legislature in 1974.

A YOUNG REPUBLICAN with a big political future will be the speaker at the Quincy Republican City Committee Tuesday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wollaston Methodist Church. State Rep. Andrew Card, Jr. of Holbrook will discuss his potential candidacy for governor. Card is assistant minority leader of the House and the GOP state committeeman from the Quincy area.

THERE WERE A few misty eyes at Quincy District Court last Friday at Law Day ceremonies because it was a sort of farewell to Clerk Dennis F. Ryan who will soon retire after 30 years of distinguished service.

RYAN

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice, normally would have been the keynote speaker but passed the honor along to Ryan.

"This is an important day for me," Denny said, "because it will be the last (Law Day) exercises in which I will be a participant, though I intend to be present at Future Law Days."

Earlier, the girls in his office were in tears because they knew it was a farewell. There were standing ovations for him during the ceremonies.

But, perhaps the finest tribute came from Robert Bloom, assistant clerk, who presented Denny with a plaque on behalf of the clerk office staff and said: "Fifty years from now people will still walk past the courthouse and say, 'That's Denny Ryan's courthouse.'"

Editorial

Dr. Alfred Mahoney: He Will Be Missed

During his 71 years, Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney touched the lives of many people.

And, they were better for it.

As Quincy's city health commissioner from 1970 to 1975 he expanded programs and established new ones. And he pioneered the state's lead poisoning program.

These things we know he did. But as a general practitioner, he did many other things that only he and those he did them for ever knew. He did them without fanfare.

As a general practitioner who established his practice in Quincy in 1936 he became, before his retirement in 1980, a member of a vanishing breed: the doctor who will climb out of bed in the middle of the night to go to a sick person, child or adult.

You could usually find him at his office on Wednesdays which made him a little unusual. And to convenient a patient he would even see him at his office on a Sunday morning or holiday.

He was a friend of the poor. A good many families, if he thought they couldn't afford it, wouldn't get a bill — even when they asked for it.

Someone who knew him well said, "If Al sent out half of his bills he'd have been a millionaire years ago."

Although he lived in Milton in his later years, his heart belonged to Quincy. He always had a keen interest in the city's hospital where he interned as a young man and became a member of its medical staff, in city politics and always in the city's welfare.

He was a good doctor. But he was even a greater human being.

The real sadness when someone like him passes on, is that you may never see another quite like him. Unfortunately, we don't see his kind very often. We need more like him.

Friends wanted to give him a testimonial dinner when he retired. But he would not let them. If they tried, he vowed, he wouldn't show up.

But it really doesn't matter because he has thousands of testimonials — living testimonials. The thousands of people whose lives he touched.

He will always live in their hearts.

And, he will be missed.

A passport, valid for five years, cost $15, including a $5 execution fee.

7 Applicants

City Council Committee To Interview Auditor Candidates

A special City Council committee will meet Saturday, May 16, at 9 a.m. in the Council chamber at City Hall to interview six of seven applicants for the post of city auditor.

The schedule of interviews has been set up like this:

9 a.m. — James Downey, 64 Hovey St., Atlantic, general accounting manager for Digital Equipment Corp.

9:30 a.m. — Charles Edgar, 220

Liberty St., South Quincy, auditor for the U.S. Department of Commerce Inspector General.

10 a.m. — Ronan Fitzpatrick, 265 Adams St., Quincy, principal accountant for the Boston School Committee.

10:30 a.m. — Robert E. Foy III, 51 Dickens St., Wollaston, city treasurer.

11 a.m. — William McArdle, 19 Doyle Terrace, Germantown, auditor with the Internal Revenue Service.

11:30 a.m. — Robert Trahan, 143 Edgewater Drive, Houghs Neck, examiner for the State Department of Revenue.

The seventh candidate, James

Mullaney, 86 Sims Rd., Wollaston, a Quincy accountant, will be away attending his daughter's graduation from college. He will be interviewed at another time.

There were 27 candidates originally for the $34,134 post that was left vacant by the retirement of Charles L. Shea on March 16. William Grindlay has been serving as acting auditor.

Six years after Marconi discovered radio, the first transatlantic radio telegraphic transmission occurred — in 1901.

QHS, NQHS Seniors To View 'The Last Prom'

By FRANK MORTIMER

The film may leave you with a clenched jaw and an aching head.

It may fill you with emotion, or simply leave you empty inside.

It may steer you away from drinking and driving.

That, at least, is the hope of those who are bringing "The Last Prom" to high schools across the state during the prom season.

The film shows two happy teenage couples who leave the prom to go out for a spin — and a few beers — in a stylish, carpeted van.

It ends with grief stricken parents weeping over a casket, while the youth who drove the van looks on.

"The Last Prom" will be shown to students at North Quincy High School May 12, and to Quincy High students May 13.

The film is just one tool in a statewide campaign to protect youths from alcohol related accidents.

The Alcohol Prevention and Education committee of the South Shore is also distributing a "contract" that may encourage teens who have been drinking to call home for a ride — rather than drive.

The contract, to be signed by parent and student before prom night, states that the student will call for a ride if he's been drinking, and the parents will provide the ride with "no argument."

John W. Mahoney, coordinator of social health in Quincy Schools, will introduce the film and provide the contracts to students.

William Spinks, executive director of South Shore Council on Alcoholism, said the campaign will be a success even if it makes teenage drivers more careful on prom night alone.

Last year 63 youths between ages 15 and 19 died in alcohol related accidents in this state, according to the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

Testing Of Fire Hydrants Starts

The Quincy Fire Department begins its annual spring testing of fire hydrants today (Thursday) and the project will continue for approximately four weeks.

Hours of testing will be 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The department will flow the hydrants to clean out the rust and sediments that have accumulated inside the mains. Testing will take place in all sections of the city at the same time.

During the testing, residents may experience some discoloration of their water. The water is not harmful to drink or use, but should be checked before using washing machines. It is advisable to postpone using washing machines until after 4:30 p.m.

Persons experiencing water discoloration are requested to flush their systems by opening their cold water faucet for a few minutes then waiting approximately one hour.

If the water does not clear, repeat the procedure.

Spring testing of hydrants paid off last winter when there were no frozen hydrants reported at any fires.

The Winter of 1980-1981 had some record breaking temperatures but there were no ill effects on hydrants.

The Quincy Water Department replaced over 50 hydrants found to be defective during the last inspection period.

Following a fire, the Water Department also checks out all hydrants used by the Fire Department to make sure the hydrant will operate correctly the next time it is needed.

Education 786-8717.

There is no fee.

Workshop topics will include an overview of boards in the 1980's, functions of a board, roles of board and staff, and the components of a smoothly run meeting. A question and answer period will be held at the conclusion of the workshop.

Deborah B. Stoessel, a consultant-trainer affiliated with the Center for Public Service at Brandeis, will lead the workshop.

The Volunteer Board Management Workshop is being funded through the City of Quincy's Department of Planning and Community Development.

Board and staff members of private, public and non-profit agencies will have an opportunity to improve their management and communications skills at Lincoln-Hancock School Thursday, May 7.

The Office of Community Education and the Lincoln-Hancock School Council are sponsoring a three-hour volunteer board management workshop.

It will run from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in community room 1.

Registration deadline was last night (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. More information is available by calling the Office of Community

DeWolfe Quincy Office Observes First Anniversary

The Quincy office of the DeWolfe Co., real estate, recently observed its first anniversary with steadily growing sales in spite of rising interest rates.

"Quincy is a very desirable area and it's growing rapidly," said Mary Fitzgerald, the manager of the office.

"This is probably as a result of the effective campaign underway by the city to promote its progress as well as development and new construction.

"We are close to Boston and can tap all its resources.

"MBIA stops in Quincy, together with Routes 3 and 128, give us easy access to all points around Boston. All these factors have contributed to the recent rise in the value of homes."

Tenants Meet With Lawyer

The Executive House Tenants' Association were scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St., to hear a report from its attorney, William Golden.

Golden has been working with Cong. Brian J. Donnelly's office in an effort to get the Department of Housing and Urban Development to reconsider the rent increases of the past three years.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymond was expected to be present.

SPECIAL CITIZEN AWARD was presented to the family of late Quincy businessman Jason Feldman during Law Day Ceremonies. From left, Judge Albert Kramer reads the award's inscription to Mrs. Marion Feldman and her sons Paul, Steven and Marc.

ASSISTANT CLERK Robert Bloom (right) presents a plaque to Dennis Ryan on behalf of the clerk's office staff at the conclusion of Law Day ceremonies. Bloom said it was "sheer pleasure" working with Ryan, who treats the staff "like family."

At Quincy District Court Ceremonies Tribute To Ryan, 5 Awards Highlight Law Day

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A special tribute to Clerk-Magistrate Dennis F. Ryan and the awarding of five community service awards highlighted the Quincy Bar Association's 24th annual Law Day Exercises Friday.

The event was held at Quincy District Court with the theme, "The Law: The Language of Liberty."

Breaking with tradition, Judge Albert R. Kramer, presiding justice, passed along the honor of giving the Law Day address to Ryan, who has served as clerk for 30 years.

In a second break with precedent, Kramer presented a "Special Citizen Award" in honor of the late Jason A. Feldman, founding president of Citizens for a Better Community, Inc. and downtown businessman.

Ryan who will retire later this month was greeted with one of several standing ovations he received from those in attendance.

"This is an important day for me," he said, "because it will be the last (Law Day) exercise in which I will be a participant, though I intend to be present at future Law Days."

Ryan explained that the purpose of Law Day was to recognize the place of law in American life "to advance equality and justice."

"The law holds free society together," said Ryan, "It's like the air we breathe... it's the language of liberty."

Later, at the conclusion of the exercises, assistant clerk Robert Bloom presented Ryan a plaque on behalf of the staff of the clerk's office.

Bloom said Ryan has treated the staff like family.

"The way he relates to the staff is the way he relates to anyone who comes in to court... honestly, fairly and with uncompromising integrity," said Bloom.

"Fifty years from now, people will still walk past the courthouse and say 'that's Denny Ryan's courthouse'."

The Quincy High School Band also dedicated its first number to Ryan during the flag raising ceremonies outside the courthouse which began the program.

In making the special presentation to Mrs. Marion Feldman, who was accompanied by sons Paul, Marc and Steven, Kramer said, "Jason Feldman endeared himself to the community by his work and dedication in so many ways."

"When he was taken from us, it was like the pulse beat of the city stopped. He was an outstanding individual," said Kramer.

Mrs. Feldman acknowledged the plaque saying, "This is a beautiful tribute. Thank you."

She was also presented a bouquet of red roses and received a standing ovation. She later commented that she was very proud of the award.

"He was a beautiful man," said Mrs. Feldman, "It's too bad this isn't a living memorial."

Rev. Steele W. Martin, rector of Christ's Episcopal Church, Quincy, had begun the Law Day program by giving the invocation.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin brought greetings from the city and commended the court on having Ryan as the keynote speaker calling him a fine citizen and gentleman.

Lt. Charles E. Stockbridge of the Cohasset Police Department was presented an "Outstanding Law Enforcement" award.

Lindsay Tait, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, presented the chamber's Outstanding Community Organization award to co-recipients Quincy Girl's Home and Norfolk County Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

The Alfred P. Malaney Award for outstanding service as an attorney went to James A. Shannon who was cited for his unselfish work in the community.

Shannon thanked those responsible for the award saying "It's been a very rewarding experience practicing law." He received a standing ovation.

The benediction was given by Rev. William R. McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, Quincy.

Among the officials on hand for the ceremony were State Senator Paul D. Harold, City Council president Leo Kelly, Governor's Councillor Peter Fley, former mayor James R. McIntyre, City Councillor Francis McCauley, Rep. Michael Morrissey and City Councillor Daniel Raymond.

Law Day committee co-chairmen were Judge Kramer, Judge Lewis L. Whitman and Judge George M. Criss. The committee included Edward H. Masterson, president of the Quincy Bar Association, Ronald J. Saad, Douglas C. Purdy, Louis G. Bertucci and Dennis C. Mahoney.

ALFRED P. MALANEY AWARD for outstanding service as an attorney was presented to James A. Shannon of Quincy (right) by Edward H. Masterson, president of the Quincy Bar Association. Shannon was cited for "the outstanding way he conducts his life and himself."

More than 25 members have already dropped out of the class because of the new cramped quarters. (Quincy Sun Photo by Rick Matthews)

City Hospital Wins Dental Approval

City Hospital Dental Service has been granted a certificate of approval by the Council on Hospital and Institutional Dental Services of the American Dental Association.

The approval was announced during the ADA convention in April following on-site evaluation visits to the hospital by consultants with expertise in the areas of hospital dentistry.

Only 1,015 of the 2,577 hospitals in the United States that provide dental health services have received ADA certificates of approval.

Rev. Robert W. Lawson Former Wollaston Minister

Memorial services will be held at a later date for Rev. Robert W. Lawson, 70, of Bridgton, Me., former minister at Wollaston Unitarian Church.

Rev. Lawson died suddenly at his home April 27.

He was the last minister of Wollaston Unitarian before it merged with the Unitarian Church of Quincy 20 years ago.

Born in Beverly, he had lived in Quincy for 14 years before moving to Bridgton 12 years ago.

He received a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering at the University of Purdue in 1932, and was graduated from Meadville Theological School, Chicago, in 1940.

A World War II Navy chaplain, he had held pastorates in Reading as well as Pittsfield, Pa., and Dayton, Ohio.

He had also served as minister emeritus of the Northside Pittsburgh Unitarian Church, and as area director for Protestants United for the Separation of Church and State.

Rev. Lawson was also a life member of the NAACP.

He is survived by two sons, Richard of Hinsdale, N.H., and John of Quincy; and six grandchildren.

Ruth H. E. Carlson, 76, Retired Secretary

Funeral services for Ruth H. E. Carlson, 76, a life-long Quincy resident who was a retired secretary, were held Wednesday at Faith Lutheran Church, Quincy.

Miss Carlson died May 3, in Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

A graduate of Quincy schools, she had also been graduated from the Woodward School for Girls.

Miss Carlson was employed as secretary at First National Bank of Boston until her retirement 11 years ago.

A member of Faith Lutheran Church, she had also been treasurer of the Scandia Lodge of Baintree.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ethel D. Wallin of Quincy; a niece, Joan Hamilton, and a grand niece, Amanda Hamilton, both of Quincy.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. James Kimmell. Funeral arrangements were by Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations in her memory may be made to the memorial fund of Faith Lutheran Church.

Carmine J. Oliva, Jr., 34, Construction Worker

A funeral Mass for Carmine J. Oliva, Jr., 34, of Quincy, a construction worker, was said May 2, at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Mr. Oliva died April 30, at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness.

Born in Medford, he attended Quincy schools and lived here 32 years. He was a member of the International Laborers Union, Local 133, and South Quincy Bocce Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Loretta M. (Peters) Oliva; a son, Carmine J. (Oliva III); his parents, Carmine J. and Blanche Patricia (Spinosa) Oliva; and two brothers, Steven D. Oliva and Ronald J. Oliva, all of Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Remembrances can be made to the American Cancer Society, 47 West Elm St., Brockton.

Dr. Alfred Mahoney Eulogized As 'True Saint Of God'

The late Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney was eulogized last week as "a true saint of God...like a star which has become extinct but whose light lingers on for generations to gladden the eyes of people."

Nearly 400 attended the funeral, in St. John's Church, of Dr. Mahoney, a Quincy physician for 44 years and health commissioner from 1970 to 1975, who died at 71 at his home in Milton.

The funeral mass was celebrated by the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's, and concelebrated by the Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

-Also on the altar was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Mullarkey, retired pastor.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, former Mayors James R. McIntyre and Walter J. Hannon, along with the five current members of the Licensing Board, served as honorary pall bearers. Dr. Mahoney was a former member of the License Board.

In his eulogy, Fr. McCarthy said in part:

"By his profession, Dr. Mahoney practiced the virtues of faith and hope and crowned them with the virtue of love by his dedication to the people with whom he was associated.

"In the last few days since the death of Dr. Mahoney, we have heard many complimentary remarks such as, 'He was a true friend, a great humanitarian, and always ready to extend himself for others.' He was a doctor who relieved the anxiety of his patients by his kindly approach.

"Dr. Mahoney was a true saint of God, which in all probability will not be officially canonized, but will be included in the roster of saints on All Saints Day among the unrecognized multitude of saints that the world has never heard of.

"He was like a star which has become extinct but whose light lingers on for generations to gladden the eyes of people; so too Dr. Mahoney will linger on as a light in our memories.

"All Saints Day can be truly called his day.

"He fulfilled the qualities of a true saint by being agreeable when probably he wished to be disagreeable; who kept on going when he may have had the temptation to quit."

Frs. McCarthy and McMahon and Msgr. Mullarkey also delivered prayers at graveside in Milton Cemetery.

Members of the Licensing Board who served as honorary pall bearers included City Clerk John Gillis, Fire Chief Edward Barry, Police Chief Francis Finn, Health Commissioner Dr. John McKeogh, and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Drs. Edward Fitzgerald and Edmund Carey led a delegation of 20 doctors to the funeral and Judy Seary, a nursing supervisor at City Hospital, headed a large group of nurses.

Mr. Mary McCullough, administrative aid and supervisor, led representatives of the Hospital X-ray Department and there was a large delegation of public health nurses.

Inspectors Winthrop Wade, Albert J. Finn and Fred Prezioso attended from the Public Health Department.

Funeral arrangements were by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave.

Perry J. Eaton, 87, Former Telephone Company Repairman

Funeral services for Perry J. Eaton, 87, of Quincy, a former New England Telephone Co. repairman, were held May 2, at St. Chrysostom's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Eaton died April 29, at Quincy City Hospital.

A Quincy resident for 49 years, he was a member of the New England Telephone Pioneers Club. Born in Boston, he formerly lived in Dorchester.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Isabel (Ramsey) Eaton, a daughter, Doris R. Deane of Apalachin, NY; three grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Funeral arrangements were by Deware Brothers Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Quincy.

Donations in his memory may be made to the memorial fund of St. Chrysostom's Church.

William Dolan, 75, Retired Shipyard Rigger

Private funeral services were held April 25, for William Dolan.

GOD
FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Dr. McKeogh Opposed

Bay Inn Granted 2 A.M. Closing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The City License Board approved on a 3 to 1 vote Tuesday a request from Quincy Bay Inn, 24-29 Hancock St., North Quincy, for extension of its pouring and closing hours from 1 to 2 a.m.

Voting in favor of the request were City Clerk John M. Gillis, Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh was opposed. Fire Chief Edward Barry was not at the meeting.

As had been requested at last week's meeting, the board obtained a sampling of other communities' positions on 2 a.m.

closings.

The sampling showed that establishments in communities such as Canton, Randolph, Brockton and Dorchester have 2 a.m. closings, but that Braintree and Weymouth establishments have 1 a.m. closings.

Richard J. Vita, inn manager, said that Quincy has a long history of 2 a.m. closings and that establishments in competition with the inn have the late closing hour.

Vita said that he has tried to cooperate fully with city departments, and that he has worked with Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon and the community to clear up parking problems on Densmore St. caused by inn patrons.

He said he would continue to work on any problems that might come up and explained that the inn needs the additional income the extra hour could provide.

Mrs. Condon said that the community is satisfied with the way Vita has cleared up the Densmore St. parking problems. She said there is no objection to the 2 a.m. closing as long as Vita maintains the police details inside and outside the premises Fridays and Saturdays.

MacDonald said that 50,000 people a year are killed in autos, and that half of the accidents involve liquor.

"People climbing into their cars after drinking is what bothers me," said MacDonald.

Dr. McKeogh said that two consecutive week-ends of solving parking problems did not encourage him that improvements would continue. He said he has seen other parking problems on nearby Hancock St. and suggested that Vita withdraw his request without prejudice.

Dr. McKeogh said Vita could re-apply in a few months and indicated he might then go along with the request.

MacDonald said that if the 2 a.m. closing were to be granted and there were violations, the hours could be rolled back or the license taken away.

Chief Finn made a motion to grant the license for a probationary period to conclude at the board's first meeting in September. Following some additional discussion, MacDonald seconded Finn's motion.

The inn's second request to allow dancing on the premises on Sundays was continued to next week's meeting.

Gillis pointed out that no dancing is allowed in Quincy on Sundays with the exception of wedding and anniversary functions.

Board secretary Theresa Gacicia will poll surrounding towns on their regulations with regard to dancing on Sundays.

Proposition 2 1/2

This is the 49th in a series of articles written by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey.

The Legislature's Committee on Taxation is expected to report out an omnibus bill making corrective and technical changes to Proposition 2 1/2. Considerations may include a provision for a local over ride by a majority or two-thirds vote of the local governing body, other corrective changes may make it easier to implement the tax cutting measure.

The Committee on Ways and Means is expected to report out the House version of the State Budget on or about May 4th. Legislative debate on the budget and local aid should begin within a week after the Budget is placed on the House calendar.

The Committee on Urban Affairs of which I am Vice Chairman, has put forth legislation to allow communities to control condominium conversions. I will try to keep you posted on the progress of the bill.

If I can be of any assistance please don't hesitate to call me at home 328-0900 or in the Statehouse at 727-7035.

BE PREPARED.
THINK AHEAD.

Wisdom from the past invites us to prepare for the future. There are many important life events that we should and do prepare for. Some, like weddings, or buying a house are pleasant and we eagerly look forward to gathering information and planning for them. Others, like death and funerals are more difficult to think about ahead of time. They are no less important! There is information that we can provide so that you can plan ahead. Death is a major event in all of our lives. Funerals and visitations are designed to help us cope with death. If you'd like more information about funerals for yourself, your church, or civic group, call or write us. We'll gladly assist you. Taking time to get accurate information about death now will help you deal with the actual event.

'Wizard Of Is' At Snug Harbor

"The Wizard of Is" will be performed by the Poor House Puppets Monday, May 11, as part of Snug Harbor School's "You Can Be What You Want to Be" equity immersion week.

The show, which was also presented at Quincy School, is about a princess who learns about all the abilities and qualities she has. The message supports the theme of the week at Snug Harbor as students learn about changing roles, non-traditional occupations and cooperative games.

The puppet show is being brought to both schools through Project Inter-Action for educational equity.

Historical Society Planning Merrimack Valley Trip

Friday, May 8, is the deadline for reservations for the Quincy Historical Society's May 16 bus trip to the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum and North Andover Historical Society Museum and historic house.

Historical society members and non-members are invited to sign up for the trip. Fee includes bus transportation, all admissions and lunch.

The museum features machines, tools, artifacts, documents, pictures and woven textiles collected and exhibited to tell the story of America's textile industry.

Members of the trip will also be able to see the North Andover Historical Society's collection of Americana which reflects life in North Andover over many centuries.

Tour groups will picnic on Andover Common.

Black Heritage Walk

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights is sponsoring a Black Heritage Trail Walk, for members, friends, and all interested participants, Saturday, May 9.

The Black Heritage Trail is a narrated walk through the Beacon Hill section of Boston, similar to the more well-known "Freedom Trail."

The Black Heritage Trail traces historical sites and events of particular importance to Black history in the United States, and to the contributions made to our heritage by Black Americans.

Anyone interested in participating is invited to meet Saturday either at 8:45 a.m. at Quincy Centre United Methodist Church, corner of Granite and Fort Sts., or at 10 a.m., directly in front of the Robert Gould Shaw Bronze Plaque, opposite the State House, Boston.

THE WINNER — Bob Thorn, former Quincy High track star and winner of the Run for Your Life road race for the third year in a row, holds his trophy. He has won all three of the annual races run for the benefit of The Long Island Hospital.

Race Raises $1,600 For Hospital

Thorne Wins Third Straight 'Run For Life'

The course was lengthened by 1.2 miles but it didn't faze Robert Thorne.

Thorne won the third annual "Run for Your Life" road race for the third time Sunday, covering the 6.2 miles from the Chapel at Long Island Hospital to Cavanagh Field in North Quincy in 33 minutes, 18 seconds.

He crossed the finish line 20 seconds ahead of Jim Capezzuto, who finished second last year and won the first Quincy Marathon last September. Last year's race covered five miles.

Some 150 runners competed.

The race raised some $1,600, with $500 of that total coming from a donation by the sponsoring Boston Gas Co., and there is a possibility that between $500 and $1,000 more may come in from late pledges.

The money will go toward two $250 scholarships for nursing students at Quincy Junior College and at least $500 for the purchase of cardiac-related equipment for the Long Island Hospital.

The women's division was won by Dottie Irvine of Quincy, who came in more than two minutes ahead of Kathy Konanjan of Stoneham in the good time of 40 minutes, 47 seconds.

The men's winner was awarded a runner's watch and the women's winner a gold charm, both donated by George Stone of Stone's Jewelry Co. of Quincy.

Robert Blaney of Braintree won the grand prize of a weekend for two at the Red Jacket in Falmouth as the runner who had the largest amount of money pledged to him.

There were 141 finishers, including Sen. Paul D. Harold, who finished 46th; City Councilor Stephen J. McGrath, who finished 105th; and Lloyd Hill, principal of Quincy High School, 92nd.

For the third consecutive year, Hendries Ice Cream of Milton donated 500 ice creams, Burger King donated 500 soft drinks, Mug and Muffin 300 cups of coffee.

Montilio's bakery gave cakes for 300.

Q.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT TO PROPERLY PREPARE THE EXTERIOR OF MY HOUSE BEFORE PAINTING?

A.

Time spent scraping, sanding, dusting the surface will be rewarded forever more. Failure to do so will come back to haunt you and a poor paint job will result. Remember, good quality paint like Hancock will last longer, particularly when it goes over a sound surface.

SILENT BABY KILLER

Very young children are vulnerable to a home menace that can shut off life quickly, quietly, and without a cry. This silent killer is suffocation. An astounding number of youngsters under four - some 2,000 yearly - die in this manner.

Mothers with infants should regard the crib as a site of grave danger. At the top of the list of precautions is a ban against plastic bedding covers - especially those improvised from a thin, plastic bag used by dry cleaners. Despite nationwide warnings to this effect, well over a hundred infants, every year still suffocate from these plastic products. (80% of these are under one year of age).

Other crib precautions are: Don't put a pillow in with baby for him to bury his face in. Instead of using blankets which could get piled onto a baby's face, put the child in a zippered bag which keeps him warm without blankets.

Central Girls Win City Gym Crown

The Central Junior High girls' gymnastics team recently completed its most successful season, finishing with a 5-0 record and winning the city championship.

The team was coached by Barbara Donelan and captained by Kristen Dever, Natalie Nigro and Catherine O'Brien.

Central scored 81.0 points, the highest team total ever by junior high team in the city, to defeat Sterling by more than 16 points. Central was paced by Dever, again the top junior high girls' gymnast in Quincy, who won the floor exercise (7.6 points), balance beam (7.5) and uneven bars (6.8), and O'Brien, who placed fifth on floor exercise (6.3), and second on vault (7.7), balance beam (6.6) and uneven bars (5.2).

On floor exercise second place went to Julie Nee of Central (7.3), and third to Central's Elizabeth Maher (6.7). On the vault Lauren O'Rourke of Central won (7.8) and third went to Sterling's Cindi Manupelli (7.6). On Balance beam third place went to Central's O'Rourke (6.0). On uneven bars third went to Sterling's Lisa Burrelli (4.4).

Central handily defeated Point, 65.1-34.8 in its final dual meet of the season.

O'Rourke placed Central with a second on vault (7.4), third on floor exercise (5.2) and balance beam (3.7) and fourth on uneven bars (3.0), and Nigro tied for first with teammate Eileen Morris on floor exercise with a score of 5.6, fourth on balance beam (3.4) and fifth on vault (6.2) and uneven bars (2.8).

On floor exercise second went to Central's Cheryl Abboud (5.5). On vault Dever won (7.5) and third went to Central's Kathy McGregor (7.0). On balance beam Central's Maureen Doherty won (5.1) and Central's Maher was third (5.0). On uneven bars Central swept the top three places with Dever winning (5.1), O'Brien second (4.7) and Amy Harrison third (3.3).

The Central team will wind up its season by taking part in the school's show May 19 and 20 at the National Guard Armory.

North Girls Track Team Rolls

The North Quincy girls' track team continues to roll along with a 4-0 record in the Suburban League.

The Raiderettes were at Brookline Tuesday, are at Cambridge today (Thursday) at 3:30 and Saturday will compete in the state coaches invitational meet.

Last Friday Coach Lou Tozzi's North girls turned in one of their top performances in defeating Brockton, 70-48.

Michelle Millane won the shot put and discus. Karen Lindenfelzer was second in the discus with her best toss, 95-6, and Caren Smith was second in the shot put.

Lisa Cavanaugh was second and Sheila Quintiliani third in the javelin.

Kara Crehan was second in the long jump with her best effort, 16-1 1/2, and she won the high jump.

Mary Kate Kennedy won the 220, Deirdre Donovan won the 440 in 59.7, the fastest in the league this year and the second fastest time ever at North Quincy and Lindenfelzer was second in 61.8, her best time.

Nancy McCarthy won the 880 with Mary Crehan second, Lisa Kennedy won the mile with Deirdre Corrigan second in her best time, 5:38, Sheila Barrett won the two-mile with Robyn O'Donnell second and the mile relay team of Barrett, Mary Crehan, Nancy McCarthy and Deirdre Corrigan won in 4:10.5, the fastest in the league this spring.

Earlier last week North rolled over Waltham, 82-35, as Tozzi had a chance to use a number of new girls. Seven of them placed for the first time. Millane won the shot put and javelin with Smith second in the shot and Cavanaugh third in the javelin.

Lindenfelzer won the discus with Smith second, Donovan won the long jump with Kara Crehan second and Mary Kate Kennedy third, Kara Crehan won the high jump with Nancy McCarthy second and Mary Gannon third, Siobhan Corrigan won the hurdles with Linda Welby second, Kathy McCarthy won the 100 with Liz Wiot second, Gannon won the 220 with Cavanaugh second, Donovan won the 440 with Monika Reilly third, Mary McCarthy won the 880, Kathy Moriarty was third in the mile, Terry Jones was third in the two-mile and the mile relay team of Kathy McCarthy, Lisa Reynolds, Nancy McCarthy and Kathy Mulloy won.

QJC 'Bats' .500 In 4 Games

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team, continuing to have scheduling problems, were scheduled to play four games last week but two were canceled because of players failing to show and umpires failing to appear.

Dave Burke's Jaguars did get two games in, losing to Bristol, 9-5, and defeating North Shore Community College, 2-1, to make their record 3-2.

QJC was scheduled to play Wentworth Tuesday, hosts Blue Hills Technical today (Thursday) at 3:30 at O'Rourke Field and is slated to play a doubleheader Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Blue Hills.

Jack Connolly had one bad inning against Bristol, giving up five runs in the third inning on two home runs and three singles. He was strong at times and struck out six. John Wilkinson came on in relief and did well, striking out five, including four in a row, giving up only one hit and no runs.

●Gym Hockey

Merrymount Edges Atherton Hough For Title

Merrymount edged Atherton Hough, 3-2, in overtime last week to win the Quincy Recreation Department all-city gym hockey championship.

Billy Roche scored for Merrymount at 1:35 of sudden death overtime for the victory.

The first period saw Mike O'Brien of Merrymount open the scoring, but his goal was quickly answered by Atherton Hough's Ronnie Champagne.

Both goalies were outstanding in the second period as Merrymount's Eric Seamans and Atherton's Dennis DeCoste turned away many shots. Finally, at 9:45, Chris Holland broke the deadlock for Merrymount.

Quincy Girls Bow To Newton No.

Coach Shirley Laing's Quincy girls' tennis team has a 4-2 record after losing last week to Newton North's defending state champions, 5-0.

The Raiderettes had matches remaining with Brookline and Weymouth South. Monday's Brookline match was rained out and the Weymouth South match was scheduled for Tuesday.

In its previous game the Quincy team had blanked Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 5-0, and in earlier matches had defeated Waltham, 4-1; Weymouth North, 3-2, and North Quincy, 4-1, while losing to Brockton, 5-0.

Quincy's number one singles player is Bernice DePietro, Janet Lenehan is No. 2 and Patty Garrity No. 3.

Julie McCauley and Donna Marcin make up the number one doubles team and Barbara Fain and Lorraine Marino make up the No. 2 team.

Both doubles teams were away on vacation recently and the teams of Lisa Hannon and Cindy McKay and Maya Christie and Jennifer delaPaz took over in two matches and played well.

●Girls Softball

Frustrating Season So Far For Raiderettes

This has been a frustrating season for North Quincy's second-year girls' softball coach, Lou Ioanilli.

His Raiderettes have only a 3-6 record this spring but four of the losses were by one run, including a 3-2 squeaker last week to Newton North, one of the leagues top teams.

"Last year we were getting killed in most of our games but this year we have been in most games but just haven't been able to come up with the clutch hits," Ioanilli said. "In the Newton game we outplayed them and outbit them, but left several runners on base."

Monday the North girls rolled over a weak Cambridge Rindge and Latin team, 30-10, as Lauren Apollo, batting .500, had four hits and a walk, and JoAnne Runge, batting near .500, had three hits, including her fourth home run and two walks.

Apollo, Runge and sophomore Lisa Julian (.450) are leading the Raiderettes at bat.

The pitching has been good, with Simone Koch having a 2-3 record but has lost some tough games.

"I really thought I could turn the program around in one year, but it looks like it will take longer," said Ioanilli.

May Bike Month

Finn Underscores Need For Bicycle Safety

Today more than 105 million youngsters and adults are riding bicycles for fun, physical fitness, energy conservation and short-haul transportation.

Calling attention to May as American Bike Month, Police Chief Francis Finn of the Quincy Police Department emphasizes the growing need for bicycle safety education in schools, community centers, and cooperation with local law enforcement agencies.

Finn recommends the following Rules of the Road, issued by the American Bike Month Committee and endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Obey All Applicable Traffic Regulations, Signs, Signals And Markings.

Bicycles should be driven as safely as any road vehicle, and they are subject to the same rules of vehicular traffic, wherever they apply. A good "rule of thumb" is to avoid congested streets and use bikeways, lanes or paths where possible.

Observe All Local Ordinances Pertaining To Bicycles.

Registration and licensing, inspections, driving on sidewalks, etc. may all be covered by local laws. It is your responsibility to know and abide by them.

Keep Right: Drive With Traffic, Not Against It. Drive Single File.

Keep as close to the curb as practical. Most states require you to drive single file. When driving two abreast, a minor swerve could force you into traffic.

Watch Out For Drain Gates, Soft Shoulders And Other Road Surface Hazards

Be careful of loose sand or gravel, particularly at corners. Watch out for pot holes.

Watch Out For Car Doors Opening, Or For Cars Pulling Into Traffic.

Never Carry Passengers Or Packages That Interfere With Your Vision Or Control.

A good rule is "one person, one bike," unless it's a tandem. Use baskets or luggage carriers for packages.

Never Hunch A Ride On A Truck Or Other Vehicle

Be Extremely Careful At Intersections, Especially When Making A Left Turn.

Most accidents happen at intersections. If traffic is heavy get off and walk your bike with pedestrian traffic.

Drive A Safe Bike. Have It Inspected To Ensure Good Mechanical Condition.

Make sure your bike fits you. See to it that brakes, pedals, lights, reflectors, shifting mechanisms, sounding device, tires, spokes, saddle, handlebars, and nuts and bolts are checked regularly.

Drive Your Bike Defensively: Watch Out For The Other Guy.

Observe the car in front of you, and the one in front of him. Leave yourself room and time to take defensive action.

Use Hand Signals To Indicate Turning Or Stopping.

Let the motorist know what you plan to do by giving the appropriate hand signals for turning left or right, or for stopping.

Protect Yourself At Night With The Required Red Reflectors And Lights.

Massachusetts law requires a headlight, tail light or red rear reflectors; reflective pedals and additional reflective material visible from each side of the bicycle. If you are going to drive at night, use maximum protection.

Kickers Show Improvement

The four North Quincy Kickers soccer teams, after four weeks, are still finding the going tough but most players are improving and several are doing an outstanding job against more experienced opponents.

Last Sunday the under-12 team won at Rockland, 4-2, for its first victory. Brian Durgin scored first for North with Mike Benson assisting and, after Rockland tied it, Adam McGregor gave North the lead for good with Benson again assisting. Robert Hubbard made it 3-1 on an 18-yarder from Kevin Caldwell and Caldwell closed out the scoring with Durgin assisting.

Mike Cassetta on wing played well as did goalie Warren Palmer and Donald Greene. Andy Hirst and Billy Palmer on defense.

The under-14 team lost to Whitman, 5-0. Playing with no substitutes, North trailed by only 1-0 at the half and clearly outplayed the winners. However, North tied in the second half.

John Corrigan and Joey Rabs played well on offense and the defense was led by Jimmy Cahill, Mike Cocce and Pat O'Sullivan. Goalie Jay Osgood also did well.

The under-16 team lost to Raynham, 6-2, with David Brown scoring both Kickers goals, and the under-19 team, playing with only 11 players, lost to Whitman, 6-1, with Steve Sacchetti scoring the goal and Bob Flaherty assisting.

Earlier the under-12 team dropped a tough 3-2 decision to Raynham after taking a 2-0 lead on goals by Hirst and McGregor scoring the goals and Caldwell and Billy Palmer having assists.

The under-14 team lost to Stoughton, 6-1, missing many good scoring opportunities. Pat Harrington, Eric Roukey, Mark Scanlan and Dave Fasano just missed and finally Scanlan scored the only goal with an assist for Fasano.

The under-16 team crushed Holbrook, 7-1, with Jim Boudreau scoring three goals and adding an assist. Joe LaPierre had two goals and two assists. Andy Curtis had a goal and an assist as did Denis Cronin. Jaime Paz and Frank Scanlan also had assists.

The under-19 team was bombed by Stoughton, 10-0, displaying little spirit. The only Kickers playing well were Mike Bourikas, Bob Flynn and John Keenan.

WEEK OF MAY 7, 1981

AQUARIUS—January 21-February 19

Freedom-loving Aquarius thrills as a lingering responsibility is finally transferred. Even better, there are good opportunities for both travel and advancement.

PISCES—February 20-March 20

Financial matters become increasingly complex, but don't look for shortcuts. In personal life, listen for hidden messages. And at work, sniff out promising opportunities.

ARIES—March 21-April 20

At work or in community you may be called on for creative consultation; find out exactly who is responsible for what. Healthwise, a brand new group outlet could do wonders for all involved.

TAURUS—April 21-May 22

At last you have a platform from which to voice recent ideas. If changing plans, be sure to inform all involved. Fractured friendship is beginning to mend; don't rush the process.

GEMINI—May 23-June 21

Fond of moving about, you may find life on the settled side this week. But it's not an uneventful period. Lots of behind-the-scenes activity are the prospect of travel.

CANCER—June 22-July 22

Cancer people have close ties with their families, which is the case now. Support comes from older (probably female) relatives. Listen especially to their financial counseling.

LEO—July 23-August 22

Programs — work, recreational, cultural — can be more than bargained for, so try not to overdo. Loved ones seem cozy and playful, but serious discussions should not be overlooked.

VIRGO—August 23-September 22

Stay well away from neighborhood and/or office politicking. Celebrations begin now; responsibilities increase and money questions are being answered — mostly in your favor.

LIBRA—September 23-October 22

Children influence your most important decisions. Be alert to changing moods of friends who may require some moral support. Mini shopping spree proves a great late spring tonic.

SCORPIO—October 23-November 21

Accent is on education and you might consider signing up for a summer program. Good week for trying out a new look. It may be time to push back pushy people.

SAGITTARIUS—November 22-December 22

A bonus for hard work is yours for the asking — or the writing. A sense of mystery heightens your personal appeal, but don't carry the image to silly extremes.

CAPRICORN—December 23-January 20

Be aware of anyone too eager to lead you on a new path. Financial favor is returned. Romantic entanglement has its amusing side. Postponements are dotted through the week.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Often impulsive, always sensitive to wishes of others. Taste is impeccable, and this is a year that lets you show off to important new friends and admirers. Academic question shouldn't be stalled beyond early fall.

BORN THIS WEEK

May 7th, actor Darren McGavin. 8th, actress Melissa Gilbert. 9th, actress Candice Bergen. 10th, dancer Fred Astaire. 11th, actor Phil Silvers. 12th, nurse Florence Nightingale. 13th, singer Stevie Wonder.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

To all interested agencies, groups and persons:

The City of Quincy proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

F O R G I - O ' C O N N E L L
PROPERTIES III - Estimated Cost of Project $35,688,709.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, Quincy has decided not to prepare an Environment Impact Statement under the National Environmental Protection Act of 1969 (PL 91-190). The reasons for the decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

a. The facility will not create excessive traffic or other impacts on the environment.

b. The proposed project conforms to the existing comprehensive revitalization plan for North Quincy.

An Environmental Review Record concerning the project has been made by the City which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above mentioned address and is available for public examination and copying upon request.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the Department of Planning and Community Development. Such written comments should be received at the Community Development Agency on or before May 22, 1981. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Repairs Underway $28 Million To Modernize City Hospital

By FRANK MORTIMER

For a few weeks the emergency room at Quincy City Hospital may look like it needs more help than the patients who come in for treatment.

Workmen are chipping away a brick partition, ceiling tiles are down and electrical wires are visible.

But the repairs now underway in the emergency room and several other areas of the hospital are just the beginning of plans to build "a brand new hospital" out of the old one, according to A. A. Rocuzzo, assistant director of operations at QCH.

Rocuzzo said Hospital Corporation of America, which began running the facility in January, plans to spend upwards of $28 million in the next five years replacing some buildings and refurbishing others.

He said several plans for rebuilding the hospital were developed in 1976, but that HCA was rejecting old proposals in favor of new ideas now under discussion.

Rocuzzo could give no details at this time on likely major alterations in the future.

During a tour of the hospital Tuesday afternoon, however, he did show the immediate changes underway. These include:

- Rebuilding the electrical and mechanical equipment in two West wing elevators at a cost of about $128,000. Rocuzzo said these repairs were underway before the HCA took over. The two elevators were rated "marginally acceptable" by the Department of Public Safety after a fall inspection, Rocuzzo said.

- Relocation of the Outpatient Department from the basement of the administrative building to a basement area of the East Wing. This work requires installation of steel studded walls to make patient treatment rooms and a nurses area where there is now only open space, Rocuzzo said.

- Relocation of the cashier's windows and cash office from the Administrative Building to an area adjacent of the admitting office in the West Wing.

With the cash office in its present location, people escorting patients from the hospital must make a long trip through the building to obtain a release slip. This inconvenience will be minimized through the relocation, Rocuzzo said.

He credited the Woman's Auxiliary of Quincy City Hospital for donating about $20,000 for repairs and new medical equipment in the emergency room.

He said HCA officials hope the immediate repairs will help demonstrate the company's concern with improving services.

TOUR GUIDES for the city's walking tours which begin June 1 had their first meeting of the year recently. Assembled at the Constitution Sculpture in front of City Hall Annex were, from left, Maria Andrews, Lisa Lindin, Carol Pisano of the Quincy Planning Department; Carrie Hallett, Brian Buckley, Planning Department; Ward 5 Councillor Steve McGrath who thanked the guides on behalf of the city; Paula Foye, John Ramsden, Kathy Stempkowski, and Sue Barron.

To Seek Re-election

No Mayor's Race For Sheets

By TOM HENSHAW

City Councillor James A. Sheets has taken himself out of the race for mayor, at least for 1981, but he has left the door wide open for a run for that office in 1985 or 1987.

"The question is not, 'Could I win the election?'" he said, "but, 'Is it the best time for me and the city?'"

"I don't feel that right now I could give my whole heart and full time to the job of mayor while depriving my family of my time at this particular point in their lives."

Instead, he said, he will run for re-election to a fifth two-year term on the Council from Ward 4.

Sheets, who is a teacher at Quincy Junior College, has four children. Kimberly Jo 17, James 13, Robert Tad 11, and Luke 5.

"In about four years," he said, "two of them will be in college, one about to graduate, and Luke will be 10. At that point I would be able to function as mayor."

Sheets' removal from the race leaves two announced candidates,

City Councillors Francis X. McCauley and Daniel G. Raymond.

Reports have Mayor Arthur H. Tobin being appointed clerk of Quincy District Court and, if that goes through, he will not be a candidate for a third term.

Sheets said that he gave serious consideration to running "and we honestly felt that in a three-man field with Arthur out, and even in a four-man field with Arthur in, we could win."

"But," he added, "winning or losing is not the only factor."

"When you are elected mayor you have reached the point where you have to give public office 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and 52 weeks a year of your time."

"The job calls for an enormous investment of time and energy. It means you have to say to your family, 'You will not be able to rely on me for anything of substance from two to four years.'"

"You have to be ready to sacrifice your family life and I am not ready to do that at this time."

Sheets indicated that he feels the mayor's office is not a very attractive job right now with all the money problems that are hanging over the city.

"For all practical purposes," he said, "the state basically sets the budget for the city."

"That means that, for the next two to four years at least, there will probably be only two areas of creativity left for the mayor."

"One is the area of development. A lot can be done for the downtown which is relatively unaffected by the present fiscal problems."

"Also the mayor can explore new techniques of economy and efficiency on the municipal level."

"The City Council can play a role in both areas so if I stay in the City Council I can be part of both."

Reject Concessions

Firefighters' Court Action Still On

The dispute between the city and its firefighters over 10 jobs has gone back into limbo for the time being.

An agreement that would have restored the 10 laid off firefighters to their jobs in exchange for some contract concessions by the union was rejected Saturday by the membership, 98-65.

The next steps in the dispute are a hearing before the Civil Service Commission Wednesday, May 20, and a date in Norfolk Superior Court on the firefighters suit against the city Friday, May 22.

George Lamb, president of the firefighters union, said the vote surprised him in view of the fact that the agreement was endorsed by the union's officers and its attorney.

"I don't know what happens now," said Lamb. "This agreement appeared to be the bottom line as far as the officers of the union are concerned.

"I guess the membership just didn't want to make any concessions."

"I don't know what happens now," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "In my heart I know I tried to bring the men back but the majority of their comrades viewed it differently."

Tobin said he suspected that Gov. Edward J. King's surprise Friday announcement that there may be $200 million more in state aid for cities and towns played a role in the rejection.

"I think most of the firefighters decided they would rather wait and see what happens to the additional aid," he said.

"But we don't know if there will be any additional aid, or how much it will be, or when it will come, or what formula will be used for distribution."

"Until there is a final vote of the Legislature, it is subject to change on a daily basis."

The Question Is:

To Dance Or Not To Dance On Sundays?

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

To dance or not to dance on Sundays in Quincy -- that's the question to be discussed at the May 26, License Board meeting beginning at 10 a.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The License Board invites residents of the city to voice their opinions on the matter which could result in a policy changing decision.

The topic was discussed at Tuesday's meeting in regard to a request from Quincy Bay Inn, 24-29 Hancock St., for a Sunday entertainment license to allow dancing by patrons and guests from 1 p.m. to midnight.

As far back as the 1930's, Quincy's License Board has prohibited dancing on Sundays except for functions such as weddings and anniversaries, according to City Clerk John M. Gillis.

At the board's request, secretary Theresa Gacia had conducted a survey of surrounding towns and their stand on the matter. The survey showed that dancing is allowed on Sundays in Canton and Stoughton, not allowed in Randolph, and allowed in instances approved by selectmen or the mayor in Braintree, Weymouth and Brockton.

Police Chief Francis Finn said he had no objection to dancing in Quincy on Sundays.

"I'd rather see people dancing than drinking," said Finn. Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh agreed.

Finn also said he favored consideration of Sunday licenses on an individual basis.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald cautioned the board that "if you give a (Sunday license) to one, you have to give it to them all."

City Councillor Joanne Condon, (Cont'd on Page 18)

6 Auditor Candidates

The number of candidates for the $34,134 post of city auditor has dropped to six.

City Council President Leo J. Kelly, chairman of a special committee that is reviewing candidates for the post, said James Downey, 64 Hovey St., Atlantic, general accounting manager for Digital Equipment Corp., has dropped out of the field.

The committee will meet Saturday, May 16, at 9:30 a.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall to interview five of the six candidates.

Charles Edgar will be interviewed at 9:30 a.m., Ronan Fitzpatrick at 10 a.m., Robert E. Foy III at 10:30 a.m., William McArdle at 11 a.m. and Robert Trahan at 11:30 a.m.

James Mullaney will be away attending his daughter's college graduation and will be interviewed at a later date.

The Phone Rang At 2 A.M. And . . .

Father, Son Reunited After Quarter Century

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"I was dumbfounded, but it was great," says Lawrence Richardson of a phone call he received four months ago at 2 a.m. from a son he hadn't seen or heard from in 25 years.

"It was like he was lost and now we've come together," said Richardson who lives at 82 Grove St., West Quincy, with his wife, Georgette, and their children, Scott, 19, Todd, 16, and Lori, 13.

Richardson last saw his son, Mark, as a baby of two or three. He and his former wife divorced and she moved to California with the baby.

"I didn't know where he was," said Richardson, who said Mark's name had been changed illegally which prevented him from tracing his son.

Twenty five years went by before an aunt told Mark about his father. Then came the 2 a.m. phone call.

A manager with Avco Thrift, Mark made plans to visit his father and new family in August. But the summer seemed too long to wait and the reunion was moved up to May.

Mark arrived last week with his wife, Mary, and children Kristopher, 2, and Lauren, eight months.

Said Richardson, an assistant manager with M. Rosenblatt & Sons, Inc., "It's been beautiful. Like finding a new family."

Richardson says there's a family resemblance between himself and Mark, and even between himself and Kristopher.

And he reports that his children have reacted well to the reunion.

"It's been fantastic. There are no half-brothers and half-sisters with them - just sisters and brothers," reports Richardson.

The reunited family has enjoyed many activities together during the week, according to Richardson, including celebrating the third wedding anniversary of Mark and his wife at the Barnside Tavern.

They even celebrated Mother's Day together. If it had been Father's Day, the story would've seemed like it was written by a Hollywood scriptwriter.

But just like the best kind of Hollywood movies, there is a happy ending.

The reunion wasn't just a one shot deal to be followed by long distance phone calls from California and cards on special occasions.

Mark and his family have decided to make the reunion permanent. They're moving to the East Coast.

HN Council To Nominate Officers

Unique Play At Snug Harbor

'Baby X': Boy Girl Or Does It Really Matter?

By FRANK MORTIMER

This play might have been unthinkable a generation ago.

But the 200 children and handful of parents who watched "Baby X" in the auditorium of Snug Harbor Elementary School Tuesday morning seemed to like the idea of a child free to do needlepoint or play football.

"Children shouldn't have to be stereotyped like they were in my generation," said Nancy Campbell of 165 Taffrail Rd. Mrs. Campbell, a mother of seven felt it would do her daughter, Christine, good to see traditional boy-girl play roles opened up.

"Baby X", written in 1972, was performed by Deanna Hebert's fourth grade class under the direction of Sandra Goldstein, a Title I teacher.

A group of first graders from Ellen Johnston's class introduced the play with a poem called "Roles Are Changing", written by Sandra Goldstein.

"Just a few short years ago / People had a plan / Certain things were for a woman / Certain things for a man," the poem began.

The children then pointed out that nowadays, men can be telephone operators and women can be bakers. The important thing, they said, is that "you do what's right for you."

The play dramatized the development of a child, nicknamed "Baby X", whose gender was deliberately withheld from friends, relatives and classmates as part of a scientific experiment. The idea was to see how such a child would get along in life. Would that child be hurt by a lack of a boy or girl role during childhood? Would it make no difference? Or would "Baby X" thrive in the absence of a traditional role to be followed?

At first the going was rough. Relatives wanted nothing to do with a baby that was neither he nor she. Other kids were put off by a classmate who answered all gender related questions with "I'm an X." They were even more upset when X went on to win both the relay race and the spelling B.

Before long the children gave up asking "are you a boy or a girl." Instead, they began to imitate X's behavior.

Susie refused to wear dresses because they interfered with her gymnastics. Tom, a football star, began to wheel his football helmet in a doll carriage.

The kids enjoyed every minute of this "mixed up, happy and free" atmosphere.

But the parents objected. They protested to the school principal, forcing him to order tests on X.

The doctors concluded that X knows if he/she is a boy or a girl, and is therefore in no danger of turning into a sexually mixed up adult.

The drama ends with X playing patty cake with another child. An adult asks the new friend "are you a boy or girl?"

The child answers: "I'm a Y", a retort that seemed to tickle the crowd of real children watching the play.

"Baby X" was one of several activities scheduled this week in observance of "Immersion Week for Educational Equity," a federally sponsored program under the Woman's Educational Equity Act.

On Monday, Snug Harbor students saw a play, "The Wizard of Oz," about a princess who wants to try new occupations.

Wednesday was career day, which the children observed by making hats associated with jobs that interest them.

Thursday is Mary Pratt Day, in honor of the gym teacher who spent nearly 40 years working in the Quincy School System.

On Friday the children will examine the images of men and women portrayed in the media.

The performers in "Baby X" were Pamela Tivnan, Joseph Scieszko, Kimberly Richards, Michael Ramsey, Yvette Pantier, Kristen Miller, Denise Keefe, Tina Jandrow, Denise Hurley, Michael Horrigan, Peter Hendrikson, Virginia Fisher, Earl Eaton, Ernie Deane, Stephen Daggett, Franklin Clifford, Christine Campbell, Barbara Bock, and Robert Austin.

The poem was recited by Tara Anshewitz, Jason Mott, Brian Clifford, Dennis Frasu, Erica Papkey, Troy Price, Michael Walsh, James Hallahan, Michael Jones, Richard Molina, Jason Owen, John Curtis, and Christine Powers.

Editorial Keep Community Programs Alive

By the time some of you read this it may be too late.

But, since The Sun comes out early Wednesday afternoon before the School Committee meets, there's a chance there is still time. We hope so.

To put it bluntly, the whole community services program at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, which involves 40 groups and 4,000 people, is about to go down the drain for want of School Committee action and a one-shot appropriation of $10,000.

For the past six years, the School Committee has appropriated some $55,000 a year to make the school available evenings and weekends to such groups as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, Cerebral Palsy, the Southwest Senior Citizens, residents who use the big pool, and others.

That is coming to an end now due to Proposition 2½ but until Wednesday night there was still a chance to save the Community Programs with a vote of the School Committee and a one-time infusion of $10,000.

The Lincoln-Hancock Community School Council has devised a way using a revolving fund, user fees and federal community development block grant money to keep the programs going at no expense to the city after the initial $10,000.

All that was needed was School Committee and City Council endorsement of a state law, Chapter 71E, to put the plan into effect.

The School Committee was to vote on it Wednesday night.

We hope that the School Committee gave it the green-light.

The Community programs at the Lincoln Hancock School are well worth the $10,000.

They have also been a good reason to live in Quincy.

It would be a shame to have them become a casualty of Proposition 2½.

Quincy Quiz

Three winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Donald Uvanitte of 10 Beebe Rd. and Jennifer Boland of 30 Reardon St. win Quincy Sun T-shirts and a Quincy Sun bumper sticker goes to Bernard J. Tobin of 158 Darrow St.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What well-known building is located at 14 Beale St. Wollaston?
2. Pagnano Towers is an apartment house for elderly people in Quincy Point. For whom was Pagnano Towers named?
3. In what section of the city is Princess Eve Drive?
4. What is the name of the president of the Quincy Education Association?
5. True or false: The present communities of Quincy, Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook were all part of colonial Braintree?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. George Lamb is the president of the Quincy Firefighters Association.
2. The two Ocean Sts. in Quincy are located in the Squantum and Atlantic (or North Quincy) sections of the city.
3. The call letters of WJDA were taken from the initials of James D. Asher.
4. Quincy's six ward are divided into a total of 39 precincts.
5. McGrath Highway was named for Thomas J. McGrath, mayor of Quincy from 1927 to 1932.

Barry Eyes D.A.'s Office

Quincy Atty. Richard W. Barry reportedly is laying the groundwork for a run for Norfolk County district attorney next year.

Sources close to him say he is already lining up support and a campaign team. Actually, they say, he is already campaigning.

Which raises an interesting question: What's incumbent William Delahunt going to do?

BARRY

Word around political circles is that Delahunt has said he is not going to seek re-election. And that, in turn, raises another interesting question: Does he have other political plans or is he going to return to private practice?

Barry, one of Quincy's foremost lawyers, is no stranger to politics or to the Norfolk County district attorney's office.

He started his political career in 1961 when he was elected Ward 6 city councillor serving six years, the last two at-large.

He gave up the council seat after being named First Assistant District Attorney by Dist. Atty. George Burke in 1967.

As first assistant, Barry handled the prosecution of most of the major criminal cases for Burke. Barry left in 1969 to return to private practice. Today he has one of the busiest practices in the South Shore.

Barry was also Democratic state committee man for the Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook area for four years.

He knows his way around the county and a courtroom. As a candidate for district attorney, he is a formidable one.

LOST & FOUND DEPT: John Coyle of the South Shore Bank has found an old Coddington School class pin he would like to return to its owner. It's gold in color, has the words Coddington School in blue and the figure 24. (Maybe the class of 1924). On the back are the initials W.R.B. John found it in the Hancock parking area. "I'm sure it is of considerable sentimental value to the owner," he says. W.R.B. can claim it by calling John at 472-1000 ext. 402.

A HOLLYWOOD STRIKE has fouled up Ruth Gordon's plans to be the keynote speaker at the Quincy Junior College commencement June 7.

The famed Quincy actress has informed Dr. Linda Wilson at QJC that she cannot be here that date because she has to complete a movie that will keep her in Hollywood until sometime in June.

GORDON

The film was scheduled to have been finished by the end of May but it has been delayed by a strike that is now over but will keep her there until after June 7.

Miss Gordon telephoned Dr. Wilson to apologize and express hope she might be able to make it here for a future graduation. (Too bad. Class of 1981, you'd have loved her.)

SENATOR Paul D. Harold has been selected to participate in the U.S. State Department's annual foreign police conference for young political leaders June 12 in Washington. The day-long conference will provide background information on foreign policy. Secretary of State Alexander Haig will address the conference, and participants will study U.S. foreign relations, economic and business affairs, and international communications. Harold called the conference a means of gathering valuable information which may be of assistance to industry in his district.

What Kind Of People Are We?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Once again we are shocked and sickened by the vivid display of senseless violence against a public figure. Once again the predictable responses, understandable reponses, begin to come: "What shall we do?"

Perhaps at this time our concern should be more: "What kind of people ARE we? What have we become?" For our doing, both as individuals and as a society, springs from the quality of our being.

We are a nation of decent people who, for the most part, have let our deeply held convictions be held up for ridicule and eroded by liberal militants on the one hand, while on the other hand we have heard those convictions over-simplified and over-stated by militant moralists.

We are a people with Bibles in our homes, churches on our street corners, worry and fear in our hearts, disappearing natural resources, increasing financial confusion... and we never seem to make any vital connections in our minds with these seeming desperate elements of living.

We are spiritually and morally in trouble, and the qualities of love, integrity, faith... spiritual qualities... seem ephemeral at best, and totally irrelevant at worst. We have practically become atheists, and what we are... the kind of people we are... begets what we do.

I suggest we might listen to the Old Testament prophet Micah, even though his message might scorch our ears just a bit. Read his disgust with injustice, self-serving clergy, bribe-taking magistrates, manipulators of news. Hear his message of hope even in the confrontation of what seems like a doom-and-gloom theme. And hear what seems too much like over-simplification, but what we ought to give a real try: We need to be doing justice, and loving mercy, with walking humbly with our God (Micah 6:8). Let us fill our houses of worship at the time of prayer and ask God to help us be the kind of people He can bless.

Yes, Randolph Is A Neighbor

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Somewhat delayed in writing, but I was curious to find out if anyone caught the mistake in the Quincy Quiz of three weeks ago?

The question was, "What four towns border on Quincy?"

The answer provided was Weymouth, Braintree, Boston and Milton.

However, the question and answer should have been five, since Randolph was omitted.

On the technical side the answer could be taken to be three, since Weymouth and Boston share only water boundaries with Quincy.

Prop. 2½ The Worst Thing

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Prop. 2½ is the worst thing the voters of this state ever put into effect. People just didn't take the time to find out what the whole thing was about before they voted this foolish action in. Yes, I agree with the people who wanted their taxes cut. Yes, I agree that things are getting out of hand and it is time for the governments of this and other states to cut back on it's spendings but not at our expense.

When I was in high school the most important part (aside from the educational process) was the outside activities I was involved in. Which is soon to be cut. When I was in Quincy Jr. College it was the teachers who kept my interest with new and exciting courses. They too are soon to be cut. When I worked in the main office of the college it was the secretaries who knew what was going on and yes they too are soon to be cut.

I have not heard of one administrator or one government official or one aide being cut. Why is this so? There is only one answer to that and it's because the people of this state are letting it happen. Where are the lawyers trying to get the governor and others to appeal this farce? The congressmen, where are they? Why aren't they trying to change this? Is it because it doesn't effect them? Where are the people and why aren't they working to get this action overthrown?

I urge every person in this state to get out their pens and paper and write to their congressman (woman) and ask them to work on this and change it before it's too late. Don't say "someone else will do it." You do it and now! It's up to the people to stick together and fix this mess that we got ourselves into. You'd be surprised how things can get done if we only work as a team. I know we can do it. A lot of good and necessary people are being laid off from things that are important not only to adults but the students of this state who someday will become the leaders of this great but troubled land. We should be a government of the people, by the people and for the people. Are we?

Says Reagan 'Sacrificing The Poor'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Why does it seem that all the country's economic distress is blamed on the poor? How can this be true when only a small percentage of the state and federal budget actually goes to the poor? Mr. Reagan's budget cuts are proposing to take away what little the poor have, such as food stamps, medical help, and programs that help people pull themselves out of poverty, like the Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc.

I have been connected with QCAO in various roles for the past three years and I have seen many people take on a new perspective on life. QCAO does not perpetuate poverty, as Welfare programs do, but it inspires a feeling of hope and self-sufficiency by letting people know they care.

It has always been my experience that QCAO treats people with dignity, respect and compassion. The fuel assistance program, South West Community Center, Family Planning Services, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and Head Start are invaluable to the areas they serve. We must not and can not lose these programs or we will pay a high price in terms of humanity.

In conclusion, I believe President Reagan is sacrificing the poor, the elderly, and the handicapped in the name of the almighty dollar.

Help Save Quincy Community Action

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am a 73-year-old Quincy resident. About a year ago, I found myself in a terrible predicament. The cost of my fuel and housing was higher than my income level. Being a very shy person, I did not ask anyone for help. As a result, I could not buy food, and I lost over 20 pounds; going from 121 pounds down to 99 pounds. My daughter realized that I needed assistance, and notified Quincy Community Action Organization, Inc. about my situation. With the help of the staff at QCAO's South West

Community Center, I received assistance with my fuel and food bills, and was able to live more comfortably.

As time went by, I found myself getting out more often and spending more and more time at this service center. I liked what I saw. At Christmas time, the staff put together boxes of food for the poor in Germantown and other areas of Quincy. For the children in the area, they held a Christmas party complete with a Santa. They never miss the birthday of anyone associated with the center (They threw me a party and gave me a 'take and a new blazer out of their weekly sunshine fund), and they send flowers whenever someone is sick.

This center had done good for more people. It's done a world of good for me, both financially and socially. I don't know what the poor people and elderly will do if this place is not here next year.

I am writing this letter with hopes that the residents of Quincy will write their congressman, and ask them to help save Quincy Community Action and all its centers. Thank you.

Dorothy Bennett

Thank You, Friends

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I wish to thank all the people in the area for the tribute paid to my husband, the late John L. McDonnell.

In his capacity as a leader in the Babe Ruth League, he influenced the lives of many young people over the years. Therefore, it was gratifying to me to have so many of our youth travel far and wide to show their appreciation for all his hard work with them. John would have been extremely pleased and I am very grateful.

I thank you all and this comes direct from my heart.

City Council Votes Half Million For Parking, Traffic

The City Council voted to authorize the half million dollar Quincy Center Development Project to expand off street parking and open up a traffic bottleneck at Granite St. and Ross Parkway.

It would add 161 parking spaces in a lot between Granite St. and the Hancock Cemetery, widen Granite between Hancock and Upland Rd. and replace the Granite St. bridge with a larger one.

COLLEGE SITES

A steering committee narrowed to three the number of sites proposed for the community college on the South Shore — the Coddington School in Quincy, the Weymouth Fairgrounds and the Hingham Ammunition Depot.

John Costello, acting director of the Massachusetts Board of Junior Colleges urged haste in selection of a site so the college could be opened by the target date, September, 1965.

QUINCY WINS

Sophomore Larry Marotta pitched a two-hitter and struck out 11 as the Quincy High School baseball team whipped Chelsea, 5-0, for its second Greater Boston League victory against eight defeats.

The Quincy lineup included: Guerra lf, Waters rf, Marotta p, Kuja c, Ayer 2b, Ekblom 1b, Ferris cf, Mooney ss, Myer 3b.

RETAIN METERS

A special City Council committee, headed by George G. Burke, reported that parking meters should be retained in the municipal parking areas in downtown Quincy.

The report also suggested that the meters on Hancock St. between City Hall and School St. be decommissioned for 60 days and one hour parking be allowed in the area.

It was proposed that 100 meters in the John Hancock Parking Area at Chestnut St. and Revere Rd. be converted to permit parking for three hours.

CITY GOVERNMENT DAY

Edmund Quincy of Boston, a direct descendant of the early settler of the same name, was guest speaker on the City Government Day program in the Quincy High School auditorium.

The program observed the 75th anniversary of the incorporation of Quincy as a city.

ASK YOUR CHILDREN

1. True or false: If there is a fire in your house, you should not tell anyone, but, first call the fire department. Ans: False. Always get everyone out of the house first. Then notify the fire department.
2. True or false: Smoke contains poisonous gases and can kill you if you breathe much of it. Ans: True. The best way to avoid smoke is to keep as low as possible because smoke rises and works its way downward in a room.
3. True or false: You should always sleep with your bedroom door closed. Ans: True. A closed door is the best defense against spreading fire.
4. True or false: If your clothes catch on fire, you should run for help. Ans: False. Running is the worst thing you can do. Wrap yourself in a blanket or rug or roll on the floor or ground to smother the flames.

Most people we know don't have time to remember banking hours. Fortunately, if they're customers of Quincy Savings Bank, they don't have to. Because with a REDi-CASH Card and our automatic teller machines, our customers can arrive any time. Day or night. Weekend or holiday.

Nonstop service is a new departure we think you'll find is a real help. The convenience of making deposits, loan payments and withdrawals or transferring money from one account to another whenever you choose is hard to beat.

And if your own schedule is as crowded as we suspect it is, there's another feature you'll appreciate, when you're away from home. That's being able to use your REDi-CASH Card to cash personal, payroll and government checks - within established limits - at more than 100 supermarkets and at thirty-seven bank locations in Eastern Massachusetts.

Without any reservations, we think every busy person should have a REDi-CASH Card. To apply for yours, call us at 471-3500, or visit any of our REDi SERVICE offices.

City Club To Sponsor Parade For L.I. Hospital Patients

The Quincy City Club will sponsor a parade for the patients at the Long Island Hospital Sunday, May 17, at 2 p.m.

The North Quincy High School Red Raiders Marching Band, sporting their new uniforms, will perform and provide a series of marches for the patients, many of whom are confined to the hospital grounds and wards.

A number of other attractions will be featured in the parade.

Flags, balloons and popcorn will be distributed to the staff, patients and relatives to provide an old fashioned parade atmosphere to the event.

Mrs. June L. Sutcliffe, Therapeutic Activities Director of Long Island Hospital, is coordinating the program with Richard J. Koch, president of the City Club.

The City Club, as part of its annual Christmas charity program, has adopted the Long Island Hospital as one of the holiday recipients with gifts of television sets, radios and numerous other items for the past seven years.

The City Club is again sponsoring the Annual Poster and Essay Contest for boys and girls attending Quincy public, parochial and private schools.

This year's theme is "My Favorite Quincy Historic Site" with a choice of the Adams Mansion, First Parish Church of the Presidents, the Dorothy Quincy House, John Adams or John Quincy Adams Birthplaces, Adams Academy, and Colonel Josiah Quincy Homestead, Muirhead St.

The poster contest is for children in the first through sixth grade with the posters not to exceed 22 inches by 28 inches in size. Grades one through three and four through six will be judged separately with prizes for each group.

Essay contest winners, students in grades 7 through 9, must explain why it is their favorite historic site in 150 words or less.

A first prize of a $100 U.S. savings bond and second prize of a $50 bond will be awarded to the winner and runnerup in each group.

Deadline for entries is Friday, May 15. David J. Donaghue and Robert T. Woodman are co-chairmen of the poster and essay contest.

Koch Club Awards 6 More Scholarships

Anthony T. Delmonico, chairman of the Koch Club Scholarship Committee, announces the following winners for the 1981 Koch Club Scholarship Awards.

North Quincy High School winners: Miss Lisa Cavanaugh, 12 Eustis St., Wollaston and Paul A. Schaeztl, 88 Clement Terrace, Montclair. Each will receive a $100 scholarship to the school of their choice.

Quincy High School winners: Miss Paula Marie Morrison, 16 Doyle Terrace, Germantown and James Hickey, 32 Bay View Ave., Houghs Neck. A $100 award will be provided to both.

Quincy Vocational Technical School winners: Miss Patricia M. Cullen, 100 Doane St., Germantown and Daniel E. Whyte, 1 Beacon St., Quincy Point. Both will receive a $50 award.

Presentation of the awards will take place at the 30th annual Koch Club Flag Day Observance Monday, June 15, at 7:15 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Koch Club Awards total $500 annually. This year's amount brings the figure to $9,400 since the program was initiated in 1959. There have been 106 recipients.

The Scholarship Fund began in 1959.

Although the Koch Club is largely involved in athletic and recreation programs, the prime purpose of the Scholarship Fund is to impress upon the boys and girls the fact that the organization is keenly concerned with the scholastic and vocational education and ability of its members for their future happiness and success.

The Koch Club established a Permanent Scholarship Fund on the 25th anniversary of the organization in 1973 with a $5,000 grant established in the City of Quincy. The preceding action guarantees that the Scholarship Program will continue annually should the Koch Club no longer exist.

The Perpetual Fund has increased to $11,000 and continues to grow. It will assume the Koch Club scholarship responsibilities on the 50th anniversary of the organization in 1998.

Mothers, Children Lead Service At Squantum Church

Mothers and their children from the First Church of Squantum led the congregation in worship on Mother's Day.

The call to worship was given by Marie Reister and her daughters, Karin and Kristen. The opening hymn was "Faith of Our Mothers" using new words set to the old hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers."

Joan Hansen and her daughter, Katherine, led the congregation in the opening prayer. Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, spoke to the children about "A Mother's Love."

Louise Randall read a story about Jesus and His mother from the Scriptures.

Ellen Ogilvie and her children, Andrew and Lori Beth, gave the prayer of dedication after the offering.

Karenann Fantucchio, daughter of Don and Barbara Frazer, accompanied the Chancel Choir as they sang "Because You Are God's Chosen Ones" by G. Alan Smith.

Dr. Langevin preached on "Just Like A Mother."

The service concluded with an observance of the Lord's Supper before which members of the congregation renewed their commitment to God and the church by reading the Church Covenant together. Seated around the Lord's Table with the pastor were Deacons Doris Longmire, Don Frazer, Katherine Hansen, Tom Williamson and Leon MacIntyre.

Greeters were Katie Crossman and other members of her family, including her daughter Hazel Mayne, her granddaughter Ellen Ogilvie, and her great-grandchildren, Andrew and Beth Ogilvie.

Mrs. Crossman, who is in her nineties, still is an active participant in the church and leads a very active life. She is also the oldest mother in the church.

The morning began with a special Mother's Day breakfast prepared by young people in the church and supervised by Barbara Colwell and Gretchen Bumpus.

After the service, there was a special Mother's Day reception hosted by Barbara Colwell, Barbara Fluhr and Pat Olson.

The service next Sunday will begin at 10:15 a.m.

St. Chrysostom's Day Care Center, Inc. is accepting applications for enrollment in the fall term.

The school, for children ages three to five, is held Mondays,

Wednesdays and Fridays 9 to 11:30 a.m.

In its 15th year, the school offers arts and crafts, music, games and basic skills instruction. Emphasis is placed on working with children in small groups within a caring context.

Registration will be held in early June. For more information, call the church office at 472-0737, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Clifford Boatner Piano Recital At Wollaston Church

The Singles & Doubles Group of The Wollaston Congregational Church will present a piano recital by Clifford Boatner Saturday May 16 at 8 p.m. in the parish hall.

In addition to teaching mathematics at both Quincy High School and Quincy Junior College, Boatner gives piano recitals and is a composer.

Among his selections will be compositions by Handel, Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Brahms and Khatchaturian.

The public is invited to attend.

Day Of Prayer Saturday

A day of prayer will be held for the youth of Quincy and the South Shore Saturday, May 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Our Lady's Chapel at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

The program, which is sponsored by the Sacred Heart Prayer Community, will have scripture readings conducted on the hour and young people may choose the time most available to attend.

The day of prayer is in response to the successful one held in March.

GOD
FORGIVES.
Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to broken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

TREASURY EMPLOYEE of the month Stephen Galvin of Wollaston (right) is congratulated by State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane upon his selection for the honor. Galvin joined Crane's staff in 1978 and holds a BS degree in accounting from Bentley College. He is also a Certified Public Accountant. Said Crane, "he's a good worker and a credit to our operation in the treasury, and I can't think of anyone more deserving of this selection than Steve".

Slate Of Officers Presented At Montclair Men's Club

Raymond Cunningham, president of the Montclair Men's Club nominating committee, presented a slate of officers for the coming year at a recent meeting at the clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Rd.

The slate will be acted upon at the June 4, meeting when nominations for office will take place.

The slate includes: Leo Doyle, as president; Thomas Bridges, vice president; William Connelly, treasurer; Richard Cecchini, recording secretary; Richard Post, financial secretary; Stanley Kogut, corresponding secretary; James Locke, sergeant at arms; and William Bereszniewicz, trustee, three years.

Other nominating committee members are George Olson, Thomas Martin, James Locke and Joseph Gildea.

Also at the meeting, exterior painting of the clubhouse was unanimously approved. Members of the building committee will supervise the project.

Edward Duff of 440 West Squantum St., has accepted appointment to the beano committee which conducts the event Fridays at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Cancer Crusade Reaches 50% Of Goal

Quincy Cancer Crusade volunteers have collected and turned in $6,500 or 50 percent of the $13,000 goal for the house-to-house campaign in one week, announces Richard J. Koch, Crusade Chairman.

Koch said, residents throughout the city have been most responsive and generous and a number are still waiting for a visit from their neighborhood volunteer assigned to collect.

Koch requests that crusaders who have been unable to complete their assignment do so as soon as possible and return the Crusade Kits to the main office of the Hancock Bank, 1495 Hancock St., Quincy Center or any of the branches.

Persons or homes not contacted to date who wish to contribute may contact any of the ward chairmen for the official donation envelopes.

Ward 1 — Richard J. Koch, Jr., 46 Putnam St.; Ward 2 — Theodore DeCristofaro, 17 Murdock Ave.; Ward 3 — Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, 139 Highland Ave.; Ward 4 — David J. Donaghy, 88 Wallace Rd.; Ward 5 — Joseph E. Burke, 145 Willow St.; Ward 6 — Mrs. Linda Bowes, 241 Newbury Ave.

Koch said the final deadline for returns of the house-to-house campaign is Friday, May 15.

Any person receiving a kit but is unable to complete the assignment may contact the city or ward chairman so that other volunteers may contact the neighborhood area assigned.

The American Cancer Society does not receive money from the United Fund nor is it government-funded. The Society depends upon voluntary gifts to support its cancer control program.

Quarry St. Barrels No Health Hazard

The mystery of the barrels that were dumped in a vacant lot off Quarry St. over the weekend has been solved quickly and quietly with no apparent danger to the public health.

The 25 barrels were empty, said Winthrop Wade of the Health Department, and they were picked up Monday afternoon by the owner, M.M. Mansfield Barrel Co. of North Weymouth.

Wade said the truck with 58 empty barrels was stolen from the Mansfield lot sometime Saturday night.

A resident of an apartment house on Quarry St. heard the boom of the empty barrels being dumped about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and found them in the lot later that morning.

"There was a slight odor coming from several of them," said Wade,

"but there was no hazard."

He said some of the barrels were stencilled "spent methyl chloroform," and at least one was labelled, "trichlorethylene." There was no evidence that anything spilled out of them, he said.

Health Department personnel and representatives of the State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering checked out the area and found no evidence of hazardous material, he said.

The stolen truck, with 33 empty barrels aboard, was found in the parking lot of a restaurant on Morrissey Boulevard in Dorchester, where a second vehicle was reported stolen.

Another truck from the Mansfield company picked up the Quarry St. barrels and by 3:30 p.m. Monday all were secure, said Wade.

OPENING CEREMONIES were held recently at Dunkin' Donuts, 1462 Hancock St., Quincy Square, with Mayor Arthur Tobin cutting a roll of 50, one dollar bills instead of the traditional ribbon. The money was then presented to the mayor for the charity of his choice. He selected the Quincy-South Shore Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. From left, are City Councillor Francis McCauley, Bernie Reisberg, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association president; Anthony Andrade, store owner; Mike Rosenthal, Dunkin' Donuts district manager of sales; Mayor Tobin; Austin Wickens, QCBPA executive director; and City Councillor Daniel Raymondi, chairman of the Downtown Economic Development Committee. In 1980, interest paid depositors rose to a new high of $34.5 million. Assets increased 5.2% to $459 million. And deposits were up to 2.8% to $421.3 million. South Boston Savings Bank's growth continues, thanks to our depositors and their expanding needs.

Assets comprised residential and commercial mortgage loans in Boston, the surrounding area, and across the country. Plus government, municipal and corporate securities and money market instruments.

These assets give the South Boston Savings Bank the strength to meet the ongoing challenges of the 1980's. The record of growth and reliability South Boston Savings Bank started in 1863 continues with our commitment to improve service to the public in the years ahead.

Special Activities For Nursing Home Week

Quincy nursing homes are observing "Nursing Home Week" this week with special activities honoring their residents, their families and the volunteers who provide service through the year.

The feature of the week at the Quincy Nursing Home, 11 McGrath Highway, will be a flea market Saturday, May 16, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., including a raffle, white elephant articles, baked goods and craft items.

Sale proceeds will be used for special resident activities.

Other activities include:
Thursday, May 14 - Robbins House Convalescent Home, 200 Elm St., will hold an open house for the public with entertainment and refreshments between 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Quincy Nursing Home will take six wheelchair residents on a tour of the Arnold Arboretum in Boston and six other wheelchair residents to the Trailside Museum in the Blue Hills.

The Presidential Convalescent Home, 43 Old Colony Ave., Wollaston, will hold a staff appreciation luncheon.

Friday, May 15 - The Presidential Convalescent Home will hold an "Ice Cream Special" with entertainment.

Saturday, May 16 - Robbins House is planning a special men's brunch.

George White Elected Festival Committee Chairman

George F. White, budget coordinator of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, was recently elected general chairman of the committee, succeeding the late George C. Fay.

White, 51, is involved in many community functions as well as the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. He is retail/national advertising director of The Patriot Ledger.

He and his wife, the former Dorothy Shea, are parents of three daughters and a son, Karen, Donna, Maureen and Ronald.

In accepting the chairmanship, White said that he was "happy to take over the directorship and certainly there will be big shoes to fill ... Those of the late George Fay."

Also at the meeting, the committee established as its Christmas Festival theme, "Memories of Christmas Past."

The full committee was scheduled to meet last night (Wednesday), at 7 p.m. at the Civil Defense Building, Sea St., Quincy.

Houghs Neck Fitness Class Concludes

The physical fitness class that has been meeting Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Community Center has concluded until next fall.

WJDA Wins County Award For Service

Radio Station WJDA has been cited by the Norfolk County commissioners for exemplary service to the citizens of the county and the South Shore by keeping them well-informed.

James D. Asher Jr., president and treasurer of WJDA, received the award from Commissioners James J. Collins of Milton and David C. Ahearn of Norwood.

"WJDA has proven over many years to be a responsible primary news medium serving the citizens of the South Shore and deserves recognition for its superior performance," said Collins.

"Jay Asher and his entire staff are a credit to Norfolk County."

To Dance Or Not To Dance On Sunday?

(Cont'd from Page 1)

in whose ward the Quincy Bay Inn is located, said she had no objection to dancing in Quincy on Sundays. However, she too, cautioned the board against making a decision Tuesday.

Mrs. Condon pointed out that the inn's request was not officially on the agenda, but rather had been scheduled for just discussion.

"A decision will affect all of Quincy," she said. No opportunity had been given for people to register objections to Sunday dancing in the city, she noted.

Gillis agreed that time should be allowed for people to voice any opinions.

While on the subject of Quincy Bay Inn, Mrs. Condon commented to Finn that a police detail had been one man short at the inn last week-end. A detail of three Quincy and one MDC policemen is a requirement of the inn's license.

Finn explained that his department does not always have a full complement of men to fill details, and that Fridays and Saturdays are busy nights for the police.

The same officers are routinely given the same assignments, and non-assigned policemen have to be used for new assignments such as at Quincy Bay Inn, Finn said.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald exploded that that system was "terrible" and that the officers should be rotated.

"It's a lousy policy," said MacDonald. He said it presented too much opportunity for officers to become friends with establishment owners. Dr. McKeogh agreed.

Chief Finn responded that MacDonald was "out of place making a comment like that" and countered that the Building Department also sends the same men out on the same assignments.

Gillis agreed that MacDonald's comment was out of place, and the meeting was adjourned.

Rabies Clinic For Pets Saturday

The Health Department will hold its annual rabies vaccine clinic for dogs and cats Saturday (May 16) from 12 noon to 4 p.m. at the Public Works garage on Sea St.

Rabies shots will be administered to dogs and cats at least three months of age by Dr. Alan V. Morse.

"Rabies shots are required every three years now by state law," said Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh, "and for a fee of $3, everyone with a pet ought to take advantage of this program."

MONARCH III - Construction of the seven-story $36 million office building in the State Street South complex could begin as early as next fall.

Builder Sees Monarch III Under Construction In Fall

Peter O'Connell of OBC, Inc., the Quincy-based construction firm, said Tuesday the company would like to break ground for the $36 million Monarch III office building sometime in the fall.

Monarch III is the third and largest building planned for construction in the State Street South complex by Forge Development Corp. and the O'Connell brothers of Quincy.

The big delay right now in getting the project underway is the application that is pending for a $6 million urban development action grant (UDAG) to build a parking garage with the building.

Planning Director James Lydon said the Department of Housing and Urban Development is expected to act on the UDAG application around June 15.

The seven-story Monarch III will be the third and largest (330,000 square feet) of the three Monarchs planned for the State Street South area.

Monarch I (186,000 square feet) is now the Commercial Union building since its rental by the insurance company of the same name, and Monarch II (172,000 square feet) is under construction.

Rentals of Monarch II are going well," said O'Connell, "and we have a major tenant interested in Monarch III."

Dennis Ryan Hospitalized On Retirement Day

Quincy District Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan was hospitalized Wednesday, the last day of his 30-year tenure as clerk.

Ryan reportedly was being treated for pneumonia at Mass. General Hospital.

A retirement party at the Courthouse in his honor was cancelled, Assistant Clerk Robert Bloom said.

Ryan received special tribute at the Quincy Bar Association's 24th annual Law Day Exercises May 1.

"The law holds free society together," Ryan said in his address. "It's the air we breathe...it's the language of liberty." He was greeted by a standing ovation.

At Little Loop Banquet

Ferguson Stresses Education, Warns Of Drugs, Drinking

Vagas Ferguson, Patriots running back and Notre Dame's all-time career rushing leader, stressed the importance of a good education and refusal to go along with friends involved in drugs and drinking habits, as the guest speaker at the recent 27th annual awards dinner of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

Ferguson received a standing ovation at the conclusion of a question and answer period.

Sen. Paul D. Harold received the James M. Carey Memorial trophy as sponsor of the championship team from President and Dinner Chairman Joe Gildea and he presented awards to Capt. Steve Peceevich, Jeff Bouffaro, Tom Cook and Stan Kovalski III.

Comdr. Peter Landry of the George F. Bryan Post presented second place trophies to Capt. Dick Durham, Neil Hatfield, Robby Weikel and Bill Reilly.

Members of the James R. McIntyre Club receiving third place trophies were Capt. Bryan Ellis, John Palma, Chris Condon and Mark Waterman.

Vice President Leo Doyle of the Montclair Men's Club presented team high three trophies to Capt. Brian Flanagan, Jim Saley, Frank Doherty and Jim White.

Team high single trophies were presented by sponsor Joseph E. Brett to Capt. Paul Maloney, Dan Logue, Joe Baiardi and Chris Connolly.

Steve Peceevich won the high average award for a 103.5, Ed Tasney took the high three with a 353 and Jack Outerbridge's 139 won the high single trophy.

The David R. Brodie Memorial Award for good sportsmanship, named in honor of the former league officer who passed away last December, was presented to Capt. Paul Maloney of the Brett Club by David Brodie Jr. of Braintree.

Matt McDonnell of the Wollaston Bowladrome team received the Alden 'Pop' Hatfield Memorial Award for most improved bowler with a 17.3 increase, from Jack Hatfield, son of the deceased director.

Fourteen boys received bowling pens for perfect attendance and 34 non-winners were presented with consolation trophies.

The evening concluded with presentation of awards to participants in the Little Loop bowl-a-thon to combat muscular dystrophy and related diseases.

Treasurer Stanley Kovalski announced that $1,376.40 was collected in pledges and $160.00 from chances on a baseball signed by Ted Williams and members of the Red Sox, donated by Gildea.

Fifty-five of 60 boys took part and the final amount realized was $1,536.40.

The league has raised $10,187.85 (including $510.60 at the 25th anniversary dinner in 1979,) in six years.

● Junior Farm League

Braves On War Path

The Braves are off on the war path in the Junior Farm Baseball League, winning their first three games.

They walloped the Cubs, 15-7, with Timothy Brillo the winning pitcher. He hurled a six-hitter and also had a home run and a single. Dan Crespi had three hits and Sean Murphy, Bobby Crespi and Joey Bevilacqua two each. Randy Papkey was the losing pitcher. Tommy Hack had two hits and Brian Snow had a double for the Cubs.

The Braves scored four runs in the first and held on for a 7-5 win over the Giants with Sean Murphy the winning pitcher and Peter McLaughlin the loser. Murphy struck out 10 but walked eight and he aided his own cause with a grand slam for the four first inning runs.

Bobby Crespi had two hits and Ralph Richardson homered for the Braves and Danny Crespi and Brillo played well defensively. Dave Murphy pitched excellent relief ball for the Giants, striking out six in three innings. Sean Burke had a home run and Steve Cappila a triple for the Giants.

The Braves also rolled over the Pirates, 22-6, scoring 11 runs in the second inning. Bobby Crespi was the winner, pitching four-hit ball and struck out 12. However, 10 walks helped the Pirates score their six runs.

Bobby and Sean Murphy had three hits each and Richardson had two including a home run. Jeff Bell had two hits and Brillo a homer.

The Dodgers scored 10 runs in the fifth and defeated the Cubs, 16-9, with Michael Walsh the winning pitcher. He went the distance and struck out 10. The key hits in the big fifth were Robert Geary's bases loaded triple and RBI hits by Tom Mayo and Matt Donovan. Playing well for the Dodgers were Bob Hanning, Kevin Heffernan, Tom Cossebram, Scott Leonard, Aaron Silverman, Jeff Freeman, Susie Kingsbury, Michael Sullivan, Sandy Callahan, Mark Krantz, Michael Danick and Mark Walsh.

The Pirates exploded for 17 runs in the third inning and bombed the Mets, 25-7, with Tim Murphy the winning pitcher. Murphy struck out 13 in five innings, but also walked 12. Eric Jancanterioro hit a homer, and Steve Nieters had a triple.

The Angels defeated the Yankees, 4-2, with Eric DeBoer the winning pitcher and Jonathan Beardsley the loser. The Yankees scored both runs in the final inning as Eddie Brosman relieved DeBoer and got a save. DeBoer struck out 11 in five innings.

DeBoer had a triple and single and three RBI. Brosman had a hit and an RBI and Scott Cunningham and Rich MacDonald had a hit each. Chris DeNatale turned in two outstanding defensive plays for the Angels.

For the Yankees Eddie Hannon pitched fine relief ball and had 11 strikeouts. Jonathan Beardsley had two hits and Tom Duddy one and Matt Beardsley played fine defensive ball.

The Angels romped over the Tigers, 8-0, with Rich MacDonald the winner, going four innings and striking out nine. DeBoer and Brosman finished up with one inning of relief apiece.

Jim Flaherty had the big hit, a three-run homer, Chris DeNatale had three hits and three RBI. Cunningham had two hits and MacDonald, Brosman, Gerry Dunning, DeBoer and Chris Abate had one each. John Anacleto played a strong defensive game.

For the Tigers pitcher Lance Gilbert struck out 17 of a possible 18 batters, including nine in a row. Danny Peccini and Jim Gordon had the only hits for the Tigers.

● South Suburban Softball

Farrington, Bombers Split Doubleheader

Farrington Market, the defending champion, broke even with the Bombers as the South

Suburban Softball League's, Quincy Division season got under way.

Farrington won the opening game, 12-2, but bowed, 7-5, in the second game as John Doyle was the winning pitcher for the Bombers.

The Outlaws, behind the pitching of Dan Dellamano and Steve O'Rourke, swept the Spoilers, 6-2 and 8-5.

The Tiger also registered a sweep, downing the Koch Club, 19-1 and 8-3. In game one Joe Condon outpitched Gary Cunniff and in the second game Steve Connolly picked up the win with Tom Koch the loser.

Bill's Welding defeated Dacy's, 11-9, in the opening game but Dacy's rebounded in the nightcap, 18-8.

Kevin Cox (2-for-3, a homer and 2 RBI's), Kevin Doyle (3-for-4 and 3 RBI's) and Bill Wylo (2-for-3) powered Bill's Welding's win, while Tony Monti was the winning pitcher. Wylo was 2-for-2 with 3 RBI's and was the losing pitcher in the second game.

PJ's Mini-Mart breezed past the Warriors in both games of their doubleheader, Dan Finn coasting over Jerry Glynn, 23-2, in the opener and Mike Guerriero hurled a 10-1 second game as Glynn again was the loser.

● Junior League

Foley, Rotary, Boston Gear All 3-0

Foley Chrysler is off to a fast start in the Quincy Junior Baseball League, winning its first three games.

Foley walloped Kiwanis, 17-6, behind the pitching of Chris Marshall and Kevin Duffy, who combined for a five-hitter and struck out nine. Bob Biagini had five hits, including a triple, Marshall also had five hits including two homers and two doubles, Kyle Robertson and Jim Dennis had two hits each, Bob Laracy had a double and Jay DiBartolo, Mike Sarda and Sean Gately each had a single. Dennis DeCoste played a fine defensive game for Kiwanis with three fielding gems and had one of his team's five hits.

Foley topped Sears, 9-7, with DiBartolo pitching six-hit ball and also belting two long home runs and driving in five runs. Duffy had a double and Biagini a single. Steve Austin and Matt Ramondi had two hits each for Sears and Ramondi made two* outstanding defensive plays.

Foley also rolled over Burgin Platner, 9-2, as Marshall earned his second win, giving up seven hits, striking out 13 and walking three. He also had three hits, including a double. Biagini and DiBartolo also had three hits each, Sean Gately had two and Duffy and Chris Meyer had one each.

For Burgin Tom McDonald had two doubles and DiMaggio had two hits.

Rotary also 3-0, defeated Keohane's, 8-6, scoring seven runs in the fifth inning. Mike Mullaney's line drive single to left drove in the winning runs. Robby Fitzgerald pitched four innings and gave up all six runs and five hits. Keohane's had taken an early four-run lead on three walks and a long home run by Hughes. Bill Burkhead was the winning pitcher and struck out the side in the last inning. Tim Hall had two hits for Rotary.

Rotary blasted the Elks, 8-0, with Burkhead (four innings) and John Pennellatore (two innings) combining for a no-hitter. Dan Ward did an outstanding job behind the plate. Fitzgerald, Burkhead and Steve Minichiello led the attack and Mark Zimmerman, Phil Thompson, Mike Mullaney, Pennellatore and Ward also had key hits.

Fast-balling Fitzgerald struck out 15 and allowed only one hit as Rotary pounded Houghs Neck, 11-2. Jim Nabsteds double drove in the two Houghs Neck runs. Minichiello, one of the league's most versatile players, stepped behind the plate to handle Fitzgerald's fast balls. Ten Rotary players had hits with Matt Collins two for three and Mike Barkus, Joe Mulvey and Tim Hall having key hits.

Rotary, after three games, has a batting average of .360. The pitchers have allowed only six hits and eight runs, while striking out 32.

Boston Gear also has a 3-0 record and edged Sears, 4-3, into extra innings. Mike Dever pitched five strong innings, giving up four hits and three runs, striking out eight and walking three. Larry Taglieri came on in the sixth to hold Sears scoreless, giving up one hit and striking out five to get the win.

The score remained tied at 3-3 until the bottom of the eighth when Tad Sheets reached on a fielders choice, stole second, went to third on a wild throw and scored the winner on Shawn Craig's double.

Taglieri had two doubles and a single. Craig a double and triple, Ricky Dunham, Mossie Houlihan, Sheets, Chad Hallett, Matt Furtado and Nancy Flukes one hit each. Joe Gendreau, Paul Adams, Mike Paccetti, Mike Cronin and Chris Higgins played well for Gear.

Gear blasted Burgin Platner, 12-2 as Taglieri hit a bases-loaded triple in the second inning to put his team ahead to stay. Dever and Taglieri shared the pitching chores with Dever getting the win.

Paccetti had a clutch triple and a single, Dunham two singles, Sheets a double and single, Craig a tape measure two-run homer and Houlihan and Adams had key hits. Flukes, Gendreau, Mike Leonard, Hallett, Cronin, Furtado and Higgins played well defensively.

Mite A's Win SOI Tourney In 4 Straight

The Quincy Mite A hockey team won four straight games to win the Sons of Italy tournament at Pilgrim Arena in Hingham last week.

Quincy opened with a 5-1 victory over Abington, bombed Weymouth, 14-1, and edged Westfield, 3-2, to make the finals.

In the championship game Quincy topped Everett, 4-1, with Matt Smith scoring two goals and Joey Fasano and Brian Zimmerman one each. Zimmerman and Kevin Daly had two assists each.

Q. A REDDISH BROWN STAIN APPEARS ON MY SHINGLE HOUSE AFTER A RAIN STORM. WHY?

A. These stains are caused by the acids in your red cedar shingles leaching out through the surface. It looks like tobacco juice. One or two coats of our alkylid primer followed by a finish coat will stop this. Stop in to my store soon. I am always available for help with your decorating needs.

Saluti Team Wins St. John's Second Half

Bob Saluti's team won the second half championship of St. John's Holy Name Bowling League and will face Dick Guerriero's team, the first half titlist, for the league crown. Joe Matarazzo's team, the second half second place finisher, will meet Dick Fetti's team, the first half second place team. Matarazzo finished a point behind Guerriero but Guerriero will be in the title rollout.

The final second half standings: Saluti, 50-40 (total pinfall of 21,419); Guerriero, 47-43 (21,381); Matarazzo, 46-44 (21,312); Tom Darcy, 45-45 (21,165); Fetti, 43-47 (21,082); and Earl Laurotto, 39-51 (20,836).

Laurotto rolled the weekly high individual single of 134 and Saluti had 130. Saluti had the high three of 368 and Guerriero had 341.

Laurotto's team rolled the high team single of 534 and Saluti's team had 495. Laurotto's team also had high three of 1514 and Saluti's team had 1467.

Saluti had the season's high single of 152 and Jim Mastrantonio had 151. Saluti had the season's high three of 395 and Guerriero had 386.

Fetti's team had the season's high single of 551 and Matarazzo's team had 549. Matarazzo's team had the season's high three of 1555 and Saluti had 1530.

The Top Ten: Guerriero, 110.0; Saluti, 109.6; Mastrantonio, 103.5; Ed Linahan, 103.0; Lou Facilla, 101.8; Laurotto, 100.9; Fetti, 100.4; Jim Tate, 100.2; Vic Solimini, 99.7, and Darcy, 98.9.

Ernie DiTullio, Mal Creaven and Carlo Malieno had perfect attendance for the season.

Mary Pratt Day At Snug Harbor

Mary Pratt Day will be observed today (Thursday) at Snug Harbor School as part of immersion week activities planned by The Action Team of Project Inter-Action and the school faculty.

Project Inter-Action is one of five equity demonstration projects funded by the Women's Educational Equity Act. Snug Harbor is one of six Quincy impact schools involved in the project.

Miss Pratt, inducted into Boston University's Hall of Fame in 1979, will address students at 2 p.m. She will also be presented an award.

She has been a physical education teacher for 40 years, three of them at Salem State.

A graduate of North Quincy High School, Miss Pratt has taught in every school in the city except Furnace Brook.

She has been active in starting teams for girls, especially in softball. During World War II, she was a member of the All American Girls Professional League and played to audiences all over the country - often 3,000 to 4,000 per night.

The day will also be celebrated as Physical Activity day and students will become involved in cooperative sports and games to build confidence in their physical selves.

Activities Friday, will have students looking at TV, magazines and comic books to identify sex discrimination and stereotypes.

Earlier in the week, the Poor House Puppets presented "The Wizard of Is", a show on the theme: you can be what you want to be.

Fourth graders also presented a play, "Baby X", and first graders recited a poem, "Roles are Changing".

Another day's activities had students dressing up in the clothing of non-traditional occupations.

● Youth Soccer

Furies Bomb Celtics

The Quincy Youth Soccer League, made up of players from the first grade through the eighth, continues to provide close competition.

Last week, in one of the few one-sided games, the Furies walloped the Celtics, 7-0, in Grades 1 and 2, with Michael Rose having three goals, Michael Oliva two and Michael McDonald and Brian Doherty one each.

The Rogues and Express tied, 1-1, with Tony Giannandrea scoring for the Rogues and Brian Colwell for the Express.

The Tea Men and Spurs played to a scoreless tie and the Wanderers topped the Strikers, 2-0, on goals by Peter Kelley and Mark Hogan.

In Grades 3 and 4 the Roughnecks defeated the Rovers, 4-1, with Jimmy Bryan having two goals and Neil Losordo and Jeff Adams one each. Mike Tufts scored for the Rovers.

The Earthquakes edged the Kicks, 3-2, with Dave Quirk, Jim Flaherty and Tom Kincare scoring for the Quakes. The Lancers and the Diplomats played to a scoreless tie.

In Grades 5 and 6 the Caribous edged the Rangers, 1-0, on Larry Begueri's goal and the Tornadoes topped the White Caps, 2-0, on goals by Robbie Dever and Peter Quevillon.

In the girls 3-8 league, the Sockers downed the Stars, 5-0, with Maureen O'Toole, Pat Grant, Liz Harrington, Leanne Coughlin and Amy Conroy scoring the goals.

The Surfers topped the Stompers, 3-1, on goals by Betty Ryan, Ann Hughes and Kerry Doherty, and the Hurricanes stopped the Sharks, 2-0, on Lia Giannandrea's two goals.

● Junior Girls Track

Atlantic-North Opens With Win Over Broad Meadows

Ron Adams' Atlantic-North Junior High girls' track team opened its season with a 48-34 victory over Broad Meadows and the A-N junior varsity breezed, 68-6.

Thirty-two girls placed for the winners.

Placing first for the A-N varsity were Tracy Coull in the 880 and Meg Leary in the mile. Tying for first in the high jump were Maria McGurl, Alice Seto and Lisa Fitzgerald.

Atlantic-North also won both relay races, the one-lap team comprising Patty Markham, Laura Coughlin, Lisa Fitzgerald and Maria McGurl, and the two-lap team comprising Debbie Mosher, Marjie Markham, Lynne Murphy and Ellen DeLuca.

Finishing second for A-N were Kelley Courts in the mile, Theresa Hutchings in the long jump, Fitzgerald in the 100, McGurl in the hurdles and Mosher in the 440.

Taking thirds were Alice Seto in the hurdles, Patty Markham in the 100, Dianne O'Donnell in the mile and Tammy Powers in the shot put.

Powering Atlantic's junior varsity were Jean O'Hare, who won the 100; Patt Naughton, winner of the 440, Julie Walsh, who took the mile; Donna Woods, first in the hurdles, and Wanda Ilacqua, who won the long jump.

The winning Atlantic two-lap relay team consisted of Pattie Salton, Debbie Leonard, Susan Barry and Naughton. The one-lap team of Patty Gibbons, Carol Keating, Woods and Michelle Palmer also won.

Placing second were Leonard in the hurdles, Palmer in the 100, Joanne Linehan in the mile, Christine Edmonds in the long jump and Salton in the shot put.

Taking thirds were Kerri Burke in the hurdles, Michelle Wallace and Stephanie Petrakos, tied in the mile; JoAnn Zdanowski in the long jump and Jean O'Hare in the shot.

The A-N girls will meet Point next Thursday, while BM faces Sterling Monday and Central Wednesday.

Stanton Wins Junior Crown

Roger Stanton of Milton, representing the Quincy YMCA, defeated Kevin Porter of Coventry, R.I., to win the New England Junior Olympic 139-pound championships and will represent New England in the regional championships late in June in New York.

The 15-year-old Stanton, handled by Dick Mullaly, was knocked down 30 seconds into the fight by a right to the head, took a nine count, then came back to take the fight to Porter.

Stanton won the second and third rounds easily, staggering Porter in both rounds.

Judge Kramer Wins National Justice Prize

Judge Albert L. Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, has won the coveted L. Harold DeWolf Award of Offender Aid and Restoration of the United States (OAR USA) for 1981.

The award is presented to "the person in the nation who has made the most significant contribution to the cause of justice."

Judge Kramer was cited for, among other things, his inception of the "Earn-It" restitution program and for his founding of the National Institute for Sentencing Alternatives at Brandeis.

The award was presented to Kramer last Thursday by OAR's executive director, Fahy Mullany, at OAR's annual dinner in Charlottesville, Va.

"Judge Kramer's energy, creativity, articulation and commitment in the cause of promoting sentencing options across the country has inspired a growing national movement to find alternatives to our failing traditional approaches of sentencing offenders," said Mullany.

Judge ALBERT KRAMER

"In our opinion, his effort represents the single most significant contribution to the criminal justice system this year."

Raymondi Petition Council Hearing On Seniors' Bus Rentals

The City Council's Parks and Recreation Committee will hold a hearing tonight (Thursday) at 5 p.m. on a home rule petition that would allow senior citizens' groups to rent school buses at low cost.

The petition was filed by Councilor Daniel G. Raymondi, who is chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee and also a candidate for mayor of Quincy.

"There is obviously a great need for a measure like this," said Raymondi. "More than 500 buses are rented by various groups every year."

"My petition would permit the use of school buses by various non-profit associations and community organizations while exempting them from existing rates and regulations of the Department of Public Utilities."

Rudy's Texaco Granted Used Car Increase

Rudy's Texaco, 68 School St., Quincy Center, was granted permission at Tuesday's License Board meeting to increase the number of used cars on its premises from five to 12.

The Motor 11 license increase was granted on a temporary basis and will be reviewed Sept. 8. Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeogh did not vote on the request.

Rudolph V. Mosesso, of Rudy's Texaco, originally requested the license be increased to 25 cars. He told the board he was requesting the increase so that he could buy cars in volume for a better price. Mosesso said he buys mostly 1980 and 1981 Cadillacs, not junk cars, and that he would locate them on the side of his building.

He assured the board that he didn't want a "used car lot" and that the cars would not remain on the premises for long periods.

Building Inspector Allan

MacDonald said that he wouldn't vote for a used car lot. He also said he couldn't see "loading up" the station which is next to St. John's Church.

Police Chief Francis Finn suggested reducing the number of cars to 12, which Mosesso agreed to do. Finn also called Rudy's "the cleanest station in the city."

City Clerk John Gillis said the station is clean, has a good track record and that Mosesso has done a good job.

MacDonald agreed that Mosesso has run a good place, but said he shouldn't chance ruining it with the additional cars. Dr. McKeogh was also skeptical about additional cars at the station.

Finn suggested the increase be granted on a trial basis.

Mosesso put his license on the line saying, "If a day goes by that my station isn't clean, you can take my license away."

The request was then granted.

Nomination Papers Available May 26

For those candidates who are chomping at the bit to get going, City Clerk John Gillis has promised that nomination papers will be ready to be picked up at City Hall on Tuesday, May 26.

The last day to pick up papers will be Friday, Aug. 14, and the final date for filing will be Tuesday, Aug. 18.

The preliminary election will be

Tuesday, Sept. 22, and the general election Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Sewer Conflict Stalls Seniors Apartments

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy's ongoing problem with an antiquated and inadequate sewer system threatens to halt construction of the proposed Hancock Court, an eight-story, 80-unit apartment complex for the elderly on School St.

The State Division of Water Pollution Control is withdrawing a permit that would allow Hancock Court to connect with the sewer system because the South Quincy section cannot handle the flow.

The division added that it will also deny permits to any other projects in the drainage area.

Peter O'Connell of OBC, Inc., the firm that is building Hancock Court, said the decision will be appealed.

"Sewer connections have been a problem for a long time," he said. "Now they (the state) are holding their ground a little tighter than they used to."

"I hope some accommodation can be made. We would like to see this project proceed for the good of the city. This is a tax-paying project. No deals have been made."

Groundbreaking for Hancock Court was originally scheduled for sometime this month but O'Connell said delays have moved it to some time in the indefinite future.

A $2.5 million project to upgrade the sewer system in the South Quincy-Faxon Park area has been stymied by the city's failure to adopt a sewer users' charge to qualify for state and federal funds.

The permit to connect Hancock Court was granted on a tentative basis last January but that is now being withdrawn and the Division of Water Pollution Control has published a new notice of denial in this week's Quincy Sun.

"The division," said the notice, "now has received information that the so-called Town Brook Interceptor, which would transport sewage flow from the proposed development, is seriously overcharged."

The city of Quincy, recognizing the problem, has had plans prepared for correcting this situation. These plans have been approved by this division. However, the city has failed to proceed to construct the necessary facilities.

"For this reason and inasmuch as the city has failed to take the necessary steps to eliminate the problem, the division hereby publishes its intent to issue a final determination to deny the application."

The division's notice added that further applications for sewer connections in the drainage area served by the Town Brook Interceptor also will be denied.

Last month, the city received word from its consultants, Weston and Sampson, that unless it filed for a grant within a month it would lose the $2.5 million construction grant.

Already $179,000 in state and federal money has been spent on the first two phases of the South Quincy-Faxon Park Wastewater Collection and Pumping Facility.

But, said Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, the city can't file for the grant until it has an acceptable plan for a sewer use charge and money for its 10 per cent share of the costs.

Ricciuti declined to comment on the latest development in the sewer fight.

"I have been talking about this for the past two years," he said. "But no one has been listening. There's nothing more I can say about it."

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, too, appeared to have washed his hands of the whole affair.

"I've been to the City Council with four plans for a sewer user charge," he said. "They have been defeated every time. The blame belongs to the City Council. It can't seem to get five votes together on it."

Tobin said he will ask Ricciuti to meet with state officials and request them to hold off on their denial of the Hancock Court permit until the Council could be consulted one more time.

"If the councilors say they are ready to act on a sewer users charge then I've got no problem," said Tobin.

"But I've been out there four times with plans and they have all been defeated and I can't get five councilors to tell me what would be acceptable."

Revitalization Plan Gets Underway For Brewer's Corner

Hancock School to the Gridley Bryant School.

Issues to be dealt with will include market conditions, land use, infrastructure, transportation and visual improvements.

"We are going to expend a lot of effort to insure maximum public involvement and support from the business and residential community," said George Mathieson of the Planning Department.

"Public meetings have been designed into the process at all stages from beginning to end and through implementation."

Dufresne-Henry is currently involved in a $1 million Congress Square project in Portland, Maine; the "Downstreet-82" project in Augusta, Maine; and was prime consultant in the $1.2 million Central St. Redevelopment Area in Newport, Vt., presently under construction.

The study is slated to begin June 1 and should be completed in three months.

"We aren't expecting to turn Brewer's Corner into a major retail area, but we do hope to make it more visually appealing and more efficient in terms of vehicular and pedestrian traffic," said Tobin.

Lincoln-Hancock Community Programs Need $10,000

The future of the community programs at the Lincoln-Hancock School hung in the balance last night (Wednesday) at the School Committee meeting.

Members of the Committee were scheduled to take another look at a request by the Lincoln-Hancock Community School Council to become self-supporting with a one-year appropriation of $10,000.

The request was turned down once before.

At stake are some 25 participatory programs which have been built up over the past six years to a point where they involve about 4,000 people and 40 community organizations.

In the past, these programs have been operated under a $55,000 a year city appropriation, which has been cut out of the fiscal 1982 school budget under the constraints of Proposition 2½.

That money, said Ronald Iacabucci, chairman of the Council, really isn't necessary; it would take only a vote of the School Committee and City Council, plus $10,000, to make the program self-sufficient.

"The community school is not operating in the red," said Iacabucci. "We have $15,000 in a revolving account, monies raised through the programs' fees."

"If we can use the account funds in conjunction with an expected community development block grant ($8,000) we can be a self-supporting and viable organization."

"We just recently raised our revenues by 1,100 per cent by doubling course offerings. We can give them on a fee basis, which would support the community school without taking any tax dollars."

The mechanism for doing that is a state law (Chapter 71E) which, if approved by the School Committee and the City Council, would permit full use of the revolving account.

Present state law limits its use to only $3,000 a year to cover the cost of supplies and administration, but not the salaries of the coordinator, a secretary and parttime teachers. When the issue last came before the School Committee March 25 it not only failed to adopt Chapter 71E but it decided to phase out the community programs and move them into Quincy Junior College.

At night it had a chance to reconsider.

"We aren't asking for money that isn't there," said Iacabucci. "The money is in our revolving fund."

"Failure to pass this bill will be a grievous blow to the future of the community school program in Quincy."

A proposed balance sheet for 1981-82, anticipating the passage of Chapter 71E, goes like this:

Income - Revolving account, $13,035; tuition income, $19,305; block grant, $8,000; city appropriation, $10,000; for a total of $50,340.

(In future years, said Iacabucci, the city appropriation would not be needed.)

Expenses - Coordinator, $26,288; secretary, $6,770; custodial, $4,600; expenses $800; communications, $1,400; teachers' salaries, $6,417; for a total of $46,275.

WEEK OF MAY 14

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Added work demands interfere with social butterflying, but don't neglect former. Household problems may not be the do-it-yourself variety. Contact senior family members.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Neighborhood frictions ease and social life is on the quiet side. But it's a highly productive, rather successful work week, especially for anyone whose job involves manual labor.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
This is a landmark week for enthusiastic Aries, who can pursue present objectives with a rare balance of passion and logic. Some sacrifices likely, but they're minor.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Most trustworthy friends do not necessarily share your point of view. Financially shrewd now, you could make a key business move. Local travel proves a highlight of the week.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Active Gemini might find this a quiet week, yet it's really eventful. Behind-the-scenes goings-on — with the prospect of travel — are happening on your behalf.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Jokes may be made at your expense — but you're sure to enjoy the last laugh. Romantic relationship becomes less intense and you can concentrate on more practical areas.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Keep explanations short and sweet, especially through the weekend. Friends are enthusiastic and helpful and this may be the right time to ask for that extra special favor.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Week's tempo quickens when you hear some encouraging news about favorite friend or relative. Compliments coming from you mean a lot — especially to people in high places.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Loved one is sympathetic, so relate deeper feelings. Behind-the-scenes activities concern upcoming advancement. Public speaking can boost confidence now.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Interpretations of events are not always correct now, so jump to few conclusions. Generally it's a mobile week, with unusual travel and some fancy footwork.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Life becomes uncomplicated and plans are ahead of schedule. The bigger the challenge, the more eager you are to tackle it. Good week to spoil loved ones with little surprises.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Practice being more open, more relaxed in the company of senior professionals. Life becomes more adventurous by Saturday. Avoid snap decisions through the week.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Sentimental and practical, you often keep your prize talents hidden. Many loose ends — in career and personal areas — are tied by early summer. Friendship is accentuated all year and mental stimulation is highlighted around October.

BORN THIS WEEK
May 14th, opera singer Patrice Munsell; 15th, actor James Mason; 16th, pianist Liberace; 17th, actress Maureen O'Sullivan; 18th, actor Bill Macy; 19th, host David Hartman; 20th, actor James Stewart.

MILDRED E. BUTLER

DANIEL G. TROMBLEY

PHILIP J. GREENSPAN

Mildred Butler Mortgage Officer

9 Promoted At Quincy Savings Bank

Nine promotions at Quincy Savings Bank and the retirement of trustee Shirley A. Peterson were announced following the bank's recent annual meeting, the first since its merger with South Scituate Savings Bank.

Mildred E. Butler was elected vice president and mortgage officer. She attended Boston State College and joined the bank in 1961. Active in the Savings Bank Women of Massachusetts and the National Association of Bank Women, she lives in East Weymouth.

Philip J. Greenspan and Daniel C. Trombley were promoted to assistant vice presidents. Both previously were assistant treasurers. Greenspan, a graduate of New York University, joined the bank's mortgage department in 1972 and now lives in Marshfield. Trombley, who is operations officer, came to Quincy Savings from City Savings Bank in Pittsfield in 1977.

Promoted to assistant treasurer were Stephen F. Banks, manager of the Savings Department and a graduate of Bridgewater State College; William G. Berardi a 1975 graduate of Massachusetts Bay Community College; and Collette Duffy, who graduated from Westfield State College in 1974 and is assistant customer services officer.

In other management changes, Mary T. DeRochea was elected manager of the bank's Queen Anne Plaza office in Norwell; Evelyn Bishop became assistant manager of the Hanover office; and Mary Sneathen was named assistant manager of the Braintree office.

After formally welcoming all of the new corporators and trustees who were attending their first consolidated meeting, President Charles A. Pearce pointed to several important developments in 1980.

Among them were a 6.15% growth of the bank's deposits, the merger with South Scituate, the opening of a new office in Braintree, and membership in both the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the latter occurring January 2, 1981.

Quincy Savings Bank currently has assets of almost $300 million and nine offices throughout Norfolk and Plymouth Counties.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ENGINEERING DIVISION OF WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ONE WINTER STREET BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02108 PUBLIC NOTICE OF DENIAL OF SEWER EXTENSION PERMIT APPLICATION On January 22, 1981, the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control published a notice in the Quincy Sun of its tentative determination to issue a permit for a sewer connection to serve a proposed commercial and residential development on School Street in Quincy, based on an application submitted by the Quincy Department of Public Works on behalf of OBC, Inc. of One Heritage Drive, Quincy. The application was filed and the notice of tentative determination published pursuant to Section 43 of Chapter 21 of the General Laws. The Division now has received information that the so-called Town Brook Interceptor, which would transport sewage flows from the proposed development, is seriously surcharged. The City of Quincy, recognizing the problem, has had plans prepared for correcting this situation. These plans have been approved by this Division. However, the City has failed to proceed to construct the necessary facilities. For this reason and inasmuch as the City has failed to take the necessary steps to eliminate the problem, the Division hereby publishes its intent to issue a final determination to deny the above-described application and any further applications for sewer connections in the drainage area tributary to the so-called Town Brook Interceptor. Within 14 days of this final determination, parties (as defined in sections 1, 10 and 10A of Chapter 30A of the General Laws) aggrieved by the determination may file a written request with the Director for an Adjudicatory Hearing under the provisions of Chapter 30A (the Massachusetts Administrative Procedure Act) and the Standard Adjudicatory Rules of Practice and Procedure (801 CMR 1.00). Council Wants Her But: Tobin Balks At Reikard's Return

By TOM HENSHAW

If Jane Reikard is to get her job back as executive secretary of the Rent Grievance Board she will apparently have to go through the same channels as a laid off policeman or school teacher.

"We have to cope with that problem just like we cope with the other layoffs," said Mayor Arthur H. Tobin. "I don't see Jane Reikard's case as any different from any other layoff."

"I have talked to the city solicitor and the auditor and when we find out what the city will be getting in additional aid from the state we will know how we are going to address all the layoffs."

But supporters of Mrs. Reikard who jammed the City Council chamber Monday night did not view her dismissal as the only member of the Rent Grievance Board staff as just another layoff.

"The rent grievance ordinance is very, very weak," said Thelma Rogers of 17 Quarterdeck Rd., Germantown, who has been a member of the Rent Grievance Board through the administrations of three mayors.

"Jane Reikard has made the board effective, not by threats and intimidation, but by negotiation. She has made the board the power it is today."

"The board cannot continue the kind of work that Jane has done. The people on the board do not have time to sit and take calls and find remedies. Meeting once a week is not going to do it."

Council President Leo J. Kelly, wearing a makeshift "We Want Jane" button, promised that the Council will continue its efforts to talk Tobin in restoring Mrs. Reikard to the job.

But Tobin indicated that Council intercession will do no good. Mrs. Reikard, he said, was laid off because, like other city departments, hers ran out of money.

"If I act in haste and put one individual back to work then it would be unfair to the others who were laid off," he said.

"I don't know why Jane Reikard came before the Council. She wasn't on the agenda. How come the City Council doesn't have the same concern for the teachers and the firefighters who had to be laid off?"

Tobin said that the mayor's office has been handling tenant-

70 More Layoffs?

School Budget Runs Into Surprise Snag

By FRANK MORTIMER

The School Committee has set a proposed budget of $28,374,095 but it may never reach the City Council for approval.

A State Department of Revenue ruling confirms Mayor Arthur H. Tobin's understanding that under Prop. 2½, he has authority to set the school budget bottom line.

Tobin sent a $26,711,495 school budget to the City Council in February. It is $1,662,600 lower than the one proposed by the School Committee.

He said he will stick with it.

The ruling from the property tax bureau of the revenue department apparently insures that no other figure may be considered by the city council.

The ruling, dated May 1, states that the mayor may "make bottom line reductions in the school committee budget prior to submitting it to the City Council."

Reached for comment Tuesday, School Committee Vice-Chairman Christopher Kennedy said the decision could eventually force up to 70 additional teacher layoffs.

Kennedy, who had not seen the revenue department's document, said two key factors would decide if additional school layoffs would be necessary: the amount of state aid to the city, and the outcome of a suit by the teacher's union to force payment of $1.4 million in overdue raises.

The School Committee first went over Tobin's $26.7 million budget by voting April 29 to provide for paying the raises.

EPA Gives Okay On Nut Island Operation

The US Environmental Protection Agency has decided that the MDC has taken adequate measures to correct the deficiencies at the Nut Island Sewage Facility that resulted in the Christmas spill.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell had requested a report on the status of EPA monitoring of Nut Island after some 50 million gallons of partially treated sewage was bypassed into outer Quincy Bay last Dec. 25.

The EPA said it conducted on-site investigations at and around Nut Island on Jan. 21, March 6 and March 31 and observed that the plant was well-run and maintained.

It said it found that the MDC had filled 10 of the 11 "critical needs" positions and established an emergency pool of qualified personnel to minimize the likelihood of another bypass.

The EPA assured Brownell that it would continue to monitor the operation of the Nut Island facility.

Board Denies Clubroom For Shipyard Workers

The City License Board denied a request Tuesday from Mrs. Austin O'Toole of Future Corporation for a canteen-type clubroom with 50 video and food vending machines across from the Fore River Shipyard.

Mrs. O'Toole told the board the business would be located at 136 East Howard St. in a vacant store across from the shipyard gates. She said the interior would be paneled and mirrored and that she would lease the machines.

"We're back to the same thing again," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald referring to a request that was denied earlier this year for a game room in Quincy Sq.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that the board frowns on such applications because the establishments attract an undesirable element.

MacDonald told Mrs. O'Toole board members had viewed a game room in Cambridge that was closed because of the negative impact it had on the neighborhood.

Mrs. O'Toole told the board of a game room that is well run in Framingham. She said that its the person managing the business that makes the difference.

The downtown business people are vehemently against such businesses coming into the city, said Finn.

Finn, MacDonald and Health Commissioner Dr. Robert P. McKeough all said they were against the venture, and the request was denied.

City Clerk John Gillis and Fire Chief Edward Barry were not present at the meeting.

Jason Feldman Square To Be Dedicated In June

The intersection of Hancock and Cliven Sts. in downtown Quincy will be dedicated as Jason Feldman Square sometime in the middle of June.

The dedication was scheduled for Memorial Day but, said Committee Chairman Bernard Reisberg, it was moved up for fear it would get lost in the midst of the holiday parades and festivities.

Feldman, proprietor of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop, was president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association when he died last year.

PROGRESS REPORT

Exceptionally fast progress is being made toward the introduction of cable television services for your city. Utility contracts with Massachusetts Electric and New England Telephone have been executed, and preparatory work for line construction has already begun.

As early as December 1981, we expect to offer service to portions of South Quincy and Quincy Point, with the balance of the city activated soon after. Customer service information will be available just prior to the activation of the cable television system.

That means that you have just a short wait before this exciting new entertainment service becomes available.

There are no substitutes for cable television. There is no other entertainment medium that offers as many services for such a low cost.

(Quincy Sun Photo by Steve Stanziani)

Donnelly To Urge Navy To Carry On Wasp Name

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly has promised to file a bill asking the Navy to name its next nuclear-powered aircraft carrier the USS Wasp after the long line of fighting ships of the same name.

Donnelly last week received a petition from Allyn (Flash) Gordon of Milton containing some 250 names of former members of the crew of Wasp No. 9 urging that the famous name be carried on.

Donnelly said he also will get Cong. Nicholas Mavroules of Peabody, who is on the Naval Affairs Committee, to help push the bill through Congress, perhaps even co-sponsor it.

The last Wasp, the ninth to bear the name, was built at the Fore River Shipyard in 1943 and distinguished herself in the Pacific war against the Japanese. She was decommissioned in 1972.

Wasp No. 8, also built at the Fore River Shipyard, was sunk off Guadalcanal in 1942. The first Wasp was an eight-gun schooner that fought in the Revolutionary War.

The signatures on the petition were collected by Gordon at a reunion of former Wasp crewmembers in Cape May, N.J., on the Weekend of May 8-9.

Gordon, who was an aviation ordnanceman, was New England co-chairman of the reunion.

Raymondi Ordinance Would Prohibit Sunday Dancing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The City License Board isn't scheduled to reopen discussion of Sunday dancing in Quincy until its May 26 meeting, but it has already received feedback on the question from the City Council.

At Monday night's council meeting, Councillor Daniel Raymondi introduced a proposed city ordinance which would prohibit Sunday dancing in the city, and, in effect, take the decision out of the License Board's hands.

The proposed ordinance, referred to the Ordinance Committee reads:

"Whoever on Sunday engages in or allows any dancing for which any charge in the form of payment or where alcoholic beverages are sold or distributed, other than dancing which is incidental to wedding or social functions which take place at fraternal halls or halls specifically hired for such functions, shall be punished by a fine of $100 for each offense."

The License Board has prohibited dancing in Quincy on Sundays, except for social functions, as far back as the 1930's, according to City Clerk John Gillis.

The matter came up for reconsideration when Quincy Bay Inn, North Quincy, recently applied for a Sunday license to allow dancing by patrons and guests 1 p.m. to midnight.

At last week's license Board meeting, the request was continued to allow input from the public.

Raymondi said at Monday's council meeting that he has received many calls from people in his area and talked with residents throughout the city concerned with the possible policy change.

"The people that I talked to just don't think this would be a positive influence on the city of Quincy," said Raymondi who asked that the proposed ordinance be placed on the council's next agenda.

"Hopefully by the fact of this being advertised, (there will be) a sobering effect on their decision. I know that the City Council will not meet until the first week in June. But I hope that the input by the City Council would be considered by the Licensing Commissioners," said Raymondi.

Joanne Condon, councillor of Ward 6 where Quincy Bay Inn is located, said she has been following the question of Sunday dancing at License Board meetings for five weeks.

She said that at last week's meeting the board appeared to have no objections and indication was that they probably would go along with a change in Sunday dancing policy.

"I requested the License Board not to take action because the matter was not officially on the agenda. . . I felt if they were going to have a decision that was going to be a precedent for the city. . . it should be done properly."

When asked for a legal ruling on the Raymondi proposal, City Solicitor Robert Fleming said that under police power, broadly interpreted, the council could pass an ordinance which would prohibit dancing outright within the city.

Tree, Flag Top Off Quincy Center Plaza

The steel girder bearing the flag and the tree slid into place and the cheers and fireworks and the strains of "God Bless America" and the 10-story frame of Quincy Center Plaza was completed.

The plaza, which is being built by Campanelli Quincy Trust to house the headquarters of the Stop and Shop Co., is the first new major building in downtown Quincy since the Granite Trust Tower in 1929.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and a number of city officials were among the crowd that watched the white steel girder, bearing their autographs, fitted into the framework at 1:41 p.m. Thursday.

Tobin called it "a great day for the city . . . the catalyst for downtown development."

Jim Stearns of L. Antonelli Iron Works Inc., who built the frame, said the custom of topping off a new building with a tree was adopted from Europe where it was taken to be a sign of good luck.

He said the American flag was added by the ironworkers, who sat on 10th floor beams and cheered as the beam went into place, "because many of them are servicemen."

A thousand tons of steel went into the frame for the $10 million building which is right on schedule and due to be completed by Jan. 1.

STEEL GIRDER bearing tree and American flag at right rises on crane to top off the frame of the 10-story Quincy Center Plaza, the first major new building in downtown Quincy in 52 years.

Mrs. Mae Nankin Honored As Beth Israel 'Woman Of Year'

Mrs. Mae Nankin was recently honored as "Woman of the Year" by the Women's Council of Beth Israel Synagogue at a meeting in the Morris Silverman Social Hall, Quincy Point.

Mrs. Nankin and her husband, Harry, have been affiliated with Beth Israel Synagogue for more than 50 years.

Said Mary Kurlanski in introducing Mrs. Nankin at the meeting, "The woman being honored is one who follows the teachings of the Rabbis, who believes the most important possession we could have is a good character."

"The building of good character starts from the smallest beginnings, and Mae is an example of one who hurries to do one good, knowing that one good leads to another."

"She has been doing this all her life and has installed this belief in her children and her children's children."

Mrs. Nankin grew up in Newton and was graduated from Newton High School, the only Jewish girl in her senior class.

Her father was one of the founders of the Agudas Achim Shul in that city.

She met her husband Harry at a wedding and the two recently celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary.

Quincy residents for more than 50 years, they have two sons Robert and Edward, as well as grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Mr., Mrs. John Johnston Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston of Rock Island Rd., Houghs Neck, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner at the Quincy Yacht Club given by their two sons.

The couple's sons are Robert Johnston, headmaster of the Woodward School for Girls, and David Johnston, principal of Somerville Community School.

The Johnstons arrived for the celebration in grand style - driving a 1931 Model A Ford similar to the one the Johnstons bought the year they were married.

Bagpiper Warren Smith of the local Clan MacGregor played Scottish tunes in honor of the Johnstons' nationalities.

On hand to greet the couple were 140 friends and relatives.

Mayor Arthur Tobin, who was accompanied by his wife Shirley, presented the Johnstons with a citation from the city.

City Council president Leo Kelly presented the couple a citation from the council. The Johnstons were also recipients of a citation from State Rep. Thomas Brownell.

City Councilor Francis X. McCauley, who attended with his wife Sandra, spoke at the ceremonies.

Among the head table guests were the Revs. Peter and Alicia Corea, pastors of Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Also on hand for the celebration were members of the Johnston's wedding party Ann Gokey of Westboro, Mrs. Johnston's sister who was a bridesmaid, Mrs. William Williams of Canton and Mrs. Richard Smith of Westboro. Mrs. Johnston's nieces who were flower girls.

Joining in the festivities as well were Robert Johnston of Philadelphia, Mr. Johnston's brother, Mrs. Peter Hunter of Florida and Mrs. Joseph Esola of Philadelphia, Mr. Johnston's sisters.

The Johnstons were married Sunday, May 10, 1931 at the Hall Place Methodist Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Johnston, 74, is the former Isabella Ramsey. Born in Scotland, she came to West Quincy at age five. She was employed for several years at American Mutual Insurance.

Mr. Johnston, 75, was born in Quincy, the first member of his Scottish family to be born in this country. He worked for several insurance companies in Boston before his retirement nearly eight years ago.

He was one of the first recipients of the Houghs Neck Community Council's Good Neighbor Award.

Both the Johnstons are active members of Houghs Neck Congregational Church. Over the years, they were also active in the Cub and Boy Scouts.

The Johnstons have lived in Quincy since 1945.

St. Ann's Takes 2nd, 3rd Spots

Lincoln-Hancock Pupil Wins Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee

Lincoln-Hancock sixth grader Kevin Steen was top speller in the 1981 Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee finals held recently at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

St. Ann's School fifth grader Patrice Fasano won second place, and sixth grader Theresa Dillon from the same school took third place. The competition was viewed by over 100 parents, teachers, principals, and friends.

Finalists from the six participating schools, Lincoln-Hancock, Mass. Fields, Parker, St. Ann's, St. Joseph's, and St. Mary's, were selected through written exams conducted in each school.

Schools that had more than three students with perfect scores on the written exams had run-off contests to determine their representatives.

The contest was run by staff members from the Southern Massachusetts MDA office in Braintree. Patient Services Coordinator Virginia Harting and Program Coordinator Karen Canfield gave out the words and used them in sentences. Program Coordinator Janet Scheffler served as timekeeper. Each student was tested with words from only their grade level. Eventually, just three students remained.

Theresa Dillon, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dillon, 99 Beach St., Wollaston, was eliminated on "endorsement."

Spelling continued until the 22nd round when Patrice Fasano, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Fasano, 297 Billings Rd., Wollaston, misspelled "lapel."

Kevin Steen, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steen, 27 Branch St., South Quincy, then had to spell two words correctly. He won the championship with the spelling of "kerchief."

Approximately 500 students across the city took part in the third annual Spelling Bee. The Quincy contest was the top MDA event of its kind in the nation for the past two years raising $21,708 to fight muscle disease.

Pledge proceeds from sponsors should be mailed to MDA, c/o Hancock Bank, 415 Hancock Street, North Quincy, MA 02171. Every student who sends in pledge money will receive a Spelling Bee Certificate as well as a Jerry Lewis iron-on transfer and a sew-on patch.

As of press time, over $1,420.41 in pledges has been received. These funds support medical programs benefiting children and adults in Quincy and throughout the South Shore. Free wheelchairs and other orthopedic aids, clinic visits, and summer camp sessions are just a few of the services provided by the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The 1981 Quincy Jerry Lewis Spelling Bee was sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Telethon

Committee in cooperation with Quincy Public Schools.

Janet DiTullio, Coordinator of Language Arts for Quincy Schools, coordinated the event for the third year.

Henry Bosworth, Quincy Sun publisher, and Richard J. Koch, Executive Secretary of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, are co-chairmen of the Telethon Committee.

The Quincy Cooperative Bank Josiah Quincy, Jr. Awards have been made once again to an outstanding group of students. The Quincy Cooperative Bank takes great pride in the very wonderful group of winners honored for scholarship and good citizenship.

When we announced the original winners, we said: "The Quincy Cooperative Bank believes that the future of the communities we serve is in the hands of our young people. The Quincy Cooperative Bank believes, too, that our schools provide the surest guarantee of future excellence of community leadership through the learning process.

"When the statute was changed in 1976 to allow cooperative banks to provide scholarship funds, we moved quickly to set up $100 scholarships in the high schools of the communities where we have our offices. In addition, we provided a $1,500 scholarship for the Quincy Junior College to help a graduate go on to a four year college after completion of two years of studies here. We were happy to learn that this is the largest scholarship offered by the Quincy Junior College.

"We leave the choice of all scholarship winners to each school administration. Naturally, we call each scholarship 'The Quincy Cooperative Bank Josiah Quincy, Jr. Award.' The awards are made for scholastic excellence and outstanding citizenship through school and community activity.

"Josiah Quincy, Jr. was the father of cooperative banking in Massachusetts, and we named our Bank for him. Because our scholarship program is totally consistent with his ideals, we know that Josiah would have liked that."

We honor our scholarship winners at a luncheon each year. The winners are accompanied by principals, headmasters or other administrators from their respective schools. Take a look at these fine young people whose pictures, taken at our 1981 luncheon, are displayed here. We are sure that you will agree with us that the South Shore's future is in good hands.

Cohasset High School: Alice Marsh and Richard T. Streeter, principal.

Archbishop Williams High School: Robert DiMarino and Sister Blanche LaRose, vice president of academic affairs.

Marion Andrews Retires

Planning Dept. Takes Over Council On Aging

The Council on Aging, which supervises the needs of Quincy's senior citizens, has been moved under the wing of the Planning Department.

Director Marion Andrews retired Friday and direction of the department has been turned over to Gerard Kavanaugh of the Planning Department.

Kavanaugh said no changes will be made in the services that are offered to the elderly despite the fact that no city money will be spent on it in the next fiscal year.

Cleta Tassanary, who assisted Mrs. Andrews in running the department, was scheduled to return to her job yesterday (Wednesday) with the title of social service technician.

She will work at the Council on Aging office in the J. F. Kennedy Health Center while Kavanaugh supervises from his office in City Hall.

Tassanary and the seven elderly service workers who drive the vehicles that transport the elderly on shopping trips and to medical appointments will be paid out of federal funds.

Kavanaugh said a coordinator probably will be named later.

The Council's board of directors, he said, will remain intact.

"The board will now be more important than ever," said Kavanaugh. "We will need a lot more help. We are not into seniors as much."

But John Noonan, a member of the board for the past six or seven years, said he was not sure just what the board will be doing.

"I'm sorry to see Marion go," he said. "She had a lot of experience with seniors. She has done a hell of a job. I certainly hope the services can be continued."

Chamber Backs Auto Insurance Changes

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has presented testimony before the Joint Insurance Committee supporting in concept a bill filed by Gov. Edward J. King to revise the motor vehicle insurance laws.

"The motor vehicle insurance situation has become critical in Massachusetts and has had the effect of forcing some companies out of the state," said the Chamber's testimony.

"In addition, costs to the consumer have become some of the highest in the country. The governor's bill addresses some of these, however, we feel any legislation should include five basic principles."

The five changes recommended in existing law were:

- A change to competitive rating with the rate advertised in advance to allow the public to shop for the best buy.

- Elimination of the "mandatory offer" law that forces companies to take all applicants. There should be a two tier pricing system, one for the bad driver.

- Elimination of the merit rating system and replacement by safe driver plans developed by each company.

- Updating the "no fault" bodily injury law to increase the tort threshold to $2,000 and the benefit to $5,000.

- A strong stand by the Registry of Motor Vehicles and the courts in facing up to their responsibility for removing the bad driver from the highways.

Quincy Quiz

No winners in the Quincy Quiz this week.

Each week two Quincy Sun T-shirts and two Quincy Sun bumper stickers are offered as prizes in the Quincy Quiz.

The first two readers (one a mail subscriber) to submit to the Sun office in writing the correct answers to the week's five questions receive T-shirts. The next two receive bumper stickers.

One person in each home is eligible to compete in any one week and no person is eligible to win more than three T-shirts.

This week's Quincy Quiz:

1. What is the name of the secretary of the Quincy Licensing Board?

2. In what section of the city is Narragansett Rd.?

3. What well known building is at 444 Washington St., Quincy Point?

4. True or false: Presidents John and John Quincy Adams are buried in the Hancock Cemetery?

5. The last two district attorneys of Norfolk County have been from Quincy. What are their names?

Answers to last week's Quincy Quiz:

1. The Wollaston Theater is located at 14 Beale St., Wollaston.
2. Pagnano Towers is named for Costanzo Pagnano, a member of the Quincy Housing Authority and president of the Granite Cutters International Union.

3. Princess Eve Drive is in the Wollaston section of the city.

4. JoAnne O'Malley is the president of the Quincy Education Association.

5. True. Quincy, Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook all were part of colonial Braintree.

The longest bridge in the world is the Verrazano Narrows Bridge in New York City. It spans 4,260 feet.

They Gave 230 Good Years

It adds up to almost two and a half centuries. That's a long time.

But that's what eight retired Quincy police officers represent in combined service to the city of Quincy. The eight, who retired April 1, and will be honored May 27 served a combined total of exactly 230 years.

Well known and well liked they and their years of service are:

Detective Lt. James W. Fay (38½ years), Sgt. Thomas F. Nolan (21), Patrolman Bernard F. Carroll (11), Patrolman Joseph S. Devancy (28); Patrolman W. Lester Duggan (31½), Detective Edward F. Gentile (33), Patrolman Joseph W. Nichol (38½), Patrolman Peter P. Mosillo (32).

Hard to believe that they have reached retirement age.

Sonny Fay still looks young enough to move a football as he did at North Quincy High School for Jack Donahue. Les Duggan looks like he could still crack a homerun like he used to do in the Old South Shore Baseball League.

When it comes to courage, nobody has had more of it than Eddie Gentile who despite the loss of a kidney continued to give his all to his job and retain his humor.

And Joe Nichol — well, there'll only be one Joe Nichol. During his tenure as City Hall police officer, he was Quincy's Ambassador of Good Will. The friendly police officer always polite and ready to accommodate an out-of-state visitor. And always extolling the virtues of Quincy and its rich history.

I've known Jim Fay, Les Duggan, Eddie Gentile and Joe Nichol since the mid 1940's when I was a young police reporter for the Patriot Ledger. They were first class people then, and are now.

They and their colleagues who retired with them April 1 gave dedicated service to Quincy. And put a cap "D" on dedicated.

The eight will be honored at the Quincy Police Department Retirement Dinner Dance Wednesday, May 27 at Florian Hall, Neponset. A social will start at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m. and dancing until 1 a.m.

Tickets ($15) may be obtained from Rita DiMattio, secretary to Chief Francis Finn or Lt. Walter Frazer at the station.

Sounds like a nice way to spend an evening.

BURKE

QUINCY Atty. George Burke, who was quite a basketball player in his younger days, was inducted into the U-Mass. Hall of Fame in ceremonies last week at Amherst. He's the only one from the South Shore to receive the honor. Burke, who played for U-Mass in the mid-1950's, held both the school's scoring and assist records simultaneously — the first ever to accomplish that feat at U-Mass. The Most Valuable Player Trophy is named for him. Each year the current MVP's name is added to the trophy. One of the names on it: Julius (Dr. J) Erving who attended U-Mass.

Burke made both All New England and All East at U-Mass in 1956 and became a Boston Celtics rookie in 1957. Red Auerbach was faced with a decision: should he keep Burke or another rookie named Sam Jones?

But Burke decided for him. He went to Auerbach and told him he was more interested in a law career and was going to go to law school.

So, Sam Jones became one of the Celtics fans' all-time favorites. And Burke went on to become Norfolk County District Attorney and now, one of the South Shore's most successful lawyers.

FIRE CHIEF Edward Barry is recuperating at his home from surgery he underwent recently at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

BARRY

Barry entered the hospital May 1, and was released about a week later, according to Deputy Carl Valenti. Valenti reports that Barry is "doing good" and "coming along" in his recovery.

Barring complications, Barry expects to be back at work about June 1. Deputy Herbert Rourke is acting chief in Barry's absence. Barry has been fire chief since 1967.

BEFORE AND DURING the "topping off" ceremonies for the Quincy Center Plaza building, steelworkers set off firecrackers. More than one person crossing Hancock St. and not knowing what was going on, began to duck, thinking it was gunfire. It was the day after the assassination attempt on Pope John Paul II.

Stop Social Service Cuts

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As an Outreach Coordinator for a community service agency on the South Shore, I have observed situations which I would not have believed existed in this present day when the war on poverty is supposedly over. The expression "pride will be the death of me" is not too far fetched when describing the predicament of most of these low income elderly. One senior homeowner stated, "I would rather freeze to death before imposing on my family."

The most common fear is the likely prospect of losing their homes and with it, the many memories that keep them going. There is the little 75-year-old disabled lady who uses her Social Security check to pay for her fuel, while her Supplementary Security Income check is used to purchase food and the little bare necessities. God knows, their needs are small.

If we could just stop for a moment and look back to the severe winter the elderly must have experienced; some hospitalized because they had no heat or kept their thermostats so low; many suffering from malnutrition because, no matter what, they refused to let credit govern their lives. Some would choose paying their fuel bill, to eating. To many, the future holds only sleepless nights; the mental anguish keeps them awake. This is not the way they dreamed of retirement. To most, it's more like a nightmare.

We should all be deeply concerned and urge our representatives and congressmen to stop social service cuts, such as fuel assistance, and come to the aid of the elderly.

Paul Hunt Keynote Speaker Memorial Day Parade, Ceremonies Monday

Atty. Paul A. M. Hunt of the Quincy Veterans Council will be the speaker Monday, May 25, when Quincy honors its dead of all wars with a Memorial Day parade and ceremonies.

Hunt will be filling in for James Conway, state commander of the American Legion, who suffered a heart attack.

Chief Marshal for the parade will be John M. Gillis, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council (QVC). His aides will be Roger Whitcomb, senior vice commander, and Lawrence T. Visco, junior vice commander.

The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. at School St. and Ross Parkway and proceed to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, where memorial services will be held at the World War II podium.

The parade and ceremonies are sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council (QVC), representing all Quincy veterans organizations.

The two day schedule of events includes:

SUNDAY

• 9:45 a.m. - Quincy Legion Post will conduct traditional exercises of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) at United First Parish Church after which Sunday School children will decorate graves of veterans in Hancock Cemetery.

• 11 a.m. - All veterans organizations, their auxiliaries and the public are invited to attend services in the United First Parish Church.

• 7 p.m. - The Bryant VFW Post and its auxiliary will proceed to the Boulder and Doughboy Monument at Adams Academy, the GAR Monument in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, and the Shea Memorial at South Weymouth Air Station.

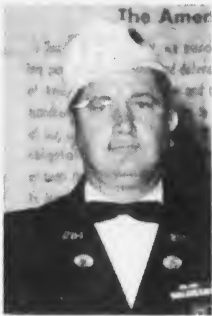

• 7 p.m. - Morrisette Legion Post and Quincy Cavanagh Chapter DAV will decorate the graves of John A. Boyd, Cyril P. Morrisette and Charles J. Cavanagh in St. Mary's Cemetery, West Quincy.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies, Morrisette Post will decorate the war memorial at Liberty Square, South Quincy, and the war memorial at West Quincy Fire Station.

Cavanagh Chapter will decorate the Cavanagh Boulder at Cavanagh Stadium, North Quincy, and the Doughboy Statue at Adams Academy.

MONDAY

• 7 a.m. - Bryan VFW Post will hold memorial exercises at George F. Bryan Square, Franklin and Water Sts., South Quincy,

PAUL A. M. HUNT

Fr. Tierney Square, School St., and the George F. Bryan Memorial at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

• 8:30 a.m. - Houghs Neck Legion Post will hold memorial exercises and decorate O'Hara Square, Adams Shore Memorial, Houghs Neck Memorial and Frederick C. Murphy Memorial.

• 7 a.m. - Wollaston Legion Post will decorate the graves and hold memorial exercises at the National Sailors Home Cemetery and hold memorial services at 8:30 a.m. in the Wollaston Post Home.

• 8 a.m. - Caddy Detachment, Marine Corps League (MCL), will decorate the William R. Caddy Memorial at Caddy Park, Wollaston, John Jackson, Paul Grasso and James Caviechi Memorials.

• 8 a.m. - Veterans of all wars will assemble at Morrisette Post and proceed to Hall Place and conduct GAR memorial services and a detachment will place a wreath at the Morrisette Memorial in Pine Hill Cemetery. After the service, the line will reform and proceed to the post where the parade will disband.

• Morning - Nickerson Legion Post will decorate Nickerson Beach, Gilbert Memorial and Bayfield Memorial.

• 10 a.m. - A short memorial service will be held at Christ Burial Grounds.

• 9:30 a.m. - All marching units will assemble on School St. and the Ross Parkway. The parade will start at 10:30 a.m. over School St., Hancock St., Washington St., Coddington St. and Sea St. to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

The parade will rest at Quincy Square and wreaths will be placed on the tombs of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

Chief Marshal Gillis and honored guests will review the parade at Sea St. across from Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Memorial Day services will be held from the World War II podium, where speaker Hunt will deliver his address. After that, the parade will disband and go to their respective posts and chapters.

In case of inclement weather, the exercises will be held in the Vocational Technical School auditorium. Officials instructions will be broadcast by WJDA at 9 a.m. if weather conditions are unfavorable.

Firing detail at Hall Cemetery will be provided by the Morrisette Legion Post, and the Bryan VFW Post will fire the volley at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

PARADE ROSTER

Furnace Brook Golf Club Conversion Opposed

Strong opposition developed at a public hearing to a plan that would convert a portion of Furnace Brook Golf Club into a playground for Wollaston youngsters.

John Rooney, spokesman for the club, said such a conversion would "make it impossible for the club to continue operating as it would provide insufficient yardage."

He also cited the danger of whizzing golf balls to children who might be using the proposed playground.

Police Capt. William McIntyre said police were in favor of the move "to keep the kids off the streets and to prevent damage to property by children who have no place to play."

The Rev. John J. Brown, curate of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, said the city "is about 25 years behind the times" in providing recreational facilities.

POOR TRAFFIC RECORD

Once again the Massachusetts Safety Council rated Quincy as the poorest traffic city in the 50,000-100,000 population range but Capt. William Ferrazzi, traffic chief, called the rating unfair.

"As long as the figures are based on population and not traffic volume this city will remain where it is," he said.

"In this city there is a terrific amount of traffic going to and from the Fore River and Hingham shipyards. No recognition is made of that by the council."

DONOVAN STARS

Dick Donovan allowed 12 hits, walked seven and hit two batters, then doubled home the winning runs in the 12th inning as the North Quincy High School baseball team defeated Thayer Academy, 6-3.

The North Quincy lineup: Jack White If, Joey Creighton of, Dave Burke ss, Bill Walsh rf, Dick Donovan p, Skip Jones lb, Fran Bean 3b, Hank Fisher c, Richie Wheeler 2b.

NEW CITY HALL

The Planning Board, under chairman Walter Schmitz, held hearings on three sites that have been proposed for a new City Hall. They were:

The corner of Coddington and Washington Sts., the old Hardwick estate at Washington, Foster and Chestnut Sts., and the site of the Old South Shore Buick Co. at Adams and Hancock Sts.

RAISES TABLED

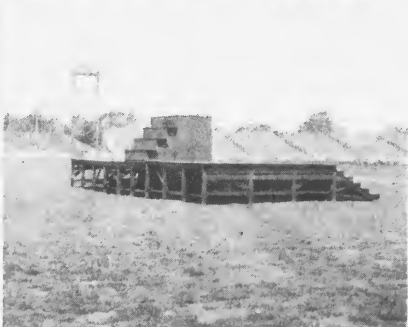

An order that would raise the pay of police and fire privates by $200 a year, costing the city an estimated $25,252, was tabled by the City Council.

"It will be a perpetual headache to the Council if it is passed as every other employee in the city will be after a raise," said Councillor Frank N. Orcutt.

'Head Start' Program Offers Aid To Adults

Quincy Community Action's First Chance Head Start program is offering an education, not only to young children, but to adults who have not received their high school diplomas.

The course is a preparation for persons intending to take the high school equivalency exam. Classes are offered Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in the Head Start office on Cottage Ave.

The program was started by Head Start Assistant Elaine Noon who found that many parents of Head Start youngsters had not finished their high school education themselves.

Many of them were women who, with their children approaching elementary school age would be looking for jobs in a few years and would be at a disadvantage without diplomas.

The sessions now in progress began in October and will finish up this fall when all the currently enrolled students take their equivalency exams.

Another course is expected to be offered starting next October.

Persons interested in taking the program should call 471-3350 for more information.

Cerasoli Backs

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli has announced his support for cost-of-living increases for all retired state, county and municipal employees.

Pension Boosts

Cerasoli said he has received a considerable amount of correspondence advocating this measure in the state budget for fiscal 1982.

Since 1970, pension cost-of-living increases have been paid annually to the retired public employees of the Commonwealth.

This year, due to Proposition 2½ and lack of funds, cost-of-living increases for local and county retirees are in jeopardy.

Unless the State provides funds, municipalities are not obliged to provide the money.

There are a number of bills before the Legislature that would supply state funding for all cost-of-living increases - state, county and municipal.

"Cost-of-living increases have become an important factor in retirees' limited incomes," said Cerasoli. "I intend to support any legislation that will continue to provide these much needed funds."

William Finnigan In Training Exercise

Senior Airman William P. Finnigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Finnigan of 103 Colonial Drive, Quincy Center, recently participated in Global Shield 81, the Air Force's response to a simulated attack on the United States.

He was among more than 100,000 American and Canadian Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps personnel taking part in the 20-day training exercise during which more than 500 bombers and tankers took off from 70 different locations within minutes of notification.

Sgt. Joseph Bouchie Completes Course

Sgt. Joseph A. Bouchie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bouchie Sr. of 75 Cleverly Ct., Quincy Point, has completed a U.S. Army primary leadership course at Fort Knox, Ky.

Students received training in supervisory skills, leadership principles and small unit training techniques essential to a first-line supervisor in a shop or office environment.

Bouchie is an assistant section chief at Fort Devens.

'Cranch Family Reunion' Set For May 26

Alumni and friends of the Cranch School, which closes after this year, will hold a "Cranch Family Reunion" Tuesday, May 26, 7 to 9 p.m. at the school.

A closing ceremony will be held at 7:45 p.m.

Activities will begin with posting of colors, Pledge of Allegiance and singing of "America" led by the Cranch Scouts.

Rev. J. William Arnold of Bethany Congregational Church will give the invocation.

Mrs. Ruth Lenehan, president of the Parent Teacher Organization, will give welcoming remarks.

School committee vice chairman Christopher F. Kennedy will also bring greetings.

Remarks will be given by Jean Ann MacLean, principal; Wilfred A. Nolan, elementary coordinator, and Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, School Superintendent.

The Cranch Chorus will present musical selections, "A Happy Day to You" and "Clap a Lively Rhythm." Eda Antonellis is chorus director, Mrs. Christine Pucci, pianist.

Following presentations, the Cranch Scouts will retire the colors.

Benediction will be given by Rev. Arnold.

Response will be given by the Cranch students, and "Auld Lang Syne" will be sung.

The reunion will also feature a nostalgia exhibit of Cranch memorabilia, pictures of early Quincy, and a canvas map of the Cranch district as it appeared at the turn of the century.

An anniversary booklet includes reminiscences of former principals of the school, and an article by former Mayor Thomas A. Burgin, Cranch School, 15.

The Cranch School, which opened Jan. 7, 1901, was built on land previously owned by Richard Cranch who was born 255 years ago this year.

RAISING THE GUMLINE

Q: When I smile (which is happening less and less), my gums show almost as much as my teeth, and my teeth look too small. Is there anything I can do?

A: It may be possible to raise the gumlines using a technique called electrosurgery, which eliminates the need for cutting away tissue with a scalpel. It uses high-frequency radio waves to "melt" tissue, with almost no bleeding and very little postoperative discomfort. When the gumline is raised, the teeth appear longer and less gum shows when you smile.

A PARADE wouldn't be complete without a marching band and North Quincy school's band put on quite a show for the Long Island Hospital patients Sunday. Mickey Mouse (left) and other cartoon characters added to the fun.

(Quincy Sun Photos by Steve Staunton)

QUINCY CITY CLUB added a little brightness to the lives of patients at Long Island Hospital by staging a parade on the grounds Sunday. Mrs. Betty Harding enjoyed a visit from Mickey Mouse and received a few flowers and an American flag to wave. Visitor Betty Lou Murphy (right) also enjoyed the activities.

The Quincy City Club sponsored a mini-parade for 250 patients at Long Island Hospital, Squantum, Sunday afternoon to fulfill a Christmas wish and request by them.

North Quincy High School Red Raiders Marching Band entertained with a series of musical selections as they paraded through the grounds and past the various buildings and wards to stop and dedicate selections to those confined to beds.

The parade route was lined with wheel chairs occupied by patients waving flags as the parade passed in review to the delight of the happy spectators.

A group of boys and girls dressed in cartoon character costumes followed the bands along route to greet and welcome the observers.

Mrs. June L. Sutcliffe, Therapeutic Activities director at the Hospital, coordinated the program with Richard J. Koch, City Club President.

City Club members distributing flags and participating in the activities were: Donald E. Conboy, John J. Horrigan, Paul J. Mahoney, Frank J. Kearns, Shaun M. Mulvaney, James B. Moody, Ralph Verrochi, Paul F. Moody, John Kelly, Robert Woods, Daniel C. O'Leary, Theodore DeCristofaro and Richard J. Koch, Jr.

Cancer Crusade

Reaches $11,000 Mark

The Quincy house to house campaign of the Cancer Crusade has reached $11,000 of its $13,000 goal.

Volunteers are requested to complete their assignments as soon as possible in order that the final Quincy tabulation may be recorded.

Richard J. Koch, Quincy Cancer Crusade Chairman, said that over 1,000 of the 1500 volunteers have completed the neighborhood solicitations and submitted their returns. However, several hundred remain and are needed for Quincy to reach its quota.

Koch said the response of the volunteers visiting the neighborhoods and the residents visited has been most generous resulting in the success to date.

Those crusaders unable to meet their commitments should contact their ward chairman for reassignment.

Ward 1, Richard J. Koch, Jr.; Ward 2, Theodore DeCristofaro; Ward 3, Mrs. Janet Crowley; Ward 4, David J. Donahue; Ward 5, Joseph E. Burke; Ward 6, Mrs. Linda Bowes.

Those not contacted but wishing to donate to the Cancer Society for its Research and Education Programs may make checks payable to the Quincy Cancer Crusade and mail or leave them at the Hancock Bank, 1495 Hancock Street, Quincy.

Home Loan Program Discussion At Houghs Neck

A public meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Atherton Hough School to explain a new home rehabilitation and energy conservation loan program for Houghs Neck, Adams Shore and Germantown.

Under the program, five to 10 year loans up to $5,000 at 5 per cent interest will be provided to low and moderate income homeowners to make improvements to their houses.

The program was announced jointly by City Councilor Leo J. Kelly, Fran McCormack, president of the Old Colony Bank, which is participating in the program.

Permissible improvements include:

- Structural rehabilitation so that all health and safety hazards are eliminated and the home is brought up to the quality standards of the city building code and the state health code.

- Minor carpentry work approved by the city Housing Rehabilitation Office.

- Installation of insulation and storm windows.

- Other energy conservation measures approved by the Housing Rehabilitation Office.

In order to qualify for participation the home must be an owner-occupied, one or two-family unit and each applicant may have a maximum gross income within these limits:

For a household of one, $12,200; two, $13,950; three, $15,700; four, $17,450; five, $18,500; six, $19,600; seven, $20,700; and eight or more, $21,800.

A future date for submission of applications will be set at tonight's meeting.

Jack Powers To Manage McCauley's Campaign

John B. (Jack) Powers of 99 Lenox St., Houghs Neck, advertising executive, has been named campaign manager of City Councilor Francis X. McCauley's drive for mayor of Quincy.

Powers, a sales account executive with Fairchild Publications of Boston, also managed McCauley 1979 campaign for city council in which he topped the vote-getters in the at-large race.

McCauley also announced these campaign aides for the fall election:

Sandra McCauley, his wife, campaign treasurer.
William B. Golden, 36 Surfside

Lane, Quantum, an attorney, director of ward and precinct organization and the drive for nomination signatures.

Lawrence S. Butler, 12 Homer Rd., Merrymount, former chairman of the Quincy Housing Authority, chairman of Senior Citizens for McCauley.

Plans for the nomination petition drive and distribution of campaign literature were made at a recent organizational meeting of ward chairmen.

A general meeting of all campaign workers for McCauley is scheduled for the latter part of May.

Parking Garage Boosts April Construction Costs

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald reported a building boom in Quincy in April, thanks almost entirely to a $3 million parking garage that is going up at 226 Burgin Parkway.

The garage brought the total value of building permits issued by the city in April to $3,738,704 compared to $436,292 for the same month a year ago.

Permits also were issued for:

A Dunkin' Donuts shop, 724-732 Hancock St., $65,000; three one family dwellings, $158,000; one storage building, $2,500; 82 residential alterations, $283,084, 11 other alterations, $137,500.

Six removals, $13,275; 13 signs, $12,875; 19 miscellaneous projects, $66,470.

Receipts for April totalled $4,242 and receipts for public safety inspections were $1,320.

DeCristofaro Names Campaign Committee

Atty. Thomas Barrett has been named chairman of the campaign committee to elect Theodore P. DeCristofaro to the City Council from Ward 2.

Grace Giunchiglia, a medical secretary, was named treasurer; John Bagen, who works for John J. Duane, Inc., vice chairman; and Donald Black, secretary.

A fundraiser is planned later this month.

NOW THAT JACK IS DEAD BECKY HAS SOME BIG DECISIONS.

The death of someone we love can change our lives drastically. The house may be too large, we may have a sudden loss of income, we may have to raise the children alone. Adjustment to these changes may force us to make major decisions at a time when we are already distressed emotionally and least able to make good decisions. We may feel rushed to make decisions simply to avoid memories. Good decision making requires that you take time, have all the facts before you and be rational not emotional. If you or a friend are faced with major decisions because of a death in your family we urge you to take time, get good information and wait until your emotions have subsided.

Prayers For Pope John Paul II

ST. JOHN'S PARISHIONERS Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Lomanno (foreground) were among local residents praying for the recovery of Pope John Paul II at a Mass last week at that church.

PRAYERS for Pope John Paul II were offered at a Mass last week at St. John's Church, Quincy Center. The Mass was celebrated by Rev. Joseph Byrne, center, of St. John's, assisted by, at rear, left, Rev. Keith Munson of United First Parish Church, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin of First Church of Squantum, and Rev. Winston Clark of Quincy Point Congregational Church. Mayor Arthur Tobin (left) was lector. Not shown is principal celebrant Rev. William McCarthy, pastor. (Quincy Sun Photos by Dave Giffollos)

Assassination Attempt On Pope Squantum Church Service Theme

The attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II was the underlying theme of the service Sunday at the First Church of Squantum.

Prayers were offered for the recovery of the Pope and for the Roman Catholic Church and its members.

Why should Protestants pray for the Pope?" asked church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin in his talk to the children in the congregation.

"Because if someone tried to hurt your friend's father, the Christian thing to do would be to pray for your friend and the father."

"Well, someone did try to hurt the leader of the Roman Catholic Church so, in the same way, the Christian thing for us to do, even though we are not part of that church, is to pray for their church and their leader."

Later, in a sermon on "Who Can Save Why?", Dr. Langevin said,

"We do our Protestant faith no disservice to affirm that, however much we may disagree with the Pope theologically, such violence is abhorrent to us and outrageous."

"To hear that a great Christian leader - or anyone - has been attacked like that should make us angry."

Commenting on the fact that some might find it strange for Protestants to be so concerned, Dr. Langevin said "We are not called upon by Christ to continue fighting the wars of religion."

"Rather, we are called by him to a ministry of reconciliation with other members of his church. I believe that Roman Catholics are our brothers and sisters in Christ and the Christian thing for us to do is to show that we care... especially at a time like this."

Last week, Dr. Langevin had participated in a special prayer service for the pope at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

The Youth Choir sang "Morning Has Broken" by Eleanor Farjeon and Cat Stevens at Sunday's service. They were accompanied on the piano by Mary Ruth Scott.

The Chancel Choir sang "Precious Lord, Take My Hand" a hymn particularly associated with the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., himself the victim of an assassination.

The text for this version of the hymn was written by Joyce Kilmer with music by George N. Allen.

Greeters for the morning were deacon Leon MacIntyre and his wife Edna. Ushers were Harry Holmes and Paul Paulsen.

The Fellowship hour was hosted by Gretchen Bumpus, Kay Kelly and Marie Reister.

Next Sunday's service will begin at 10:15 a.m.

Cardinal To Celebrate Jubilee Mass At St. Boniface

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros will be the principal celebrant of a Jubilee Mass at St. Boniface Church, Palmer St., Germantown, Tuesday, June 2, at 7 p.m.

The Cardinal will be available to meet with guests and parishioners following the Mass. Refreshments will be served.

The Cardinal's visit is in celebration of the 25th anniversary of St. Boniface.

There will be an Hour of Thanksgiving and praise Friday, June 5th, beginning at 7 p.m. Rev. John V. Dunne of the Columbian Fathers will speak on the spirituality of the parish. A Jubilee Meal to celebrate the Feast of St. Boniface will follow. Due to limited seating, reservations should be made as soon as possible. There will be a cost of $13 per person.

Other events include Children's Day, Saturday, June 6 and a Mass for deceased members Sunday, June 7 at 12 noon.

On Sunday, June 14, at 12 noon

Dean's List

Nancy M. Erickson of 78 Grove St., West Quincy, has been named to the dean's list at St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N.H.

Miss Erickson is a student in the nursing program.

there will be a special Mass, with the Sacrament of the Sick being administered. This Mass is for all parishioners. Those who are ill, elderly or shut-in will be invited to be anointed during this Mass.

Parishioners will be available to escort to the church anyone needing assistance.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Koch Club Memorial Mass At Sacred Heart

The fourth annual memorial Mass for deceased members and friends of the Koch Club will be celebrated at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy on Ascension Thursday, May 28 at 7 p.m.

Families and friends of the deceased are invited to join with officers and members of the organization in attending the Mass at which some 90 deceased members and friends will be remembered.

Among the list of names is that of the late President John F. Kennedy, the only honorary member of the Koch Club, who received that recognition in 1958.

Following the Mass, relatives and friends are invited to visit the Sacred Heart School cafeteria for refreshments.

Edward J. Keohane is general chairman of the event, assisted by Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, Mrs. Mina Scanlan, Mrs. Anne Moody, Mrs. Janet Crowley, Mrs. Margaret Donaghue, Mrs. Gerry Delmonico and Mrs. Simone Koch.

Sagamore Towers Tenants Elect Officers

Shirley Brooks has been elected president of the newly formed Tenants Association of Sagamore Towers.

Milton Sherman was elected vice president Jean Neville secretary and Maria Sivella treasurer at the groups organizational meeting in Atlantic Junior High School.

The apartment building at 295 West Squantum St. is on the verge of being converted into condominiums.

Guest speakers included Elenda Lipsitz and Jane Reikard of the Rent Grievance Board and Ruth Adams, president of the Town House Apartments Tenants Association.

Officers were instructed to meet with management of Sagamore Towers to discuss grievances and report back to the association.

McCauley Cites Need For City Financial Management

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley says his campaign for mayor "is based on the premise that good government can only be achieved with proper management of creative ideas."

"This city is in need of an administrator with experience in financial management," McCauley told a gathering of more than 150 people at the home of Paula and Bill Golden in Squantum.

"As a banker and a businessman," he said, "I have observed the financial management of this city with increasing concern and dismay."

"It is time that we place our public priorities on improving the quality of city services rather than making political considerations.

"My background in fiscal management, together with my years of public service to the residents of Quincy provide me a unique combination of skills to serve as mayor of this city."

Kenneth Johnston

On Norwich Dean's List

Kenneth R. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Johnston of 86 Unity St., West Quincy, has been named to the dean's list at Norwich University, Northfield, Vt. He qualified for the list by maintaining a quality point average of 3.20.

A 1978 graduate of Quincy High School, he is a junior majoring in business administration.

We've come a long way.

Our nursing and health services have covered a lot of ground since we started 100 years ago. We began by caring for the wounded on the battlefield. Later, we called on the ill at home. Then, as we trained and recruited more nurses, we began to develop programs to teach people how to help themselves and their families.

Today, we give instruction in home nursing, disease prevention, parenting, child care, nutrition, managing stress, preparation for disaster, health maintenance—all of this in addition to providing services to the community on an as-needed basis.

But we're not saying this to pat ourselves on the back. We just want you to know that if you need help, we're ready.

Southwest Fix-Up Program Discussion Thursday

A federally funded paint, insulation and repair program for homeowners in the Southwest Quincy area will be explained at a meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln-Hancock School.

City Councillor James A. Sheets said the discussion will include eligibility requirements that have been sent up for the program, which is offered under the Community Development Block Grant.

Those requirements include:

- Ownership of a one or two-family house with income levels ranging from $10,000 for a family of one to $18,000 for a family of eight.

- Total assets, including savings, should not exceed $2,000 per family if under 60 years of age and $5,000 per person if more than 60.

Eligibility data must be verified but will remain confidential.

The program director, Joseph O'Brien, who is headquartered in the Public Works building at 55 Sea St., will determine what repairs are needed and will assign workers to do the job.

A new smoke detector program will start July 1 in Southwest Quincy and details will be explained at tonight's meeting.

JOHN VIGNONI (center), assistant manager of operations, receives the May 'Employee of the Month' award from City Hospital Director Michael Kitchen as Asst. Director A.A. (Rocky) Rocuzzo (left) looks on. A staff member for 10 years, Vignoni is currently serving as interim director of housekeeping with a staff of 67.
